On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to offer amendments at this time.

The SPEAKER. The amendments will be read by the Clerk for information.

The Clerk read the amendments as follows:

Amend page 1, line 8 of the title, by striking out at the end of the line the following: "[H and in-]"

Amend page 1 by striking out line 9 of the title.

Amend section 2, page 3, line 5 by inserting after the word "appropriated" and before the word "to" the following: "out of the Motor License Fund."

The SPEAKER. Will the House give unanimous consent to the insertion of the amendments at this time?

Is there objection? The Chair hears none and the amendments will be inserted in accordance with the instructions of the House?

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading as amended?

It was agreed to.

Ordered, that the bill as amended lie over for printing.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 143, entitled

An Act to amend clause (b) of section four article two of the act approved the twenty-fifth day of June one thousand nine hundred and nineteen (Pamphlet Laws 581) entitled "An act for the better government of cities of the first class of this Commonwealth" as amended by providing a succession of officers of such cities to act as mayor in case of a vacancy or disability of the mayor to act

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. OMINSKY. Mr. Speaker, may we have someone from the other side explain the purpose of this bill?

Mr. TAHL. Mr. Speaker, the purpose of this bill is to restore the president of city council as the successor, in the event of a vacancy, to the Mayor of the city of Philadelphia.

Mr. OMINSKY. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Tahl?

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. TAHL. I will, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. OMINSKY. Mr. Speaker may I inquire of the gentleman from Philadelphia who was the successor, in the event of disability to the Mayor before the present law was enacted?

Mr. TAHL. Mr. Speaker, the president of City Council.

Mr. OMINSKY. Mr. Speaker, may I further inquire of the gentleman from Philadelphia who was the successor before the bill was passed making the president of City Council successor to the Mayor?

Mr. TAHL. Mr. Speaker, the Director of Public Safety.

Mr. OMINSKY. Mr. Speaker, and members of this House, in asking you to vote against this bill, I ask it not because we were instrumental in the session of 1937 of having the bill passed making the successor to the Mayor of Philadelphia, in the event of disability, the Comptroller of the City of Philadelphia, but because I feel that the Republican Party in Philadelphia is endeavoring to put across something which the people of Philadelphia do not want and should know about. If this bill is passed at the present time it seems to me that it is their intention to have the President of City Council immediately take over the office of Mayor of the city of Philadelphia, because at the present time the Mayor of Philadelphia is recuperating outside of the state of Pennsylvania due to an illness, and under this act with the help of the courts perhaps, it may be construed on page two, line two, wherein the bill provides in case of the Mayor's temporary disability (and this may be a temporary disability) that the President of City Council may take over the Mayor's office in Philadelphia. Now here is the proposition, even though it is only temporary, the present Mayor of the city of Philadelphia has indicated that he would veto the Sales Tax which Council has passed, but later on rescinded. The Mayor of Philadelphia has indicated that he is against the sale of the gas lease in order to pay off the supposed or actual deficiency which is presently confronting City Council of Philadelphia in its financial budget; and so if this bill is passed, and apparently the majority is in a hurry to have this bill passed, because it seems that this bill is to take precedence over the financial affairs of the State, since we have already declared that we will not be back for three weeks in order to find out what the Governor wishes to recommend to this Legislature, it seems to me that the hurry in passing this bill at this time indicates that the Republican Party of Philadelphia today is intending to bring back and pass the Sales Tax, so that the substitute Mayor may sign it, instead of the present Mayor, who has indicated that he will not sign a Sales Tax bill in Philadelphia.

Secondly, it seems to me that the Republican Party in Philadelphia is giving its hand away today in showing that they are not for city reform or for the new city charter which is now pending in the Senate because, after the bill for the city charter is passed this bill will not be necessary, because under the bill which is advocating a new city charter for Philadelphia, it will not be necessary to have a successor to the Mayor. Under that act City Council of its own accord will elect a Mayor, and Council of its own accord will elect a City Manager.

Thus upon the passage of this bill, there are two things which the Republican Party intends to do which it otherwise could not do, and that is, first, to either pass a Sales Tax or to foster the leasing of the gas works, the hocking of gas lease rentals, for the next fifteen years. Secondly, it is telling the people of Philadelphia that it is not for the City Charter.

Then too it seems to me that even though before this present act was enacted in 1937, when it was provided that the President of City Council should succeed the Mayor, in fairness to the people of Philadelphia, an official who has been elected by the entire population of Philadelphia, whether he be Comptroller, whether he be the Sheriff, whether he be the Recorder of Deeds or anyone else, would be the logical and the proper individual to succeed the Mayor of Philadelphia in the event of disability. As this bill provides, the President of City Council of Philadelphia who today is only elected by one twenty-second of the voting population of Philadelphia succeeds the Mayor, who is elected by the entire electorate of Philadelphia. In other words, today we have twenty-two Councilmen, each elected by his own district. The President of City Council was elected only by the people of his district, which represents only one twenty-second of the population of Philadelphia, and therefore it is manifestly unfair for an elective officer, only elected within a certain area or part of the city of Philadelphia, to succeed the Mayor who is elected by the entire city of Philadelphia, and therefore when we enacted the law designating that the successor to the Mayor should be the Controller to the City of Philadelphia, we made it possible for the entire voting population of Philadelphia to have a voice in the successor to the Mayor.

Mr. Speaker and members of the House, our quarrel is not with the changing of the act as it stands today. Perhaps, if the majority would sponsor a bill setting forth that the Sheriff of Philadelphia, or the Recorder of Deeds of Philadelphia or any other official who is elected by the entire electorate of the city of Philadelphia should succeed the Mayor, we might have less of a quarrel, but when we say to the people of Philadelphia that we will prepare for you a man who is only elected by one-twenty-second of the population and say he shall be the successor to the Mayor, then the quarrel arises, and therefore ladies and gentlemen of the House, I ask you to vote this bill down.

If the majority feels that what I have stated and what I have charged to the Republican Party, that is, that they are endeavoring to take over the Mayor's office at this time for two purposes, if I am wrong I shall go along with them on a motion to put this bill on the postponed calendar to see whether or not they are sincere in their motive in having this bill passed at this time.

Mr. TAHL. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I could have objected to some of the remarks made by the gentleman from Philadelphia, because they were not germane to the bill, but I thought I would wait until he was through.

There is only one question before the House and that is whether the act shall be put in the same position it was two years ago. I might say that prior to 1937, the president of city council had the right to succeed the Mayor, but when the Democrats had control of the Legislature, they inserted the existing provision making the Comptroller the successor to the Mayor in the event of a vacancy. At that time the Comptroller was a Democrat and the President of City Council was a Republican. Frankly, that was done for a political reason. Now the Mayor is a city official and so are the councilmen, and from any point of logic, the right man to succeed the Mayor is a city official, and not a county official. The Comptroller is a county official.

Another potent reason why this bill should be passed is this: under the Constitution, no act may be passed by the Legislature to diminish or increase the salary of an elected officer while he is in office. At the time the President of City Council was elected he had the right under the law to succeed the Mayor in the event of a vacancy. When they passed this act in 1937 they stripped the President of Council of one of his prerogatives, to wit, to succeed the Mayor, and I am informed by very good legal authority that that act is unconstitutional.

Now, we do not expect a vacancy in the Mayor's office, but if one should occur it would simply obviate a legal proceeding or litigation, and for that reason I ask the members to correct an act something which never should have been passed. I ask the members to vote "aye" on this bill.

Mr. SWEENEY. Mr. Speaker, I rise to answer Mr. Ominsky. Mayor Wilson is our Mayor, whether we like it or not, and the Republican Party is not trying to steal his office from him. If our Mayor is one bit interested in the city of Philadelphia he can get back to Philadelphia within twenty-four hours, and if necessary he can fly, as he is "up in the air" quite often.

This act will pass the House at midnight or shortly thereafter and we will then adjourn for a two weeks' recess.

The Senate will also adjourn. This act must have three readings in the Senate and must be approved by the Governor before it can become a law. That would take us into the early part of March. If our Mayor is temporarily indisposed at that time, or if he is at all interested in Philadelphia, he certainly can get back to Philadelphia by the second of March and save his job.

Mr. OMINSKY. Mr. Speaker, in answer to the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Sweeney, I might say that it is quite possible from present indications, that the President of City Council may take over the Mayor's office before the present Mayor gets back to Philadelphia, because he has indicated and his doctors have indicated that he must take a rest for at least a month, so that under the present plans he will not be back in Philadelphia before the first week in March.

This bill if passed today will go over to the Senate immediately and the Senate will have two legislative days to put it in position for final passage February 27, so that it is quite possible that before the Mayor is allowed by his doctors to return to Philadelphia, some group of Republicans in Philadelphia—I don't say all—may take advantage of the situation and pass those two measures as I have indicated.

In answer to the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Tahl, relative to the situation that a city official should succeed the mayor, rather than a county official, I might call to his attention and to the attention of the membership of this House, that the city and county of Philadelphia are one and the same, and even though today the city comptroller or the sheriff is a county officer he is also a city officer because the boundaries of the city of Philadelphia and the boundaries of the county of Philadelphia are the same. Therefore, it would be fairer for a county officer to succeed the mayor in the event of an emergency than one who is elected by only a partial membership of the electorate of Philadelphia.

Mr. OMINSKY. In order to prove my point, members of this House, I move that this bill be placed upon the postponed calendar.

QUESTION OF PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Mr. HERBERT B. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a question of parliamentary inquiry.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state his question of parliamentary inquiry.

Mr. HERBERT B. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, do I understand that after tonight's session, or after rather Friday morning's session, this House will adjourn until February 27, 1939?

The SPEAKER. A concurrent resolution has been adopted by the House to that effect.

Mr. HERBERT B. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I desire to inquire what arrangements have been made by this House, in view of the fact that the recess will extend until February 27, 1939, to commemorate, first, the birthday of the founder of this Nation, the first President, George Washington, and second, the birthday of the founder of the Republican party, Abraham Lincoln, the anniversary of whose birth occurs on February 12th of this month? Both anniversaries, I might call to the attention of the House, occur during the recess.

The SPEAKER. Suitable resolutions will be presented at the next session of the House.

Mr. HERBERT B. COHEN. Do I understand, Mr. Speaker, the only commemoration that this House will indulge in will be the presentation of a resolution, and that there will be no exercises commemorating the birth of either George Washington or Abraham Lincoln?

The SPEAKER. The Chair does not so understand.

The gentleman from York should know that patience is a virtue, and if he waits a little while perhaps he will find the answer.

Mr. HERBERT B. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, in view of the fact that this House will adjourn early tomorrow morning and many of the members will go to their homes under the apprehension that a recess is to be indulged in until February 27, 1939, might I inquire of the Speaker what particular ceremonies will be conducted by this House during that recess period to commemorate the birthdays of George Washington and Abraham Lincoln?

The SPEAKER. The Chair feels that if the gentleman from York has such strong convictions and is so vitally interested, the majority would be delighted to have any suggestions in the form of resolutions, program, speeches, or anything else that the gentleman may desire to suggest.

Mr. HERBERT B. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, do I understand that in view of the statement recently made to the Press to the effect that "I do not recall at any time during the past four years that the present minority, then the majority, called us into consultation, on any part of the program," do I understand that the Speaker now has retracted that part of his statement and desires the minority to consult with the majority, relative to suitable exercises to commemorate the birthdays of George Washington and Abraham Lincoln?

The SPEAKER. The Chair would say to the gentleman from York, as he said many times on the floor, that he gets a bit muddled in his thinking. The Chair states that he has always been willing to accept suggestions from the minority. The Chair doesn't consider that any statement that has been made in any way retracts from what the Chair has stated on other occasions.

Mr. HERBERT B. COHEN. Will the Chair indicate to the minority the time and place of meeting wherein representation of the minority might be sent to consult with the majority relative to the making of suitable arrangements commemorating the birthdays of the founders of this country?

The SPEAKER. The Chair would be pleased to have the gentleman and any of his colleagues or associates come into the Speaker's office immediately after this session.

Mr. HERBERT B. COHEN. Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. TROUT. Mr. Speaker, am I in order to make a motion?

The SPEAKER. There is nothing before the House. Does the gentleman from Lancaster desire unanimous consent to address the House?

Mr. TROUT. Mr. Speaker, I would like to make a motion.

I move, Mr. Speaker, that the majority convey to the minority the same information, so far as the procedure of the House is concerned, that the majority in the 1935 and 1937 sessions conveyed to the minority.

The SPEAKER. The Chair does not feel that that is a proper motion. The Chair will not entertain it.

STATEMENT BY MR. HOLLAND

Mr. HOLLAND asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker and members of the House, Governor James is quoted in an interview on Flood Control as follows: "I am still jealous of the powers of Pennsylvania and the rights of Pennsylvania." Still further in his interview when asked, if the Utility problem enters in the further Flood Control in Pennsylvania, he states, "I have no doubt that this may be part of my complex."

In the above statements I believe that the Governor specifically states and admits he has more concern over protecting his pals the Utilities of Pennsylvania than he has over the loss of life due to floods.

Why should Governor James at this time become exercised over the Federal Government having deed to property for the building of a Flood Control dam. If the Governor feels that the Federal Government has no right to the holding of land in Pennsylvania, why doesn't he repeal the act of 1911, No. 173 which gives the right to the Federal Government to establish National Forest reserves in this State? This Act was passed under a Republican Governor, John K. Tenner.

Governor James further states, "We ordinarily have never had occasion to distrust the purpose of the Federal Government."

No truer statement has ever been made by this great promiser, James. The word "distrust," as used by Governor James, I believe is very appropriate when applied by the Utilities who supported him with their moneys in the last campaign. These Utilities distrust any man in political life who dare demand from the Utilities that they render a "public service" that is a "public service."

When Mr. James places the interests of Utilities and the almighty dollar before the lives and welfare of the people of Pennsylvania he is running true to form and I hear the echo from the words of former Governor Pinchot when he stated, "God help the people of Pennsylvania when Grundy, Pew and Weir and the Utility people take over Harrisburg." His words are coming true.

I wish to quote from an editorial of the Pittsburgh Press. "The very life of Pittsburgh and of very many other western communities depends on Flood Control. Their situation is so serious that they are not going to be tolerant if the help they so greatly need is denied them because of purely theoretic and petty questions.

"Flood Control is too serious a matter to be played with. If the James administration wants to take a stand against Washington, we suggest it find some issue on which the lives and fortunes of thousands of people do not directly hang."

I believe that the above expresses the temper of the people of western Pennsylvania towards Governor James' effort to repay the Utilities for the Utilities' help in his election.

I realize the Governor is on the spot, in fact I was surprised that this recess was not for 3 weeks instead of 2. 3 weeks would give him more time to consult with his advisers. For if 3 weeks were taken he could give one whole week to the Manufacturers Assoc., and one whole week to the Oil interests. And one whole week to the Utilities. It is going to be hard for him to satisfy them all in 2 weeks.

The Governor has no right to disregard the loss of life and property in floods in Pennsylvania to repay a political debt. The great mass of people of Pennsylvania should be considered first. The loss of one life in Pennsylvania cannot be measured in the filthy gold of the Utilities.

The SPEAKER. The remarks of the gentleman will be spread upon the Journal.

There will be meetings of the Committees on Cities—Second Class, immediately following this session in Room 323.

SENATE

FRIDAY, February 10, 1939.

The Senate met at 12:01 o'clock a. m.

The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant-Governor Samuel S. Lewis) in the Chair.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Rev. BURLEIGH A. PETERS, offered the following prayer:

O God of Light, who neither sleepest by day nor slumberest by night, Thou who art ever watchful of all our actions both by day and by night, we seek forgiveness of our sins and pray that the guilt of our iniquities be removed from us as far as the East is from the West.

Give us the earnest desire to walk before Thee in newness and holiness of life. Enlighten our minds, vouchsafe unto us understanding hearts; prepare us completely for the faithful discharge of our duties lying immediately ahead.

Strengthen the hands and the heart of the Governor of our Commonwealth that he may continue the duties and responsibilities of his high office, which he so courageously began. May his labors likewise continue in the fear of the Lord.

As we are now about to recess for a stated period of time, our earnest, unified prayer has become, "God be with us 'till we meet again." In Jesus' name we pray. Amen.

REQUEST FOR LEAVE OF ABSENCE

Mr. FREY. Mr. President, I ask leave of absence for my colleague, the Senator from Allegheny, Mr. Henney; and in this connection, Mr. President, for the information of the members of the Senate, it is my understanding that Senator Henney will be here next week.

Mr. OWLETT. Mr. President, I move that the request of the Senator from Allegheny, Mr. Frey, be laid upon the table.

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President. I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, I would like to ask the Senator from Allegheny whether it is his idea that the Coroner is coming here to view the remains.

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

It was agreed to.

The motion was agreed to.

HOUSE MESSAGE

SENATE BILL NO. 32, RETURNED WITH AMENDMENTS.

The Clerk of the House of Representatives, being introduced, returned to the Senate, Senate Bill No. 32, entitled:

A Supplement to the act approved the second day of July one thousand nine hundred and thirty-seven (Pamphlet Laws 2706) entitled "An act creating a State World's Fair Commission defining the powers and duties of said Commission providing for participation in the New York World's Fair and making an appropriation" increasing the membership of the Commission and making an additional appropriation thereto.

With the information that the House has passed the same with amendments, in which the concurrence of the Senate is requested.

Mr. OWLETT. Mr. President, I move that Rule 21, which requires amended bills to be noted on the calendar, be in this case dispensed with, and that the Senate proceed to the consideration of the amendments made by the House of Representatives to the foregoing bill.

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

And the amendments made thereto having been printed as required by the Constitution,

On the question,

Will the Senate concur in the amendments?

Mr. OWLETT. Mr. President, before the roll on this bill is called, I wish to explain that this is, in effect, no reduction of the Highway Fund, for the reason that it is expected to reduce the appropriation made the last biennium from the Motor Fund for publicity by the amount of the appropriation for the World's Fair, so it is not a reduction of the Highway Fund.

I understand that that was the understanding of the House Caucus when this bill was passed.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate concur in the same?

The yeas and nays were taken agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, and were as follows viz:

The Chaplain, Rev. Walter Evans Deibler, offered the following prayer:

Help us, O God, to be "diligent in business, fervent in spirit, serving the Lord." Impress upon us the truth that "those men who try to do something and fail are infinitely better than those who try to do nothing and beautifully succeed." May the glory of achievement crown the efforts of all who strive diligently at their tasks. Give Thy blessing to the members of this House and their families. Restore to health, we beseech Thee, such who are ill.

We pause and bow our hearts in sorrow because Thou hast called His Holiness Pope Pius XI from his earthly labors to his heavenly reward. Truly we weep with those who weep. May Thy comforting grace be upon all to whom he ministered.

May the recess upon which we enter be a benefit to the cause of wholesome legislative procedure. Give, we beseech Thee, O Lord, Thy blessing to the Chief Executive of our Commonwealth and to all who are associated with him. Protect us from harm and danger until we meet again. Give us the assurance, dear Lord, that they who trust in Thee shall be safe. Hear and answer us in this our prayer, O Lord. Amen.

Jones, Terry, Tronzo,

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, that the Clerk return the same to the Senate with the information that the House has passed the same with amendments in which the concurrence of the Senate is requested.

REASONS FOR VOTE

Mr. ROSE filed the following reason for his vote.

Believing that the Commonwealth is morally obligated to go forward with its exhibit at the New York World's Fair, and for the further reason that failure to do so would subject the Commonwealth to ridicule and other negative advertising, I am voting in favor of Senate Bill No. 32, House Bill No. 160 despite my regret at the expense at the present time.

Mr. VAN BELLE filed the following reason for his vote.

I, Thomas B. Van Belle, representative from Philadelphia County have voted "yes" on Senate Bill No. 32 because I favor the purpose of the bill; I do believe the amount, however, is excessive. In the absence of support for an amendment to reduce the amount, I withdraw my objections to it in its present form, because I believe that Pennsylvania should have some representation at the New York World's Fair.

RESOLUTION

COMMEMORATING BIRTHDAYS OF WASHINGTON AND LINCOLN

Mr. WOODSIDE offered a resolution and asked and obtained unanimous consent for its immediate consideration.

The resolution was twice read as follows:

In the House of Representatives, February 9, 1939.

During the recess that this General Assembly is about to begin, special select committees will labor diligently to perfect a legislative program that can be undertaken when the recess is over and carried on to final enactment.

During this same recess will occur the birthdays of two of our great National heroes, George Washington and Abraham Lincoln, both of whom passed through dark and gloomy periods of time when the fate of the Nation hung in the balance, but both came through to take places with the immortals in the World's Hall of Fame.

With unemployment growing, with industry still struggling for existence, with the financial burden of the Commonwealth growing heavier and its income dwindling, the State is passing through a dark and gloomy period of its history—its Valley Forge and its Bull Run and Antietam.

Upon those who will labor during this recess will rest the burden of bringing order out of the financial chaos that now exists, and upon them is imposed the stupendous task of, like Washington and Lincoln, preparing the road that will lead to another Yorktowne and another Appomattox.

Nothing more fitting could have been arranged than to have had this work undertaken during these two weeks when the memory of the devotion, and the sacrifices and the final achievements of those great heroes cannot help but be an inspiration for achievement and an incentive to sacrifice for the public good; therefore be it

Resolved, That this House of Representatives when it adjourns today, does so out of respect to the memory of those patriotic and inspirational heroes, George Washington, the Father of our Country, and Abraham Lincoln, who saved It and held It together for further greatness; and be it further

Resolved, That to those who remain here to labor during the recess, we wish a successful termination of their work and the happiness that must come from it; and be it further

Resolved, That

Our problems shrink when measured by
The side of those they met and solved;
Our worries turn almost to joys
When told with theirs;
Our troubles seem to fade away
When e'er we think of those they bore.
All praise by us of what they were
Is but the emptiest of sounds,
Encomiums are but a noise
And eulogies are vain,
If, in these days of trial, we fail
To carry on, and follow true
The paths they blazed for us.
So from the ends they wrought
Through all those years of strife
And months of bitter woe,
Let's find the inspiration and the will
To build again to richer things;
To find employment for the throng
That asks but for the right to work.
Let's shoulder now our task
And from our Valley Forge
March out to better days.

On the question,

Will the House adopt the resolution?

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, and members of the House, this resolution suits me well enough, but I would suggest to the gentleman from Dauphin that he proceed to offer some amendments to paragraph three, "With unemployment growing." I have been led to believe that since January first employment has not been growing.

"Industry still struggling for existence." My impression was that industry had seen the star of hope, that industry had been revitalized.

"With the financial burden of the Commonwealth growing heavier and its income dwindling." I had been led to believe that someone had said "touch the rock of resources of this state and abundant resources will shortly burst forth."

"The state is passing through a dark and gloomy period of its history." I thought the star of hope had been lighted in the heavens. It is discouraging to me to find the majority leader painting such a gloomy picture at the beginning of what I had hoped would be such a triumphant, glorious and joyous administration.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, the darkest hour is immediately before the dawn.

Mr. TARR. Mr. Speaker, I rise to ask if the resolution just presented is to eulogize the memory of Lincoln and Washington or these committees that are going to labor so diligently.

The SPEAKER. The Chair is unable to distinguish for the gentleman.

On the question recurring,

Will the House adopt the resolution?

It was adopted.

RECESS

The SPEAKER. If there are no objections the Chair is about to declare a recess for fifteen minutes. Are there objections? The Chair hears none and declares a recess for fifteen minutes.

AFTER RECESS

The time of recess having expired the House was called to order.

The SPEAKER (Ellwood J. Turner) in the Chair.

RESOLUTION

SYMPATHY EXTENDED

Mr. LYONS offered a resolution and asked and obtained unanimous consent for its immediate consideration.

The resolution was twice read, considered and unanimously adopted by a rising vote:

In the House of Representatives, February 10, 1939.

Radio messages from Rome but lately announced the death of Pope Pius XI, Sovereign of the Vatican City and Supreme Pontiff of the Roman Catholic Church who was elevated to the position he held in 1922.

Born in Deiso, Italy, on May 31, 1857, Achilles Ratti was made a Cardinal on June 13, 1921 and became Archbishop of Rome.

During his rule as Pope and Sovereign of the Vatican City he has rearranged life and habits in the state of the Vatican City and introduced wireless telephones, radios, automobiles and other modern conveniences and luxuries.

Ill health has marked the past few years of his life but his remarkable fortitude and endurance have given many more years of usefulness to the church of which he was the head. Therefore, be it

Resolved that the House of Representatives of the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania express its sorrow and regret at his passing from the life he loved so well and extend to all those who are members of the church over which he ruled its most sincere sympathy.

SENATE MESSAGE

AMENDED SENATE BILL CONCURRED IN BY SENATE

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced informed that the Senate has concurred in the amendments made by the House of Representatives to Senate Bill numbered and entitled as follows, viz:

THANKS EXTENDED

The SPEAKER. The Chair desires to thank the members before they leave for their homes for staying through the session. It was very important, as you know, to pass the relief bill. The Chair hoped that we might abandon the custom of having a 12.01 session but under the circumstances on account of having been held here so late in the week, by having a session at this time, many of the members will be able to get home sooner. We have therefore changed the policy which we hoped we would not have to do. The Chair desires to again thank the membership for their attendance and their attention.

Bill numbered and entitled as follows having been prepared for presentation to the Governor, and the same being correct, the title was publicly read as follows:

SENATE BILL No. 32.

SENATE

MONDAY, February 27, 1939.

The Senate met at 9:00 o'clock, p. m.

The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant-Governor Samuel S. Lewis) in the Chair.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Rev. BURLEIGH A. PETERS, offered the following prayer:

O Thou Righteous One of all ages, pure and holy and lovely altogether, look upon our erring hearts with Thy tenderest mercy. "Thou hast not dealt with us after our sins, for if Thou hadst, O Lord, who shall stand?"

In this hour of reconvention of this honorable body we plead for moral integrity and spiritual fortitude as we shall soon receive the fiscal message of Thy servant the Governor of this Commonwealth. As the Assembly will act upon its several provisions and proposals for the efficient operation of the government of this great State throughout the biennium, we remember most soberly our utter weakness in our own strength and the serious impairment of our own vision in our own right but we are very certain of Thy tremendous power and vision in Thy divine omniscience vouchsafed to each and every one who eagerly seeks its reception. May each member of this Senate, just now, open his mind and heart unto Thee for that wisdom and guidance, for, as our forefathers were safely guided by the light of Thy countenance amidst changing scenes and trying times, we dare do no less to serve Thy righteous ends in legislation.

Forgive us the things we have done amiss in these poor lives of ours and may all our errors be of the head only, never of the heart. Through Jesus Christ, Our Lord. Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVED

The PRESIDENT. A quorum of the Senate being present, the Clerk will read the Journal of the preceding session.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of the preceding session, when, on motion of Mr. OWLETT, the further reading was dispensed with, and the Journal was approved.

COMMUNICATION FROM ALTOONA SCHOOL DISTRICT URGING PASSAGE OF SENATE BILLS Nos. 34 and 62.

The Chair cleared his table and laid before the Senate the following communication, which was read by the Clerk:

OFFICE OF THE SECRETARY ALTOONA SCHOOL DISTRICT

Altoona, Pennsylvania, February 24, 1939.

To the Honorable Members of the Senate,
Commonwealth of Pennsylvania,
Harrisburg, Pennsylvania.

Gentlemen:

Please permit me to call your attention to the urgency for legislation which will offer financial aid to the School Districts in the Commonwealth.

I particularly refer to Senate Bills, No. 34, amending Section 508 of the School Code, liberalizing temporary indebtedness, and No. 62, appropriating special funds to the Department of Public Instruction for distribution to financially distressed School Districts.

The need for enactment of these two (2) bills is statewide. There are hundreds of School Districts which are now or will be in default financially during the present school term. Pennsylvania cannot afford to have her schools closed or jeopardized. It is imperative that the financial situation for School Districts be solved so that the time and efforts of School Boards can be devoted to the principal task required, namely, Education for the Children of the Commonwealth.

The two (2) bills referred to above, will, in a large measure, solve the financial problems which exist now and which need immediate attention.

Your consideration of this communication will be appreciated.

Yours very truly,

RLT.—b.

R. L. THOMPSON, Secretary.

NOMINATIONS BY THE GOVERNOR

The Secretary to the Governor, being introduced, presented communications in writing from His Excellency, the Governor of the Commonwealth, which were read as follows, and referred to the Committee on Executive Nominations.

ARTHUR H. JAMES.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. JASPAN. Mr. President, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Jaspán, will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. JASPAN. Mr. President, I am somewhat surprised that I still enjoy the right to rise to a question of personal privilege, and I believe that some of my Republican friends on the other side of the Chamber share my feeling. It would be consistent with the brazenness and effrontery displayed by the majority leadership in this body, during the past two weeks, if the Democratic members were denuded of this hitherto inalienable prerogative. May I suggest a word of comfort to my Republican friends who share my surprise; please do not be discouraged; another recess of two weeks will probably obviate the necessity of any minority representation in the Senate. Your political and economic overlords will then have attained their objective—an American counterpart of the European totalitarian countries.

A fortnight ago, on the floor of this Chamber, my distinguished colleague, the Senator from Tioga County, in urging the passage of the resolution to recess for two weeks, stated:

"Now, Mr. President, this resolution has as its basis the information, that has come to this body, that it will take at least two weeks in order to complete this budget. It will take, in other words, two weeks to ascertain what the requirements of the next biennium will be, what the effects of the savings in the various departments will be on the budget. In other words, the whole legislative program of this session of the Legislature depends to a large extent on just what can be worked out in the way of economy and just what will be found to be the actual needs for relief when the proper surveys have been completed." . . . "I want to make it clear that this time is not going to be wasted. It is proposed, during this recess, to have numerous committees of the Senate and of the House work on this legislative program, consult with the heads of the departments, and see in what way we can cooperate to cut down these costs and save this state from what otherwise would be financial disaster—if we went on at the rate at which we were going prior to this Administration." "That is the purpose of this recess; it is to do this necessary preliminary work in an orderly way, and many of us are convinced that if this recess is taken and if this intensive work is done during this period, until the twenty-seventh, we will save much time in the end."

I have deliberately quoted a large portion of the address of the Senator from Tioga in order to dispel any doubt as to the impression he sought to convey in urging the recess. Economy in government was his theme. But developments of the past two weeks proved the real purpose of the resolution. And that the address was plainly a smokescreen to conceal the principal motive of the recess. Unimpeachable reports which have reached me show conclusively that the various committees of the Senate were busily engaged, not in exploring economies in government, but in preparing plans to fulfill our good Governor's campaign pledge—the destruction of the liberal legislation enacted by the previous Administration. With the minor exception of a few Democratic Senators who were invited to say a few words in connection with the relief problem, in an obvious attempt to sanctify the activities of the Republicans during the recess, not one minority members of any major committee was requested to attend the numerous deliberations concerning proposed legislation. Although the Republicans could outvote the Democrats two to one in any standing committee, the leaders of the present Administration were apparently determined to play safe. They were not perturbed much about railroading their proposed legislation through the committees which they safely controlled. But they have been desperately afraid of the public reaction to their plans. They fear that if any of the Democratic members of the Senate know of the manner in which the present liberal legislation will be destroyed, a sharp battle will be precipitated to save it, and that the people of the State would soon rise in arms against the Republican Senators. With the narrow division between both parties in the Senate, strong public reaction would surely win the support of several Republican Senators who still believe that the welfare of the people is supreme. This is a situation which the party in power is bending every effort to avoid. And the secret meetings which the various committees have held during the past two weeks, without the presence of minority representation, have been designed to sugar-coat the destructive new legislation and prepare to rush it through the legislative mill before the public has an opportunity to learn anything about it.

The principle underlying the two-weeks' recess is little different, except as to the time element, than the so-called four, five, and six year plans that have become the vogue in some foreign countries. In those countries the people also were told that the ruling party required a given period of time to perfect plans for the welfare and happiness of the citizens. And what was done during the recess in those nations? The party in power consolidated its position, changed the laws to suit itself, and destroyed what happiness and freedom the people once enjoyed.

No one can deny that we are now living in a troubled world. Alien doctrines are harassing us on all sides and threaten to undermine our democratic institutions. Is this the time for the Republican party to rock the boat by practicing the very doctrines which are so obnoxious to our form of government? Is the suppression of free and open discussion in our legislative assemblies conducive to our traditional concept of democracy? Consideration and deliberation form the very life-blood of democracy.

I reiterate that Senator Owlett, in pressing a motion for recess two or more weeks ago, stated that it is proposed to have numerous committees of the Senate and House work on this legislative program. He further stated that everything would be done in an orderly way. Yes, I agree with him—it was very orderly for a one party government. Mind you, Republican committees were appointed and acted without any regard for the rules of the Senate—without any thought for good and decent government—without any consideration for the principles underlying our democracy. I cannot emphasize too strongly that ours is still a two party government and let us not lose sight of that fact.

A few weeks ago, I stated on the floor of the Senate that I would be the last man in this chamber to contend that this is a place where men would be angels and angels would be gods—but I certainly felt that irrespective of party affiliations, men would be men.

I cherish a high regard for the integrity and sense of fairness of a number of Senators on the Republican side of this Chamber. And I cannot believe that they would knowingly support any plan to betray the rank and file of our people. I earnestly hope that they will have the courage to resist the pressure brought upon them to turn back the clock. Let us not place party affiliations above our common duty to the citizens of our Commonwealth. Let us keep the welfare of our people supreme.

COMMUNICATION FROM THE SECRETARY OF THE COMMONWEALTH TAKEN FROM TABLE

Mr. OWLETT. Mr. President, I move that the communication from the Secretary of the Commonwealth, laid on the table earlier in the evening, be now taken from the table.

Mr. GELDER. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

REQUEST TO READ FINAL ORDER OF THE COURT, CONTAINED IN COMMUNICATION FROM THE SECRETARY OF THE COMMONWEALTH

Mr. OWLETT. Mr. President, I ask that the part of the communication, beginning with page 50, containing the Final Order of the Court of Common Pleas of Philadelphia County, be read.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I imagine the request of the Senator from Tioga, Mr. Owlett, is inadvertent. I believe this is a report from the judge, and I assume since this is a report from the judge in the contest of election in the Second Senatorial District, probably the Senators would be interested in more than merely the final decision of the Court.

I assume that the Senator from Tioga is not asking that this decision be read merely for the edification of the Senate, but for the purpose of some subsequent motion he will make; and under those circumstances it may become necessary to have the whole of the report read.

Now, if the Senator merely wants to state the fact that in the contest of election, as everybody knows, the judge found that there was one more legal vote in favor of the contestant than there was for the Senator who is now seated, I am perfectly willing, for the purpose of the record, to agree that that was the fact; but I do not think that the Senator, by his motion, should preclude us from knowing just what the report says. As a matter of fact, I do not think the Senators ought to be asked to vote on this matter until they have read the whole report, because I think it is a somewhat helpful document in aiding the Senators to come to a conclusion.

Mr. OWLETT. Mr. President, I would be glad to have the whole decision read for the information of the Senate.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, my friend, the Senator from Tioga, did not understand, or did not hear what I said. I said that I did not ask that it be read, but that for the purpose of the prospective motion which I am sure he is about to make I am willing that the record may show what occurred so far as the actual facts are concerned; but I am of the opinion that if the Senate is going to be asked to vote on this report the report should be laid upon the desk of every member of this Senate.

Mr. OWLETT. Mr. President, for the information of the Senate I desire to state that I propose to make a motion to which I am sure the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro, will agree. In order that the matter may be acted on and determined there will need to be a complete knowledge of the contents of this decision, of course. My first request was in the interest of time that the final decree of the Court be read, as a basis of the motion I propose to make.

It is appreciated by all that this matter cannot finally be determined by the Senate without a complete knowledge of the contents of this decision. If the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro, wishes to have it all read, we have, of course, no objection.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, the orderly procedure in this matter is obvious to anyone who reads the Act of 1937. The first step in that procedure has been taken, the Secretary of the Commonwealth has filed a report on the disputed election case in the Second Senatorial District of this Commonwealth. It is the duty of the Senate to refer it to the Committee on Elections; it is not in the interests of time that this report should not be read; but if this proposed motion by the Senator from Tioga will in any way effect the gentleman who now occupies the seat from the Second Senatorial District, in Philadelphia, it is only fair that every member of the Senate should know just what this report is.

It is unheard of in the annals of the history of this Senate that a report of this kind should be acted upon by the Senate as a body. Obviously the motion of the Senator from Tioga will be to take action on that report because of the decision of the Court, which is contrary to all recognized precedent, out of line with all recognized precedent. That is no way to act upon such a report, and take away a man's right or affect his standing in the community—by saying, "I would like you to read the decision of the Court, and now I am going to ask you to act on it," when the only orderly way to act on it is to refer it to the Committee on Elections. That is the only fair way, and that is in accordance with the Act of 1937. The Senator from Tioga may have the votes to do otherwise, but he will subject himself to the criticism which follows.

Mr. OWLETT. Mr. President, I renew my request that the Order of the Court, beginning on page 50, be read for the information of the Senate.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I object.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair hears objection.

MOTION TO READ THE ORDER OF THE COURT

Mr. OWLETT. Mr. President, I move that the Order of the Court, or decree, on pages 50 and 51 of this report, be read by the Clerk.

Mr. GELDER. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

QUESTION OF PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, I rise to a question of parliamentary inquiry.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Fayette, Mr. Cavalcante, will state his question of parliamentary inquiry.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, as I understood the debate between the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro, and the Senator from Tioga, Mr. Owlett, the Senator from Tioga merely wants the order read while the Senator from Philadelphia wants the opinion and the order read; is that it?

The PRESIDENT. The Chair thinks that is not correct.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, so that the Senate may not misunderstand what my suggestion is, I will restate it. I say the reading of any portion of that document is out of order. My contention is that automatically, after that report was lifted from the table, it should have been referred to the standing Committee on Elections.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. JASPAN and Mr. SHAPIRO, and were as follows, viz:

By the Court:

T. D. FENLETT R. P. J.

MOTION THAT HERBERT S. LEVIN BE STOOD ASIDE, AND HIS NAME STRICKEN FROM THE ROLL OF THE SENATE; AND THAT THE COMMUNICATION FROM THE SECRETARY OF THE COMMONWEALTH BE REFERRED TO THE COMMITTEE ON ELECTIONS.

Mr. OWLETT. Mr. President, it appearing from the communication the Secretary of the Commonwealth just presented to the Senate that Herbert S. Levin was not elected to the State Senate on November 8, 1938, I therefore move you Mr. President, that Herbert S. Levin be stood aside and his name be stricken from the rolls of Senate pending the report of the Committee hereinafter referred to; and I further move that the communication of the Secretary of the Commonwealth be referred to the Committee on Elections, to give full and complete consideration to the same and make report thereon to the Senate within one month.

Mr. GELDER. Mr. President, I second the motion.

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I rise to a point of order. The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro, will state his point of order.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, the motion contains two subjects and is out of order. The two subjects are, first, that the Senator from Philadelphia, from the Second Senatorial District, should stand aside; and, secondly, that the report just read be referred to the Committee on Elections; so that there are two subjects, and the two motions cannot be acted upon intelligently together.

Mr. OWLETT. Mr. President, I speak on the point of order. I take it that the point of order is not well taken. The motion is to submit this report to the Committee on Elections, which is the usual and regular procedure, and just what the Senator from Philadelphia asked for a few minutes ago—for a careful consideration of the whole thing; and, pending the consideration of that, that the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Levin, be stood aside and his name be stricken from the rolls pending the determination of the matter by this Committee.

That is all one subject matter, Mr. President, and it can only be voted on intelligently as one motion.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I did not know that points of order were debatable, but since my friend from Tioga has debated it I should like to say to the Chair, and to my friend from Tioga, that that is what I wanted done—to have this report committed to the Committee on Elections. I shall vote in favor of such motion. But when he combines it with a motion to stand aside the Senator from the Second Senatorial District, I cannot vote "aye" on that motion, because it would be voting "aye" on the two subjects. I think we should stop telling jokes and deal with this serious matter as a matter deserving serious consideration.

Mr. OWLETT. Mr. President, in view of the statement of the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro, that he desires to vote for part of this motion, we are glad to separate it; and, with the permission of the Senate, I will withdraw the motion and make another motion covering just one phase of it at this time.

Mr. GELDER. Mr. President, I withdraw my seconding of the motion.

The PRESIDENT. If there is no objection, the motion made by the Senator from Tioga, Mr. Owlett, and seconded by the Senator from Susquehanna, Mr. Gelder, will be withdrawn.

MOTION THAT HERBERT S. LEVIN BE STOOD ASIDE, AND HIS NAME STRICKEN FROM THE ROLL OF THE SENATE.

Mr. OWLETT. Mr. President, it appearing from the communication just presented to the Senate by the Secretary of the Commonwealth that Herbert S. Levin was not elected to the Senate on November 8, 1938, I now move you, Mr. President, that said Herbert S. Levin be stood aside and his name be stricken from the rolls pending the final determination of the matter contained in said communication, which I propose by motion to ask be referred to the Committee on Elections.

Mr. MALLERY. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. LEVIN. Mr. President, since January 3, 1939, I have been a member of this body, the Senate of Pennsylvania.

On that day I took an oath, in part of which I solemnly swore . . .

"that I have not paid or contributed, or promised to pay or contribute, either directly or indirectly, any money or other valuable thing to procure my nomination or election, except for necessary and proper expenses expressly authorized by law; that I have not knowingly violated any election law of this Commonwealth, or procured it to be done by others in my behalf."

Thereafter, I entered upon all the duties and rights devolving upon my office, including the introduction of legislation, voting upon bills, and I have received a wallet-size certificate of election, signed by you, Mr. President and last week received my certificate of election, signed by Senator Gelder, President Pro Tempore, which I have before me and from which I now read:

COMMONWEALTH OF PENNSYLVANIA
(SEAL)

SENATE CHAMBER

To all to whom these Presents shall come, Greeting:

Know Ye, That I do hereby certify that

HERBERT S. LEVIN of the County of PHILADELPHIA

has been duly elected in accordance with the laws of this Commonwealth in such case made and provided, a

SENATOR IN THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY OF THE COMMONWEALTH OF PENNSYLVANIA

to represent the Second Senatorial District of Pennsylvania, for the term of four years, to be computed from the first day of December, Anno Domini one thousand nine hundred and thirty-eight.

In Testimony Whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Seal of the Senate to be affixed, at the City of Harrisburg, this third day of January in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and thirty-nine.

FREDERICK T. GELDER

President Pro Tempore of the Senate

Attest: William J. Ridge
Chief Clerk

Mr. President, my seat in this Senate is being contested, but what has developed in that connection, especially during the last week, renders the question of my remaining in this body, or departing from it, of very minor importance to me.

That is not what is at stake for me. It is a great honor to sit in this body. It is a great honor to be chosen to serve here for the benefit of this great State. But I repeat, all that is now, perforce, of minor importance to me.

Mr. President, I am a young man. I have studied the law. I have been admitted to the Bar—likewise a great honor, involving grave responsibilities of which I am fully aware. I would like to point out to everyone of my colleagues and to all others that until now I have lived in my city and passed among my fellow men with unblemished reputation and I think I can say without reservation that there was no one who could point a finger at me or raise any question about me.

That, Mr. President, is why I say that issues that have been raised, or that may be raised, regarding my place in this Senate are not so important for me as a Senator but as a man.

They affect my standing as a member of the Bar; in fact they threaten that hard won position I have gained as a lawyer. They assail my reputation; my character as a citizen.

The dignity, the honor and the prestige of being a Senator are deeply appreciated by me. But above all I cherish the esteem of my fellow citizens and my good name.

I do not know what may be in the minds of some of my colleagues. I do not speak to you as a Senator whose position has been assailed. My one concern as to my colleagues here, whatever befalls, is that I could gain nothing by retaining this seat if I forfeited completely their sense of trust and their ultimate belief in my integrity.

Mr. President, I have a father, a mother, two brothers and a sister. I need their trust and their faith in me even more than I need yours. I need to have the world to know, for their sakes, that I am worthy of such trust and faith.

My father, Mr. President, has been a physician in Philadelphia for thirty years and is a member of the staff of one of its leading hospitals. My mother, who was formerly a school teacher, can today look with pride upon a brother who is about to graduate from the Medical School of the University of Pennsylvania; another who is in his second year in law school, and my sister, who is in the graduating class of the Teachers' School of Temple University.

Mr. President, she must be able to continue to look with pride and high belief upon me. I live with my family. My honor and reputation are necessarily their honor and reputation, just as they would be forced to share in my dishonor or disrepute.

Mr. President, I was elected from the Second Senatorial District by a majority of forty-seven votes over Samuel W. Salus. More than 47,000 voters cast their ballots in our district. Thereupon Mr. Salus instituted a contest, alleging fraud on my part and on the part of supporters, in that election. As one who has lived many years in that district, which Mr. Salus has long represented, I might comment—as some of you might also—on the incongruity of such charges from him.

The hearings before a court of these charges, officially made by Salus, but bitterly pressed by a political organization, lasted some weeks during which hundreds of witnesses testified.

Among all of them there were five persons who accused me of bribery. Four of these are colored residents of my own ward. The fifth is a former Republican committeeman who was completely discredited by his brother-in-law, a deputy coroner of Philadelphia, and by an attorney who is a member of the House of Representatives.

Last Friday, however, our Election Court, decided that Mr. Salus had defeated me by one vote.

Inter alia, it was found in the Court's opinion, that I had "secured" the votes of Kate Eldridge and one Henry Hardnett, her common law husband, by direct bribery, and other votes through the bribery and fraud of Democratic workers and committeemen.

In the same opinion, however, the Court set forth that Mr. Salus himself had committed bribery and received votes through "bribery and fraud" on the part of his Republican workers and committeemen.

On this particular point I wish to say that during the hearings I took the witness stand on several occasions and submitted myself to cross-examination. On one occasion I testified under direct and cross-examination for a day and a half.

I stated then and I state here as forcibly as I can, and as earnestly and sincerely as I can, that I never obtained any votes through conduct on my part that constituted fraud or bribery.

I took the witness stand, Mr. President, because I had nothing to hide.

On the other hand, my opponent, the petitioner in the contest proceedings, Mr. Salus, never took the stand either during the presentation of his own case or to deny the testimony of those who accused him of bribery and fraud. I believe that this is a salient fact in this case, which should be fully known and understood, both by my colleagues here and the public at large.

Mr. President, it is important to me to comment briefly on certain testimony against me to which I have already referred. The woman Kate Eldridge testified that the day before election I visited her house and solicited her vote and the votes of eight or nine lodgers there, agreeing to pay her $25 or $35—some such figure—for her own vote and $1 each for each voter she obtained for me.

Her common law husband, Henry Hardnett, supported her testimony to this effect, except that he swore that I made these arrangements several days before the election, not the day before.

He also admitted, although Kate Eldridge denied, that they had distributed literature on my behalf and for our other candidates. At least six other witnesses denied this story of alleged bribery and discredited both these persons. One witness who originally testified for Mr. Salus, but was recalled by us, admitted that he had received $39 for testifying and had his expenses paid and that Kate Eldridge was given $25 for her testimony and had her expenses paid.

I told the Court that I had known both Kate Eldridge and Henry Hardnett for several years and had represented her in a case against her brother, George Rollins, about two and a half years ago, as a result of which Rollins was sent to prison for eighteen months.

I explained to the Court also that after the spring primary of 1938 Kate Eldridge asked me to do her a favor and obtain a reduction in the size of her water bill and told me she had decided to "turn Democrat" because she had been disturbed over the bitter primary battle between Samuel W. Salus and Herbert Salus, his brother.

I sought to serve her in this matter and subsequently at her request endeavored to locate her real husband who, she had heard, was in prison somewhere in Pennsylvania.

When the political campaign got well under way she and Hardnett obtained literature from me on several occasions and at her own request she was included among other workers for the Democratic Party and my candidacy and told she would be recompensed as a worker.

The fact was freely admitted to the Court that she was paid a reasonable sum of money for such services and it was brought out that the amount given her was listed in my return of election expenses.

I declare now, as unequivocally as I can, that I did not bribe this woman, or her common law husband, or any of her tenants, or anyone else to vote for me. I say now that she became a Democrat voluntarily and without any argument or persuasion.

Mr. President, I am free to admit that since I am a party in interest my testimony on this incident might be taken with a grain of salt. But that can hardly be said of the testimony of three other witnesses, two of them her own blood brothers, and the third a stranger to her and to me.

Alphonse Rollins, one of the brothers, corroborated the fact that he, George Rollins and their sister Kate Eldridge, had decided in the spring of 1938 to go Democratic, flatly contradicting her assertion that he had continued as a Republican until I made an alleged deal with her on the "day before election."

The disinterested witness, one Ernest Allen, testified that he overheard a conversation between Kate Eldridge and a Republican Committeeman a full month after the election during which Kate was instructed to testify I was to pay her, not for working, but for voting for me. The other brother of Kate Eldridge, Mr. President, George Rollins, the man I aided in sending to prison, might have been expected to harbor some enmity toward me. Yet he came into court and testified that about a month after the election Kate came to him and asked him to join with her in "framing" me and that he could make "easy money" that way.

Rollins refused and immediately wrote a letter to the President Judge of the Election Court setting forth what Kate had suggested, but failing to receive any reply or acknowledgment subsequently came to me about it. When Rollins eventually got on the stand Judge Finletter acknowledged that he had received his letter.

Thereupon Rollins testified to his assertion that Kate had attempted to lead him and Alphonse Rollins into joining in the "frameup" and that the brothers had gone to their father, a minister, and told him about it, and he had said they must tell the Judge the whole story.

Mr. President, this was not the only case where testimony as competent as any presented in these hearings was to the effect that witnesses were promised rewards to testify against me, as the record will show.

There is no question in my mind that the testimony of Kate Rollins and Henry Hardnett was bought and paid for and is perjured. Others may believe them. I know that what they said was rehearsed, reviewed and suborned and I vehemently deny that I procured their votes or the votes of anyone else by bribery.

Mr. President, I review these facts, not to justify my place as a Senator, but to justify my character and reputation—my standing in this Commonwealth and before my colleagues, my friends or my foes—and some of those foes know the rank truth behind all this and what was done and how it was done.

I say again that it is of far less moment to me what may eventually come out of this so far as my seat in this body is concerned, than what may ensue as to my position in the world and my reputation before my family, my friends and all the citizens of this Commonwealth.

At the start of this statement, Mr. President, I read a portion of the oath I took here on January 3. Mr. President and Senators of Pennsylvania, I took that oath in the sight of God as well as of the human assemblage then gathered in this chamber.

As solemnly, and with the same implications, I repeat here and now . . .

"that I have not paid or contributed, or promised to pay or contribute, either directly or indirectly, any money or other valuable thing to procure my nomination or election, except for necessary and proper expenses expressly authorized by law; that I have not knowingly violated any election law of this Commonwealth, or procured it to be done by others in my behalf."

And so, Mr. President, I swear, sure in my heart that in time, at least, all men will realize what some men alone know tonight; that all the people will understand what has been back of all this; what has been done and how it has been done to besmirch and if possible destroy my character, my reputation and my place in the community.

Mr. OWLETT. Mr. President, in view of the statement of the gentleman from Philadelphia, it may be well to clarify the meaning of this motion. I would like to call the Senate's attention to the fact that this motion is simply a motion that the gentleman from Philadelphia be stood aside pending the inquiry into this decision.

Now, Mr. President, the question of whether or not Mr. Salus was guilty of bribery is not before this Senate at this time. He is not a member of this Senate, nor do we propose to move that he be sworn in at this time, although this certificate shows that he was elected Senator in that district. But can anyone say to the members of this Senate that this man found by a Court in Philadelphia not to have been elected, found, himself, to have been guilty of bribery, should sit in this Senate pending a determination of these issues?

That is all that is before the Senate at this time; it is not the seating of anybody else; and it does not lie, it seems to me, Mr. President, with very good grace to have this gentleman appear here and protest his innocence and protest that he wishes to save his character. I would like to call the Senate's attention to page 10 of the Legislative Journal. My colleagues here remember how this gentleman was brought in the Senate by State Police, how the then presiding officer of this Senate ruled out the vote of every duly elected Senator and only permitted the vote of twenty-two members of this Senate, in order to seat this gentleman.

Now, at the time Mr. Levin was brought in this Senate, and sworn in by these strong arm methods, with the State Police guarding him, and with Lieutenant-Governor Kennedy, in the Chair, refusing to let the members of this Senate who had been duly elected vote, he was taken up alone to the side of the bar of this Senate and sworn in after a vote of fourteen to eight—less than a quorum of this body.

At that time there was an election contest pending, in which the Courts of Dauphin County had held that he was not entitled to take his seat or be sworn in until the final determination of this contest; and an injunction had been issued, sustained by the Supreme Court of this Commonwealth, restraining the Secretary of the Commonwealth from issuing a certificate of election.

I do not need to remind the Senators in this Senate what happened. The presiding officer of this Senate directed the Sergeant-at-Arms to go to the office of the Election Bureau and obtain the certificates from the Second District, in Philadelphia, bring them here and present them to the bar—right outside of the bar of this Senate—and a man was there ready with them, to prevent the Secretary of the Commonwealth being in contempt of court.

I repeat again that this motion is merely to say that this gentleman should never have been sworn in. This election contest, that he participated in, has been determined, and it has been found that he was not elected.

Now, he has, under this Act, a right to appeal to this Senate, and I am sure there is nobody in this Senate, be he Republican or Democrat, that wants to besmirch the character of any man; and I know that everybody in this Senate knows that if he sees fit to appeal from this decision he will get a fair hearing and fair decision by this Senate.

May I call the President's attention to the decision of this Court, the decision of Judge Finletter, who has been on the bench in Philadelphia for twenty-six years—one of the ablest judges of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, recognized as one of the fairest and most impartial men in this State—and this is what he says of the gentleman who now asks us to let him sit in this Senate while this contest is going on, in spite of the fact that it has been found he was not even elected—this is what Judge Finletter finds:

"Kate Eldridge keeps a furnished room house at 324 South 11th Street, Fourth Ward, Eighth Division. She is registered Republican. She testified that Max Brickman called on her before election. Later the candidate Levin called on her the day before election and arranged with her for her support and the votes of her tenants, promising, according to the testimony, $25 for herself and a dollar a head for her tenants. 'We were all Republicans but what I was getting paid for was turning all my people over.' 'Myself, my house and everybody went Democratic to assist Herbie.' 'I went to the polls with them * * * and Brickman would hand them their dollar.' 'James Berley was one of my tenants. Levin told Berley if he cast his vote he would get a dollar.' He did and voted Democratic. Among the tenants are Albert Finderson, James Berley, Wesley Furr (who voted Republican), Margaret Pendleton, Grovena Davis, Ida Thompson, Jacob Wilson, John Hunter and Lawrence Reynolds. With these Eldridge went to the polls. She did not go with John Hunter, Berley got his money from Brickman in her presence. She saw Brickman pay Wilson at first fifty cents and, on her insistence, finally a dollar. She also saw Brickman pay Ida Thompson and Grovena Davis. Lawrence Reynolds, a tenant, did not take any money.

"Henry Hartnett, described as the common law husband of Kate Eldridge, testified that Levin paid him $15 for Kate Eldridge, and said he would see her later about the rest. This witness says he heard the 'deal' made by Levin and Eldridge, that he would give Kate $25, and all the tenants a dollar, if she helped him out. All of the tenants were called except Grovena Davis and Jacob Wilson, and testified that they voted Democratic and were paid by Brickman for doing so. Furr however voted Republican.

"There is very little difference between the stories of Mr. Levin and Kate Eldridge, but the difference is very important. She says that Levin and she had an arrangement by which she was to 'turn over her house' to Levin, i. e., get her tenants to vote for him. He says that he employed her as a 'worker,' and agreed to give her at least $15 for her efforts. He knew she kept a rooming house in which a dozen voters lived. He knew that the most likely voters for her to work upon were these tenants. On his own statement of the facts she was evidently employed by him to turn over her house to him just as she says. But what about her own vote? Levin knew she was registered Republican. Was it understood that she would still vote Republican while she was 'working' on her ten tenants to get them to vote Democratic? Or did the $15 for 'working' include persuading herself to change her own vote? Kate and Levin are practical persons. Both knew that a payment of $15, or $25, whichever it was, for working on her tenants included her own vote. When it came to a performance of the deal it was carried out as planned. Kate, her husband, and all the tenants but one voted Democratic, and each of the tenants received his or her dollar from Brickman. The facts so far related disqualify Kate and Levin as voters, but have no effect on the votes of the tenants. These, however, except Furr, are disqualified by the bribe of a dollar which they accepted from Brickman. We deal with them later in detail." That is what Judge Finletter, the President Judge of this Court in Philadelphia, decided and found under these facts.

Now I say to the members of this Senate that we have no right to permit this gentleman to sit in this Senate pending the final determination of this matter.

The question of Senator Salus is not at issue. It might well be said, "A plague on both your houses," but I say that pending this determination, and in view of the high-handed, unlawful and illegal manner in which Mr. Levin was sworn in, this Senate can do nothing else than stand aside Mr. Levin until this matter is determined and determined properly and fairly in this Senate; and that is what we propose to have done.

Mr. DiSILVESTRO. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the Senator from Tioga, Mr. Owlett.

The PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from Tioga, Mr. Owlett, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. OWLETT. Mr. President, I will.

Mr. DiSILVESTRO. Mr. President, I am astonished that my worthy colleague from Tioga, whom I thought to be a very "bad man" before I came here into the Senate—when I used to read about him in the newspapers—voted during the prohibition era to keep the leader of a racketeer gang in his post as a Senator.

I would like to know—because I am a new Senator here; I am not a veteran, and I might be guided by his suggestion and his teaching—on what grounds did the Senator from Tioga vote for that infamous character when he invaded the halls of this Senate of Pennsylvania after having been convicted by a Judge of the Federal Courts, who was of high integrity, and by a jury of men and women of the district of Philadelphia, who gave a decision that they thought was just. I would like to know why the Senator from Tioga voted for the retention of a Senator who had been so convicted in a case of conspiracy in the Federal courts, at a time when men were being killed and the laws of the land were flouted for the sake of the almighty dollar, in the racket days of prohibition.

If Judge Finletter is of high character—and I bow to Judge Finletter—so was that Federal Judge. I would like to know from my colleague, who I admire for his fidelity to his party and his aggressiveness, why he voted to permit that man to hold his seat in the Senate of Pennsylvania, and yet today wants to vote to set this man, our colleague from Philadelphia, Mr. Levin, aside.

I have the fullest confidence and fullest faith in the character of my colleague from Philadelphia and I would like to hear from my colleague from Tioga, in order to be guided in my vote, why he voted a few years ago for that infamous character who was convicted of conspiracy.

Mr. OWLETT. Mr. President, I have never voted in the body of this Senate for the seating of anyone such as was described by the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. DiSilestro. If he refers to the McClure case—and I assume he does—I merely voted to sustain the report of a committee of this Senate, along with the Republicans and several Democrats who decided that Mr. McClure could not be removed because he had been elected after the matter which was complained of had been known to the public; nothing new had come up and he had been seated after his election by an overwhelming vote, and the Committee on Elections in this Senate decided that the matter could not be passed upon by the resolution then before the Senate, and I merely voted to sustain that decision of that Committee.

But, Mr. President, may I add, whether that vote was right or not, two wrongs do not make a right. If that vote was wrong—and I do not think it was—it is no reason why we should, as members of this Senate today, sit here and overlook the decision of this Court in Philadelphia and permit this man, pending the final determination of this matter by the Committee, to sit in this Senate after having been brought in here by the State Police and sworn in in the high-handed manner that he was.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, after listening to the Senator from Tioga, particularly his answer to the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. DiSilvestro, I have come to the conclusion that the Senator from Tioga, when he went to college, majored in what I would call "alibi-ology."

There is not any justification for the two positions which he takes today. I am one of those who voted to keep that particular gentleman, referred to by Mr. DiSilvestro, in the Senate. I can give no excuse for it; I can give an explanation, and that is all. I came here, in my first year in the Senate—and it is one of the reasons why my Republican leaders would not send me back to the Senate, because it took forty-eight telephone calls and a great deal of persuasion to prove to me that that was a question of public policy; and the explanation I make for that vote is that I was foolish enough, or young in experience to such an extent, that I believed it.

That was a case in which a jury, not a single judge dealing with forty thousand votes but a jury, had convicted a man for an offense; and whether it occurred during the time when we should take cognizance is immaterial, in my opinion, because the Constitution says that the Senate is always the judge, always the judge of the qualifications of its members, and by a two-thirds vote can expel them.

The gentleman in question received more consideration than the Senator from Tioga wants to show the Senator from Philadelphia, who was not convicted by a jury but who has been charged to have received one vote less, and who, on testimony of the type that has been discussed by both parties, both sides—on testimony of that type is adjudged not to have won that election but to have forfeited it.

That gentleman has given the technical excuse that the proceeding to oust him was not the proper proceeding. I made the statement on the floor that if the application in question, or if the petition or resolution in question, had been to oust the gentleman I would have voted for the petition. It was one of the ways that I had in salvaging a troubled conscience; but I do not hesitate to say now that that is only an explanation, and were I to have it to do over again at a later date I would take a different position.

I was very much concerned as to whether I should talk on this question, but I think I am pretty nearly old enough to be Senator Levin's father, and I think that I can picture to myself that I would like my son, at a time like this, to receive consideration that would not be motivated by political desire.

I think that the speech that the Senator from Tioga, Mr. Owlett, made was not all directed to the gentlemen on this side of the house, but undoubtedly, in my opinion, was directed to some of the gentlemen on the other side of the house whose conscience must disturb them somewhat at this procedure. Never in the history of the Senate has any such thing been done before; not in the history of the Senate has a man been first convicted and then tried. What the Senator from Tioga is suggesting requires a little more thought and much more consideration than he is giving to this young man who has so much at stake. Maybe in the halls of this Senate he can hear himself say these things without worrying, but, without intending to flatter him, I, too, know him to be a "big bad wolf," and I know that when he goes home and when he considers what these proceedings portend to this young man he may have some serious doubts and some severe moments.

I am suggesting to the members of this Senate that this is not a usual proceeding. After all, my colleague is the one who is at issue, and not I; but I would feel myself a coward if I would not stand up and protest at this manner of handling this proceeding.

The Senator from Tioga, in a matter so serious in its consequences to the gentleman from Philadelphia, reads such portion of the report of the judge as he thinks will help in his case. That is all right when you are pleading dollars and cents that might be involved between two litigants; but this is a proposition that involves the future of this young man. If I were convinced by believable testimony that this young man was guilty of bribery, I would not raise my voice for him; but I venture to say I have done more to prepare myself for my action on this than many of the Senators, including the Senator from Tioga—I have not only heard some of the witnesses but I have read several thousand pages of testimony, and I have read the opinion of the Court from beginning to end. I have read where the Court, in his opinion, said, in one paragraph, that where it is oath against oath—for instance, where Mr. X says that Mr. Salus bribed him, and Mr. Salus has witnesses saying that it was not so, then that is oath against oath, and he will not consider that testimony and will not throw out the vote; but in every case—many cases—where that condition existed in Mr. Levin's testimony, that consideration, that same treatment was not accorded him. In two or three cases I have in mind in particular witnesses testified to one thing and Mr. Levin or someone else contradicted them, and yet every vote which was for Levin was thrown out.

In the very testimony to which—rather that part of the decision to which Senator Owlett refers, you will notice a complete absence of any statement as to whether this testimony should be believed or not, or any discussion by the Court of the testimony which the Senator from Philadelphia referred to tonight. I have seen that testimony. I have excerpts of it here, and can give you references to page numbers; and not in part—in any part of the decision—does the judge consider the effect upon the testimony of this particular woman of her flashing a blood relationship to several of the witnesses, two of them testifying, as you have heard, that they were troubled when they heard their sister testifying. The father is a minister of the gospel. They went to him for advice. He advised the writing of a letter to the judge. They did that but it brought no results. They went back again. They were advised to arrange to be witnesses. They voluntarily offered themselves to the gentleman from Philadelphia, were put on the stand and, on cross-examination, were questioned and plainly and unequivocally stated that the sister came to them and offered them some money if they would forget Senator Levin.

If you allow that fact to stand, you have a tie. Do you want to throw Mr. Levin out on that? If you take the witness whose testimony shows that he was a convicted felon on several occasions, and that his vote was thrown out when he voted for Mr. Levin, even though his testimony was contradicted, and you look at the record and say that this testimony that he was paid thirty some odd dollars and expenses is not true, and you count that vote for Mr. Levin, then he was elected by one vote.

It is by this one vote and by this type of testimony, that the thread of this gentleman's future hangs, and it is in your hands; and it does not help the point to what happened on January 3rd. On January the third we had a certain number of votes. The Lieutenant-Governor proceeded to act in accordance with what he said was his interpretation of parliamentary law. The same eighteen votes that seated Senator Levin also seated all the other Senators on that day except the four in question. And then the present Lieutenant-Governor came in, and he acted in accordance with his right. I have not complained about it or ranted about it, it was a purely political situation. I feel that we were right; I feel that the Lieutenant-Governor was wrong in his rulings, but that is past. This same Senate proceeded, a little later, to do something which puts them in rather an anomalous position, in my opinion, rather unfair to the gentleman from Philadelphia, aside from the question of what this means to him, because everything that was not agreeable to the Republicans; everything that was done by Lieutenant-Governor Kennedy that they did not like, they corrected. Motion after motion was made by the Senator from Tioga in a speech in which he said he wanted to correct those things which he thought were wrong and illegal.

One of the things which he says now was wrong and illegal was the seating of Senator Levin, and yet when he undertook to correct the record, our Journal, he did not correct that; and at my request, when he was finished with the corrections he wanted to make, I asked him whether or not he was through and whether, if he was, he would move that the record be approved as corrected—which he did.

That was the time when he knew these proceedings were pending, at that time he knew all about this supposed man waiting with the returns, at that time he knew that fraud was charged, at that time he knew all those facts, and if then, before the decision of the Court had been rendered—if then, before this man had been stigmatized, he had been refused his seat, the procedure, the orderly procedure would have been that the report be forwarded to the Committee on Elections.

Now, there must be some reason why the Senator from Tioga can be so obviously inconsistent as to say, "I want all the facts to be heard, so I want this report sent to the Committee; but in the meantime I want this man condemned properly, because I am going to ask that he stand aside," and the Senator from Tioga can save his conscience all he pleases, and call in all the newspapermen and make statements to them that "We do not intend by this that there shall be any reflection on the Senator from Philadelphia, notwithstanding the fact that I have pointed to the charges of bribery and emphasized them here on the floor, and notwithstanding the fact that I have pointed out that the judge said this man was guilty of bribery—I do not mean, by this motion to have him stand aside, that he was guilty of it—I merely want to adjudge him first in this way so that I can send this report to the committee and we can have a full and fair hearing."

With all due respect to the members of the Committee—I mean no implication as to how they will vote—I do mean that there are nine members on the Committee on Elections, two of whom have been elected as Democrats, the Senator from Lawrence, Mr. Eroo, and the Senator from Allegheny, Mr. Frey; the other seven members are all Republicans, with Mr. Farrell, the Senator from Philadelphia, as the Chairman. What does this mean? It means that the Senator from Tioga knows very well that the Constitution, the sacredness of which has been so often pointed to by the Senator from Tioga when he was talking about the Democratic party attempting to upset the Supreme Court, our Constitution about which we have heard so frequently, the sacredness of the Constitution about which they talk so much, is now in question also. Is it sacred when it hurts them—because this Constitution says, in Article 2, Section 11, it shall take a two-thirds vote to remove a Senator from his seat. May I read it to you?

"Each House shall have power to determine the rules of its proceedings and punish its members or other persons for contempt or disorderly behavior in its presence, to enforce obedience to its process, to protect its members against violence or offers of bribes or private solicitation, and with the concurrence of two-thirds, to expel a member, but not a second time for the same cause"—and so forth.

Now, that part of the Constitution is just as sacred to me as the rest of it, and nobody can say Senator Levin has not been seated—not sincerely. You can quibble about it and you can say he was illegally seated, if that will help save your conscience. Every man in this room who was present on that day voted to approve those minutes. You can say, "Well, that does not approve what we did; that only approves the record of what we did. That cannot get you very far." But Judge Finletter—he would say, "You are talking utter nonsense," and he would say what I said, "That is an alibi."

What can it mean with reference to this procedure? It means they are afraid they cannot get a two-thirds vote to expel this man, therefore they want to put this in such a position that they will be able to expel him by a majority vote, because when this committee report comes in, from the seven Republican and two Democrats, then all they have to do is use the same twenty-six members, which they now have, to expel Senator Levin.

Now, the Senator from Tioga, Mr. Owlett, reminds the Republican Senators who may be somewhat troubled about this, as I am, that "Don't worry; we are not dealing now with the seating of Mr. Salus"; and we may have some assurance that when the question of seating Mr. Salus comes up he will say, "Maybe we will not seat Mr. Salus." That is great consolation to the gentleman whom we are going to unseat tonight and condemn before the public. And then will it happen?—because my recollection carries me back to the actions of the Republicans when some of their own members were in even worse positions, when one Senator was accused, and subsequently convicted, of offering a bribe for a vote, and a resolution was introduced, much against the will of the Republicans, and reluctantly, to appoint a committee to investigate that, and that committee, according to the records, you will see was never appointed, no report was ever received from anybody, but the Court subsequently convicted him; but the Republican party took no action—and they did not need any vote at that time, it would not help; but now, with the vote so close, the Republican party needs to do what?—to do what they are trying to do tonight?

I can conceive of party regularity which might mean the passage of a bill, sometimes, when that bill is all-important, and it is going to hurt somebody. I do not think even then it is justified; but I want to talk to the members of the Republican party—I do not have to talk to the members of the Democratic party, I think they are convinced that they know what this picture is; but I know this—I can say it advisedly, advisedly—that nobody sitting on the other side, in a similar position to that of this young man, would want to be treated in that manner.

Why not send this report to that Committee? Why not send it to the Committee, and let the Committee act, and then talk.

You can point to the seven members of the Committee, and the other two, the Democrats—I am quite sure that neither Senator Eroo nor Senator Frey will vote to keep this man in if he is guilty of bribery. I, myself, on that committee, if I were convinced that this young man committed bribery I would vote against him, I would not hesitate to do it.

But I am concerned, I am deeply concerned, about the conduct of this Senate tonight, because while it does not affect me it does affect somebody on the brink of the future, somebody, as you heard tonight, coming from a respectable family—people in professional life; you are going to take that family and stigmatize them upon the testimony of self-confessed participants in bribery, which if it is true, and of the type that has been referred to here—of a woman who lived with her common-law husband and was worrying about her husband in jail—it is on that kind of testimony that you are going to be asked, as members, to be regular, and to vote—irrespective of what your votes may mean to this young man. If you are sincere, if you are honest about it, if you are appalled by the enormity of the offence, this man can be ousted from the Senate three weeks from now or four, or even a month, two months or even a year from now, after your committee has acted and made a report. How much better you would be in that position! And if two-thirds of the members of this Senate do not want him out there must be some good reason for it, and he should stay in.

If you put him out tonight you may do him great harm. If you wait you cannot harm the Senate, and it seems to me that this matter should be even discussed by those who want him ousted on the basis of what it really means rather than on the basis of righteous indignation.

I cannot listen with very much of an ear to these arguments from what we would think today were people who were paragons of virtue when I look back in my mind at the proceedings that I witnessed as a Republican. I have more consideration for the man who stands up and says, "I am going to vote on this thing politically, I do not care what you think about it" than I have for the man who stands here and tells you today he is shocked by the testimony of half a dozen people whom ordinarily, if he was representing the other side, he would be ranting about their character as unbelievable—their credibility nil, the class of people you cannot believe; and telling us how we dared put this tremendous crime aside, and said nothing, when just as honorable a judge and just as honorable a jury convicted another man of a most heinous offence.

Let us put that aside. The proposition here tonight is, do we want to take this man's reputation from him tonight, by asking him to stand aside, and let all the world know what that means when we ask him to do it? Or do we want to do it in a decent manner, by referring it to a committee? Those on the Republican side cannot afford to do it that way, because they are afraid they cannot get the two-thirds vote which they would need for such action tonight.

I say there is no man in this Senate who can point to any threat that would justify the unseating of a man by this subterfuge instead of the two-thirds votes provided for by the Constitution.

I was handed the decision in the McNeal contest, 111 Pa. 234. I read it. I do not see anything in that case that applies to this. If that were the law I would be willing to abide by it, but that case, on the contrary, does not support the position on the other side; it provides that the Senate is the judge of the qualifications and election of its members, and points to the fact that when Article 2, Section 11, was written into the original Constitution it merely said the Senate was the judge of the qualifications, and subsequently that was amended to say it is the judge of the election also.

Everybody in this room knew at the time the action was taken confirming Senator Levin's seating in this house—when the Journal was corrected everybody knew there was a contest; and everybody in this room knew—they did not put any faith in that contest—that it was merely a political situation.

I do not want to talk about Senator Salus. It does not help to say, "I am as good as you are, you crook." That does not matter. But I do say to the Republicans, on their side of the house, that they should put aside political action in this matter and should recall, and think, what this thing means to this young man.

I would say to them, "There are many of you who have children, and there are many of you that would not like this to be done to your son; and there is an orderly way of doing it, and there is no reason why anybody should get exercised over this setting aside except for this one purpose, and that is that you do not besmirch, publicly, this young man who has a position of responsibility, who is a lawyer and whose standing as a Member of the Bar may be affected by what you do. And you should bear that fact in mind and not do it until he has been given a fair and full opportunity to be heard by this jury, which is your jury, the first jury before which he ever had a right, up until today, to come and tell about the grave injustice which has been done to him."

Out of forty thousand votes five or six hundred are heard, and five of them are discarded. If you look at the record you will find that it was testified that this man bribed those five voters—and you are going to say, without being the jury, without having heard the testimony, "We have decided that first we will ruin him, tonight, and will give him a square deal next month." It is nonsense, it is unfair, it is unheard of and it is cruel.

Mr. OWLETT. Mr. President, I do not want to prolong this discussion; I do want to make one or two additional comments.

The argument of the Senator from Philadelphia Mr. Shapiro, and of Mr. Levin, reminds me of an incident that happened when I was first admitted to the Bar. I was appointed by the Court to defend a man, and asked for a few minutes recess to consult him as to what his defense was. I took him down into the consultation room and asked him what his offense was to this crime, and he said he did not have any. I said, "Have you no defense at all?" He said, "I can cry."

Now, that is about what we have evidence of here tonight.

Mr. President, I cannot help remembering the occurrences on January 3rd, which the Senator from Philadelphia apparently likes to forget. He talks about regularity in this Senate. There were three men who presented themselves here to be sworn in, on January 3rd; they had their wives and their families here to see them sworn in at the Bar of this Senate. One of them was elected by over ten thousand votes, another by eight thousand votes and the third by three thousand votes; and this very Senator from Philadelphia stood up here and moved that they be stood aside and not be sworn in, and they were not permitted to take their seats—by a vote of less than a quorum of this Senate; and then the Senator from Philadelphia has the audacity to stand up here and call our attention to the reputation of this man.

There never was anything like that in the history of this whole State; and I submit, Mr. President, that there is nothing for this Senate to do but to stand aside this man until this proceeding is determined.

I yield to the Senator from Washington, Mr. Reed, who yielded to me.

Mr. REED. Mr. President, there seems to have been an awful lot of heat poured into this controversy but on account of the importance of the question before the Senate it seems to me that we should treat it very coolly and very carefully, and in doing so, Mr. President, I think we should first look at the law that is applicable to this question. With the permission of the President I would like to read, for the guidance of the Senate, the Sections of the Election Law that apply to the question that we now have before us, beginning with Section 1747:

"Section 1747. Appeal to Proper House; Requirements.—Any claimant to a seat in either branch of the General Assembly who shall feel aggrieved by the decision of the Court in his case, may present his petition to the Proper House within ten days after the meeting of the General Assembly, or within ten days after the decision shall have been made in his case, if the General Assembly shall then be in session, setting forth his claim, which petition shall have appended thereto the affidavit of the petitioner, setting forth that he believes that he was duly elected to the seat, and that the statements set forth in his petition are just and true, to the best of his knowledge and belief."

Then follows Section 1748.

"Section 1748. Action on Appeal Petition.—Such petition, when presented, shall be referred to a standing committee on election, which committee shall proceed to hear the claims of the contestant and respondent, and report the facts and a resolution expressing the decision of the committee, for the consideration of the house; and the vote of the proper house on the claims of the contestant and respondent shall be final."

Section 1749 continues:

"Section 1749. Vote on Petition.—No resolution deciding such question shall be adopted, unless it shall receive the votes of a majority of all the members elected to the house considering the same."

Now, Mr. President, the facts as Senator Shapiro has presented them, or as Senator Owlett has presented them, will not be the facts that will decide this case. It will be the facts as found by the committee and it seems to me that this question should be decided in strict accordance with the law, because it is a very important question.

If we stand this gentleman aside for a month or so then that is setting a very dangerous precedent, and later on it may be used in cases of far more importance than this, and I have never seen the time when you went wrong in following the law.

Now, it can be decided in a very short time under the orderly processes of those sections of the statutes and it seems to me, Mr. President, that the proper thing to do in this case is to follow the statutes and have this matter referred to the Committee on Elections, and let that committee hear the facts and make its findings and report to this Senate, as this portion of the law provides; and then, if we do that, I believe that we will have no dire consequences, but I am afraid if we set this up as a precedent that the consequences hereafter may be of very serious importance.

Mr. GELTZ. We intend to do, Mr. President, by following through with this resolution—if we can—what the Senator from Washington County suggests, follow the orderly processes supplied by law. It seems to me we are going far afield in our discussions, in that the principal arguments from the other side of the Chamber seem to go into the character and reputation of the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Levin. That is not the question here. It is a graver question than that of any individual, in my opinion; and that is, whether or not this body, this Senate, should allow some one to sit as a representative in this body when that individual has been declared by a court as not having been elected. In other words, the question which is before us now is simply this: the court has said Mr. Levin was not elected. Are you therefore going to permit him to follow through with duties to which he has not been elected?

Now, if this resolution is passed, Mr. Levin has, as our colleague from Washington suggests, a remedy and that remedy is his right to appeal within a period of ten days.

Now, other than basing it entirely on sympathy, I cannot see or understand any reason why Mr. Levin has any greater right than the law provides; and it little behooves those on the other side of this Senate Chamber to so suggest for one of their own. If they will but recall what took place in this body on the second and third of January of this year—and I leave it to those who are here assembled and to the gentleman of the press as a jury—to answer whether or not Mr. Levin has not been treated far more kindly and more decently by the presiding officer of this body at this time than were those reputable Senators on the second and third of January, who, for no reason whatsoever, were denied their right to be sworn in, denied their right to take the floor, and denied their right to vote on any question.

Mr. Levin was accorded that privilege by the President of this Senate, to take the floor tonight, and to state his case completely and without interruption. I ask the gentlemen from the other side, "Can you say honestly that the Senators on this side of the Chamber were accorded that same right and that same privilege when those smiles and grins were prevalent on the other side of the house, because you had somebody in the driver's seat?"

Earlier tonight one of our Democratic colleagues read quite a lengthy statement in connection with running this body in accordance with Democratic principles of government, and it is just hard for me to realize and understand how anybody who was a part of what went on Communistic-like in this Chamber on the second and third of January could have the audacity and the nerve to stand up on this floor and talk to those in this body about the proper method of procedure.

Mr. Shapiro, our learned colleague from Philadelphia, gave us one of the best arguments in support of this resolution that I know of. He asks for fairness, and we recall to our minds that the Republicans have been more than fair in this matter, because I recall that on the seventeenth of January, when the Republicans took control of this body in a proper, legal and decent manner, nothing was done as to Mr. Levin's status, no change was made whatsoever, because after he had been sworn in, and between the time he was sworn in and the time the Republicans gained control of this body, there had been no apparent change in his status; no change was attempted to have been made by the Republicans.

Now, however, the situation is different. We now have a court record. We have a judicial opinion and a judicial decision which says this man was not elected to this body. Can this Senate afford, then, to vote against this resolution and continue in this body as a colleague, as a Senator, with all the rights and privileges of a Senator, someone the Court has said was not elected?

Mr. Shapiro says: "Do not vote this as a political matter, do not take sides as to party partisanship." That is what I ask of you gentlemen on the other side of the Assembly: "Do not take sides, simply because you are Democrats; vote this in accord with your consciences, and what you know is decent and right, but do not allow your sympathy to sway you, because you recall the second and third of January when you had no sympathy in your makeup, none whatsoever, for those Senators on this side whose families were here and who came down here with full and complete credentials—sent here by the many voters in their districts—and still they were not admitted in this body.”

So I ask that you consider this resolution carefully before you vote, and think of the proper method, and do not fool yourselves by carrying the thought in mind that if you vote for this you are damning Mr. Levin. His reputation is not at stake in this resolution. This resolution does not say “Resolved, Mr. Levin is not of good character.” This resolution, merely goes to the point of issue, that this man, was certified by an opinion of a Common Pleas Judge, as not having been elected and therefore, until his appeal is decided, he has not the right to sit in this body.

Mr. KILGALLEN. Mr. President, it is very seldom that I rise to the floor of this Senate to do any talking, because I find, gentlemen, that I very seldom learn anything down here at Harrisburg while I do the talking.

To me, this is a very simple thing. To me it boils down to this: Am I to take the decision of some tribunal in Philadelphia and set aside one of my colleagues without having any personal knowledge of the facts? I do not think that any of us here tonight have any illusions about this thing; if the gentlemen on the other side of the room commit themselves to this course tonight they are going to follow that course in the future. If Mr. Levin is unseated tonight he will be unseated next week or two weeks from now three weeks from now, and he has not had a hearing. You are going through some sort of hearing, but once being committed to this course tonight, there will be no back-tracking.

You gentlemen on the other side of the room know nothing at all but the testimony that was given against this man. I got it tonight for the first time, and if I were pleading his case in court, just as if Mr. Geltz were pleading his case in court, I would point my finger to the credibility of the witnesses against this man. The proper thing to do, Mr. President, is to give this colleague of ours a hearing before you unseat him. It may take a week's time, it may take two weeks' time to give him a hearing, but give him a hearing before you unseat him.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, I want it to be understood, as a preface to whatever few words I might have to say on this subject, that I was one of the newly-elected Senators on January 3rd that were stood aside and not permitted to take oath until the Chair ruled that he was ready to give the oath, and I took it then.

I think that no member of this Senate could impute to me the accusation of being a blind partisan in matters that have on repeated occasions come before this Senate. No farther back than the last Special session the record will show my conduct in matters that were strictly partisan—that I was never guided by any partisan spirit; and I do feel tonight that this subject before us is of such importance that members of this Senate should rise above partisanship.

I am reluctant to say that the Senator from Tioga, Mr. Owlett, and the Senator from Allegheny, Mr. Geltz, have not made their expressions free entirely of that party spirit that often distorts sound reason. In facing a subject like this I like to cast partisanship to the winds and I do not like to refer to the members on the other side as Republicans and to the members on this side as Democrats. On a subject as serious as the one before us I like to feel that we can all forget partisanship and that we are all good citizens, all possess intellectual honesty, and that we want to sincerely decide this problem conformably with the tenets of justice.

One of the arguments made here tonight, that is very distinct and clear in my mind is, if the question before us was merely a decision to keep an elected member from taking a seat in the Senate, then our problem would be very simple. We could move to set aside the man. We are not dealing with that situation here tonight, we are dealing with a situation where a citizen—a man—was elected, and his election was certified by a judge by the name of Finletter to the Secretary of the Commonwealth. Those returns have that judge's name affixed to them and those returns, regardless of the manner in which they were brought before this Senate—those returns were brought here, they were spread upon the Journal of the Senate, and the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Levin, was administered the oath, he was seated, he has commenced the discharge of his duties as a Senator, he has been issued the proper credentials of a member of the Senate, he has been paid part of his salary as a State Senator. Now all of that, Mr. President, surely could not indicate anything but that Mr. Levin is a member of this Senate, he is sitting in this Senate; and if the procedure here is to remove him from that seat, then, Mr. President, there is no logic, there is no reason whatsoever in arguing here that this Act of Assembly of 1937 has any application, because if you read it carefully it applies only to a person who has been elected, his election has been contested, and he is knocking at the doors of this Chamber to be admitted and sworn in and seated as a member.

That is what the Act of 1937 covers, but we are not dealing with that situation here tonight, we are dealing with a man who is in, a man who is seated, a man who has taken his oath, a man who has received his salary, and this Act of Assembly does not apply at all, but the provisions of the Constitution apply.

Now, if we want to be fair in this matter, if we want to rise above the narrowness of partisanship, if we want in a slight degree to reach any degree of statesmanship here, then let us do this problem thoroughly, let us cast aside partisanship and seek to solve it within the rules, within the law, within the Constitution.

Mr. President, I want to emphasize that point because we have attorneys as members of this body who are familiar with the Constitution and the statutes. Read the Act of Assembly and you will be satisfied that it deals with the case where a candidate has not been seated, has not been sworn, and is seeking to be seated, and we can set him aside until the contest is decided, but here the member is in and we are asked to boot him out, and the only way we can do that is by following the tenets of the Constitution; and if we wish to throw the Constitution in the waste basket, then, Mr. President, we have a different proposition. I am not ready to throw the Constitution aside. I want to be guided by it, and I think all of us should be guided by it.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, tonight we received a message from the Governor, who says: “In compliance with Article 6 of the Act of April 9, 1929, (Pamphlet Laws 177) I have the honor to lay before the General Assembly the State Budget for the fiscal biennium from June 1, 1939, to May 1, 1941.”

Section 602 says that as soon as possible and not later than four weeks after the organization of the General Assembly the Governor shall submit a state budget.

When we were discussing the resolution calling for a recess, I called attention to that particular Act of the General Assembly, and said if we recess we will put the Governor in a position that he cannot comply with the laws of this Commonwealth. Having the vote, the Republican side set aside whatever argument I offered. Naturally the Governor did not violate the law, because the General Assembly was not in session—and their foolish excuse was that they were getting a program ready. I see by the budget that they have the program ready.

The same program of the last couple of years, we could have done that in twenty-four hours. Tonight we are faced with the same situation. We want to set this man aside tonight. Aside from the crocodile tears I have heard so much about, I believe you want to set him aside so he cannot legally appeal as a Senator of this Senate, from a decision of the court, ten days after that court's decision has been rendered. He cannot appeal to us in his own behalf. You set him aside so that he is not a member of this body during his appeal, the same as we recessed so that the Governor could not submit his budget according to the law. There are many things that probably lawyers look at that laymen do not. I am going to look at the practical side of this thing, and am wondering in my mind about this judge, why this judge quit when he came to the point where the vote cast showed Mr. Salus had one more than Mr. Levin. In this testimony, as I get it from the account of the evidence, hundreds of witnesses were paraded before this judge and out of the hundreds he selected so many to rule out and so set aside their votes. Is it not just as possible, out of the forty-seven thousand votes, if he continued from now until doomsday, the final decision would switch from one man to the other?

Now, I do not know how many of you men are honest enough in this Senate to say that you have gone out in your campaigns and you have spent a few dollars—I have—and I am not kidding myself and you are not kidding anybody either when you come in here and confide that your hands are lily-white, that you have not paid any money out to workers at an election. Whether for keeping houses, housekeepers, their husbands or not, those votes were bought.

I have never been one to quibble about morals in politics and I am not going to start now. Men have walked into a saloon and stood the drinks up for everybody in the house—perhaps that is a confession—and perhaps you have too.

But what you are doing gentlemen, is this; you are saying in effect that no member of any minority in Pennsylvania is safe from now on in an election where the vote is close. You are saying that if a certain judge wants, he decides in that particular district where a Senator or House member is elected, he can have witnesses come before him and have them testify, and when he gets to the right vote for his side, throw the other man out. That is what you are saying. Now, be honest about the whole matter.

This man was elected by forty-seven votes. I know another man elected in this Senate by a little over a hundred votes. His opponent did not go out and get men to come in any say they were bribed—probably they were: I said probably, because of my experience in politics, and I am a young man. I have seen enough filth, and you have too, and I know better than to come in here and take the testimony of three or four persons who admit that they had accepted money, practically on both sides of the question.

I have seen enough filth in this game, as young as I am, to destroy some of my faith in clean politics. I do not plead for this man on the grounds he is a young man and has an honorable family—I think we all have honorable families. Those of you who are not young now were young at one time, on the brink of a career, stepping out into the world on your own and expecting some decent consideration from your fellowmen, I am pleading from that viewpoint. It is the standpoint of the person coming from a county that is not very regular in the way it votes. My people are independent, last time they voted Democratic; next, they may vote Republican; and if conditions do not improve out there the Lord knows how they will vote.

I do know this. If I were elected by forty-seven votes I would expect to come down here to take my seat the same as a man who was elected by ten thousand votes, because from the history of politics the man who is elected by ten thousand votes got his in practically the same method as I got mine.

Does anyone here believe that when you introduce certain legislation with an appeal to the voter that you are not bribing for votes, that you are not buying votes; you are doing it with your legislation the same as you do if you go out and buy votes for cash.

There is no one here who has not received some contributions for his campaigns. Whatever was done with that money, was to help elect whoever spent it. Why pick on such a flimsy alibi?

You want Sam Salus' seat so that you can have twenty-six votes, so that you do not have to depend on a couple of Democrats, and so that you have a majority.

I understand that, and I understand the nature of the remarks made by the Senator from Tioga when he said "a pla ue on both your houses"—but it seems he wants to leave the pox marks on this side only. To talk of both your houses might mean that we will throw both these gentlemen out and throw it open for an election. That is all. I do not believe you gentlemen over there want to seat Mr. Salus. I say that because I believe that. I do not believe that you can compare the two men. Why, after what some of you Senators have done in the past, after the way you have voted to keep men amongst you who were convicted in courts; when you now accuse, as this man is accused, who is not a convict, and you stand up there in righteous indignation, because this man went out, presumably, and said to somebody who was going to vote for his opponent, like each and every one of us have done, "Vote for me, I am a better man, I will pay you as much as he does for working—I will pay you more than he if necessary." It is for the vote, and I know of instances in my county when the highest bidder did not get it—there is no use trying to hide these things—we are not fooling the public in Pennsylvania. Do you believe that the public actually thinks that is the count down in the Second District? Once in my county a man was defeated by thirty-five votes and then the lights went out. The next morning he was the mayor of the town. It got so bad out there that they said they never even counted the ballots, they just weighed the boxes. At least these are the stories old of years gone by.

Now I want to talk about some of the members on the other side looking up—rightfully so—the second and third of January. Has anybody here heard any argument or is there any argument in their minds about setting aside the parliamentary procedure of Lieutenant-Governor Tom Kennedy? Is there any authority in any book of parliamentary law that says Tom Kennedy was not right? When your school board takes office, do your new members vote until they have been sworn in? I was a member of council and I was not allowed to vote until I was sworn in. The excuse is too flimsy; your alibi will not hold water. Come on out and tell the truth, that you are going to set this man aside so that he cannot legally, and as a member of this Senate, appeal to us. You want to set him aside so that you can get the desired twenty-six votes.

I have my own suspicions about the thing, and when Senator Owlett said how convenient it happened to be that night when the Sergeant-at-Arms did not have to go over to the Bureau of Elections for the returns, he only went over to the rail, I remember how convenient it was when a vote was needed and Senator Owlett only had to go to the barber shop.

Now, gentlemen, I am a young man and probably will face my defeats and my victories in the years to come, if I stay in politics. But I do not want to be defeated by subterfuge. If I win, as in the case with this man, I want to be defeated in a man-to-man fight. If the things I stand for are wrong, I want my people to lick me—and if they are wrong they will—and when it comes to that particular element in our society who have to have an inducement on election day to go out and vote, Lord help the man that has less whiskey than the other one.

Let us talk of practical politics and common sense. If you can fool the people of Pennsylvania with this, then you can honestly believe that you can fool the people of Pennsylvania about this budget. I know some of the men on the other side intimately. I have talked to them about the situation and I know their beliefs. You ask for cooperation. Here is a State in a serious condition, with hundreds of thousands of people depending upon subsistence or charity, and here we are working well into the morning on a purely political question.

You were going to give Pennsylvania a business-like administration. Maybe you are, but it is going to be monkey business. I said that we would go along on anything that would benefit Pennsylvania. This does not benefit Pennsylvania nor does it benefit politics as a whole. This does not benefit anybody in the State of Pennsylvania except the vanity of one man, and the political prestige of one party. If you could do it, and if you do do it; if you set this man aside tonight, you serve notice to every man in the Democratic section of this Senate that you do not give a darn what we think or what we do, you have the votes. I remember a time a few years ago when we had the votes and we thought we were high and mighty, and we did a lot of things when you said we were wrong; perhaps we would have been better off if we at times had listened to you.

You have made up your minds that you are not going to give a darn about me or any of my colleagues, that you are right, that the people gave you a mandate. I do not think the people gave you a mandate to set aside Herbert S. Levin. I do not think that the people gave you a mandate or Judge Finletter a mandate to set aside the desires of a majority of the voters in that District, nor to cast his vote; that is to say, gentlemen, if Sam Salus wins he is seated by one vote, that is the vote of Judge Finletter. I say to you that just as he went through the task of calling in the witnesses and stopping when he had a one vote majority for Sam Salus, when he found a rotten apple in the basket; if he had gone a little deeper he would have found more rotten apples; but, no, he quit. If he had examined a few more witnesses he might have found another vote for Levin; but no, he did not, he had all he wanted.

I would not be so bold as to accuse a judge of being partisan, but yet I say out where I come from Judges run on either the Democratic or Republican ticket and they make no bones about it. However, in Philadelphia I do not know what they are.

Now, gentlemen of the Senate, I do not expect that you are listening to my plea, but I am going to say to you that on such a flimsy excuse I would not vote to convict any one of you. The gentleman from Tioga will probably answer my charges. I would like to ask him what finally happened to that fellow whom he said had no defense except knowing how to cry—he must have gone up and pleaded awfully hard for him. Now, I am not much of a crier, but I can cry as well as anyone of you when I see an injustice done to a fellow member. This is a rank injustice. The Senator from Tioga knows it is an injustice, whether he admits it here or not. I think the Senator from Delaware believes it to be an injustice, and I believe the young Senator from Allegheny believes it to be an injustice. In fact I believe the majority—in fact I want to believe that every man here feels it is an injustice. How would you like to be set aside for no greater reason than this?

You spoke about two or three others that were set aside on January second and third. That was purely for political convenience—we know you set aside Senator Henney for political convenience. Let us lay the cards on the table. I say to you that you are trying to set Mr. Levin aside for political convenience. As I have told you, men have walked into bar-rooms and set the drinks up before now and before Mr. Levin ran for office. Please do not do this unfair thing tonight gentlemen—do not do this. I appeal to you as one of your own colleagues in behalf of Herbert S. Levin, a Senator of Pennsylvania; do not allow him to take that Senatorial certificate back home and hang it on the wall and say, "I do not know whether Mr. Gelder knew what he was doing when he signed that certificate." Let this man remain here and fight his battle from the floor of this Senate like you would expect to do in like circumstances. Give him the same consideration that you would expect me or any other man to give you in like circumstances.

Mr. GILSON. Mr. President, I think that the question before me tonight, as far as I am personally concerned, is largely a legal one. As I understand the law and the history of this case, after the election in November and the official ballots had been counted, a certificate was made in the Court of Common Pleas in Philadelphia County certifying the election of Senator Levin.

After that time I believe any decision on any election contest has exactly the same status as a report of a committee where membership is being contested. That is, it is purely advisory.

If that is that law we are then confronted with this proposition—and the only reason, Mr. President, I take occasion to impose what I might have to say is this: I intend in meeting this issue myself to be guided solely by what I think is the law in this case, and I think that is the thing which should guide the rest of us. Now, if I am correct—and I believe I am—in the position that a decision in an election contest by any Court in this Commonwealth is purely in an advisory capacity, it can go no further than that. That being the case, we have now nothing before us except the advice of Judge Finletter, in the Court of Common Pleas of Philadelphia County. That advice is not even influential upon me as a Senator until I have seen the evidence by which Judge Finletter reached that conclusion, and before I would feel justified in overruling a Republican majority of this Senate, which accepted this man as a Senator, which has paid his salary, which had conceded that he is actually a sitting member of this Senate—before I take any evidence of any Court, I would want to see and weigh for myself that evidence; and it may well be when I have seen that evidence that I would come to a conclusion which would not fit either contestant for this office, but in the meantime it seems to me the legal situation is altogether too clear for words—you cannot go along for a period of time and concede that the prima facie evidence of an election return admits a person to membership in a body that participates with him in performing those functions, and then say, upon the advice of somebody else—whose function is only advisory—that you will exclude this member without conforming to the law which regulates expulsion.

Now it may be that the evidence which will be submitted to this Senate in the trial of this case is sufficient to arrive at exactly the same conclusion; if so, I propose to arrive at that conclusion; but I do not think any of us, Democratic or Republican, should camouflage our clear understanding of this legal situation with political complexities which will do more injustice and more harm to those who participate in this sort of action than it does to the one against whom that action is directed.

Now, there is a perfectly legal way to arrive at this situation: either this gentleman is entitled to sit with us the rest of this session or the balance of his term or he is not, and we are the judges of that, and not Judge Finletter, of the Common Pleas Court in Philadelphia. We should decide that question and we ought to decide it honestly, and we should likewise decide whether the other contestant is fit to sit here; but we should decide it on that basis and in the orderly and honest conduct of our own investigation.

Now, I propose when this motion is put to vote "no," not because I intend eventually to vote for the seating of Mr. Levin. I do not know how I am going to vote until I see the evidence, and in that connection I recall the words of the Senator from Tioga, Senator Owlett; that two wrongs do not make a right. I am not concerned with whether the action on January 3rd was right or was wrong, in so far as this particular issue tonight is concerned. The question tonight is that we do the right thing, and in view of the fact that this man has been accorded by the Republican majority—or by the Republican officers of this Senate—with membership here, it seems to me it comes now as a matter of course, as a matter of right, to say that our own actions shall be based not upon evidence by some one the law says has no authority in this chamber, but that he shall only be removed upon a fair and honest trial.

Now I am not prepared to say that I am committed to anything but a careful review of these facts. I do not believe that this Senate can afford to seat a member if the evidence shows that he is not worthy to sit here. Neither do I believe that this Senate can afford to indirectly violate the laws which they have been sworn to uphold, or to make this thing merely a question of fair play. This is a question of legal significance. We are here to make laws; we are here to observe them; we are here to act in an orderly and decent sort of way.

I wish to make myself perfectly clear: to me this is a matter of correct legal procedure. The man has been acknowledged a Senator, he has been permitted to vote, he has been paid and he has been certified. A court which the law says has advisory capacity only has advised. It is our duty not to accept the advice of anybody, but to proceed and base our findings upon actual facts, and when that is done then we should act accordingly, regardless of which party it affects.

Mr. SIPE. Mr. President, it is very clear to me that the resolution is shot through with camouflage from beginning to end, because the resolution states that Mr. Levin is to stand aside. Well, every member of this Senate, Republican or Democrat, who has any intellectual honesty knows that an application to stand aside applies to a person who appears to take an oath of office. He stands aside by order of his peers, so that the oath may not then be administered, therefore there is no standing aside here by any camouflage or stretch of the imagination.

Senator Levin is a member of this Senate, acknowledged so by the Senate itself. He has received his pay—as much pay as any of the rest of us have received. So therefore this resolution is simply a camouflage for the unseating of Mr. Levin, and it intends to unseat him by a mere constitutional majority instead of a two-thirds majority; doing illegally and in an indirect way what every Senator knows cannot be done directly in a legal way.

Mr. MUNDY. Mr. President, I was very much surprised to listen to my colleague from Westmoreland state that in Pennsylvania there existed any conditions such as that of which he spoke. I was pained to learn that anywhere in this sovereign state of Pennsylvania anybody would attempt to influence the mind or vote of any individual. Since this is open season for Senators I want to define my position very carefully on the record in the Senate and also that of my colleague, Senator Miller, to say that we both hope that this epidemic or this malady will never invade our native county of Luzerne.

We hope to maintain that—he by missionary work among the Republicans and I among the Democrats—to make Luzerne the outstanding county of political righteousness, so that we can be a beacon light to bring back into the right path the other sixty-six counties.

Mr. SHAPIRO. I would like to interrogate the Senator from Tioga, Mr. Owlett.

The PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from Tioga, Mr.

Owlett, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. OWLETT. Mr. President, I shall be glad to be interrogated.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I understand the motion we are about to vote on is whether or not the Senator from the Second Senatorial District shall stand aside; is that correct?

Mr. OWLETT. Mr. President, that is correct.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, will the Senator from Tioga tell us just what that means, in effect, for the Senator from Philadelphia? For instance, will he get his pay, will he be able to vote, will he be able to exercise his functions as a Senator in this body?

Mr. OWLETT. Mr. President, if this motion is adopted, I doubt if the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Levin, will be permitted to vote in this Senate. He will be in exactly the same position as he should have been had not the illegal procedure taken place on January 3. This act contemplates, as the Dauphin County Court held, and as the State Supreme Court unanimously confirmed—including Justice Barnes—that when a contest is pending, until that contest is finally determined neither contestant is entitled to be seated.

Now, we have generously allowed Mr. Levin to remain in his seat here, although he was illegally sworn in; although he was brought in here, as we have said before, by the State Police, and it now appears by the decision of the court—which is the tribunal set up by an act passed by the Democratic Legislature in 1937, setting up a court as a body to determine this election, and it has determined that Mr. Levin was not elected. Mr. Levin has a right of appeal, he being the party aggrieved, and pending that appeal he should not be permitted to vote. If it is later determined that he is legally entitled to his seat he will of course get his pay. If it is not determined that he is legally entitled to his seat he will be ousted permanently.

This motion is that he stand aside temporarily pending this appeal.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, as I understand the question, Mr. Levin, according to the motion, will be ousted temporarily, and if the report of the committee—

Mr. OWLETT. Mr. President, by the Senate—the committee has no power to decide; that power belongs to the Senate. I suppose my colleague and friend, the Senator from Philadelphia, understands that?

Mr. SHAPIRO. Yes, Mr. President, I understand that.

Mr. OWLETT. Mr. President, the Senate has the power to say whether or not Mr. Levin will be seated, but that is not the issue now. The issue is whether he shall stand aside now until the issue is settled.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, do I understand that the Senator from Tioga will then follow this up with a motion?

Mr. OWLETT. Mr. President, that is correct, for the purpose of completing the investigation; but the question now is whether or not the Senator should stand aside.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Then, Mr. President, I would like to ask the Senator from Tioga under what section of the act he proposes to do that, because, as I understand the law—and I will read it for the benefit of the Senate—there is no right on the part of the Senate to refer this to a committee for action. As a matter of fact that law provides that anybody that is aggrieved by a decision has a right to appeal within ten days after the Senate convenes. Do not answer my question if that is not correct, but I think there can be no legal action because there has been no appeal.

Mr. OWLETT. Mr. President, I think the Senator from Philadelphia correctly interprets the situation; if Mr. Levin desires to accept the decision of the court then there is nothing the Senate has to act upon but, fortunately, the act gives him the right to appeal to the Senate.

Now, if he does not take that appeal within ten days, and the ten days run by, then it is left for the committee to decide whether anybody is qualified to be seated. If Mr. Levin takes an appeal to the Senate, the Committee on Elections will hear the appeal and make a report, and then it will be up to the Senate to determine whether Mr. Levin should be a member of this Senate or not. In the meantime he should not be, and I say to the members of this Senate now, I cannot understand why Mr. Levin should be here at all until this matter is determined—he should say “I refuse to vote” or, “I do not care to vote; it is not proper for me to vote”—instead of spending a whole evening here trying to hold his seat here under this provision of the law.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, the Senator from Tioga has not answered my question. I do not think the question is whether Mr. Levin wants to sit idly by and see his reputation ruined for political purposes, that is not the question. I have no doubt Mr. Salus will be sworn in once this matter is determined, not because he did not suborn or offer bribes—and I have heard him say he did not do that, but when he is accused the same as Mr. Levin, then I say you will have to confirm one or the other.

It is of no concern to me that he states that, because there were witnesses there that said he did and the Court found he too was guilty. My question is, why will the Senate do that, what purpose can it serve if the committee can take no action on that subject unless the Senator from Philadelphia appeals to it.

Mr. OWLETT. Mr. President, it is inconceivable that the Senator from Philadelphia would not take the one action that is left to him after this decision. I cannot conceive that this long flow of words is going to be followed by an acceptance of this decision, and may I submit that the Senator from Philadelphia has hit on the very point we have been contending for? He suggests that it is not conceivable that we should permit Mr. Salus to be sworn in, in view of the court's decision holding that he is guilty of bribery, but in the same breath, Mr. President, he suggests that we permit Mr. Levin to sit here and vote regularly when he by the same court has been found guilty of that same thing.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, what I am trying to point out is that you might just as well know it now as later. Your action to set aside does not mean anything, because if the Senator returns here tomorrow or tonight and asks for the right to vote on any matter that comes up before this Senate, he has a perfect right to vote on it, even if set aside, because it does not mean anything. There is no such thing as setting aside a man who has been sworn in; you set aside a man who has not been sworn, so that he cannot be sworn. The only way you can properly or legally remove him is by a two-thirds vote if he has been sworn in.

If you do not do that he can continue and is entitled to his pay. If you take the position you are ousting him at least temporarily then you are doing with a constitutional majority that which you under the circumstances should do with a two-thirds majority.

I will follow this further. Suppose you pass this resolution and the Senator from Philadelphia does not appeal,—he does not have to appeal that decision. From his point of view he has been sworn in. How can you sit anybody in that seat until you get the seat vacant. You are only setting him aside. He is the one to make an appeal and if he does not appeal you are thrown back to the original proposition and you can only remove him by a two-thirds vote, and I say therefore the decent thing to do would be to appoint a special committee to which this report should be referred and a hearing held for the guidance of the Senate, and then we can act on the question of setting this man aside, on the question of removing him by a two-thirds majority vote.

You are not going to oust him temporarily—you say you are not going to pay his salary, you are not going to allow him to vote, you are not going to allow him to act as a Senator—you will not pay him his mileage; you will tell him he cannot get his mileage while he is stood aside,—it is ridiculous to say it is temporary. What the members of this Senate should know—is that when the Senator from Tioga said the only way is to oust him temporarily, he means after awhile—if you get the evidence and the votes—you will oust him permanently—that is what this means.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, do I understand the Senator from Tioga, in answer to the Senator from Philadelphia, to state that if Mr. Levin is set aside that he will not be permitted to vote on the question of his seat in the Senate? I want to make myself clear, because the Senator from Tioga, in his motion here, seeks to set aside the Senator from Philadelphia. I would like to know whether it is the intention of the Senator from Tioga that Mr. Levin will not be permitted to vote here on the question of his seat.

Mr. OWLETT. Mr. President, I think it is very questionable whether he has a right to, but I did not intend to raise that question.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, I raise it now.

Mr. OWLETT. Mr. President, I cannot say what any other member will do, but as far as I am concerned I do not intend to raise the question, although I do not think he has a right to vote on that question. I will be very glad to cite the law in reference to that if it is desired.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, I am entitled to have that understood, that I may vote intelligently. If this vote is carried will the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Levin, still be permitted to vote?

Mr. OWLETT. Mr. President, he will not be permitted to vote. I thought the inquiry was directed as to whether he could vote on this one question. Jefferson's Manual states as follows: "Where the private interests of a member are concerned in a bill or question he is to withdraw. And where such an interest has appeared, his voice has been disallowed, even after a division. In a case so contrary, not only to the laws of decency, but to the fundamental principle of the social contract, which denies to any man to be a judge in his own cause, it is for the honor of the house that this rule of immemorial observance should be strictly adhered to."

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, in 1871, the Senate Journal (as shown in Pennsylvania Manual, page 813) states this: "110. The speaker decided that an amendment directing that the name of a Senator, whose seat was contested, be omitted in calling the yeas and nays on the resolution before the Senate relating to the right of such Senator to a seat in that body, was not in order. An appeal was taken and laid on the table."

Then on page 127 (page 813 Pennsylvania Manual) of the same Journal we find this:

"A question of order was raised that a Senator should not vote upon a question affecting his seat in the Senate. The speaker submitted the question to the Senate, and it was decided that the question of order was not well taken."

In this particular case if Mr. Levin is set aside he will not be permitted to vote on the question of whether or not he shall sit in this Senate.

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, in view of the decisions I have just read, I rise to a point of order.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Fayette, Mr. Cavalcante, will state his point of order.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, my point of order is that the motion of the Senator from Tioga, Mr. Owlett, is out of order.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair rules that the point of order of the Senator from Fayette, Mr. Cavalcante, is not well taken.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. DENT and Mr. CAVALCANTE, and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—25

Bartlett,	Gelder,	Mallery,	Stevenson,
Chapman,	Geltz,	Miller,	Tallman,
Crowe,	Heyburn,	Cwlett,	Thomas,
Ealy,	Homsher,	Pierson,	Walker,
Edmonds,	James,	Scarlett,	Wolfenden,
Eroe,	Letzler,	Snowden,	Woodward,
Farrell,

NAYS—23

Cavalcante,	Gilson,	Lanius,	Rice,
Coleman,	Haluska,	Levin,	Ruth,
Dando,	Jacobs,	McCreesh,	Shapiro,
Dent,	Jaspan,	McGinnis,	Sipe,
DiSilvestro,	Kilgallen,	Mundy,	Stiefel,
Frey,	Kunkel,	Reed,

So the question was determined in the affirmative.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, I ask for a verification of the roll.

The roll was verified and was as follows:

The yeas were as follows: Messrs. Bartlett, Chapman, Crowe, Ealy, Edmonds, Ero, Farrell, Gelder, Geltz, Heyburn, Homsher, James, Letzler, Mallery, Miller, Owlett, Pierson, Scarlett, Snowden, Stevenson, Tallman, Thomas, Walker, Wolfenden, and Woodward.

The nays were as follows: Messrs. Cavalcante, Coleman, Dando, Dent, DiSilvestro, Frey, Gilson, Haluska, Jacobs, Jaspan, Kilgallen, Kunkel, Lanius, Levin, McCreesh, McGinnis, Mundy, Reed, Rice, Ruth, Shapiro, Sipe and Stiefel.

(The yeas were 25 and the nays 23)

So the question was determined in the affirmative.

QUESTION OF PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I rise to a question of parliamentary inquiry.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro, will state his question of parliamentary inquiry.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, is it not true that this vote requires a Constitutional majority. The act so requires that.

Mr. OWLETT. Mr. President, the Constitution provides that the Senate is the judge of its own members and this vote requires merely a majority of a quorum and not a Constitutional majority.

Mr. REED. Mr. President, Section 1749 is as follows: "No resolution deciding such questions shall be adopted, unless it shall receive the votes of a majority of all the members elected to the house considering the same."

Mr. OWLETT. Mr. President, the section which the Senator from Washington, Mr. Reed, reads from is the section which provides a vote when a committee reports after an election contest of the Senate. The section that the Senator reads from provides:

"Such petition, when presented, shall be referred to a standing committee on elections, which committee shall proceed to hear the claims of the contestant, and repondent, and report the facts and a resolution expressing the decision of the committee, for the consideration of the house; and the vote of the proper house on the claims of the contestant and respondent shall be final."

Now, Mr. President, when this final vote is taken as to whether or not the Senator will be permitted to retain his seat, it requires twenty-six votes to act on that resolution but this motion to stand aside only requires, I submit, a majority of those present.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, after interrogating the Senator from Tioga, and after he made the statement that the effect of this resolution is to oust this Senator from his seat temporarily, I think it comes in bad taste when you or anybody else decides that this act, which provides in order to oust permanently this man would require a constitutional majority—that you should now decide that only twenty-five votes, less than a constitutional majority, shall be sufficient to set this man aside temporarily. It shows what is being done here—if twenty-six votes cannot be obtained to oust a man, then these people ought to be satisfied and let well enough alone, and I serve notice now that unless they restore decent, good, parliamentary procedure here they will get no consideration from us—not from me, I know that.

Mr. OWLETT. Mr. President, a resolution to vote has been introduced.

The PRESIDENT. The next order of business is—

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, you have not ruled on the question.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I did not understand that. Did you decide that twenty-five votes will set that aside?

The PRESIDENT. I did.

APPEAL FROM DECISION OF THE CHAIR

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I appeal from the decision of the Chair—as much as I hate to—it is no reflection on you, sir.

The PRESIDENT. There is no reflection. Do I hear anybody second?

Mr. OWLETT. Mr. President, I suggest that the appeal is not in order.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I understand that, and I ask for a recess, in order to give me time.

Mr. OWLETT. Mr. President, I suggest that the point of order has not been raised in the regular way.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, I wish to interrogate the Senator from Tioga, Mr. Owlett.

The PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from Tioga, Mr. Owlett, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. OWLETT. Mr. President, I will.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, whenever the committee has finally decided on this question and made its report, will Mr. Levin be permitted to vote? That is what I want to know.

Mr. OWLETT. Mr. President, he will not be permitted to vote.

The PRESIDENT. There is now an appeal before the Senate.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, the Senator from Tioga, Mr. Owlett raised a point of order.

The PRESIDENT. There is an appeal before the Senate right now. There is no seconder. The appeal falls.

The PRESIDENT. Objection is made. The resolution will lie over.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, on my question of a recess, was there opposition to it? I asked that the Senate take a recess and I did not hear any objection to it. I asked for a recess of this Senate.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection?

Mr. OWLETT. Yes, Mr. President, I object.

The PRESIDENT. There is objection.

Mr. DENT. Mr. PRESIDENT, thank you.

PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE APPOINTS SENATE MEMBERS OF STATE WORLD'S FAIR COMMISSION

At this point I want to announce the following appointments by the President Pro Tempore to the New York World's Fair Commission:

The Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Woodward; the Senator from Lancaster, Mr. Pierson, and the Senator from Allegheny, Mr. Walker.

TIME OF NEXT MEETING

Mr. HEYBURN offered the following resolution, which was twice read:

In the Senate, February 27, 1939.

Resolved (if the House of Representatives concur), That when the Senate adjourns this week it reconvene on Monday evening, March 6, 1939, at nine o'clock; and when the House of Representatives adjourns this week it reconvene on Monday evening, March 6, 1939, at eight o'clock.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the resolution?

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, I object.

Mr. OWLETT. Mr. President, the adjournment resolution is a privileged resolution.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, setting the rules aside for a two-thirds vote, I object to its immediate consideration.

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. OWLETT. Mr. President, I rise to a point of order.

Mr. FREY. Mr. President, I object.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Tioga, Mr. Owlett, will state his point of order.

Mr. OWLETT. Mr. President, I rise to the point of order that an adjournment resolution is a privileged resolution and is not subject to debate.

The PRESIDENT. The point of order of the Senator from Tioga Mr. Owlett, is well taken.

And the question recurring.

Will the Senate agree to the resolution?

It was agreed to.

MOTION TO REFER COURT DECISION TO COMMITTEE ON ELECTIONS

Mr. OWLETT. Mr. President, I now move you that the certified copy of the decision of the court in the case of the contested election for Senator in the Second Senatorial District be referred to the Committee on Elections for study and report within one month.

The PRESIDENT. Is there a second?

Mr. EALY. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I want to call you attention to the following sections of the act under which the Senator from Tioga says he is proceeding.

"Section 1747. Appeal to Proper House; Requirements. Any claimant to a seat in either branch of the General Assembly, who shall feel aggrieved by the decision of the court in his case, may present his petition to the proper house within ten days after the meeting of the General Assembly, or within ten days after the election shall have been made in his case, if the General Assembly shall then be in session—". I said "election," but I meant "or within ten days after the decision shall have been made in his case, if the General Assembly shall then be in session, setting forth his claim, which petition shall have appended thereto the affidavit of the petitioner, setting forth that he believes that he was duly elected to the seat, and that the statements set forth in his petition are just and true, to the best of his knowledge and belief.

"Such petitions," Section 1748 reads, "when presented shall be referred to a standing committee on election, which committee shall proceed to hear the claims of the contestant and respondent, and report the facts and a resolution expressing the decision of the committee, for the consideration of the house; and the vote of the proper house on the claims of the contestant and respondent shall be final."

Now, this body has already decided that a temporary expulsion only needs twenty-five votes and a permanent one needs twenty-six votes. I am wondering what effect it will have if this body should decide to compel Mr. Levin to take an appeal from the decision of the court, even if he does not want to.

In other words, I am wondering whether or not the Senator from Philadelphia, if he wants to appeal, if he is going to send this appeal to the committee for their consideration and to ask us to act on it—I would like to know what action you propose to take. I would like, for myself, to have the record note that correctly.

Here is an act which says the Election Committee can only consider the matter if the contested member feels aggrieved and raises a question. Are you going through with that now, irrespective of that act? You can proceed to refer this judge's decision to the Committee and act on the decision alone. If you are going to do that, let us have that on the record.

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I have been making my statements in connection with a point of order. I now raise the suggestion that the motion of the Senator from Tioga is out of order and should be so declared.

The PRESIDENT. The point of order of the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro, is not well taken.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, may I have the motion read?

The PRESIDENT. The clerk will read the motion.

(The Stenographer read the motion as follows: "Mr. OWLETT. Mr. President, I now move you that the certified copy of the decision of the court in the case of the contested election for Senator in the Second Senatorial election district be referred to the Committee on Elections for study and report within one month.")

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, I rise to a point of order. If it is not well taken, you may overrule me.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Fayette, Mr. Cavalcante, will state his point of order.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, the point of order is that the motion of the Senator from Tioga is in violation of the rules of this Senate, and requires the suspension of the rules before such a motion may be entertained—in that the motion places duties upon the committee that are not placed upon it by the rules of this Senate. You may overrule it, but it is well taken.

The PRESIDENT. The point of order is not well taken.
Mr. KILGALLEN. Mr. President, do I understand the committee is merely getting a copy of the Order of the Court, and not the full opinion of the Court?

The PRESIDENT. The full opinion, I understand.
Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, does the Chair understand that this motion places the obligation upon the committee to make a report within thirty days?

Mr. PRESIDENT. It does.
Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, does the Chair say that all of that is not a violation of the rules of this Senate.

The PRESIDENT. It is not, and it is so ruled.
And the question recurring,
Will the Senate agree to the motion?
The yeas and nays were required by Mr. Cavalcante and Mr. Dent, and were as follows:

YEAS—25

Bartlett,	Gelder,	Mallery,	Stevenson,
Chapman,	Geltz,	Miller,	Tallman,
Crowe,	Heyburn,	Owlett,	Thomas,
Ealy,	Romsher,	Pierson,	Walker,
Edmonds,	James,	Scarlett,	Wolfenden,
Eroe,	Letzler,	Snowden,	Woodward,
Farrell,

NAYS—21

Cavalcante,	Haluska,	Lanius,	Rice,
Coleman,	Jacobs,	McCreesh,	Ruth,
Dando,	Jaspan,	McGinnis,	Shapiro,
Disi'vestro,	Kilgallen,	Mundy,	Sipe,
Frey,	Kunkel,	Reed,	Stiefel,
Gilson,

So the question was determined in the affirmative.
Mr. LEVIN. Mr. President, did I hear my name called?
The PRESIDENT. It was not.
Mr. LEVIN. Mr. President, I ask that it be called and that I be recorded as voting "No."
The PRESIDENT. Under the motion just adopted the Chair must rule that the gentleman will not be permitted to record his vote.

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, I rise to a point of order.
The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Fayette, Mr. Cavalcante, will state his point of order.
Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, under the Journal citation of 1897, page 803-811, a vote in this case is illegal and not sufficient for the adoption of the resolution of the Senator from Tioga, because the resolution imposes special work upon the Committee and two-thirds of those present have not voted in favor of the resolution.
The PRESIDENT. The Chair makes the same ruling—that the point of order is not well taken.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I rise to a question of personal privilege.
The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Westmoreland, Mr. Dent, will state his question of personal privilege.
Mr. DENT. Mr. President and members of the Senate, I heard the Senator from Tioga quote Jefferson's Manual a while ago when he said a majority of those present voted,

Now, the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Levin, whom I still believe to be a Senator, has asked that his name be called and that he be recorded as voting. The Republican members of the Senate have on numerous occasions called attention to rulings of the then Lieutenant-Governor Tom Kennedy on the action of the Democratic Senators setting aside the three members of the Republican party on January 2nd, and they in turn asked that their names be called on the roll.

This gentleman is in the same position as those three men were in, and I just want to know whether or not, if we were wrong then, they are wrong now; and I want to say frankly, Mr. President, that for years I have been attending conventions, and some of them get pretty rough, and I have seen some pretty fair examples of railroading, and I want to say to you that what we did on the second and third of January was child's play; and I want to say to you gentlemen on the other side, when the Senator from Tioga, Mr. Owlett said, "A plague on both your houses," he was right. I want to say here now to the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Levin, that if I were in his position I would come to my seat every day that this Senate is in session; I would insist upon my name being called on the roll call. What has been done illegally may be sustained in the courts of this land and the courts of Pennsylvania, and we have had some illustration of their sentiments here before. It is a disgrace in the eyes and hearts of the decent people of Pennsylvania.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. STIEFEL. Mr. President, I rise to a question of personal privilege.
The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Stiefel, will state his question of personal privilege.
Mr. STIEFEL. Mr. President, I have abstained from passing any remarks here this evening, and gained a perspective of what happened here. As I understand it, Mr. President, Abraham Lincoln said we shall have "a government of the people, by the people, for the people," but now we have changed that in Pennsylvania—it is government in Pennsylvania of the Republicans, by the Republicans and for the Republicans.

ADJOURNMENT

Mr. OWLETT. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now adjourn until Tuesday, February 28, 1939, at 2:00 o'clock, p. m.
Mr. EALY. Mr. President, I second the motion.
The motion was agreed to.
The Senate adjourned at 11:59 o'clock, p. m. until Tuesday, February 28, 1939, at 2:00 o'clock, p. m.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

MONDAY, February 27, 1939.

The House met at 8 p. m.
The SPEAKER (Ellwood J. Turner) in the Chair.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Rev. Walter Evans Deibler, offered the following prayer:
Almighty and Allwise God, we bow in humble recognition of Thy mercy and thank Thee for sparing our lives until this hour. We confess our confidence in the power of prayer. May we truly learn that "The effectual fervent prayer of the righteous man availeth much." During this month when we have celebrated the birthday of the great American George Washington, we thank Thee for the remembrance we have not only for the references to his statesmanship but to his devotional habits as well. May the instruction his mother gave him when he left home "My son, neglect not the duty of secret prayer" be more fervently heeded by the sons and daughters of America. We pray that we may not be merely figure-heads nor our prayers empty forms. Give, we beseech Thee, the guidance of Thy Spirit to all of the legislative activities confronting these Thy servants. Bless the Chief Executive of this Commonwealth in the performance of all his duties. Give to him and all who are associated with him the power to do right that peace, prosperity and happiness may prevail. We offer our prayer to Thee, O God, through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of Friday, February 10, 1939, when, on motion of Mr. HOYT the further reading was dispensed with and the Journal approved.

COMMUNICATION FROM THE GOVERNOR

The Secretary to the Governor being introduced, presented a communication in writing from His Excellency the Governor, which was read as follows:

BUDGET MESSAGE

Commonwealth of Pennsylvania,
Governor's Office, Harrisburg.

To the Honorable, the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania:

In compliance with Article VI of the Act of April 9, 1929, P. L. 177, I have the honor to lay before the General Assembly the State Budget for the fiscal biennium from June 1, 1939, to May 31, 1941.

The outstanding facts in the State's finances for the next two years are these: First, there is now a deficit of $50,000,000 in the general fund of which amount $42,000,000 must be paid out of, and constitutes a direct lien upon, the funds of the next biennium; secondly, there are $487,000,000 of General Fund obligations before us, including the deficit and new obligations imposed by law during the present biennium if we were to continue on the same scale of spending as I found when I came into office, and third, estimated revenues for the next two years, assuming the reenactment of all of the Earle emergency taxes, amount to $36,550,000—$121,450,000 short of the obligations. This shortage we propose to try to make up by economies in government and by other means without adding any new taxes.

When I came into office I found an immediate financial problem confronting me. Since the Governor takes office in January and the fiscal biennium does not end until the following May, it is necessary for each Governor to carry on the first four and one-half months of his administration with the appropriations, revenues and obligations left by his predecessor. Therefore, an administration can be said to extend, as far as fiscal affairs are concerned, not four years from the inauguration but four years from the first of June succeeding the inauguration. During these months, then, until June first, the possibilities in administration of the State's fiscal affairs are controlled by the assets and liabilities which the preceding administration has left.

I find that the Earle Administration in the 1937-1939 biennium appropriated $2,704,000 more than it had to appropriate. The estimated cash to be received for the months of January to May amounts to $125,225,000 and the liabilities, $127,929,000. Thus the liabilities exceed the cash by $2,704,000. This amount together with other obligations unprovided for, by appropriation or by cash, amount to a deficit of $50,095,000. Of this, $43,000,000 is for public assistance and $4,391,000 is for departmental deficiencies. It now appears that $43,000,000 will not be sufficient for public assistance to the end of the biennium but no final accurate estimate can be made at this time.

Our first problem is to meet these obligations. Some of this provision has been made by means of legislation which you have already passed. Other provision has been made by budgetary action which I have taken, upon which no legislation is needed. The whole program is set forth as follows:

1. Temporary transfers from special funds have been made in order to provide cash immediately needed:
a. Motor License Fund	$26,000,000
b. Liquor License Fund	4,000,000
c. Liquid Fuels Tax Fund	3,000,000
d. State Insurance Fund	1,000,000
e. Fire Insurance Tax Fund	1,500,000
2. Immediate and stringent reductions made in departmental budgets in order to reduce appropriation liabilities	1,750,000
3. Additional reductions in appropriations by stopping expenditures wherever possible	6,150,000
4. Postponement of certain of the departmental deficiencies until 1939-1941	2,810,000
5. Additional temporary transfers from the Motor License Fund to be made	3,885,000
Total	$ 50,095,000

The program I have recited will enable you to meet temporarily the deficit which the past administration left when it went out of office and to appropriate for public assistance and for other pressing departmental deficiencies $10,581,000, in addition to the $34,000,000 you have already appropriated.

The special funds transferred represent a lien on the revenues for the first biennium of my administration. This practice of financing each biennium in part by borrowing some of the revenues of the following biennium through the medium of a temporary transfer from special funds began four years ago and has continued each biennium since then. Some of the obligations of each of the three bienniums have been met in this way. At the close of the 1933-1935 biennium, the General Fund owed to special funds $16,443,000. At the close of the present biennium, the amount owed to special funds will be at least $39,385,000. This method of financing, while legal, is undesirable. So far as the Motor License Fund is concerned the moneys borrowed represent the cash from the annual licensing of automobiles and operators and liquid fuels tax, most of which is needed for road maintenance and construction in the summer and fall. By that time the General Fund will have repaid what it owes. In the case of the other funds the situation is different. The laws provide that these funds shall be distributed at certain times to the municipalities. In fixing their budgets, the municipalities take into consideration the receipt of this cash at the distribution time set by law. The postponement of this distribution for several months upon short notice disarranges municipal budgets and forces them to borrow and pay interest. I dislike these transfers but I regard them as less evil than the levying of taxes of a nature which would produce the immediate cash.

Turning to the next biennium we find the finances have been made most difficult in a number of ways:

1. The General Fund deficit of $50,095,000 for the 1937-1939 biennium bequeathed to us, excepting as we can reduce it by economies between now and May 31st, will have to be carried over to the next biennium. The deficiency requests outside of public assistance which we have inherited amount to $4,391,000. I am recommending what appropriations be made to cover $1,581,000 of these deficiencies in this biennium, (See Page 14), and I am asking the Legislature to provide for $2,810,000 of the deficiencies in the Budget for 1939-1941 because we cannot make the funds available during this present biennium. Because a share of the funds to meet the deficit, approximately $7,900,000, is being provided by stopping expenditures under appropriations now made wherever possible and by reducing the payroll and other expenditures for governmental operations far below what existed during the past administration, the deficit be carried forward to the next biennium will be reduced by that amount. In other words, we are taking care of financing 16 per cent of the deficiency appropriations including assistance by shutting off expenditures and by economies in the last four months of this biennium. Because we are taking care of $7,900,000 of the deficiency in this manner, only the balance, $42,195,000, will have to be carried forward into the next biennium.

2. The cost of the State Government has been built up to the point where existing appropriations and deficiency requests from the General Fund for the 1937-1939 biennium amount to about $414,000,000, an increase of $181,000,000, or 78 per cent over appropriations for 1933-1935, the two-year period immediately preceding the Democratic Administration.

3. During the past four years through the medium of the General State Authority the debt of the State in effect was increased by about $60,000,000 which will require interest and sinking fund payments in the form of rentals just the same as if that amount of money was borrowed directly. An outlay of $7,687,000 is provided in the Budget for these rentals. The net bonded indebtedness of the State was $138,136,928 at the beginning of the Democratic Administration. Sinking fund payments reduced this to $106,404,265 by the end of the Administration. The addition of the State Authority bonds in reality raised the net debt at the end of the Administration to $166,000,000. There was, therefore, an increase in the State's indebtedness of 56 per cent over what the debt would have been at the end of this biennium had the State Authority obligations not been imposed.

4. And, more than that, during this last two-year period, other new obligations were imposed upon the State amounting to approximately $24,000,000, without establishing any sources of revenue to take care of them.

This means then that with the deficit carried over which we must take care of in the next biennium, with the greatly expanded State Government, and with the new additional obligations imposed, we are confronted with obligations of at least $487,000,000 for the next two-year period if we should conduct the State Government on the 1937-1939 plane.

Now what has the outgoing Administration left in the way of estimated income to meet this $487,000,000 of obligations? The old taxes and normal income sources are estimated to yield $202,550,000. The Earle emergency taxes, which I regret to say I must recommend be reenacted for reasons I have already made clear in the message, are estimated to yield $163,000,000 making a total estimated income in the amount of $365,550,000. This is $121,450,000 short of meeting the $487,000,000 of obligations.

How to overcome this huge shortage is the big financial problem ahead of us. The policy which I recommend is to do it without adding to the tax burden and to do that I need the full cooperation of the Legislature, the State departments, all agencies which receive appropriations, and the people of the Commonwealth. Provision must be made for the necessary State services, relief and other public assistance, but I am determined that, if humanly possible, we are going to turn around and face the other direction toward lower cost of government and toward lower taxes upon the citizens of the Commonwealth.

The first method which we have already undertaken to make up this shortage is to reduce the cost of government and we are going ahead with that as rapidly as possible and not waiting until next June 1st, the beginning of the new biennium.

I am asking the departments under my jurisdiction to reduce their expenditures an average of 20 per cent by rooting out all unnecessary expansion and putting the State Government on a sensible economical basis. Since I came into office, we have abolished more than 2,000 entirely unnecessary positions. In the Department of Revenue the number of employees had increased from 1,141 in 1934 to 1,961 in 1938. In the Department of Highways the number increased from a high of 2,634 in 1934 to a high point of 3,817 in 1938. The number of employees in the Public Utility Commission in 1934 was 179 and went up to a high of 797 at the time when I came into office—and so it went. Some increase perhaps was necessary but this went far beyond reason.

Second, I recommend that some of the new obligations which have been imposed during this past Administration be postponed. Numerous laws have been passed calling for increased State expenditures, some of which are worthy laws in themselves but which increase the cost of government beyond what the taxpayers can afford at the present time when they have this tremendous public assistance burden to carry.

I recommend that the effective date of the following acts be postponed for a two-year period.

Number of Act	Date of Act	Public Instruction Relating to
485	July 1, 1937	Supervisors of Special Education
483	July 1, 1937	Transportation
141	May 7, 1937	High School Tuition
Number of Act	Date of Act	Welfare Relating to
21	Sept. 29, 1938	The Commonwealth taking over County Mental Hospitals (Postponement to apply to all except Philadelphia State Hospital)
25	Oct. 11, 1938	Relieving the counties of Payment for Maintenance of Indigent Insane, Feeble-minded and Epileptics in State Institutions

If this program is adopted, we will then have estimated appropriations for the biennium 1939-1941, outside of public assistance, in the amount of $200,780,000 which it should be noted includes $13,000,000 of new obligations arising from the State Authority program. Without these obligations the amount would be $187,780,000 (See Page 16). This $200,780,000 with the $52,200,000 deficit carried over constitutes a total of $242,980,000. Estimated revenues, if the program recommended above is adopted, amount to $372,000,000 (pages 4 and 52). There will then remain $129,000,000 available for appropriation for public assistance. You should observe here that were it not for the fact we have to provide for a deficit of $42,200,000 in the next biennium we would have $171,200,000 available for public assistance and if the new obligations amounting to $13,000,000 had not been imposed we would have been able to appropriate a total of $184,200,000.

The total amount appropriated for public assistance at the Regular Session of the Legislature two years ago for the 1937-1939 biennium was $138,650,000. That amount was exhausted early in November. An appropriation of $25,000,000 was made at the 1938 Special Session. That amount was exhausted January 20th. Additional appropriations of $12,000,000 and $22,000,000 have been made by this Session bringing the total amount appropriated to date for this biennium to $197,650,000.

Since December, the public assistance expenditures have been increasing. The weekly case load for general assistance has been as follows:

Week Ending	Cases
December 3, 1938	204,059
January 7, 1939	229,186
February 4, 1939	250,203
February 18, 1939	255,774

Due to the unpredictability of the factors affecting public assistance, estimating the amount necessary to be provided for the 1939-1941 biennium is extremely difficult. As already stated, there is, under existing taxes, assuming the emergency taxes to be reenacted, $129,000,000 available for public assistance. I ask the Legislature to make an appropriation in that amount. This $129,000,000 appropriation is available under an estimate of revenue which we consider a conservative estimate. If there should be substantial business improvement revenues could be expected to exceed that estimate and within the next two years there is the possibility of additional revenue from inheritance taxes and others beyond that now included in the estimate. Moreover, I intend that the economy program which we have started will be continued and all possible savings are going to be made to make unappropriated funds available. There is, in other words, the possibility of additional funds being available for appropriation during the next two years and, if the Legislature finds it within its province to make an additional appropriation contingent upon funds being available and contingent upon the need for an additional appropriation, I recommend that you take such action. If such action is taken and the funds are available it will avoid the calling of a Special Session to appropriate the funds for public assistance.

This $129,000,000 assistance appropriation can be increased to $132,000,000 if the General Assembly sees fit to amend the Blind Pension Act to take advantage of Federal aid available.

In order to carry out the program mentioned above some drastic reductions in governmental operations are recommended. For the departments under my jurisdiction I recommended $26,376,000. The amount appropriated for the 1937-1939 biennium is $32,900,000. I intend to operate these departments with total appropriations 20 per cent less than the total appropriations to the departments during the present biennium.

Auditor General and Treasury

The request of the Auditor General for $1,480,000 for salaries and expenses and of the Treasury for $700,000 for the same purpose have been included in the Budget unchanged. These are the same amounts as were appropriated to these departments during the current biennium. They are independent officers not under my jurisdiction.

The total appropriations of $16,100,000 recommended to the Treasury Department to pay sinking fund and interest includes an amount of $2,900,000 to pay interest on tax anticipation notes. With relief demands expected to be heavy at the beginning of the next biennium when income collections are lightest, tax notes must be resorted to on a somewhat larger scale than before. In addition to the $16,100,000 recommended to the Treasury Department, I recommend an appropriation of $7,687,000 to the Department of Property and Supplies to pay State Authority leases. Since this money is used to pay interest and amortization of the State Authority bonds it can be considered as an increase in the State debt service bringing the total appropriations for such purpose to $23,787,000 as against $15,375,000 during the 1937-1939 biennium.

I recommend total appropriations of $1,582,000 to the State Employees' Retirement Fund. The Retirement Board requests this $940,000 increase over the appropriations for 1937-1939 principally because of the organization of the Department of Public Assistance with its 7,500 employees during 1937-1939.

I recommend further that the State Employees' Retirement Board be transferred back to the Department of State from which it was transferred by the 1937 Session.

Agriculture

I recommend an appropriation of $1,000,000 for animal indemnities. The department informs me that the testing allowed by an appropriation this size will permit all testing to be made in six years. This will permit the testing for Bang's disease to be completed more speedily than the testing for tuberculosis was done.

Banking

I recommend $100,000 for the registration of security dealers and salesmen. This will suffice if the work is made an administrative function of the Department of Banking. At present it is conducted by a board of three members.

Flood Control

An appropriation was made for flood control in 1937 in the amount of $4,900,000. It is estimated that the total expenditures, including commitments to May 31st of this year, will amount to approximately $1,830,000. A bill now before you would, if passed, reduce the amount appropriated to $2,000,000. There would then remain a balance from this appropriation and an appropriation made in 1936 of $384,000 for flood control work in the next biennium. It is expected that this balance will be sufficient to cover administration and other necessary costs in completing projects undertaken. I recommend the passage of this bill now before you reducing the appropriations to $2,000,000 because it is an essential part of our plan of providing funds for public assistance for the remainder of this biennium.

Health

I recommend an appropriation of $2,600,000 to the Department of Health for salaries and expenses as compared with $2,893,500 in the present biennium. The department will present legislation for your consideration to modernize and make more effective its operations throughout the State.

Included in this is an amount of $100,000 for pneumonia control. This will provide a valuable addition to the department's present services in furnishing anti-toxins for the control of disease.

Sanatoria and Crippled Children's Hospital

The Budget provides a total of $4,400,000 for maintenance of patients in the sanatoria and Crippled Children's Hospital. This will provide 487,640 days' care in addition to the 1,916,250 days provided in the present biennium. It will provide for the occupancy of all the State Authority construction at these institutions with the exception of Butler. I propose that the sanatorium at Butler be not occupied during the coming biennium. The entire present waiting list of sufferers from tuberculosis can be amply accommodated at the present sanatoria. To occupy the Butler institution would be an unjustifiable expense.

Justice

There is an appropriation of $100,000 recommended to this department in the Budget to defray the expenses of the Grand Jury investigation in Dauphin County into the activities of State officers during the past Administration. I recommend this item because this Grand jury investigation involves the State Government. In this it is distinct from the purely local county affairs for which the past Administration spent State funds.

Labor and Industry

I am recommending an appropriation of $2,500,000 for this department for general salaries and expenses compared with an appropriation of $3,363,300 for the present biennium. When I came into office I found expenditures being made at a rate that would have gone beyond that appropriation and would have resulted in a deficiency of $150,000. Reductions were made immediately to remedy that condition. The amount I am recommending will permit the essential functions of that department to be carried on in a sensible economical manner.

Military Affairs

The Budget carries an increase of $273,000 for National Guard and armory maintenance. This is required by the 20 new armories built by the State Authority during the past Administration.

Property and Supplies

An item of $7,687,000 is provided for leases on State Authority buildings. I have already discussed it in connection with the other appropriations for debt service made to the Treasury Department.

Public Instruction

I am recommending essentially the same amounts of appropriations to this department as were appropriated in 1937-1939. In order that the recommended amounts may be adequate, it will be necessary to postpone the effective date of certain school legislation passed by the 1937 Session which called for additional outlay without regard to where the funds could be found.

Public Utility Commission

I am recommending an appropriation of $1,901,000 for the Public Utility Commission for the next two years. The appropriation for the Commission for the present biennium was $3,001,000 as compared with an appropriation of $1,443,650 in 1935-1937. The appropriation requested by the Commission for the next biennium is $3,250,000. When I came into office I found the Commission had gone the limit in loading up with unnecessary employees and I asked them to revise their budget downward. They have made a start, dismissing 247 unnecessary employees, but I feel certain they have much to do yet in getting down to a reasonable basis.

Welfare

The total recommended institutional appropriations of $29,900,000 are an increase of $5,400,000 over the appropriations for 1937-1939. This increase will be needed to pay the maintenance costs of patients in the Philadelphia State Hospital and the State Authority buildings at the other institutions. The following table will show the increase.

Type of Institution	1939-1941		1939-1941
	Normal Occupancy	Additional Day's Occupancy
Medical and Surgical	794,000	51,000	128,000
Mental	11,435,000	5,180,000	4,500,000
Mental Defectives and Epileptics	4,275,000	939,000	710,000
Penal and Correctional	5,359,000	233,000	125,000

I am recommending that the acquisition of the county mental hospitals, other than the Philadelphia Hospital, by the State be postponed.

In anticipation of your approval an amount is included in the Budget to pay these hospitals the $2.00 per patient per week as heretofore.

Nothing is included in the Budget for opening the Maximum Security Prison at Mt. Gretna or the Industrial School at White Hill.

The effective date of the 1938 act relieving the counties of payment for the maintenance of indigent insane, feeble-minded and epileptics in State institutions should be postponed as I have recommended. The State cannot afford to assume the whole maintenance cost this biennium when it has the tremendous public assistance burden to carry.

State-aided Hospitals and Homes

The recommended appropriations are in the same total amount as the present appropriations.

Department of Commerce

One of the chief aims of this Administration is to promote business recovery and, therefore, I recommend that you establish a Department of Commerce to aid in carrying out that purpose. It will be the duty of this new department to strive to halt the flight of industry from Pennsylvania and to bring back to our State industries which already have left. More specifically, as stated in my Inaugural Address, I recommend that you empower this new department to do the following:

First, provide means whereby the advantages of Pennsylvania as an industrial State may be pointed out to those seeking sites for their industries; second, provide an opportunity for public hearings for complaints of adverse industrial conditions in the State; and third, provide a means whereby specific recommendations may emanate for the remedy or improvement of conditions affecting the expansion of business and industry. Furthermore, I recommend that this department take over the work of the State Publicity Commission.

A bill is now being prepared by the Attorney General for the creation of this new department and will be presented for your consideration within a few days.

Deficiency Appropriations

In addition to the $43,000,000 provided in this Budget for assistance to complete the biennium, I recommend certain other deficiency appropriations as follows:

To the Lieutenant Governor for contingent expenses—$2,000. The preceding Lieutenant Governor had a larger contingent appropriation than ever before. In addition to this he received an additional amount in the 1938 Special Session. In spite of it, he left a balance of only a few dollars when he went out of office.

To the Department of Justice—$75,000. This is in addition to deficiency appropriations totalling $50,000 received at the Special Session last fall. This is the price of side trips into purely local county affairs by the department during the last administration.

To the Department of Welfare—$1,045,000 for the operation of the Philadelphia State Hospital until May 31, 1939. The 1938 Special Session provided that it be taken over but neglected to provide the funds.

To the Municipal Court of Philadelphia—$79,000 to pay salaries of Judges. The laws of the 1937 Session abolishing the Court and creating the Family Court were declared invalid.

To the Department of Property and Supplies for legislative supplies and printing—$380,000. This makes a total of $880,000 provided for this purpose during the present biennium.

I recommend other deficiency appropriations in the amount of $60,000 to the Department of Forests and Waters for control of forest fires and $1,650,000 to the Department of Public Instruction for school subsidies. A total of $1,100,000 for furniture and equipment for the buildings now being completed by the State Authority should be appropriated to the Departments of Health, Public Instruction and Welfare.

Highways

I feel that the members of the General Assembly should give attention to our highway responsibilities and finances. The highways are constructed and maintained solely through the revenues collected in the Motor License Fund, which consist principally of the automobile licenses and gasoline tax levy. In the 1939-1941 biennium there is an estimated amount of $133,200,000 available for the Highway Department as compared with $166,120,000 in 1937-1939.

In 1928-1929 there were 13,130 miles of highways for which the State was solely responsible. At present there are 40,482 miles. The system has been expanded to include more miles of State highways, thousands of miles of rural roads, city and borough streets, bridges formerly maintained by counties, boroughs and townships, and property damage due to road construction and relocation.

Because of this increased responsibility the Department of Highways was required to spend for road maintenance and the operation of the department in the year 1938-39 approximately $55,000,000 as against $17,500,000 in 1928-1929.

The types of rural road construction done in the intervening years and the necessary improvement of permanently constructed roads, because of modern traffic conditions, resulted in an expenditure of approximately $30,000,000 for reconstruction in the year 1938-39 compared with $7,000,000 in 1928-1929. This item of reconstruction will rapidly increase in the next ten years, as roads constructed largely from bond funds from 1918 to 1927 reach the end of their economic life and require replacement.

Because the requirements for funds for maintenance and reconstruction are so heavy, the amount available for new highway construction has been declining from $33,500,000 in 1928-1929 to $19,000,000 in 1938-39.

I cite these figures in order to call to your attention a condition which it seems to me needs consideration and intelligent planning.

Department of Revenue—Motor License Fund

For the operations of the Department of Revenue in collecting Motor License Fund receipts and conducting safety activities in conjunction with the Pennsylvania Motor Police to reduce the accident toll on our highways, I recommend that a total of $4,705,000 be appropriated from the Motor Fund. This is $1,542,000 less than the amount allocated during the current biennium for these activities. Elimination of unnecessary personnel and wasteful expenditures of many kinds will permit the job to be done with the total I recommend.

I have not included in the recommended appropriation to the Department of Revenue from the Motor License Fund any amount for the issuance of gasoline pump licenses. I feel sure that you will want to repeal the act imposing this license.

During the present biennium a total of $1,435,000 has been taken from the Motor Fund for the purposes of aeronautics. Included in this is an amount of $1,076,750 for airports and other construction and $358,250 for the operation of the Bureau of Aeronautics. I shall not be ready for a recommendation of the amount to be appropriated for this purpose until I have had a report upon the investigation into the affairs of this bureau now being made.

The solution of these grave financial problems requires the most intensive study and thought of the Members of the General Assembly and, as Governor, I seek your earnest cooperation to relieve the men and women of our State from the heavy burden of governmental cost which is upon us.

Respectfully submitted,

ARTHUR H. JAMES.

The SPEAKER. The Budget Message will be printed in full in the Journal and the Ninth Biennial Budget will be filed with the Chief Clerk.

STATEMENT BY MR. WOODSIDE

Mr. WOODSIDE asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, it has been seventeen days since this Legislature met in formal session. Since there were numerous false rumors concerning the recess I deem it advisable to state briefly the origin, purpose and accomplishment of the recess.

At a meeting of the President Pro Tempore of the Senate, the Speaker of the House and the two majority floor leaders it was suggested that we suspend formal sessions for a period of two weeks intensive work on Legislation and the formation of the majority party program. The Governor was consulted and the matter submitted to the Republican Caucuses of the House and Senate, and approved.

It was not new to have a recess in the midst of a session, for during the Special Session of 1938, a vacation of twenty-seven days was taken. Furthermore, it is the custom of this House during the month of February to meet only two days a week. We would therefore normally have met only four times during the past two weeks. During the week that we adjourned we met five days, so that we actually suspended only one formal session of the House by taking the recess.

For many years both under Republican and Democratic Administrations, either the Governor or party chieftains, or both, handed to the Legislature their program with the demand that it be "rubber stamped." The duty of the Administration members of this House and the Senate was not to consider or help formulate the program, but to pass it. The attitude of the present Governor towards the Legislature and his recognition of its rights, its duties and its prerogatives has made possible the re-establishment of the Legislature as an actual functioning branch of the Government.

One of the greatest safeguards to American Democracy is the separation of the three branches of Government. Copying the Dictatorships of Europe, the National and State Government of this country have been functioning less and less as Legislative Governments. Governor James recognized that the Legislators have a proper place in this Government. He has therefore co-operated with the Legislature in the formation of a Republican party program. Neither he nor the Republican State Chairman have, or I think, intend to put before this body any "Must" legislation.

It has been suggested that we should have appointed Democratic members of the House to these Special Committees. This State has Party Government, and the Republican Party is charged with the responsibility of a Legislative program. In the formation of the Republican Party program the Democrats should have no part. All of the program which will be finally translated into bills and naturally be introduced into the House will receive the consideration of the entire membership, both in committee and on the floor.

I hope that we will not only have the criticism of the minority but that we will have their advice and constructive suggestions. We invite them and we encourage them, and when they are good we propose to accept them.

During the past two weeks these special committees have worked diligently and intelligently. A vast mass of information has been collected and a number of specific suggestions will result. The work is not completed but is to be continued with the co-operation of the Republican members in formulating a Republican party program, and I trust with the co-operation of the entire membership in the enactment of Legislation of which all of us can be proud.

STATEMENT BY MR. ACHTERMAN

Mr. ACHTERMAN asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker and members of the House, it is rather a rare occasion when the House is privileged to hear two apologies in such a short period of time. I refer first to the apology of the Governor of Pennsylvania, when he apologizes, not only to this House, but to all the people of Pennsylvania, that he cannot reduce taxes. The second apology is that of the majority floor leader, the gentleman from Dauphin, Mr. Woodside, when he apologizes for the inactivities of the House, particularly the Republican members of the House, in the last two weeks time.

Mr. Speaker and members of the House, it strikes me that after all we ought not to have these apologies. The Democratic party has known for a long time that we had a program, that we knew how the taxes should be raised, and it has now simmered down to one definite, certain fact: the Democratic party pointed out the way in 1937 and Arthur James, the Governor of Pennsylvania, and the Republican party can point to no better way.

STATEMENT BY MR. WOODSIDE

Mr. WOODSIDE asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I am pleased to learn that the minority is going to support the tax program suggested by the Governor.

COMMUNICATION FROM THE GOVERNOR

The Secretary to the Governor being introduced, presented a communication in writing from His Excellency the Governor, which was read as follows:

APPROVAL OF HOUSE BILL NO. 181.

Commonwealth of Pennsylvania,
Governor's Office, Harrisburg, February 10, 1939

To the Honorable, the House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania:

I have the honor to inform you that I have this day approved and signed House Bill No. 181, Printer's No. 11, entitled, "An Act making a deficiency appropriation to the Department of Public Assistance for the purpose of carrying out the Public Assistance Law for the two fiscal years ending May thirty-first one thousand nine hundred and thirty-nine."

ARTHUR H. JAMES.

BILL ON SECOND READING

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the second reading and consideration of House Bill No. 92, entitled

An Act to prohibit assessments and demands for contributions for political purposes and providing a penalty

The first section was read as follows:

The General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania hereby enacts as follows

Section 1 It shall be unlawful for any political committee or any member employe or agent thereof or for any public officer or employe or any other person whatsoever directly or indirectly to demand from any public officer subordinate or employe holding any office or position of honor trust or profit under this Commonwealth or otherwise engaged or employed in the service of the Commonwealth or employed by or in any way engaged in the service of any political subdivision or from any person receiving any public assistance whatsoever from the Commonwealth or the United States directly or through employment on public works or any person association or corporation desiring or having a contract with or a certificate license or permit from the Commonwealth or any political subdivision any assessment or percentage of any money or profit or their equivalent in any thing of value with the understanding express or implied that the same may be used shall be used for political purposes Provided however That nothing in this act contained shall be construed to prohibit voluntary contributions to any political committee or organization for legitimate political and campaign purposes to the extent such contributions are not prohibited by law

On the question,

Will the House agree to the section?

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, I desire to offer the following amendment.

The SPEAKER. The amendment will be read by the Clerk.

The amendment was read by the Clerk as follows:

Amend section 1, page 2, line 8 by inserting after the word "used" and before the word "shall" the word: "or"

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendment?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the section as amended?

Mr. LONG. Mr. Speaker, I desire to offer the following amendments.

The SPEAKER. The amendments will be read by the Clerk.

The amendments were read by the Clerk as follows:

Amend Sec. 1, page 1, line 4, by inserting after the word "demand" the following: "or accept"

Amend Sec. 1, page 2, line 5, by inserting after the word "assessment" the following: "contribution"

Amend Sec. 1, page 2, line 8, by striking out the words: "shall be used"

Amend Sec. 1, page 2, lines 9 to 14, both inclusive, by striking out: "all of said lines".

On the question,

Will the House agree to the section?

Mr. LONG. Mr. Speaker, I desire to offer the following amendments.

The SPEAKER. The amendments will be read by the Clerk.

The amendments were read by the Clerk as follows:

Amend Sec. 1, page 1, line 4, by inserting after the word "to" the following: "assess"

Amend Sec. 1, page 1, line 4, by inserting after the word "demand" the following: "or solicit"

Amend Sec. 1, page 2, line 5, by inserting after the word "assessment" the following: "contribution"

Amend Sec. 1, page 2, line 8, by striking out the words: "shall be used"

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendments?

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, I request the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Long, to explain the effect of the amendments.

Mr. LONG. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I have proposed two sets of amendments. The first would make it illegal, not only to demand political assessments, but also to accept political assessments from jobholders and the people under obligation. The second set would make it illegal not only to demand but to solicit from jobholders, holders of contracts, licenses and other people under obligation, contributions or assessments for political purposes.

I believe that the most effective amendment we can put in this act would be the acceptance of an amendment whereby all political assessments against those on the public pay rolls and those under obligation, due to license and other reasons, could be presented. The first set of amendments would absolutely prevent this. The second set of amendments which forbids solicitation, would hamper and in effect really mean that the demand for political assessments shall cease. The solicitation of funds by the bosses from jobholders or from anyone else politically responsible is in effect a demand for funds. A solicitation by a political superior, no matter how sugarcoated that request may be is nevertheless a demand for a political assessment. If we really want to make the act effective, if we really wish to prevent political assessments, so far as it is possible to do such a thing by law, I ask all the members of the House, regardless of their political affiliations, to vote for these amendments in order to give a real anti-macing act to this administration.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, for over fifty years it has been the policy of this Commonwealth to prohibit political demands for funds from employees of the Commonwealth. For forty-two years, while the Republican party had control of either branch of this Legislature, such Legislation was upon the statute books and no effort was made to remove it. In effect the Republican party said by that legislation, "We do not look with favor upon demands made upon those people who are employed by the Commonwealth; we do not look with favor upon political assessments. We will permit, however, voluntary contributions, if no force is used upon the person making them." For forty-two years that was the policy of the Republican Party, but the first time the Democratic party got control of the two branches of this Legislature and the Governorship they repealed that act and the reason for doing this was very clearly seen in the 1938 election and the scandal which has resulted therefrom.

It comes with poor grace for that side of the House to now say that they not only favor the enactment of legislation which would prohibit the assessing and demanding of political funds from employees or from the people who deal with the state, but also that they would not permit voluntary contributions to be made by any of those people. I have the greatest respect for the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Long. I think he actually offered this amendment with sincerity, being probably ashamed of the action of his own party during the campaign of 1938, but I say it comes with bad grace from the Democratic side of the House to now offer an amendment of this type to this bill and I ask the House to vote it down.

Mr. LONG. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, first of all I would like to have is distinctly understood that this amendment emanated from myself alone. Political parties, regardless of their name, do not sponsor such legislation unless forced to do so. The Republican party of Pennsylvania has made an issue of anti-macing, a real issue and an effective political issue. Now is the time to remedy the evil. I do not condone political assessments, regardless of the people who levy them upon the unfortunate jobholders of the Commonwealth. For over forty years, as the gentleman from Dauphin just said, political demands or assessments for political purposes were not looked upon with favor in this Commonwealth. However, they were not prevented nor was any effort made that I know of or that anyone has ever called to my attention, to prevent or to actually obstruct political assessments in this Commonwealth.

I come from a county where political assessment has been developed to a science. The Philadelphia Republican organization has developed the assessment of jobholders to a point where I do not believe it can be much improved upon. However, I think we have had enough discussion on partisan issues in this case. This is clearly not a partisan issue. I wish to appeal to the members of this House, who have served with me in the past and who know that I mean what I say, and I also wish to appeal to the new members, many of whom were elected because of public aversion to the charges of political assessment. I wish you to stand by the people who were interested in supporting you, remove the evil and do not condone it by going back to the old days when they looked upon political assessment with favor. Do not look upon them with favor. Let us do away with them. Let us outlaw them. I do not think there are many responsible political leaders in Pennsylvania today, in the present public state of mind, who would dare to come out publicly in favor of assessments by either party. I believe it is the consensus of opinion of the vast majority of people in this Commonwealth, regardless of politics, or any other consideration, that now is the time, once and for all, to bury political assessments in this Commonwealth.

Mr. Speaker, I would ask that the amendment preventing the acceptance, as well as the demanding of political assessments, be voted upon first, and Mr. Speaker, I ask for a roll call.

The amendments were read the second time as follows:

Amend Sec. 1, page 1, line 4, by inserting after the word "demand" the following: "or accept"

Amend Sec. 1, page 2, line 5, by inserting after the word "assessment" the following: "contribution"

Amend Sec. 1, page 2, line 8, by striking out the words: "shall be used"

Amend Sec. 1, page 2, lines 9 to 14, both inclusive, by striking out: "all of said lines"

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the amendments?

The yeas and nays were required by Messrs. Long, Harkins, and Holland and were as follows:

So the question was determined in the negative and the amendments were not agreed to.

REASON FOR VOTE

Mr. KANE filed the following reason for his vote.

Reasons for voting "no" on House Bill No. 92. While patronage has been detrimental rather than helpful to the political parties which have held it as is well shown by the fact that when the Republicans had the State and Federal governments they lost the presidency. When they controlled the State they lost the governorship. When the democrats controlled Federal and State governments they lost the State of Pennsylvania. There is no reason why a state employee who is making his livelihood by reason of employment gained through his party should not voluntarily support it and be expected to do so. As a matter of fact the only way parties can get rid of domination by a few wealthy contributors is to keep the way open for many small sustaining contributions.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the Section as amended?

The amendments were read the second time as follows:

Amend Sec. 1, page 1, line 4, by inserting after the word "to" the following: "assess"

Amend Sec. 1, page 1, line 4, by inserting after the word "demand" the following: "or solicit"

Amend Sec. 1, page 2, line 5, by inserting after the word "assessment" the following: "contribution"

Amend Sec. 1, page 2, line 8, by striking out the words: "shall be used"

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendments?

Mr. LONG. I would like to direct the members' attention to the fact that the amendments which we have just voted down would have prevented not only the demanding but also the acceptance of political assessments. We are now about to vote upon the alternative set of amendments which would provide that not only shall demands upon job holders be illegal, but also solicitation of job holders by political committees and superiors would also be illegal. The first set of amendments would have prevented voluntary contributions. However, this second set of amendments would merely prevent the solicitation of funds for political purposes from job holders and those under obligations, by their superiors, and would not prevent voluntary contributions. Those of you who voted against the first set of amendments, because they might have impinged upon their constitutional right to use their money as they saw fit, are at liberty to vote for this set of amendments, because this set does not in any way prevent voluntary contributions. However, it does insure to a certain extent the fact that they shall be voluntary. These amendments would make a real anti-macing act of the James anti-macing bill. I believe that the Governor is sincere in his effort to prevent the macing of public employees. I believe sincerely that the majority of the members of this House regardless of their political affiliation are also in favor of preventing the macing of political employees, and I know as you all do that the general public in Pennsylvania, particularly at this time, will not tolerate a bill which is supposed to be an anti-macing bill but which would in effect let them collect and would not in any way obstruct or interfere with any present system or method of solicitation or macing of public employees. I therefore ask in a constructive mood that the members of this House, regardless of party, consider this question solely on its merits. Does the solicitation of campaign funds from a public employee by his superior or by his county chairman or political leader constitute in fact, if not in law, a demand for political funds because of the obligation under which the employee lies? These amendments are in no way drastic. These amendments in effect do what I know the Governor and the public of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania want done, and I therefore ask that all members of the House vote "aye" on these amendments.

Mr. KANE. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, much to the surprise perhaps of many of those present, I rise to support the last set of amendments offered by the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Long.

I voted "no" on the first set of amendments and filed my reasons because I do not see any reason why those who receive from the government their livelihood should be prevented, if they see fit, from making a voluntary contribution towards the continuance of the rule of the party in which they believe and from which they receive their jobs and their livelihood. I claim as he does that there is a distinction too fine for the intelligence of those of us who have seen anything of practical politics, and one which I believe would not be sustained by the courts were it submitted in a fair test case, between the solicitation from your employer who holds over you the power of economic life and death and a demand on his part that you contribute.

I would say to you Mr. Speaker and members of the House, that we have clearly seen in recent years how when the Republican party controlled both the federal and the state governments that they lost the Presidency of the United States and the House and Senate, and when they controlled the state of Pennsylvania and its patronage, they lost the Governorship and the House and Senate, and we have seen the Democratic party in control of the federal government and of the state government lose Pennsylvania by an overwhelming majority. Many a Democrat marched in the celebration of the James victory not only because he hoped to hold his job but also because he believed that something had been accomplished to overturn a ruthless sale of patronage and governmental pressure.

We have come here, many of us, with campaign pledges that we will do all we can to prevent this high pressure method of continuing political parties in power, and while I feel that it is the privilege and the right of those who work for the government to make a voluntary contribution, I agree with the gentleman from Philadelphia that a solicitation by your superior in the government for your contribution amounts to a demand, with the implied threat that if you don't comply you will be dismissed. It is in the sincere belief that Governor James was sincere, and with the utmost confidence, based upon four years of association that the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Long, is sincere that I intend to vote for these amendments and ask those who are real supporters of the Republican party to do likewise.

Mr. GATES. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Long.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. LONG. I will, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. GATES. Mr. Speaker, did I understand the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Long, correctly when he said that he knew that Governor James wanted these amendments in this particular bill?

Mr. LONG. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I believe that the people of Pennsylvania are thoroughly convinced that the Governor sincerely wishes to do all within his power to prevent assessments and the demand for assessments from political workers, and I believe that any man who has had any experience in politics knows that the gentleman from McKean, Mr. Kane, is correct when he states that the solicitation of funds from a jobholder by his superior is in effect a demand for funds for political purposes and I know that the Governor is against such demands.

Mr. GATES. Mr. Speaker, I asked a question and I haven't received the answer. Did or did not the gentleman from Philadelphia say that he knew that Governor James wished these amendments in this bill?

Mr. LONG. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I have not discussed these amendments with the Governor or with the leaders of either political party. As I stated previously these amendments are put forth voluntarily by myself because I really believe that they will prevent the demand of political assessments from public employees, and I know that the Governor agrees in principle with that statement.

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. Long and Mr. Ominsky.

Messrs. Moran, Baker and Keenan asked for a verification of the roll.

The roll was verified and was as follows:

REASON FOR VOTE

Mr. SEIF filed the following reason for his vote.

I wish to be recorded as voting "aye" and desire to record my reasons for so doing as follows:

Macing of public employees in this Commonwealth must stop, and it is obvious that the amendments proposed by Mr. Long of Philadelphia County will prove far more effective than the terms of the act as proposed.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the section as amended?

It was agreed to.

AMENDMENTS WITHDRAWN

Mr. LONG. Mr. Speaker, due to the fact that the two roll calls that have just been recorded in the House defeat the intent and purpose of the two sets of amendments, I withdraw the amendments to the title.

The second and third sections and title were separately read and agreed to as follows:

Section 2 Any person who violates any of the provisions of this act shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and on conviction thereof shall be sentenced to imprisonment for a term not exceeding one (1) year or to pay a fine not exceeding one thousand dollars ($1,000) or both in the discretion of the court.

Section 3 This act shall become effective immediately upon its final enactment

An Act to prohibit assessments and demands for contributions for political purposes and providing a penalty.

And said bill having been read at length the second time and agreed to as amended.

Ordered, To be transcribed for a third reading.

BILLS ON SECOND READING

Agreeably to order,

The bill having been called up from the postponed calendar, by Mr. WOODSIDE.

The House resumed the consideration on second reading of House Bill No. 132, as follows:

An Act to repeal the act approved the thirtieth day of July one thousand nine hundred and thirty-eight (Pamphlet Laws eighteen) entitled "An act suspending retroactively as well as prospectively any other pending investigation legislative executive or judicial of charges of or involving misdemeanor in office on the part of civil officers liable to impeachment which the House of Representatives undertakes to investigate and providing under what circumstances the suspended investigation may be resumed"

Section 1 The act approved the thirtieth day of July one thousand nine hundred and thirty-eight (Pamphlet Laws eighteen) entitled "An act suspending retroactively as well as prospectively any other pending investigation legislative executive or judicial of charges of or involving misdemeanor in office on the part of civil officers liable to impeachment which the House of Representatives undertakes to investigate and providing under what circumstances the suspended investigation may be resumed" is hereby repealed absolutely

And said bill having been read at length the second time and agreed to,

Ordered, To be transcribed for a third reading.

Agreeably to order,

The bill having been called up from the postponed calendar, by Mr. WOODSIDE.

The House resumed the consideration on second reading of House Bill No. 131, entitled:

An Act to repeal the act approved the thirtieth day of July one thousand nine hundred and thirty-eight (Pamphlet Laws thirteen) entitled "An act relating to the investigation of charges of or involving misdemeanor in office made against civil officers subject to impeachment providing that the jurisdiction of the House of Representatives to make such investigations shall have precedence over the jurisdiction of grand juries and limiting the circumstances under which courts of oyer and terminer and general jail delivery or courts of quarter sessions or judges of such courts may authorize grand juries to make such investigations"

The first section was read as follows:

The General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania hereby enacts as follows

Section 1 The act approved the thirtieth day of July one thousand nine hundred and thirty-eight (Pamphlet Laws thirteen) entitled "An act relating to the investigation of charges of or involving misdemeanor in office made against civil officers subject to impeachment providing that the jurisdiction of the House of Representatives to make such investigations shall have precedence over the jurisdiction of grand juries and limiting the circumstances under which courts of oyer and terminer and general jail delivery or courts of quarter sessions or judges of such courts may authorize grand juries to make such investigations" is hereby repealed absolutely

On the question,

Will the House agree to the section?

Mr. JIROLANIO. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Dauphin, Mr. Woodside.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Dauphin permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, I have no objection to being interrogated but it is not customary to debate bills on second reading. If the gentleman from Northampton has any amendments, I will be glad to have him introduce them and be interrogated later.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Dauphin desires to know the purpose for which the gentleman from Northampton desires to interrogate him.

Mr. JIROLANIO. Mr. Speaker, I do not desire to debate the bill nor do I desire to debate the measure before the House. I only desire to ask him a question.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, I have no objection.

Mr. JIROLANIO. Mr. Speaker, I would like to know from the gentleman from Dauphin whether or not the bill which we have acted upon or which we are called to act upon, has not been declared unconstitutional by the Courts of this Commonwealth?

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, it is my understanding that it has been declared unconstitutional in part. Act 4 has been declared unconstitutional which we have just acted upon.

Mr. JIROLANIO. Mr. Speaker, did I understand the gentleman from Dauphin to say that it has been declared unconstitutional in part?

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, that is correct.

Mr. JIROLANIO. Mr. Speaker, since the bill has been declared unconstitutional, and since it has been the program of the Governor to save expenses, and the same with the Speaker of the House, don't you think it would be advisable that this bill be placed upon the postponed calendar and allow it to remain there?

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, my answer to that is definitely, no.

Mr. JIROLANIO. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman from Dauphin be kind enough to inform me as well as the House the reason why he says definitely no?

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, I think we are getting into a debate on the merits of the bill, which should be raised on third reading. However, I will still answer the gentleman. Since the bill is on the statute books, it has some standing in law and whether or not all the provisions of it have been declared unconstitutional is a matter which may yet be raised before the Court. I think all of these bills that were passed during the 1938 session should be definitely repealed and taken from the books of this Commonwealth.

Mr. JIROLANIO. Mr. Speaker, am I to understand that we are not supposed to listen to what the Supreme Court has to say when they say that an act is unconstitutional?

Mr. WOODSIDE. I did not understand the question.

Mr. JIROLANIO. Am I to understand that we are not to believe in the opinion handed down by the Supreme Court when they say that an act is unconstitutional, therefore void?

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, we are still debating the bill. The gentleman from Northampton, as a lawyer should know that the Supreme Court's decision in any particular case which is handed down is very binding.

Mr. JIROLANIO. Mr. Speaker, therefore, if it is binding, why go through with all of this unnecessary expense?

The SPEAKER. Does the gentleman from Northampton desire to further interrogate the gentleman from Dauphin?

Mr. JIROLANIO. No, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. WOODSIDE. I suggest that the gentleman stay over until tomorrow when the bill is up for third reading.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the section?

It was agreed to.

The title was read and agreed to as follows:

An Act to repeal the act, approved the thirtieth day of July, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-eight (P. L. 13), entitled "An act relating to the investigation of charges of, or involving, misdemeanor in office made against civil officers subject to impeachment; providing that the jurisdiction of the House of Representatives to make such investigations shall have precedence over the jurisdiction of grand juries; and limiting the circumstances under which courts of oyer and terminer and general jail delivery or courts of quarter sessions, or judges of such courts, may authorize grand juries to make such investigations."

And said bill having been read at length the second time and agreed to.

Ordered, To be transcribed for a third reading.

Agreeably to order,

The bill having been called up from the postponed calendar, by Mr. WOODSIDE.

The House resumed the consideration on second reading of House Bill No. 128, entitled:

An Act to repeal the act approved the thirtieth day of July one thousand nine hundred and thirty-eight (Pamphlet Laws seventeen) entitled "An act defining the relative powers of the Attorney General and of district attorneys in investigating or proceedings in the criminal courts authorizing the judges thereof to appoint subject to appeal to the Supreme Court special prosecutors in certain cases and providing for their compensation by the county"

The first section was read as follows:

The General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania hereby enacts as follows

Section 1 The act approved the thirtieth day of July one thousand nine hundred and thirty-eight (Pamphlet Laws seventeen) entitled "An act defining the relative powers of the Attorney General and of district attorneys in investigations or proceedings in the criminal courts authorizing the judges thereof to appoint subject to appeal to the Supreme Court special prosecutors in certain cases and providing for their compensation by the county" is hereby repealed absolutely

On the question,

Will the House agree to the section?

MOTION TO RECOMMIT

Mr. HERBERT B. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I move that this bill be recommitted to the Committee on Judiciary General.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

Mr. HERBERT B. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, in view of the message which was presented to the House by His Excellency, the Governor, in which he recommends an appropriation for the continuation of the Dauphin County Grand Jury, I believe that this bill should be recommitted to the Committee on Judiciary General so that more deliberation might be given to it, to see how it might be worked into a desirable piece of legislation and so that the purposes that are sought by this enactment can be accomplished.

The Governor recommends an appropriation to the Dauphin County Grand Jury of $100,000. It has always been the law of this Commonwealth that where the Commonwealth enters into any legal judicial proceeding the Attorney General would also become a part of the proceeding.

Under the circumstances I feel that some definite law should be established upon that particular point and not allow the question of the intervention of the Attorney General to remain in a state of uncertainty and flux as it is now.

I feel that this particular bill can be whipped into the type of legislation that would be of outstanding help to the Attorney General and to the citizens of the Commonwealth in helping them solve the problem.

In view of the fact that we are called upon to give up $100,000 of the taxpayers' money to Dauphin County, I feel that the rules and regulations governing the Attorney General's duties should be definitely set forth, and I therefore renew my motion that the bill be recommitted to the Committee on Judiciary General.

(Cries of "No").

Mr. HERBERT B. COHEN. Mr. Speaker and Members of the House in view of the "noes" that I heard being disseminated throughout the House on the other side, I felt that possibly I could convert those "noes" into a "yes" by giving a further reason for having the bill recommitted.

I would suggest that there is a very grave constitutional problem involved relative to the constitutionality of the appropriation of $100,000 to the Dauphin County Grand Jury, and the other side might aid in the solution of that constitutional problem by recommitting this bill to the Committee on Judiciary General until the $100,000 appropriation and this bill can be dovetailed.

(Cries of "No").

QUESTION OF PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Mr. HERBERT B. COHEN. Mr. Speaker I rise to a question of parliamentary inquiry.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from York will state his question of parliamentary inquiry.

Mr. HERBERT B. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I desire to inquire of the Chair if the gentleman from Dauphin has been displaced as Majority Floor Leader.

The SPEAKER. That is a question that the gentleman from York will ascertain, I have no doubt, in a moment.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the motion?

It was not agreed to.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the section?

It was agreed to.

The title was read and agreed to as follows:

An Act to repeal the act, approved the thirtieth day of July, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-eight (P. L. 17), entitled "An act defining the relative powers of the Attorney General and of district attorneys in investigations or proceedings in the criminal courts; authorizing the judges thereof to appoint, subject to appeal to the Supreme Court, special prosecutors in certain cases, and providing for their compensation by the county."

And said bill having been read at length the second time and agreed to.

Ordered, To be transcribed for a third reading.

Agreeably to order,

The bill having been called up from the postponed calendar, by Mr. WOODSIDE.

The House resumed the consideration on second reading of House Bill No. 129, as follows:

An Act to repeal the act approved the thirtieth day of July one thousand nine hundred and thirty-eight (Pamphlet Laws fifteen) entitled "An act defining the procedure for and regulating the investigation by the House of Representatives and its committees of charges of or involving misdemeanor in office on the part of civil officers liable to impeachment authorizing the Speaker of the House to appoint a special committee for any such investigation authorizing the presentation of evidence by the Attorney General and other counsel and the officers investigated providing for the summoning of witnesses and for the punishment of persons refusing to appear produce evidence or testify and authorizing the employment and compensation of counsel and other assistants"

Section 1 The act approved the thirtieth day of July one thousand nine hundred and thirty-eight (Pamphlet Laws fifteen) entitled "An Act defining the procedure for and regulating the investigation by the House of Representatives and its committees of charges of or involving misdemeanor in office on the part of civil officers liable to impeachment authorizing the Speaker of the House to appoint a special committee for any such investigation authorizing the presentation of evidence by the Attorney General and other counsel and the officers investigated providing for the summoning of witnesses and for the punishment of persons refusing to appear produce evidence or testify and authorizing the employment and compensation of counsel and other assistants" is hereby repealed absolutely

Ordered, To be transcribed for a third reading.

BILLS ON THIRD READING

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 142, entitled:

An Act to further amend section five of the act approved the twenty-sixth day of April one thousand nine hundred and thirty-five (P. L. 90) entitled "An act to promote uniformity in the assessment and taxation of properties and persons within the territorial limits of cities of the second class A by providing that city and school taxes within such territorial limits shall be assessed levied and collected upon the basis of the assessments for taxation for county purposes and requiring the furnishing of tax duplicates by the county taxing authorities to such cities and to school districts coterminous therewith abolishing the department of assessors in cities of the second class A consolidating tax statements covering city school county and poor taxes therein and making uniform the time for levy and collection of said taxes respectively and regulating the discounts therefrom and penalties thereon" by changing the date of certain tax payments and further regulating the penalties and interest imposed on unpaid taxes

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. CORDIER. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to offer amendments at this time.

The SPEAKER. The amendments will be read by the Clerk for information.

The Clerk read the amendments as follows:

Amend Sec. 1 (Sec. 5), page 3, line 28, by striking out: the dark-faced brackets before the word "the" and after the word "balance" and inserting in lieu thereof light-faced brackets.

Amend Sec. 1 (Sec. 5), page 4, line 2, by striking out: the dark-faced brackets before and after the word "balance" and inserting in lieu thereof light-faced brackets.

Amend Sec. 1 (Sec. 5), page 4, line 4, by inserting a light-faced bracket after the word "provided".

Amend Sec. 1 (Sec. 5), page 4, lines 4, 5 and 6, by striking out with dark-faced brackets the following: the words "for delinquent taxes but such penal—" in line 4, and all of lines 5 and 6, and inserting in lieu thereof: "penalty of two (2) per centum and interest at the rate of one-half of one per centum for each and every month or part thereof, from the date the said installment shall become delinquent."

The SPEAKER. Will the House give unanimous consent to the insertion of the amendments at this time? Is there objection? The Chair hears none and the amendments will be inserted in accordance with the instructions of the House?

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading as amended?

It was agreed to.

Ordered, that the bill as amended lie over for printing.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 214, entitled:

A Supplement to the act, approved the second day of July, one thousand nine hundred thirty-seven (Appropriation Acts, page seventy-four), entitled "An act to provide for the ordinary expense of the Executive, Legislative, and Judicial Departments of the Commonwealth, interest on the public debt, and the support of the public schools for two years beginning June first, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-seven; and for the payment of bills incurred and remaining unpaid at the close of the fiscal year ending May thirty-first, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-seven", making a deficiency appropriation to the Department of State.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. HERBERT B. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Montgomery, Mr. Brunner.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Montgomery allow himself to be interrogated?

Mr. BRUNNER. I will, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. HERBERT B. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I desire to inquire of the gentleman from Montgomery, Mr. Brunner, whether the deficiency appropriation called for in this bill is included in the budget message of His Excellency, the Governor.

Mr. BRUNNER. Mr. Speaker, in answer to the gentleman from York, Mr. Cohen, I do not believe so.

Mr. HERBERT B. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I desire to inquire of the gentleman from Montgomery, Mr. Brunner, whether or not this bill has the approval of the Governor's Budget Secretary.

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a point of order.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Dauphin will state his point of order.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, the interrogation of the gentleman from York, Mr. Cohen, is out of order. This has nothing to do with the debate on the bill and the matter now before this House.

The SPEAKER. The Chair feels that the gentleman from Montgomery can answer or not answer, as he chooses, questions directed to him. The gentleman from York will proceed.

Mr. HERBERT B. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, if the question is embarrassing to the gentleman from Montgomery, I will withdraw the question.

The SPEAKER. The Chair wishes to advise the gentleman from York that the gentleman from Montgomery has not yet been given an opportunity to answer the question of the gentleman from York.

Mr. HERBERT B. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I will be only too glad to reiterate the question and inquire of the gentleman from Montgomery whether this bill has the approval of the Governor's Secretary of the Budget.

Mr. BRUNNER. Mr. Speaker, I yield to the gentleman from Dauphin, Mr. Woodside.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Dauphin, Mr. Woodside, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. WOODSIDE. I will, Mr. Speaker, but in order to answer that question I would like to interrogate the gentleman from York, Mr. Cohen.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from York permit himself to be interrogated for the purpose of continuing the interrogation?

Mr. HERBERT B. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, in order to get an answer to the question, I will allow myself to be interrogated.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Will the gentleman from York please inform me what he means by having the approval of the Budget Secretary?

Mr. HERBERT B. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I desire to inquire of the gentleman from Dauphin who is pinch-hitting for the gentleman from Montgomery, whether or not the Secretary of the Budget has approved the expenditure that this bill carries. My purpose of so doing is to determine whether or not it has been taken into consideration by the budget officer so that we might have a balanced budget that the Governor just this evening indicated we would have.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, I don't know whether the Budget Secretary or his office personally considered this deficiency appropriation which is in the sum of $10,454.79. I would suggest to the gentleman from York that he is simply wasting a lot of the time of this House by raising such questions concerning a deficiency appropriation of $10,454.79, when his party left a deficiency in the neighborhood of $50,000,000.

Mr. HERBERT B. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I desire to further interrogate the gentleman from Dauphin, Mr. Woodside.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Dauphin, Mr. Woodside, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. WOODSIDE. I will, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. HERBERT B. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I desire to inquire of the gentleman from Dauphin if the Secretary of the Budget and His Excellency, the Governor, were concerned sufficiently to carry under the head of deficiency appropriations the sum of $2,000 for a deficiency to the Lieutenant Governor and make that a special part of the message, why would not the Secretary of the Budget or His Excellency, the Governor, be concerned with a sum five times that large?

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, I did not assist the Budget Secretary in preparing the budget and I do not know the answer to the gentleman's question.

The SPEAKER. I presume that the gentleman from York is mindful of the biblical expression, that "even the hairs of the head are numbered."

Mr. HERBERT B. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, you are not casting any personal reflection, I hope. Contrary to the assumed thought that I am attempting to be facetious I desire to have explained by someone the purpose of this deficiency. I notice that the bill carries a deficiency of $10,000 for proof-reading the bills of the Legislature. I desire to know whether that is for bills that are going to be proof-read in future or bills that have already been proof-read or bills on which too much proof-reading has already been done, so that there is not enough money left to proof-read the bills that we are going to pass. I think that this House is entitled to have an explanation as to the necessity for this appropriation. Since the Governor in his message called every particular item to the attention of the General Assembly, and since some of us gentlemen may wish to follow the appropriations, as they go through with a certain amount of attention, the members on this side of the House would like to know for what reason the $10,000 is being appropriated, and furthermore, if it is not included in the Governor's address, we would like to know where the income is coming from which is necessary to pay for that appropriation.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, I think that a lot of time of this House could have been saved if the gentleman had attended the meetings of the Appropriation Committee where we would have discussed this matter, and we could have furnished him with all the necessary information and he could have obtained any additional information which he might have desired. After the effort that has been made by this Administration and all of the Departments to cut expenses to the bone, when they say that they need the sum of $10,454.79 to carry out the work for the balance of the biennium, I assume that they have given the matter their careful consideration to determine the exact amount which is necessary to carry on the work to the end of the biennium, and that they are saving the Commonwealth every cent that they possibly can.

MOTION TO POSTPONE

Mr. HERBERT B. COHEN. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I do not wish to prolong this debate. We have had a very hard day but I do feel that the membership is entitled to know for what reason an appropriation of $10,000 is being made, particularly when that deficiency is not carried in the budget address. I personally do not know the reason for this deficiency appropriation. I might have been derelict in not having attended the last meeting of the Appropriations Committee, nevertheless there are some members in this House who are not members of the Appropriations Committee and they are entitled to an explanation as to the necessity of this deficiency, and until that explanation is forthcoming it is not the will of this House to ask the membership to vote blindly upon a measure irrespective of the amount involved, unless the membership is fully acquainted with the needs, requirements and the sources of the particular deficiency, when we are asked to supplement an additional appropriation.

I therefore move that the bill be placed on the postponed calendar.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

Mr. TROUT. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, it seems to me that the purpose of this deficiency appropriation is on a par with deficiency appropriations that have been passed, amounting to $43,000,000, to carry on relief in Pennsylvania to the end of the biennium. The reason we passed that deficiency appropriation was because the previous administration failed to provide sufficient funds to continue relief until the end of the biennium. For that same reason I presume we are now asking for this deficiency appropriation in order to provide funds which they failed to provide up to the end of the biennium.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, I was just going to suggest to the gentleman from York, Mr. Cohen, that perhaps the reason for the deficiency appropriation was because the Democratic State Chairman, David L. Lawrence, spent too much of the money appropriated to his department—

The SPEAKER. The Chair desires to inform the gentleman from Dauphin, that the question is on a motion to place the bill on the postponed calendar.

Mr. WOODSIDE. That is right, Mr. Speaker, but the argument on the motion was raised on the basis that there was no knowledge concerning this small appropriation. I might say further, on page five of the Budget Message there is a statement to the effect that, there is a deficiency requested by the Department of Public Assistance amounting to $43,000,000. The gentleman need not worry, we will find the ten thousand necessary for this deficiency.

Mr. HERBERT B. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, while the sum involved is rather small, I must insist on being a stickler for principle—

The SPEAKER. The Chair desires to inform the gentleman from York, as he did the gentleman from Dauphin, that the question is on a motion to place the bill on the postponed calendar.

Mr. HERBERT B. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I say that it should be placed on the postponed calendar—

The SPEAKER. The gentleman has already said that.

Mr. HERBERT B. COHEN. I will reiterate it, for the reason that the gentleman from Lancaster tells us that he presumed that this appropriation or this deficiency is similar to the $43,000,000 deficiency, and the gentleman from Dauphin tells us in all probability this deficiency is the deficiency that accrued in the Department of State when it was under the secretaryship of the Democratic State Chairman. I say to the gentleman from Dauphin and to the gentleman from Lancaster that on page fourteen of the budget the $43,000,000 deficiency is set forth by the Governor in his Budget Message. Therefore, the assumption that this is the same as the $43,000,000 deficiency is not correct, because the Governor saw fit to include that in his Budget Message, and the insinuation that this is the result of the secretaryship by the Democratic State Chairman, Mr. Lawrence is not explained. I reiterate my position, and I say that I cannot see the reluctance on the part of the majority of this House in the placing of this bill upon the postponed calendar, when no one is in a position to explain just what this bill is for, how it was arrived at, and why they need the money. I realize that the majority have the votes if they desire to pass it. I only suggest that it should be placed upon the postponed calendar until an explanation is given, and then I might possibly be willing, and the minority might also be willing, to go along and vote for this deficiency, but until we get that explanation, I feel sure Mr. Speaker, the majority does not wish to vote in the dark.

On the question recurring.

Will the House agree to the motion?

It was not agreed to

On the question recurring.

Shall the bill pass finally?

BILL ON THIRD READING

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 215, entitled:

A Supplement to the act, approved the second day of July, one thousand nine hundred thirty-seven (Appropriation Acts, page seventy-four), entitled "An act to provide for the ordinary expenses of the Executive, Legislative, and Judicial Departments of the Commonwealth, interest on the public debt, and the support of the public schools for two years beginning June first, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-seven; and for the payment of bills incurred and remaining unpaid at the close of the fiscal year ending May thirty-first, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-seven," providing for deficiencies in certain appropriations to the Department of Justice for the fiscal biennium ending May thirty-first, one thousand nine hundred thirty-nine.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. HERBERT B. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, since I am able to determine just what this bill seeks to accomplish, just what deficiency it seeks to supply, I join with the gentleman from Dauphin in requesting the membership of this House to vote for this deficiency. However, on page fourteen of the Governor's budget, the small budget message, and on the page, Roman numeral IX of the large budget message, the Governor refers to the deficiency appropriation to the Department of Justice in the following words:

"To the Department of Justice $75,000. This is in addition to the deficiency appropriation of $50,000 received at the special session last fall. This is the price of side trips into purely local county affairs by the department during the last administration."

I do not wish to question the amount of money, as I have indicated I think the deficiency should be voted by this House. I do, however, seriously wish to question the Governor's words on that particular point, and I assume that in asking us to make this deficiency appropriation His Excellency, the Governor, feels that that was a side trip into purely local county affairs by the department. The side trip to which he refers is the grand Jury investigation that is being conducted in Philadelphia. I might state that the Grand Jury investigation involves the investigation of a purely local condition, but who has ever doubted that the Governor of this Commonwealth was the chief law enforcement officer of the Commonwealth? Who has ever said that the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania should not look into the situation as to vice and crime that has existed in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania? Where is the authority that would say that this government of this great Commonwealth should allow crime to run rampant in any community, where the local enforcement officers are either not willing or unable to wipe out the infection. If the Governor of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania calls a grand jury investigation of vice and crime in Philadelphia a side trip, then I say to the people of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania that this administration should take many more side trips in the Commonwealth to see that the laws of this Commonwealth are adhered to. Seventy-five thousand dollars is the price that we are asked to pay in order to eradicate vice in Philadelphia, crime and gambling, with the attendant tie-up of some of the Philadelphia political overlords in some of the activities. Possibly the Governor of this Commonwealth feels that the side trip is not worthwhile because possibly the finger has been pointed at some of the Republican politicians in that community. Possibly the Governor of the Commonwealth feels that the seventy-five thousand dollars has been wasted because perhaps some of the lily white Republicans have been besmirched with some of the investigation. Possibly he feels that the seventy-five thousand dollars is wasted because the activities of some of the Philadelphia judiciary have been placed under scrutiny. I say to the membership of this House that seventy-five thousand dollars was too little to be spent in that investigation, and I say to the membership of this House that the good that will accrue to the people of Philadelphia will make up ten fold the cost of the investigation, and in passing might I remark that that investigation, while being, as the Governor has said, a little side trip, a little excursion into a local situation, nevertheless the investigations that were made were non-partisan and non-political, and the council appointed by the Attorney General, to continue that investigation represented men who were affiliated with the two major political parties in this Commonwealth. I ask the membership of this House to vote for this deficiency appropriation because the moneys have been justifiably spent, and I further ask them to vote for it because it is something about which you need have no reluctance to vote for, as you are not voting in the blind but are voting for problems that are within the comprehension of every member of this House.

Mr. SWEENEY. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from York, Mr. Cohen.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from York permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. HERBERT B. COHEN. I will, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. SWEENEY. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman from York, Mr. Cohen, who is the chief law enforcement officer in Philadelphia?

Mr. HERBERT B. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I understand that the chief law enforcement officer in the County of Philadelphia is the District Attorney of the County of Philadelphia, Mr. Kelley, a Republican.

Mr. SWEENEY. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman from York, Mr. Cohen, who has charge of the police force in Philadelphia?

Mr. HERBERT B. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I understand that the Civil Service Commission of Philadelphia has charge of the police force.

Mr. SWEENEY. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman from York, Mr. Cohen, what authority our mayor has?

Mr. HERBERT B. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I understand, and I will now give a little discourse on the Philadelphia City Charter—

The SPEAKER. The gentleman would be out of order.

Mr. HERBERT B. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I understand that apparently by the encroachment of a Republican City Council, the mayor has been shorn of a tremendous amount of his authority—if any.

Mr. SWEENEY. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman from York, Mr. Cohen, whether or not the mayor is still the chief law enforcement officer in Philadelphia?

Mr. HERBERT B. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I don't know. All I know is that I remember reading in the Press that the District Attorney refused to go ahead with the investigation. There was some difficulty down in Philadelphia, some accusations were made about the Republican District Attorney, to the effect that he was derelict in his duties in not proceeding with the investigation, and the situation became so tense that the Attorney General of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania had to step in to see that all sides were protected and given a square deal.

Mr. SWEENEY. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman from York, Mr. Cohen, whether or not the District Attorney has been indicted by the Grand Jury.

Mr. HERBERT B. COHEN. I understand, on advice of counsel, that that has not occurred as yet.

Mr. SWEENEY. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman from York, Mr. Cohen, whether or not the mayor of Philadelphia has been indicted by the Grand Jury?

Mr. HERBERT B. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I understand that both the Superior and Supreme Courts of Pennsylvania have said "no."

Mr. SWEENEY. Mr. Speaker, I would like to inquire of the gentleman from York, Mr. Cohen, whether or not he is able to tell me to which political party the mayor of Philadelphia belongs.

Mr. HERBERT B. COHEN. Can you?

Shall the bill pass finally?

BILL ON THIRD READING

Agreeably to order,

The bill having been called up from the postponed calendar by Mr. ROSE.

The House resumed the consideration on third reading of House Bill No. 26, entitled:

An Act to amend section three of the act approved the twenty-seventh day of April one thousand nine hundred and twenty-seven (Pamphlet Laws four hundred sixty-five) entitled 'An act to provide for the safety of persons employed housed or assembled in certain buildings and structures not in cities of the first class second class and second class A by requiring certain construction and ways of egress equipment and maintenance providing for the licensing of projectionists requiring the submission of plans for examination and approval providing for the promulgation of rules and regulations for the enforcement of this act providing for the enforcement of this act by the Department of Labor and Industry and in certain cases by the chiefs of fire departments in cities of the third class providing penalties for violations of the provisions of this act and repealing acts as amended eliminating the requirement that certain buildings shall be equipped with certain equipment in connection with gas meters to prevent or retard the escape of gas.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. ROSE. Mr. Speaker, and members of the House, this bill is a bill to repeal an amendment passed in the 1937 session. I understand that the gentleman from Cambria, who sponsored the amendment in 1937, would like to express himself on this bill, and I therefore yield to the gentleman from Cambria, Mr. Westrick.

Mr. WESTRICK. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, the Bill now before us for consideration repeals Act No. 349, passed during the regular session of 1937 and signed as law June 5, 1937, the provisions to become effective in eighteen months, or December 5, 1938.

This act, of which I was co-sponser, was an amendment to what is commonly known as the "Fire and Panic Act." It required the installation of gas shut-off valves in public buildings for the protection of the fire-fighters as well as the general public.

These valves were to be of a type and so installed as to automatically close when affected by heat or to be mechanically shut off by any member of a fire department.

During the time this proposal was being considered by the Legislature, those directly concerned with its passage were assured at least seven approved valves were on the market and that they would sell at a very reasonable price.

For the protection of the lives of our firemen, many of whom volunteer their services and who make such noble sacrifices for our general welfare, I felt such a law was very necessary.

Now because of the apparent unreasonable market price at which these valves are being offered and further, because of the very strict interpretation by the Department of Labor and Industry of the type of building to which this law applies, I am now urging the members of this House to vote for this repeal bill.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

RESOLUTION

CONGRATULATIONS

Mr. DENMAN offered a resolution which was read by the Clerk as follows:

In the House of Representatives, February, 1939.

Robert J. Cordier our member from Lackawanna County, after many years of single loneliness, suddenly plunged into the Sea of Matrimony last week and from what is reported by those who saw his wife, he is not "all wet" in any way.

Acting as Chairman of a Special Committee during the recent recess of the Legislature, he suddenly deserted his fellow committeemen and the business of the Committee, and when he finally returned, he was not alone. His unusual action at this time recalls the lines of a Scotch poet named Hogg who wrote

Oh love, love, love
Love is like a dizziness
It winna let a poor body
Gang about his business.

therefore be it

Resolved, That the members of this House heartily congratulate the member from Lackawanna upon his wisdom in abandoning the life of a hermit and a recluse and welcome him into the State of Matrimony, but at the same time seriously admonish him not to let this "dizziness" in any way interfere with the "bizness" of this House.

To his new wife we extend our sincere wishes for the full success of their new undertaking and for an abundance of happiness, and we further extend to her a most cordial invitation to visit her new husband and us here in the House.

On the question recurring,

Will the House adopt the resolution?

It was unanimously adopted.

Mr. CORDIER. In full appreciation of the fact of what I have done in taking unto myself a blushing bride and appreciating the fact that that is done every day, I am extremely grateful to the gentleman from Westmoreland, Mr. Denman, and to the membership of this House in recognizing that fact officially. I assure you that both my wife and myself are extremely happy.

I also wish to in a lighter vein perhaps drop a hint to a woman member of the House, Miss Brancato, who has announced her engagement and her marriage after the session, by stating that she doesn't know what she is missing.

I would also say to the gentleman from York, Mr. Cohen, who rose to his feet in the Assembly a few weeks back and offered his intelligent advice and help to the members of the majority in all of the problems that might come before them, that I will have to in this instance refuse his help.

I want to say that some years back we had the pleasure of making as the 209th member of the House, the young son of the gentleman from Westmoreland, Mr. Denman, and had he seen fit on this occasion to make as the 210th member of this House my attractive wife, I would have been glad to have her take part in the deliberations of the House, but would have had to limit it in so far as any caucuses of the House are concerned to our 209th member.

I wish to say that I am deeply appreciative of the felicitations you have extended to my wife and myself and I am sure that we are going to have a long and happy married life.

Thank you very much.

RESOLUTION CONGRATULATIONS

Mr. NORMAN WOOD offered a resolution which was read by the Clerk as follows:

In the House of Representatives, February 27, 1939.

The well known English poet, Rudyard Kipling wrote,

"Oh East is East and West is West
And never the twain shall meet
Till earth and sky stand presently
At God's great judgment seat.
But there is neither East or West
Border nor breed nor birth
When two strong men stand face to face
Tho they come from the ends of the earth."

A Lancaster, Pa., newspaper last week carried the following announcement:

"Mr. and Mrs. Clayton J. Embree of St. Louis, Mo., announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Mary Frances Embree to Alfred C. Alspach, son of Dr. and Mrs. Titus A. Alspach, of Lancaster. Miss Embree is a graduate of Northwestern University and of the National College of Education at Evanston, Ill." The Alfred C. Alspach mentioned in this newspaper article is the member of this House from the City of Lancaster and this announcement proves that Kipling's poem should be amended, therefore be it

Resolved, by the House of Representatives of the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, that the last two lines of the above cited verse from Kipling's Barrack-Room Ballads be amended so as to read as follows:

"When two [strong men] great loves stand face to face Though they come from the ends of the earth."

and be it further

Resolved, that the members of this House congratulate the member from Lancaster upon his good fortune and his bright and happy prospects and for his bride to be, we wish a long and happy life with our fellow member for whom love lent wings that carried him afar from home.

As another evidence of the certainty that distance means nothing when love steps in, we quote from Edwin Arnold, another poet.

"Somewhere there waiteth in this world of ours
For one lone soul another lonely soul,
Each choosing each through all the weary hours
And meeting strangely at one sudden goal.
Then blend they, like green leaves with golden flowers,
Into one beautiful and perfect whole;
And life's long night is ended, and the way
Lies open onward to eternal day."

On the question recurring,
Will the House adopt the resolution?
It was unanimously adopted.

Mr. ALSPACH. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I am greatly overwhelmed by the poetry. At the beginning it sounded like a eulogy and at the end it sounded somewhat like a funeral dirge.

I naturally feel very good about all of this, my only regret being that I do not have any blushing bride to sit beside the blushing bride of the gentleman from Lackawanna on the right hand side of the Assembly Hall.

Needless to say, I deeply appreciate all of these felicitations and kind remarks.

Thank you.

RESOLUTION

BIRTHDAY OF ST. PATRICK

Mr. McGARRITY offered a resolution which was read by the Clerk as follows:

In the House of Representatives, February 27, 1939.

Many legislative bills are filled with snakes and it is the duty of the members of the General Assembly to find these snakes and drive them out.

Proficiency in this respect can only be acquired by studying the lives and customs of those who have succeeded in the past in effectively getting rid of snakes.

St. Patrick, the patron saint of Ireland, was the world's greatest snake driver.

The celebration of the birthday of this immortal will be held on the 17th day of March, therefore be it

Resolved (if the Senate concur), That a legislative committee is hereby created consisting of six members of the House of Representatives to be appointed by Speaker of the House and five members of the Senate to be appointed by the President Pro Tempore of the Senate, whose duty it shall be to arrange for a fitting and suitable celebration of the birthday of St. Patrick by the members of the General Assembly and their guests; and be it further

Saint Patrick was a gentleman
Who lived in the "land o' lakes"
He made it quite a decent place
By driving out the snakes.

On the question,
Will the House adopt the resolution?
It was adopted.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for its concurrence.

Mr. REUBEN E. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, may I humbly suggest that the resolutions that were read and adopted, with the exception of the one about the snakes, be referred to the "Committee on Matrimony"?

The SPEAKER. The Chair feels that that is too "knotty" a question to decide now.

COMMITTEE MEETINGS

There will be a meeting of the Committee on Judiciary Special, Tuesday, February 28, 1939, at 11:30 a. m., in Room "B", House Caucus Room.

ADJOURNMENT

Mr. POWERS. Mr. Speaker, I move that this House do now adjourn until tomorrow at 1 p. m.

The motion was agreed to, and (at 11:12 p. m.) the House adjourned until Tuesday, February 28, 1939, at 1 p. m.

SENATE

TUESDAY, February 28, 1939

The Senate met at 2:00 o'clock p. m.

The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant-Governor Samuel S. Lewis) in the Chair.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Rev. BURLEIGH A. PETERS, offered the following prayer:

Our Heavenly Father, standing yet in the patriotic fragrance of the anniversaries of our two great Americans, George Washington the attending physician at the birth of this Republic and Abraham Lincoln the preserver of the Union, we take increased devotion to the unfinished tasks before us. As we love their names, revere their memories and emulate their statesmanship, may we also remember their up-standing citizenship, their prayer life in the hour of trial and their God-fearing manhood at the waters of eternal life; and, inhaling deeply the life-giving breath of pulsating liberty, that the increasing evidence of un-American activities both within and without this Commonwealth shall steel every fibre of our beings for the great struggle against the betrayal and overthrow of our democratic form of government. Help every true American in these troublous days likewise to drink at these same fountains, trusting in God for daily sustenance and fighting the honorable and godly fight of honest, upright, God-fearing citizenship.

As good stewards of Thine in all the varying proposals of life and living, with its many ramifications and temptations, may we answer, by our deeds of self-sacrifice and patriotic devotion, as did Washington and Lincoln, not "What do I get out of it?" but "What can I put into it?"

In the sphere of government as well as all others may this be our high-motived philosophy of living. For Jesus' sake, Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVED

The PRESIDENT. A quorum of the Senate being present, the Clerk will read the Journal of the preceding session.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of the preceding session, when, on motion of Mr. OWLETT and Mr. MALLERY, the further reading was dispensed with, and the Journal was approved.

LEAVES OF ABSENCE

Mr. SHAPIRO asked and obtained leave of absence for himself for Wednesday, March 1, 1939.

Mr. FREY asked and obtained leave of absence for himself for Wednesday, March 1, 1939.

HOUSE MESSAGE

The Clerk of the House of Representatives, being introduced, presented extract from the Journal of the House, which was twice read as follows:

RESOLUTION RELATIVE TO OBSERVANCE OF SAINT PATRICK'S DAY

In the House of Representatives, February 27th, 1939.

Many legislative bills are filled with snakes and it is the duty of the members of the General Assembly to find these snakes and drive them out.

Proficiency in this respect can only be acquired by studying the lives and customs of those who have succeeded in the past in effectively getting rid of snakes.

St. Patrick, the patron saint of Ireland, was the world's greatest snake driver.

The celebration of the birthday of this immortal will be held on the 17th day of March, therefore be it

Resolved (if the Senate concur), That a legislative committee is hereby created consisting of six members of the House of Representatives to be appointed by Speaker of the House and five members of the Senate to be appointed by the President Pro Tempore of the Senate, whose duty it shall be to arrange for a fitting and suitable celebration of the birthday of St. Patrick by the members of the General Assembly and their guests; and be it further

Saint Patrick was a gentleman
Who lived in the "land o' lakes"
He made it quite a decent place
By driving out the snakes.

Mr. CHAPMAN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that Rule 39, which requires resolutions be referred to an appropriate committee, be suspended and the Senate do now proceed to the consideration of the resolution just read.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection?

The Chair hears none.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the resolution?

It was agreed to.

Ordered, That the Clerk inform the House of Representatives accordingly.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Fayette will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, The Journal of this Senate will show that on repeated occasions, we have cautiously reminded members of this Senate upon matters touching the dignity of this body and also that of its members. At times, we have been extremely reluctant in the selection of our language lest it might be construed as condemnatory of our colleagues. On all occasions however, we have sought diligently to pursue the course most consistent with the dictates of conscience, our intellectual honesty and the accepted tenets of moral rectitude. In all matters, we have sought moderation.

The prevailing international turmoil; the indictment of Parliamentary Government by violent and bellicose dictatorship; and the international racial frictions, should heighten our efforts to embellish the dignity of this body and show reasonable moderation in all matters touching the integrity of its members.

Mr. President, the matter involving the integrity and seat of Mr. Levin, and the manner in which it was dealt with last night, can add no lustre to the dignity of this Parliamentary body. It is a sufficient proof of the impotency of this form of government when members cast their intellectual honesty and civic rectitude to the winds and, at the beckon of party spirit and expediency, stoop to deeds so foul as to move the most moderate men to rebellion.

Throughout the entire course of last night's proceedings touching the integrity of Mr. Levin, there was enmeshed in it a premonition that the plot behind the tongues of the dictatorial gentleman from Tioga, Mr. Owlett, and the Nazi Gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Geltz, was a subtle and sinister plot not founded in the sublimest of human passions, to-wit: a desire to give psychological initiation and impetus to the despicable Nazi Anti-Semitic creed.

Mr. President, I regret that you inadvertently, or willingly became an accessory to that un-American motive. It is deplorable that this un-American plot should be hatched during the month when this great American Nation was giving thought to the natal days of the Father of his County, George Washington, and of Abraham Lincoln, the great American Liberator. It is shameful to note that this august body has permitted the birthdays of these two great Americans to pass without placing a single word of commemoration upon its Journal.

Truly a neglect fully consistent with the mentality that pervades the majority leadership of this Senate.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. SIPE. Mr. President, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Armstrong, Mr. Sipe, will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. SIPE. Mr. President, the Senate will remember a couple of weeks ago we were all regaled with a lot of quotations from the classics. The Senate seems to have gone on record as endorsing Shakespeare and Cicero and other great luminaries of the Ancient World and Modern. I am thinking now of a quotation from one of the great Latin writers: "Tempora mutantur et nos mutamur in illis," which, as all you erudite gentlemen know, translated means, "Times change and we change in them."

I am impressed Mr. President, with the way times have changed in the last few years. Politically, I remember only a few years ago when the worst thing that could be said about the Democratic party was that it was dominated by Democrats from the South; and I remember one man in my County of Butler who attained considerable distinction in the second Woodrow Wilson campaign by delivering a speech at political meetings over the western part of the State on the subject of "The South in the Saddle". Yes, in those old days we Democrats were reviled as belonging to the party which kicked up secession which seceded a large portion of our nation from the Union on the ground of interference with State rights. Yes, we were the party whose adherents in the old days chased men and women through the swamps of Virginia with blood hounds, in order to regain their services, and rewarded them with lashes on the bare back.

Nothing was too bad to say about the Democrats, especially one who was tainted with any of the Southern Democracy; but, behold, times have changed, and here in the Year of Grace 1938, and especially in the year 1939, we behold a Republican Governor of Pennsylvania sending to the heart of the South for a mentor and advisor for him. Not very complimentary was that action to his ardent Republican advisors in Pennsylvania; but, casting them aside, he goes to the heart of the South and brings up a southern Democrat here as his advisor. I do not think he is on the payroll of the State, but I assume he is not working for nothing.

Yes, in this Year of Grace 1939, we behold the spectacle of an old-line Republican Governor in Pennsylvania becoming a Charley McCarthy for a Southern Democrat; and, Mr. President, if this metamorphosis keeps on much longer I predict that all of the old-line Republican politicians in Pennsylvania will be red-hot Democrats of the solid South.

I am glad, Mr. President, that the Chaplain, in his prayer, and my colleague from Fayette, made reference to the Father of his Country, made reference to his idealism, and the fact that this month commemorates his birthday.

I was thinking, Mr. President, of George Washington amid the turmoil of last night, and I wondered what he would think if he were here and had a seat on the Republican side of this Chamber.

Before I sit down, Mr. President, let me say that surely we ought to take a little time out in this month of February, before it passes, to say something of George Washington and Abraham Lincoln, something especially about the idealism of those men, about the greatness of Washington; and my little contribution is this—I thought of it while Mr. Cavalcante was speaking:

Have you ever thought, gentlemen of the Senate, of the greatness of George Washington—He is great. You know, the greatness of some men only makes us believe that however well they did their work others could have done just as well; but Washington had that peculiar greatness which convinces the world that he alone could have done his work. George Washington was not a mere mountain top catching a little earlier the beams that of their own force would have soon found the valley, but, rather, he was like the sun itself, without which the light on the mountain top and in the valley would have been but moonlight or starlight.

Carrying the figure a little further, in deference to the classics, in these solar systems of the American Revolution, in the birth of the young republic in the west, Washington was not a secondary arc reflecting the light through the years, not a moon or planet, but, in the presence of Almighty God he was the center of undulations and radiations that filled the whole system with glory after he rose from the dead. He was an idol yet he did not cease to be a man among men. It is true that with few exceptions the great of the world of his day revered him, but at the same time little children played with him.

He has a monument of silver and bronze, he has medals of silver and gold; but, Mr. President, his best monument is the best love of the best American hearts, and the truest impression of his image is in the great heart of the greatest nation that ever stepped forth upon the stage of time.

Let us pause a second and think of him as he lies, peacefully on his own farm on the banks of his long-loved Potomac—"After Life's fitful fever," as Shakespeare would say, "he sleeps well." The centuries will place tributes on his bier; he will abide as a power for all time; his image will cast itself on the current of the ages like the mountain top alongside the Susquehanna mirrors its form in the waters. I am glad to bring George Washington here with us here today; I am sorry he was not with us last night—on the Republican side of this Chamber.

BILL ON SECOND READING

Agreeably to order,

The rule requiring bills to be considered in committee of the whole being in this case dispensed with,

The Senate proceeded to the second reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 80. (House Bill No. 143), entitled:

An Act to amend clause (b) of section four, article two of the act approved the twenty-fifth day of June, one thousand nine hundred and nineteen (Pamphlet Laws 581) entitled, "An act for the better government of cities of the first class of this Commonwealth," as amended by providing a succession of officers of such cities to act as mayor in case of a vacancy or disability of the mayor to act."

And said bill having been read at length the second time: On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on second reading?

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. SIPE. Mr. President, I also rise to a question of personal privilege.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Armstrong, Mr. Sipe, will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. SIPE. Mr. President, to begin with I want to read a few sentences from the Governor's budget message, as follows:

"The Budget provides a total of $4,400,000 for maintenance of patients in the sanatoria and Crippled Children's Hospital. This will provide 487,640 days' care in addition to the 1,916,250 days provided in the present biennium. It will provide for the occupancy of all State Authority construction at these institutions with the exception of Butler. I propose that the sanatorium at Butler be not occupied during the coming biennium. The entire present waiting list of sufferers from tuberculosis can be amply accommodated at the present sanatoria. To occupy the Butler institution would be an unjustifiable expense."

I think, Mr. President, that we can all take judicial notice of the fact that the tuberculosis sanatoria are already crowded and have long waiting lists. I think the Governor should take judicial notice of the fact that about the first three months after the development of tuberculosis in an individual are the critical months, and if he does not get proper treatment within those three months it usually follows that the undertaker makes a call within a year or two.

Now, this tuberculosis sanatorium at Butler is within my district. Further than that, it is the only State tuberculosis sanatorium in that part of Pennsylvania, west of the Allegheny mountains, a region in which there are approximately three millions of people; so that in the name of those millions of western Pennsylvanians I protest against the false economy which would keep this sanatorium closed for the next two years.

It seems likely that for a saving of a few dollars, hundreds of these tuberculosis sufferers—my fellow western Pennsylvanians—will sink into untimely graves. In the meantime, however, it is likely that there will be no let-up in the spending of State money to eradicate tuberculosis in hogs and cattle; but the thought is very repellent to me, representing Butler County, that tuberculosis sufferers in western Pennsylvania will have to take second place to tubercular hogs and cattle; so, in the name of emaciated hollow-voiced consumptive fathers and mothers of western Pennsylvania I protest against this false economy; in the name of emaciated hollow-eyed bony, little children I protest against this false economy. Why, Mr. President, I can hear the clods falling on their coffins while Mr. James saves a few dollars for the next two years.

He is suddenly getting very much interested in economy, all at once. Too bad he did not get a little interested in economy last year when, for the greater part of the year he was loafing on the job to the tune of fifteen hundred dollars a month. I cannot make this protest too strong, and I hope the gentlemen of the press will send the good news back to western Pennsylvania, send the good news back to the neighborhood of Pittsburgh, that for the saving of a few dollars the economical Governor of Pennsylvania proposes to keep the one tuberculosis hospital in western Pennsylvania closed the next two years, while money will be spent to eradicate tuberculosis in hogs and cattle. And no doubt, Mr. President, the fathers and mothers in my section of the country will be mighty glad to hear that—mighty interested.

The PRESIDENT. The Senate has before it the consideration of House Bill No. 143 (Senate Bill No. 80), on second reading.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the bill?

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I may not be here—in fact, I will not be here tomorrow and I will not be here Monday. I want to take advantage of this opportunity to say a few words on this bill, and call attention of the members of the Senate to the fact that if this is the bill I think we are talking about—it is the only bill on the calendar today—this is a bill which deals with succession to the office of mayor in Philadelphia in the event of a vacancy or inability to fill the office. This is a proposed amendment to the City charter Act of 1919. That act was amended in 1919, 1933, and 1937. The amendments all dealt with the same question. I mean, Mr. President, the act was passed in 1919 and amended in 1933 and in 1937.

In 1933 the Republican party in Philadelphia had an experience with the Public Safety Director. He was very active and opposed the party and they were afraid in case anything happened to the mayor that he, under the bill, would succeed to the office of mayor; and so, in 1933, since they did not like the Director of Public Safety and did not like the thought that possibly he would succeed to the office of mayor, they amended the act and eliminated the succession. That act originally stated first the Director of Public Safety and then the Director of the various departments. The act was subsequently amended also to add from time to time new departments that were created.

In 1933, however, the method of succession was eliminated by this amendment and the succession went to the president of council, and upon his inability to act or accept—his refusal to accept—it was then to go to the chairman of the Finance Committee.

In 1937 the bill was amended and the controller was substituted for the president of council. Now, I call attention of the members of the Senate to the fact that this act strikes out these amendments now, strikes out the word "controller" returns the bill to its original form, to the president of city council, or, if he refuses or he is unable to accept, to the chairman of the Finance Committee. I call attention of the members of the Senate to the fact that this amendment is unnecessary; and, by the way this conflicts with and contradicts the provision of the clause in section 4-A of the act. I want to read Section 4-A of the Act, which I copied from the original act:

"When a vacancy shall take place in the office of mayor, a successor shall be elected for the unexpired term at the next election occurring more than thirty days after the commencement of such vacancy, unless such election should occur in the last year of said term, in which case a mayor shall be chosen by the council by a majority vote of all the members elected thereto."

The Mayor of Philadelphia is now very sick—very ill—he may die or he may be unable to exercise the duties of his office, so in the midst of all our worries about the budget and saving one hundred thirty-three millions of dollars in expenses—as I see the paper says the Governor has done—we must take care of the situation, in case this man dies, for the City of Philadelphia, which is in financial trouble and is anxious to have this Legislature help it; so that, the Republican party must get busy to insure—in case anything happens to Mayor Wilson—that the president of the council can succeed. The mayor should be there to prepare his budget—and the employees are not paid—to see that nobody interferes with their doing nothing; they must be permitted to continue to do nothing. So this act now provides that until a vacancy is filled or in case of the mayor's temporary disability, which has been added now, the president of council will act.

Section 4-A. Provides that in the last year—and this is the last year of the present mayor's term—the council itself will appoint a successor to the mayor from its own body. It seems to me that this is no time for such political clap-trap. It is not fair, it is not necessary, and it is foolish to get this Senate to worry about that kind of a condition and pass amendatory acts.

I am willing to say that I never agreed with the changes in the first place. If you will look at the record you will see when the vote was taken the vote was 49 to 1, and I was the one who voted against that change. There is no necessity for it; it is bad practice and it should be stopped. If we are going to make laws to suit a particular situation in a non-recurring instance; if we are going to correct our own legislative acts after we have passed them in deliberate ways, to merely suit the whims or desires and necessities of the moment, you can imagine the kind of legislation we will get.

I think it is not important and certainly not decent to try to anticipate the death or inability to serve, by reason of illness, of a man who occupies a public office. There is no emergency; the Democrats cannot gain control of this office; the office must pass to the Republicans. Why worry and make bad laws and set a bad precedent?

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on second reading?

It was agreed to.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I desire to be recorded as voting "No" on the passage of this bill on second reading.

The PRESIDENT. It will be so noted.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. REED. Mr. President, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Washington, Mr. Reed, will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. REED. Mr. President, I was very much interested in what the Senator from Armstrong, Mr. Sipe, had to say about the question of tuberculosis in the State. I agree with him that one of the first considerations of government is to protect our people. I was just wondering whether the Chairman of the Committee on Health would see the Department of Health and ascertain how many people are on the waiting list in that department to go to tuberculosis sanatoria.

Mr. President, I would like to interrogate the Senator from Warren, Dr. Chapman.

The PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from Warren, Dr. Chapman, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. CHAPMAN. Mr. President, I will.

Mr. REED. Mr. President, I would like to know whether the Senator from Warren, in his kindness, would see the Department of Health and ascertain how many people are on the waiting list to go to tuberculosis sanatoria.

Mr. CHAPMAN. Mr. President, a short time ago fifteen thousand.

Mr. REED. Mr. President, will the Senator state how long that condition has existed.

Mr. CHAPMAN. Mr. President, it has been a couple of years ago.

Mr. REED. Mr. President, I would like to know whether the Senator could find that out and advise us.

Mr. CHAPMAN. Mr. President, I will do that.

REPORT FROM COMMITTEE

Mr. SNOWDEN. Mr. President I ask unanimous consent to make report from committee at this time.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Mr. SNOWDEN, from the Committee on Agriculture, to which was referred resolution offered by Messrs. SCARLETT and HEYBURN on February 7, 1939, reported the same without amendment, as follows:

JOINT LEGISLATIVE COMMITTEE TO STUDY REGULATIONS OF MILK CONTROL

In the Senate, February 7, 1939.

Whereas, Milk Control has been the subject of much controversy, and

Whereas, The production and distribution of milk is a subject of such vital importance to the citizens of the Commonwealth; therefore be it

Resolved (if the House of Representatives concur), That the President Pro Tempore shall appoint three members of the Senate, one of whom shall be designated as Chairman, and the Speaker of the House of Representatives shall appoint four members of the House, who together shall constitute a joint legislative committee and whose duty it shall be to investigate and study, (a) all regulations, records and activities of each department, severally and jointly, and to take the testimony of such witnesses as may be deemed necessary to ascertain full facts which will be useful and helpful in formulating future remedial and regulatory legislation;

Resolved, That said committee shall have power to issue subpoenas under the hand and seal of its Chairman, requiring and commanding any person to appear before it and answer such questions touching matters properly being inquired into by the committee, and to produce such books, papers, records and documents as the committee may deem necessary. Such subpoenas may be served upon any person and shall have the same force and effect as subpoenas issued out of the courts of this Commonwealth. Each member of the committee shall have power to administer oaths and affirmations to witnesses appearing before it. Any person who shall wilfully neglect or refuse to appear and testify for said committee, or to produce any books, papers, records and documents, shall be subject to the penalties provided by the laws of this Commonwealth in such cases.

A Motion was made by Mr. HEYBURN and Mr. OWLETT

That rule 39, which requires resolutions reported from committee to lie over for one day, be dispensed with and the Senate proceed to the consideration of the foregoing resolution.

Which was agreed to.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the resolution?

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the Senator from Delaware, Mr. Heyburn.

The PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from Delaware, Mr. Heyburn, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, gladly

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, will the Senator from Delaware, for the information of the Senate, advise us what brought about the preparation and introduction of this resolution at this time

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, there has been widespread discontent on the part of producers and distributors and consumers, and it has been the case heretofore that legislation has been hastily drawn, without any facts before the body, and it was conceived that this would be a fact-finding commission to delve into the situation and lay a report on every Senator's desk, in order that he might guide himself accordingly.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, it is true is it not, that the subject of milk control in all its phases has been discussed and reports in connection therewith presented to the Senators for the last three or four sessions?

Mr. HEYBURN. No, Mr. President, not to my knowledge; not for the last three or four sessions.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, was there not anything in particular that brought about the necessity to pass this resolution—or is it just because of what the Senator has already stated?

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, nothing in particular, except that the farmers are pretty much affected, sheriffs are getting pretty close; and we thought it necessary to do something.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, will the Senator answer whether or not the fact I read in the newspapers had something to do with it, namely, that the present Commission, with the approval of the Governor—as they must have—has reduced the price of milk two cents a quart, with the result that of that two cents one and a half cents per quart of the cost is being borne by the farmer and only one half cent by the distributor? Is it not true that that is what has made the situation acute and is the basis of this resolution?

Mr. HEYBURN. No, Mr. President, it is not, as far as I am concerned; this is a general condition, sir, I do not know much about the situation in western Pennsylvania; my colleagues, Senator Sipe and Senator Dent, are familiar with that situation and have spoken at length on it. The State is divided into different milk control areas, and the order the Senator from Philadelphia speaks of does not affect my area of the State.

Mr. SHAPIRO. But Mr. President, the Senator does know about the order?

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, I read something about it.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, does the Senator from Delaware ask for immediate consideration of this resolution?

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, I do.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I do not know anything about the fixing of the price of milk. I only have two cows and my quarrel, when I do not get enough milk, is with the cows and not with the Governor. I have just learned something about this, both on the farm and here in the Senate.

I do not know whether this is the proper way to attack the problem. The Governor has restricted the amount of money which will be appropriated for the appointment of commissions, and it would seem to me that instead of appointing a committee this matter could be dealt with by the Senators themselves, without a matter of investigation. You are going to have a committee appointed, you are going to be harassed by various views, you are going to have various pressure groups, and you will get just as much out of this committee as we did out of the first committee that handled the milk situation.

Each Administration determines it has the solution of the milk problem and determines to make rules and regulations and decisions which upset one section of the State, with the result that it begins to file resolutions of this kind for the purpose of having investigations.

None of us know enough about the milk situation to act intelligently on it, but I do not think it requires an investigation by this Senate. What it does require is an honest acknowledgment of what the problems are by the persons vitally interested, and that does not require having an investigation.

If the Governor is going to economize and if he is going to limit us to the amount set up in the budget for investigatory committees, I think we had better stop passing these resolutions.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. SIPE. Mr. President, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Armstrong, Mr. Sipe, will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. SIPE. Mr. President, I know the hour is late, and my colleagues, many of them, are getting pretty nervous about attending the banquet tonight, but I want to say there is a very acute situation in western Pennsylvania with reference to milk, that I want to tell you about.

I did mention it briefly a couple of weeks ago. On the tenth of this month there went into effect an order for the Pittsburgh district, signed by the Governor, of course, as every order of the Milk Control Board must be, which is simply driving the milk producing farmers of western Pennsylvania out of business. The order provides that there shall be a reduction of two cents a quart on milk to the consumer, seventy-six cents a hundred-weight to the farmer on class A and fifty-two cents on the next class. To boil it down it means that of this two cent reduction, as has been stated here, that the consumer gets, one and a half cents goes back to the farmer.

To put it in another way, take the small milk producer, one who is producing fifty gallons a day—that order approved by our economical Governor takes three dollars a day off that farmer's income. As a consequence there is a regular furore in the countryside in my county. Approximately one-fourth of the milk producing farmer's milk check goes for high pepped-up dairy feed, to add to the food produced on the farm, and then the Governor comes along and knocks off another one-fourth to one-third of his income, and you can see where the farmer is.

I am receiving the most pitiful letters from farmers in my district that I have received since I came down here to this Senate. One farmer writes me he has had such a hard time since he began farming in 1895, to raise a family of eight children, that he has not been able to make the necessary repairs on his farm, that he has now nine cows in his old age, and that this order takes off enough of his farm income to pay his taxes, to pay his insurance, and part of his repair bill. I went to visit him. It was pathetic to see his distress.

I have one neighbor who just got done putting in a lot of repairs and changing his stables which the milk inspectors from the City of Pittsburgh and the other inspectors order us poor old farmers to make. He has just got done laying out two hundred fifty dollars to make that change, and here comes along this order that takes off one-third of his milk check.

Meetings are being held all over western Pennsylvania among the farmers—they are not forgetting Governor James's promises, if he forgot them. They heard him haranguing over the radio with promises and ballyhoo and Bible quotations to the farmers, promising them the world with a fence around it. They took him at his word and voted for him, and now, the first crack out of the box, he gives them a wallop that knocks them silly; and I will tell you, seriously speaking, there is a trend in the milk monopoly to drive the milk producing farmer out of the milk producing business and supplant him with monopoly-owned dairy farms.

About two years ago I was called into consultation with a couple of lawyers in the holy city of Pittsburgh who are legal representatives for some milk monopoly. This was not a milk case, it was another kind of law business, and after we got through and split the fees they took me to the William Penn Hotel and gave me a great dinner. Well, being from the country, the only beverage I am interested in and the only one I will stick to is water, and I intend to stick to that as long as the supply lasts, but these two legal luminaries did not stick to water, they took a few highballs with their dinner, and after the highballs commenced to work on them they began to tease me for operating a farm.

They began by saying to me "You get a great deal of annoyance from our inspections, do you not?" "Oh, yes." I said, "I agree to that. One inspector comes and orders a couple of hundred dollars' worth of changes and no sooner do we get those changes made than another inspector comes and rescinds them or alters them, and so we dig down into our pockets and make the other change, and just about the time we get on our feet the milk monopoly come along and gives us another wallop."

When whiskey is in wit is out, and sometimes when whiskey is in the unconscious mind is letting out some of its stuff, so they said to me, "You know, we are going to stabilize this milk business, we are going to make it so annoying for you fellows that you are going to get out of the milk business or starve, and then we are going to do as Meadow Gold is already doing (and as I knew it was) put in our own dairy farm." "And then," they said, "after we get the business stabilized and get you rubes out of the milk-producing business and have our own dairy farms, then you and your wives can clean our stables for us."

Kidding they were, but yet there is no doubt that that is what was in the back of their minds, because that is the trend. I happen to live in western Pennsylvania and I know the dairy farms that have been gobbled in by the milk monopoly. I know about all that. And I am issuing a warning here that unless the farmers wake up and unless they get some support from the merchants who will get on their backs—and they are depending on the farmers' income—that farm income will be knocked into a three-cornered cocked hat. It will be only a few years until the farmers of my part of the State will be driven out of business, the milk producing business, and will be supplanted by the dairy farms of the milk trust.

I do not know whether an investigation of the milk business is the best thing to do at present. I have largely the same idea now that I had when the Milk Control Law was passed; it went through my committee and I said then it was not the best Milk Control Law in the world but that if we had the right kind of a Milk Control Board we would get pretty good results from that law. The trouble, as I see it, is not so much in the law as in the board; and in that respect the Governor has forgotten his promises. If you have a poor law and a good board the farmer is going to get some relief, he is going to get some consideration that approximates justice—a little of it, at least; but no matter how good a Milk Control Law you have you will get no good results if the board is no good. But I say this is a very serious situation. I took a couple of hours the other night and made an estimate that I believe is very conservative, that this recent order issued by the Milk Control Board and signed and approved by the economical Governor of this Commonwealth will take at least five hundred thousand dollars a month from the income of western Pennsylvania farmers. That is economy for you!

Mr. CROWE. Mr. President, I would like to interrogate my colleague, the Senator from Armstrong, Mr. Sipe.

The PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from Armstrong, Mr. Sipe, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. SIPE. Mr. President, I will.

Mr. CROWE. Mr. President, I would like to know whether my esteemed colleague from Armstrong is speaking for or against the question?

Mr. SIPE. Mr. President, I cannot give you any better answer than I have. I do not know what the question is. You tell me what the question is and I will answer it.

I know we have a serious situation over there in the western part of the state, and I have on my desk, if you want to see them, a lot of letters written to me which are alleged by the writers to be copies of letters sent to the Governor, saying they listened to his promises, they voted for him, and they regret it, because he is heading them toward bankruptcy by this order that has gone out from the Milk Control Board.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the resolution?

Mr. STIEFEL. Mr. President, how can we vote upon this question when we do not know anything about it? I do not want to sit here and vote on this question as a Democrat or Republican, I want to know something about the milk situation; and I need an explanation. I do not know anything about it; and how can anybody expect me to vote on this question when I do not know anything about it?

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, the purpose of this resolution is simply to investigate the situation in order that the members of this Senate may be well informed.

Mr. SIPE. Mr. President, I think it would be a good idea to investigate the Governor as to why he made such wonderful promises to farmers and then went back on them and gave them this wallop, in western Pennsylvania, as far as their business is concerned. And then they may look for another wallop about June 1st.

I am willing to vote for the resolution, I am willing to do anything that gives any promise at all of helping the farmers of Pennsylvania.

Mr. STIEFEL. Mr. President, in the good olden days I was a neighbor of the Senator from Delaware, Mr. Heyburn; he was seated in seat No. 40, I was seated in seat No. 50; and I remember the indignation of Senator Heyburn when the Milk Control Law was railroaded. He objected to the speed, he wanted more time, clamored for more time. Now the same thing he objected to he wants to promulgate in the Senate.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the resolution?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. Cavalcante and Mr. Dent, and the roll was called.

Mr. DEITRICK. Mr. President, I wish to be recorded as voting "Aye".

The PRESIDENT. It will be so noted.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, may I inquire how the Senator from Fayette, Mr. Cavalcante, voted?

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, there is nothing before the Senate but the roll call.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, while the discussion was going on on this resolution I was called out about three times to answer the telephone, and had a few other interruptions, and I had to ask for a roll call in order to get sufficient time to inquire of my colleague from Armstrong concerning the substance of the resolution. I am now apprised of it and I wish to be recorded as voting for the resolution.

The PRESIDENT. It is so recorded.

The yeas and nays were as follows, viz:

Coleman,

So the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, that the Clerk inform the House of Representatives accordingly.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. SIPE. Mr. President, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Armstrong, Mr. Sipe, will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. SIPE. I hope now, Mr. President, that since we are going to have an investigation that the investigators will give some attention at least to the question of to what extent representatives and lobbyists and lawyers of the milk monopoly have to do with the various orders that the Milk Control Board makes. A former member of the Milk Control Board told me that on the day on which the late Governor Stewart was buried two members of the Milk Control Board were closeted for the greater part of the day with two representatives of the Milk monopoly from Pittsburgh, and an order came out reducing the price to the farmer; and this member of the Milk Control Board did not know anything about it until the order was made. I think we had better look into the monopoly.

ADJOURNMENT

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

TUESDAY, February 28, 1939.

The House met at 1 p. m.

The SPEAKER (Ellwood J. Turner) in the Chair.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Rev. Walter Evans Deibler, offered the following prayer:

"For as the rain cometh down, and the snow from heaven, and returneth not thither, but watereth the earth, and maketh it bring forth and bud, that it may give seed to the sower, and bread to the eater: So shall my word be that goeth forth out of my mouth: it shall not return unto me void, but it shall accomplish that which I please, and it shall prosper in the thing whereto I sent it." Help us O God to appreciate Thy continuous beneficence for which we give Thee thanks. Bless, we beseech Thee, all wholesome institutions in our land. Especially do we pray for the Boy Scouts of America who celebrated their thirtieth birthday this month. Help us to be willing at all times to say with them:

"On my honor I will do my best—

To do my duty to God and my country, and to obey the Scout Law.

To help other people at all times.

To keep myself physically strong, mentally awake, and morally straight"

May these ideals give us courage to face every task, and to do our work well. This we pray in Thy Holy Name, O God. Amen.

RESOLUTION INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

By Mr. SHEARER. (Concurrent) RESOLUTION No. 21.

In the House of Representatives, February 27, 1939.

Whereas, it was the intent of the Commonwealth, at the time it purchased $90,000 of the capital stock of the Harrisburg Bridge Company, that the toll bridge, the construction of which was authorized in 1809 at Market Street in Harrisburg, should be freed within a period of thirty years, or as soon thereafter as excess toll collections would permit; and

Whereas, the Constitution of the Commonwealth has been amended to authorize the issuance of such part of $10,000,000 of additional bonds as may be necessary to acquire intrastate toll bridges; and

Whereas, negotiations for the purchase of the Market Street Bridge have resulted in a delay of approximately five years in the acquisition of the property, during which time gross receipts increased to $416,371.27, in 1937, on a property valued at $1,501,000 by the Department of Highways; and

Whereas, the current collection of approximately $500,000 annually in tolls on the two vehicular bridges at Harrisburg is a serious impediment to the social and commercial life of the community; and

Whereas, neither of the present vehicular bridges are so located as to facilitate the flow of traffic in the vicinity of Harrisburg that will result from the completion of the South Penn Turnpike and other projected highway improvements; and

Whereas, it is neither fitting nor proper that toll shall be charged on highways leading into the Capitol of the Commonwealth; now, therefore, be it

Resolved, (if the Senate concur) that this General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania shall proceed to the enactment of legislation for the construction of two free bridges over the Susquehanna River at Harrisburg; one between State Street and the highway by-pass at Wormleysburg, and the other between Paxton Street and the West Shore.

By Mr. REYNOLDS. RESOLUTION No. 22.

In the House of Representatives, February 27, 1939.

Whereas, The Negro has always been a loyal and patriotic citizen of the United States; and

Whereas, His record for brave and heroic deeds in numerous wars throughout the entire history of this country beginning with the Revolutionary War has been most commendable; and

Whereas, The Negro is denied the right to serve in a large number of branches of the armed forces of the United States; and

Whereas, The exclusion of the Negro from the various branches of the armed service is unfair, un-American and virtually a denial of his right to prepare himself to give his best in defense of his country; therefore be it

Resolved, That the House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania memorialize the President of the United States to use his executive authority to the end that all branches of the military service of our country be opened alike to all qualified citizens so that no person shall be denied the right to enter the various branches of the armed forces of our land because of race, creed or color; and be it further Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be forwarded to His Excellency, the President of the United States, the Hon. Harry H. Woodring, Secretary of War, and the Hon. Claude A. Swanson, Secretary of the Navy.

Agreeably to order.

The General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania hereby enacts as follows

Section 1 Section five of the act approved the twenty-sixth day of April one thousand nine hundred thirty-five (Pamphlet Laws 90) entitled "An act to promote uniformity in the assessment and taxation of properties and persons within the territorial limits of cities of the second class A by providing that city and school taxes within such territorial limits shall be assessed levied and collected upon the basis of the assessments for taxation for county purposes and requiring the furnishing of tax duplicates by the county taxing authorities to such cities and to school districts coterminous therewith abolishing the department of assessors in cities of the second class A consolidating tax statements covering city school county and poor taxes therein and making uniform the time for levy and collection of said taxes respectively and regulating the discounts therefrom and penalties thereon" which was amended by section five of the act approved the second day of July one thousand nine hundred thirty-seven (Pamphlet Laws 2791) is hereby further amended to read as follows

Section 5 It shall be the duty of the collector of taxes in the issuing of tax statements to include all city school county and poor taxes against the same properties or persons upon one statement for each year and said tax statement shall be mailed to the taxpayer by the tax collector not later than the first day of April of each calendar year Taxables shall have the option to elect to pay the

Section 2 This act shall be in force and effect immediately upon its passage and approval by the Governor

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. CORDIER. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, the bill before you applies only to cities of the second class A, namely Scranton. It provides for the collection and payment of taxes in cities of the second class A within the same year for which the taxes are assessed. It also provides for a change in the penalties under the Single Tax Act, under which Scranton operates and which at present provides where a taxpayer becomes delinquent on any quarterly payment of his taxes he is penalized for the entire amount of the taxes for the entire year. The amendment to the act provides that the taxpayer is only penalized for interest and a penalty to the extent that he is delinquent in any quarterly payment during the year. This particular act has the approval of the County Solicitor, the City Solicitor and the School Board Solicitor of the city of Scranton, and it definitely has the approval of the taxpayers of Scranton. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, the tax collector of the city of Scranton is holding up the printing of his tax statement looking forward to the approval of this act.

For the reasons stated, Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I respectfully urge the members of the House to give this bill their affirmative vote.

Mr. HUNTLEY. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Lackawanna, Mr. Cordier.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Lackawanna, Mr. Cordier, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. CORDIER. I will, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. HUNTLEY. Mr. Speaker, I understood the gentleman from Lackawanna to say that that was a special law in reference to Scranton.

Mr. CORDIER. That is right, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. HUNTLEY. Mr. Speaker, then I take it that this law is unconstitutional. How can we pass a special tax law in Pennsylvania that applies to only one county?

Mr. CORDIER. Mr. Speaker, for the information of the gentleman I would say that this is not a new law. It is an amendment to a law that has already been passed, and from information that I have from the Legislative Reference Bureau when the amendment was prepared, I am informed it is not special legislation and it does not require any publication.

Mr. HUNTLEY. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, in the county where I live, Cameron County, we have a special tax law, and I am informed we cannot amend that law, that the only thing we can do is to repeal it.

Mr. CORDIER. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, this amendment to the Single Tax Act of cities of the second class A in no sense can be construed as special legislation. The act originally applied to all cities of the second class A, and in the present set-up there is but one city of the second class A, namely Scranton. I have taken the matter up with the director of the Legislative Reference Bureau and I have been informed that it is not special legislation, and for these reasons I ask for an affirmative vote on this bill.

Mr. HUNTLEY. Mr. Speaker, I withdraw my objections. I think the gentleman has made it plain by mentioning the classification. He did not do that when he first spoke of it. He said it was a law applying to Scranton only.

BILL ON THIRD READING

Agreeably to order.

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 92, as follows:

An Act to prohibit assessments and demands for contributions for political purposes and providing a penalty
The General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania hereby enacts as follows

Section 1 It shall be unlawful for any political committee or any member employe or agent thereof or for any public officer or employe or any other person whatsoever directly or indirectly to demand from any public officer subordinate or employe holding any office or position of honor trust or profit under this Commonwealth or otherwise engaged or employed in the service of the Commonwealth or employed by or in any way engaged in the service of any political subdivision or from any person receiving any public assistance whatsoever from the Commonwealth or the United States directly or through employment on public works or any person association or corporation desiring or having a contract with or a certificate license or permit from the Commonwealth or any political subdivision any assessment or percentage of any money or profit or their equivalent in any thing of value with the understanding express or implied that the same may be used or shall be used for political purposes Provided however That nothing in this act contained shall be construed to prohibit voluntary contributions to any political committee or organization for legitimate political and campaign purposes to the extent such contributions are not prohibited by law

Section 2 Any person who violates any of the provisions of this act shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and on conviction thereof shall be sentenced to imprisonment for a term not exceeding one (1) year or to pay a fine not exceeding one thousand dollars ($1,000) or both in the discretion of the court.

Section 3 This act shall become effective immediately upon its final enactment

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. LONG. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, the administration anti-macing bill is about to be put to a vote in this House. I would like to call the attention of the House to the fact that the bill in its present form merely reenacts the old anti-macing acts which have been in effect in this state for the past forty years. The old anti-macing acts have permitted every administration and every political party that has gained control in the Commonwealth to levy persistently and maliciously assessments and demands upon political jobholders in this Commonwealth. After last night's little discussion on the floor of the House I met several of the former employees of the Commonwealth who worked on the Hill for a number of years under both Democratic and Republican administrations, and these gentlemen who are no longer employed by the Commonwealth as public employees, are of the opinion that the solicitation which is permitted by this bill, is in effect a demand. The first form of job insurance that we ever had in Pennsylvania was political assessments and political contributions to the boss that held the whip. As the employees will tell you, it was always a very good investment. If we wish to continue macing of public employees as it has persisted in this Commonwealth during the last forty years, all we have to do is to enact this measure as it now stands and go back to the old status quo, an open season for the macing of public employees. Here is a real opportunity for the incoming administration to practice economy and to at the same time in effect give a raise in salary to every public employee in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

The tax on employees' salaries is a most malicious and vicious form of unofficial taxation. It is based upon the principle in many cases of inability to pay, rather than ability to pay. If we really wish to do away with this malicious form of macing, the only way we can do it is by strengthening this bill and not by merely re-enacting the old anti-macing legislation of former years.

I would like to ask the members of this House, regardless of their political affiliation, to vote for this anti-macing measure in the hope and with the expectation that the Senate might strengthen in some measure and make effective to some extent at least an anti-macing bill, and if by any stretch of the imagination should fail in its duty to the people of the state of Pennsylvania, I and I believe many other people interested in this State, really believe that His Excellency, the Governor of the Commonwealth, being sincere in wishing to do away once and for all with this vicious practice, will send back to this House this emasculated bill with the demand that we prevent the macing of public employees in Pennsylvania for once and for all. Therefore, I ask that all members give this bill their support and their vote.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, the request of the gentleman from Philadelphia that this House support a bill which he properly terms an inoperative measure is indeed a peculiar one. I would not have arisen had it not been for the fact that the gentleman from Philadelphia did request the minority to support this bill.

This measure outlines the procedure followed by the party whose leaders are now facing indictments and possible conviction. If the leaders of the Democratic party are convicted they will have done nothing more than those things which would be sanctioned by this measure. If the gentleman from Philadelphia is really consistent instead of asking the minority to support this measure, in view of the misfortunes that have followed the footsteps of the Democratic leaders, he would ask that the minority oppose this inoperative bill.

Mr. McVAY. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Long, has stated that the passing of this bill will reenact an anti-macing law. He has not told us that the 1937 session of the Legislature, through what they claim in apologetic terms to have been an oversight, omitted this bill from a revision of the election code.

With apologies to the scripture, I do not quote, I understand there is great rejoicing in Heaven over the repentance of even one sinner. I am sure that Saint Peter will open wide the pearly gates of heaven to receive the ladies and gentlemen of the minority. Why do I say this? Because the minority through at least some of their spokesmen have stated that they would support an anti-macing measure. Last evening we had the pleasure of listening to some very able and, yes, perhaps some sincere remarks from the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Long. He offered alternative amendments. His first set of amendments would deny the right of suffrage to every employee on the state payroll. Upon the defeat of that amendment he admits upon the floor of this House, both a doubt of the merits and a doubt of the constitutionality. For that reason I cannot but feel that there might have been some doubt as to the sincerity and the good faith in which the amendment was offered. Now, he offered last evening an alternative amendment in which he would make it crime to solicit contributions for political purposes. The gentleman could not but admit the absolute impossibility of administering such a law. I cannot doubt that there might have been some sincerity in the remarks of the gentleman from Philadelphia. Certainly there is fresh in all of our minds the campaign preceding the last election held on November 8th to the eternal shame of the so called Democratic party. There was paraded before the world the most high handed most vicious and most disgracing blood sucking display of autocratic penny grabbing that the mind of man, beast or the devil could possibly conjure. The brows of the janitor were plucked in order that the last shackle might be shaken loose from the palsied hand of the aged. The purse of the scrub woman was examined so that in addition to the regular assessment a further levy might be exacted. Even "Harry the Hop," who has since apparently turned over a new leaf as Secretary of Commerce has admitted that WPA workers were mulcted, maced, browbeaten and "fenagled" out of the last farthing which he so laboriously earned in waiving the red flag. I think we of the majority would appreciate the request of the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Long, that the minority join in the passage of this act because, if it is nothing more, it is the reenactment of a bill which the Democrats apologized for having omitted through oversight.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, "when the devil is sick, the devil a saint would be; when the devil is well, the devil a saint is he." The Democratic devil, as a result of the unrestrained solicitation of contributions from the people who should not have been solicited is in trouble, and as the gentleman said, he has repented, but the Republican devil, being well, takes the position that it can get away with the sort of thing that destroyed the Democratic party.

Mr. LONG. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I do not wish to take up too much of the members time, I do not believe that at any time, particularly by the members who have served with me, has my sincerity ever been an issue in this House. The gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. McVay, gave some very fine reasons why this bill should be passed. He enumerated the facts of macing, "fenagling" and brow-beating of federal and work relief employees, and the fact that he included solicitation in the "fenagling" and the macing only goes to show that if we really want to prevent these occurrences which the gentleman from Allegheny deplures, the way to do that is to strengthen the bill and to prevent solicitation which is really a demand.

The gentleman has given the most excellent reasons I think, why the Republican majority in this House should reconsider its action in not including in this measure the solicitation of public employees.

Mr. KANE. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, like the gentleman from Philadelphia, I do not want to take up too much of your time, but I do want to point out one reason which we did not cover in last night's discussion for preserving the right of voluntary contributions to a political party on the part of governmental employees, and that is this: next to macing, which we are all complaining about, probably the next worst evil that we have to contend with is the domination of political parties by one or two wealthy contributors, who by reason of the fact that they furnish sinews of war, are in a position after election to demand proper recognition for their very well worth while service in the campaign. I am not complaining about any individuals on this matter. It is a matter which prevails in both parties in state and national elections. Therefore, it is important that we preserve the voluntary privilege on the part of governmental employees, if they care to contribute.

I likewise wish to state that the sincerity of the gentleman from Philadelphia is well known to the members who have served with him for a four year period, and it should not be questioned by any body in this House, whether on one side or the other. I want to suggest, however, that the gentleman from Philadelphia, rather than the gentleman from Cambria, is right about the position we should take at this time. Let us by all means pass the measure before the House by unanimous vote and join in a request for betterments as the bill goes on through the processes in the Senate and to the Governor's desk so that it can be made a genuinely effective anti-macing bill, preserving on the one hand the right of an individual to make contributions, and preventing on the other hand the demanding of contributions whether by outright demand or by quiet suggestion that "you had better contribute or else."

I want to thank the members of the House for their courtesy and I hope the Democratic members will not take a partisan angle on this thing for the reason that it is proposed by Republicans, but remembering, as the gentleman from Cambria has already said, it was this very macing which did their party the most damage in the recent election. Join the Republicans in making the vote on this bill unanimous.

Mr. HERBERT B. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, and members of the House, I remember very clearly, and I think that the members of the House remember very clearly January 17, when His Excellency, the Governor, stood before the present assemblage and waved the anti-macing bill which he said was the bill which was going to prevent contributions from people who received money from the state, or the demand for contributions from people who received money from the state. In that bill the Governor changed the established law of this Commonwealth that had been in existence for years, in that it allowed corporations to make voluntary contributions. Now, when that particular, shall I say, misconception, was called to the Governor's attention, the Governor through his legislative arm, had lines ten and eleven of the bill deleted. I did not hear anybody say that that deletion of lines ten and eleven was a fraud committed by the Governor maliciously in order to change the existing law. The Governor said and the Attorney General said that it was an error that crept into the bill and we will see, after the bill is presented to us, that the error is obviated. The gentleman who previously spoke was not nearly as magnanimous to the Democratic minority, as the majority in 1937 was to the Governor and his Attorney General in 1939. He would say it was a malicious act on the part of the 1937 legislature that deleted the anti-macing clause from the election code.

I say to the members of this House, just as the gentleman from Philadelphia has said, and as the gentleman from McKean has said, that this bill, for all practical purposes and effect, is an absolute nullity; we are accomplishing nothing by its enactment. The only particular purpose that we might have in passing this bill is to turn it over to the Senate so that those who are sincerely interested in passing an anti-macing bill might have this bill before them so that the proper effective amendments might be placed in it. As it stands now, as the gentleman from Cambria has indicated, with this particular enactment passed by this House, it will not prevent the abuses that we seek to cure; it will not change one iota a situation that existed more than four years under the previous Republican administration; it will not change one iota the system that has been in force for the past four years under the Democratic administration. I say to the membership of this House if you expect to go back to your people and tell them that you have now driven from the laws of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania this miserable practice of macing state employees, that you have thereby enacted the campaign promise that you have made to your constituents, that you did make and still are making, I say to the membership of this House that you are committing a fraud upon your constituents because this bill accomplishes nothing. If the Senate sees fit to put teeth into this bill, if the Governor sees fit to send it back to the House and Senate for effective amendment, then we will have something accomplished, but lest the majority will continue to go back to their constituents and say that when that grand and fine anti-macing bill was presented to the House the Democrats all voted "No," lest there should be a continued perpetration of fraud upon the people of the Commonwealth, I say to the membership of this House, pass the bill, a nullity as it might be, send it over to the Senate with the sincere hope that the amendments suggested by the gentleman from Philadelphia be placed in the bill, and that we enact for the people of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, the employees of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, the employees of the municipal governments of the state of Pennsylvania, an effective anti-macing bill, so that we can go back to our people and know that the job has been well done.

Under those circumstances, realizing that no effective accomplishment will be made by the passage of this bill, but in order to obviate incorrect accusations, I ask the membership of this House to vote for this bill, which is nothing more than a complete fraud upon the people of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and the workers for the Commonwealth.

Mr. ROSENFELD. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, we of the minority feel rather grateful to my worthy colleague from Allegheny County in receiving the sanction to enter the Hall of St Peter. As the minority in this House, we favor legislation which will do the public some good; we certainly do not favor legislation similar to what we are trying to enact today. Such legislation to my mind purports to be nothing more than a joker. It certainly will not remedy the situation that has existed for more than fifty years. I refer not only to employees that have been maced but I refer to the practice that has continued here for many years whereby organizations dominated by Pew, Grundy and Weir, have made contributions for the reason that they have vitally interested themselves in every campaign that went on in this state, and as a matter of fact, in this nation. I appeal, on behalf of the minority in this House, to oppose this bill and to oppose it for the reason that it does not mean anything. It merely carries out a promise which the Governor made which has no effect whatsoever.

Mr. LEVY. Mr. Speaker and members of the House last night until approximately three o'clock in the morning I witnessed personally the argument over on the Senate floor concerning a debatable senatorial election in Philadelphia, and I was very happy near the close of the session this morning that a Democratic member of the Senate had the courage to stand up and tell the body that he thought the argument was useless and was wasted because, he added, "During my campaign I remembered distinctly that I went into many tap rooms and put the drinks up for the house, when my voters were present," and he never reported that to the Elections' Committee.

Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I join with my colleague from York, Mr. Cohen, in telling you that this anti-macing bill is a fraud on the people of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. I for one doubt the sincerity of the gentleman who represents the majority in this House, and I doubt the sincerity of the gentleman from Allegheny who spoke about macing Federal employees, and I also doubt the sincerity of any member on the opposite side of this House who attempts to bring in anything which has to deal with the subject of macing in Pennsylvania. I deny the sincerity of the Governor of Pennsylvania when we remember distinctly on the day of the inauguration, when we flaunted upon this assemblage a bill which he had in his hand and he said, "This will stop macing in Pennsylvania," when in fact in that particular bill there was no provision for contributions by manufacturers and industrialists in Pennsylvania. It was only after a vigorous protest from a Philadelphia liberal newspaper that the Governor went into conference with his Attorney General and inserted in that bill the very thing that they had been talking about. We know as members of this House that you are not going to stop macing with this piece of legislation. We are not kidding ourselves. We are not kidding the thousands of people in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. I say, let us forget this partisan debate and let us defeat this bill, and until the Governor or his Attorney General or the members of the majority bring to this House a bill that really means something, I say I am opposed to it.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, in this debate I think the record should at least be kept straight. The gentleman from York, Mr. Cohen, spoke of the amendments which were inserted in this bill while it was on its way through the House. He had the lines all wrong in the first place, but that is not of any great importance. Line 11 and part of line 12 was stricken out. Line 10 provides this, and this is the way the bill read prior to its amendment:

"Provided however that nothing in this act contained shall prevent any person association or corporation from making a voluntary contribution." There was nothing in this act which prior to this time prohibited corporations from making contributions, but in another act there was a provision which prohibited corporations from making contributions, and that in no way would have been affected by the provisions of this act. That was the opinion and the thought of the Attorney General of this Commonwealth and the thought and opinion of the best lawyers of this Commonwealth, but because the question was raised it was the opinion of the majority party that there should be no doubt left as to the real intent of this act, and for that reason the amendment was inserted, which makes it perfectly clear that the law as it existed prior to this time, relative to contributions by corporations, should in no way be changed. The law now reads, "nothing in this act contained shall be construed to prohibit voluntary contributions to any political committee or any organization for legitimate political and campaign purposes to the extent such contributions are not prohibited by law."

Mr. SEIF. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, one of the members of the minority got up a few moments and said that he questioned the sincerity of the floor leader and my colleague, Mr. McVay from Allegheny, and practically everybody on this side of the House, in regard to our sincerity in attempting to eliminate once and for all, macing.

I might say it is a matter of record that I voted as a Republican in favor of the amendment, the alternative amendment, proposed by Mr. Long from Philadelphia County. I am sincere in my feeling that macing must be prohibited, but because I am sincere I think that half a loaf is better than no bread. I voted for the amendment, as I said, that Mr. Long proposed because I thought it was a very effective amendment, a more effective provision, but if it is the will of the members of this House that the amendment be not accepted, then I say that my sincerity, I do not believe, should be questioned in view of the way I voted last night, and I ask all the members of the House to vote for the bill that is on the floor today.

MOTION TO POSTPONE BILL

Mr. MORAN. Mr. Speaker and members of the House I do not believe that we should pass legislation in this House and depend on the Senate to amend that legislation to cover something that we are afraid to face in the House. I think that this measure, as some of the members here have brought out, is nothing but a gesture, a camouflage on the people of Pennsylvania, to try to make the people think they are getting a real law when they are not. I say that the majority members of this House should reconsider this bill, put it back into committee and amend it. If they do not like Mr. Long's amendment, let some Republican member put those amendments in the bill.

Mr. Speaker, I move you that this bill be placed on the postponed calendar until the majority, or that committee that handles this bill, has had a little more time to consider it.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. Moran and Mr. Baker and were as follows:

REASONS FOR VOTE.

Mr. REUBEN E. COHEN filed the following reason for his vote.

I am opposed to the practice of so-called "macing of public employees" and extortion of money from business for favors from the State or other political sub-divisions. I am in favor of an all inclusive bill and am of the firm opinion that this bill does not accomplish the high purpose it set out to do. I therefore vote "No." I would vote "Aye" to a proper bill.

Mr. HESS filed the following reason for his vote.

I believe that House Bill No. 92 as passed by this House is a poor bill in that it does not also make illegal the solicitation of contributions for political purposes. I am of the opinion that the bill as passed allows loopholes which will defeat its purpose and not accomplish the avowed purpose of its sponsor.

I am voting in favor of it, however, because I feel that it is at least a step in the right direction to assure honest government. I am of the opinion, however, that in the event that this bill is enacted into law future legislatures will find it necessary to amend the bill to make illegal the solicitation of political contributions if the measure is to be of real benefit in the advancement of honest government.

Mr. TRONZO filed the following reason for his vote.

I refuse to vote for an ineffective anti-macing bill. I am firmly convinced that Governor James is merely kidding the public when he says that he is opposed to the macing of the payroll.

BILL ON THIRD READING

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 132, entitled:

An Act to repeal the act, approved the thirtieth day of July, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-eight (P. L. 18), entitled "An act suspending, retroactively as well as prospectively, any other pending investigation, legislative, executive or judicial, of charges of, or involving, misdemeanor in office on the part of civil officers liable to impeachment, which the House of Representatives undertakes to investigate, and providing under what circumstances the suspended investigation may be resumed."

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. JIROLANIO. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Northampton, Mr. Roseberry.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Northampton permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. ROSEBERRY. Mr. Speaker, I will, and I yield to my colleague, the gentleman from Northampton, Mr. Hoffman.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Northampton, Mr. Hoffman, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. HOFFMAN. I will, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. JIROLANIO. Mr. Speaker, does the gentleman from Northampton know whether or not the act which this bill is about to repeal was ever placed before the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania for its consideration or study?

Mr. HOFFMAN. Mr. Speaker, I have no direct or personal knowledge as to that question. I feel it is irrelevant. The fact that a bill now stands upon the statute books that is an injustice to the decency of our Pennsylvania citizenry, is sufficient warrant for me to say that the bill has been introduced for the purpose of repealing that bill.

Mr. JIROLANIO. Mr. Speaker, does the gentleman from Northampton know that the bill which he seeks to repeal has been declared unconstitutional by the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania?

Mr. HOFFMAN. Mr. Speaker, I have no direct personal knowledge that this bill in its entirety has been declared unconstitutional by the Supreme Court. It may have declared unconstitutional in part.

Mr. JIROLANIO. Mr. Speaker, I would like to know or be enlightened by the gentleman from Northampton just what section or part of the bill which he says he knows very little about, has been or has not been declared constitutional.

Mr. HOFFMAN. Mr. Speaker, fortunately I happen to be among those who are not learned or trained in legal attainments, and for an answer to that question I respectfully refer the gentleman from Northampton to the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania.

Mr. JIROLANIO. Mr. Speaker, is it not a fact that when an act is declared unconstitutional by the highest and mightiest court in this Commonwealth, it being in this case the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania, that that act then upon the statute books is null and void?

Mr. HOFFMAN. Mr. Speaker, it would occur to me if the gentleman has any real constructive subject that he wants any enlightenment upon that he ought to address his questions to matters which are relevant and not make suggestions that are purely nonsensical.

Mr. JIROLANIO. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, bowing to an older person, older in age and wisdom, I must confess my ignorance in my youth. However, we have before us House Bill, No. 132, Printer's No. 17.

Mr. Speaker and members of the House, we are asked here to vote to repeal a certain act passed in the special session of 1938. If my memory serves me correctly, at the opening of this session the Governor of the state of Pennsylvania said that economy should be the greatest thing in the program of his administration. If my memory also serves me correctly, the Speaker from the Chair at the opening of the session said that two men learned in the law would be at the use and disposal of the various members of the House of Representatives who would pass upon bills to be introduced, so that they would not conflict with those of anyone else.

Now, ladies and gentlemen of the House, bearing in mind that the gentleman who introduced this bill, from his own say-so, knows nothing about the bill, — and of course I can see that, but that is immaterial — still and all this bill is before the House under his name, and the act which you are about to be asked to repeal has been declared unconstitutional by the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania, a court, which whether you like it or not, is the supreme authority in this Commonwealth in the adjudication of acts as to whether or not they are constitutional. As to this particular act they said that it was unconstitutional, and therefore, although that act may be part and parcel of the 1938 special session, no court in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania can consider that act to have any force and effect. At the same time there are members in this House who have seen fit to waste and squander the time of this legislative body and the money of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in having printed several times a bill which amounts to nothing. You know that old saying, "Nothing from nothing leaves nothing." Here we have a bill that the Supreme Court says does not exist, and along comes a member and introduces a measure which is to do away with something that does not exist. I say unto you, members of the House, do not vote according to your party affiliation in this respect, vote as your conscience would want you to. Stop this waste of money, let us put a stop on members introducing measures which they know nothing about, "where ignorance is bliss" on a certain measure, and then have him decide to introduce a bill spending the taxpayers money in repealing something that does not exist.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, I yield to the gentleman from Northampton, Mr. Hoffman, if he desires to speak.

Mr. HOFFMAN. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I extend my courtesy to the gentleman from Dauphin in graciously yielding. I have no intention to prolong debate upon these bills, because I believe that the very nature and essence of the pernicious principles underlying the original bill speak louder than any word that I might add towards the breakdown of un-American institutions and restoring the safeguards of our American liberty. To you, Mr. Speaker, and to those who know me, my friends in the House, I would like to be as brief as possible because I do not want to be guilty of the charge of adding undue expense upon the State, in defense of that which I believe to be absolutely wrong.

I want to say to the member from Northampton County, from which county I also have the honor to come, when he makes a reference to conscience being our guide in voting against the bill before the House, where was his conscience and the conscience of the majority of the Democratic party when it placed upon the statute books of Pennsylvania five pernicious laws designed to break down our American constitutional government and to inflict upon our courts such a practice as would destroy the very fundamentals and basic principles of our American laws. I say to you, Mr. Speaker and members of the House, there are some things in our human affairs that are more precious to us than life itself. Among these are the principles of high character upon which nations as well as individuals are constructed, and when we seek to break down the integrity of our courts we are destroying the last line of defense for our homes and our American liberty. I am here in defense of those principles today, and for the benefit of my constituents. I am neither ashamed nor lack the courage to re-dedicate and re-pledge my allegiance and devotion to the Constitution of the United States and the Constitution of Pennsylvania. These are the inalienable principles which guarantee me civil and religious liberty and freedom, and that is the thing that ~~boils my blood when I am~~ confronted with men who are presumed to know better, who are trained in the law, and instead of respecting the law, they attempt to set themselves above the law and give us a bill which under the white wash treatment makes it so pugnacious and so vicious that it becomes an insult to the citizenry and is a disgrace upon our American civilization. It is time for us then to take care of that which has protected us during the past 150 years and has assured us of our American freedom and religious liberty. If we are not careful the things that have happened in Europe can and will happen in America.

Mr. Speaker and members of the House, this bill which is presently before the House is a companion bill to four other bills that are likewise on third reading today, and in order to conserve the time and lessen the expense, I desire to say, Mr. Speaker, that the statements that I have made with reference to the particular bill now before us are the statements that I wish to reiterate when the other bills are introduced before this House for enactment. I thank you.

Mr. KANE. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I was delighted to hear the gentleman from Northampton so ably define his position on these bills and I do not propose to go into the question of what the Supreme Court has declared unconstitutional or what they have not. I would say, however, that the gentleman from Northampton well knows that those points which are not directly in issue in a given case are not covered by a declaration of the Court as to the defects of a bill and its deficiencies. I want to remind this assembly that when the gentleman from Northampton criticized his colleague from the same county, that makes me somewhat suspect that there is a question of local politics involved. No group was more conspicuous in the last session of the General Assembly than the men from Northampton County in repeatedly sponsoring bills,—all four of the members from that county,—and I think they ranked at the top of the procession among the members of the General Assembly in that respect, and cost the state useless expense for printing costs for the innumerable bills that were not going anywhere and I think the record will bear me out in that statement,

QUESTION OF PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Mr. JIROLANIO. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a question of parliamentary inquiry.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Northampton will state his question of parliamentary inquiry.

Mr. JIROLANIO. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman is not discussing the bill.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will confine his remarks to the question before the House.

Mr. KANE. This bill and its companion bills are to wipe from the statute books, bills by which the Legislature of Pennsylvania disgraced itself through enactment of the so-called whitewash bills in the Special Session.

It is not at all fitting that this Assembly should unload upon the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania, whom we so frequently criticize, the duty of rectifying the blunderous mistakes which were enacted here. The people have found these acts more repugnant than the Supreme Court, and it would be the right thing for this Assembly by unanimous vote to erase every vestige of the so-called "Whitewash Session" which disgraced the Assembly and in a large measure defeated the Democratic Party.

While we are on the subject of the Supreme Court which has been discussed here, it is a good thing that the Supreme Court declared these bills unconstitutional. Let me remind this Assembly that one of the gentlemen on the other side of the House introduced a bill, and I believe passed it through this House, to prevent the Supreme Court from having the right to declare acts of the Assembly unconstitutional unless there was practically a unanimous vote of the Judges of the Supreme Court. Not only were they willing to pass these whitewash bills but they also wished to prevent the Supreme Court from declaring the acts unconstitutional. I certainly agree with the gentleman from Northampton, he is entirely right, that this Assembly, and I mean all of you, ought by an act of the Legislature wipe out every one of those whitewash bills of the Special Session of 1938.

Mr. JIROLANIO. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I just want to say in answer to the gentleman from Northampton, that my conscience at that time was clear, I thought I was voting for something that was constitutional, so much so in nature that one of the greatest universities in the United States, Columbia Law School, a branch of Columbia University, saw fit in one of its leading law journals to discuss the entire question of the constitutionality of the various acts in question.

Let me further say it is because of my belief in the integrity of the high courts of Pennsylvania, who have seen fit to declare this particular act unconstitutional, that that is the reason why I say we should not consider this bill. I say that they have decided the case and I stand by their decision, and I am willing to abide by their decision as to the constitutionality of the act. But my learned colleague somehow or other probably has thought that some time in the future the Supreme Court may reverse itself, and for that reason, so that they shall have nothing before them to reverse themselves, he now sees fit to introduce an act which will do away with something which that very court has declared unconstitutional.

Let me say further that the election was over on November 8, 1938, and that the waving of the American flag is good at a public assemblage, but here before men learned not only in the law but in the ways of men, the waving of the American flag to me as a member of the House of Representatives, usually brings to my mind the thought that he is trying to evade the issue and becloud the real question so that we can't see through it. Therefore I say to the members of the House of Representatives that this particular act should be defeated in order that economy shall be the main question in the state of Pennsylvania, and in order that no more money shall be expended for the printing and for the further carrying on of this bill in order that it could possibly be enacted into legislation.

The SPEAKER. If the Chair may say so, it seems to me that there is an honest difference of opinion as to whether the measure is or is not constitutional.

Mr. JONES. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman from Northampton, and members of the House, I am not an attorney, neither am I a student of Columbia University, but the gentleman from Northampton has admitted that this bill and these other bills are probably unconstitutional. I would say that that is one reason, using our good old common sense, for us to vote to abolish these bills. I thank you.

Mr. TARR. Mr. Speaker, as one of the younger members of the House, not being an attorney and not knowing too much about flag waving that has been talked about, I rise in defense of the bills as they are presented. I am not speaking perhaps for the rest of my colleagues, but I am speaking for some of the younger members and believe me when I say that all that we know is that when something is wrong the best way to get rid of it is to wipe it out. Whether or not these bills are constitutional does not go down much with us, but we do realize that something is wrong in the bills themselves. As a member of the minority party I make my first request on the floor that the members of the minority go along with this bill in order to right a wrong, if we possibly can, by voting for the bill.

Mr. HERBERT B. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, and members of the House, the brunt of this situation should be upon my shoulders as I was very active in the passage of these bills in their original form and now I am attempting possibly to inform the House as to the difficulty with which they are confronted.

I wish to inform the House that I am directing my remarks primarily to the consideration of our democratic form of government. What I have to say to you today I feel is equally as applicable to the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania with a Republican Governor guiding the Ship of State as it would be applicable to a Democratic governor. My thought in this matter is one of statesmanship in the development of the history of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and the function of its various component parts, and the responsibilities of the State government to the local government. I am appealing to you men not to pass these acts and I am appealing to you men in the majority particularly, in view of the fact that I do not wish to see the government of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in hock to the District Attorney of Dauphin County; I do not wish to see the government of this great Commonwealth subject to encroachment and imposition by any politically minded District Attorney, whether the government of this Commonwealth is dominated by the Republicans or the Democrats.

The purposes of this great Commonwealth, its ramifications and obligations to the millions of people that look to it for protection and guidance should not be obstructed by any politically minded two-by-four District Attorney, when he falls out with the Administration, and what I say is as applicable today as it was when these bills were passed. Perchance, a new District Attorney is elected in Dauphin County; perchance that District Attorney of Dauphin County does not like the way the administration throws out patronage; perchance the District Attorney or the political leaders are not satisfied with the manner in which the pie is cut. Do you mean to say that this great Ship of State should be subservient to the District Attorney? Do you mean to say that Governor James' actions and activities should be nullified in the political antagonism that is bound to creep into every political party? Do you mean to say if perchance, in the election of 1939, this fall, there is elected a Democratic District Attorney in Dauphin County, that the Democratic District Attorney should be able to affront Governor James in the exercise of his sworn duties and obligations? That never was possible under the law as it stood in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania for over 150 years; that never was possible under the law as decided in Hartranft's Appeal and decided recently in the McNair case. That never was possible until the very recent decision of the Supreme Court of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

What I am saying is not said upon the basis of partisanship; what I am saying is said because the Supreme Court has struck down the very fundamentals of Constitutional government in its decision in those cases. The Supreme Court has allowed the injection of extraneous influence into the system of government that never before in the history of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania had been exposed to those influences, and what I say is not my own sole thought in the matter. I am referring particularly the legal members in this House to the recent issue of the Columbia Law Review, Volume No. 8 of December, 1938, in which volume there is an exhaustive comment made on the Supreme Court's decision declaring these acts to be unconstitutional. Just reading, a small part, "The Court's reason for holding that the power to investigate by a Grand Jury is vested in the Courts is unclear". They further say, "A statute which does not deprive the Court of power but simply postpones the exercise of it during impeachment proceedings cannot be said to be so unreasonable or unwarranted as to be unconstitutional".

The deliberations that went into the Columbia Law view were not the deliberations of individuals who were actuated by political aggrandizement, they were the studied deliberations of students of law in an attempt to legally analyze the effect and purpose of the enactment. Be that as it may, whether these acts are or are not unconstitutional, I say to the membership of this House that the very foundation of constitutional government has been struck down and, as George H. Earle said, "You gentlemen have sown the whirlwind and you gentlemen will reap the tornado." You gentlemen who have paraded up and down the state of Pennsylvania telling what a great crime has been perpetrated on the people of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, may possibly perpetrate a greater crime in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. When you reap the benefits of the Supreme Court's decision, when constitutional government in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania is under the domination of a few men, who can at will destroy the operations of this great Commonwealth, when a few men politically minded may come in and intrude into the operations of the agency that affects the lives of ten million people, when you reap that tornado you will look upon your own presentation as mere fallacies presented to the people with the sole desire to reap victory. Men, I say to you, to protect the integrity, to protect the independence of your own administration, to protect the integrity and independence of the administrations that are to follow, I say to you do not pass these bills today.

Mr. HESS. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I deem it a pleasure to say a word in defense and in favor of this bill. I was present in the session of 1938 when this bill came up for consideration, and the people whom

I represent in Berks County were vitally interested in this bill because they felt it was an affront to a Judge twice elected by the people of the county by large majorities, a Judge in whom they had great faith and confidence. At that session I voted against this bill and I am glad now to vote in favor of a bill to repeal it. I say to the members of this House, the only reason I am back here at this session is because I voted against the bill in the 1938 Session.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

SENATE MESSAGE

RESOLUTION CONCURRED IN BY SENATE

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced, informed that the Senate has concurred in the resolution from the House of Representatives, as follows:

In the House of Representatives, February 27th, 1939.

Many legislative bills are filled with snakes and it is the duty of the members of the General Assembly to find those snakes and drive them out.

Proficiency in this respect can only be acquired by studying the lives and customs of those who have succeeded in the past in effectively getting rid of snakes.

St. Patrick, the patron saint of Ireland, was the world's greatest snake driver.

The celebration of the birthday of this immortal will be held on the 17th day of March, therefore be it

Resolved (if the Senate concur), That a legislative committee is hereby created consisting of six members of the House of Representatives to be appointed by Speaker of the House and five members of the Senate to be appointed by the President Pro Tempore of the Senate, whose duty it shall be to arrange for a fitting and suitable celebration of the birthday of St. Patrick by the members of the General Assembly and their guests; and be it further

Saint Patrick was a gentleman
Who lived in the "land o' lakes"
He made it quite a decent place
By driving out the snakes.

APPOINTMENT OF COMMITTEE

The SPEAKER. In accordance with the resolution just read the Chair appoints the following committee on the part of the House: Messrs. McGarrity, David P. Reese, Balliet, Ewing, O'Connor and Finnerty. This committee will confer with a similar committee on the part of the Senate, when appointed, to make suitable arrangements.

RESOLUTION

SYMPATHY EXTENDED

Mr. MOONEY offered a resolution and asked and obtained unanimous consent for its immediate consideration.

The resolution was twice read, considered and adopted as follows:

In the House of Representatives, February 28, 1939.

George C. Metzler, a former member of this House, died on the fourteenth day of December last.

He was elected from the second district of Allegheny County in 1930 and again in 1932.

He resigned as a member of this House on the first day of September, 1933 and was appointed a magistrate in the City of Pittsburgh.

While serving in the General Assembly his ability and his kindness won for him friendship and respect of his fellow members, therefore be it

Resolved, That the House of Representatives pauses to make note of his death and to offer to his surviving brothers and sisters its most profound and sincere sympathy.

STATEMENT BY MR. HOLLAND

Mr. HOLLAND asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

In the Budget message of the Governor, he definitely places himself on record of refusing to continue Flood Control in Pennsylvania. On page 11, he is quoted as follows: "It is expected that this balance will be sufficient to cover administration and other necessary costs in completing projects undertaken."

I think it is well to definitely state just how much money will be in the Flood Control fund to cover the expenses of completing Flood Control dams now in construction. I find in this morning's Pittsburgh Post-Gazette a statement that I believe is to mislead the public as has always been the policy of this newspaper in the printing of political news. The Pittsburgh Post-Gazette states "Finished Flood Control is James' plan." The Governor says, "Balance of $3,454,000 at hand for work." I do not know how these figures were obtained. In 1937 $4,900,000 was appropriated. It is the Governor's intention to cut this appropriation to $2,000,000. According to his figures $1,830,000 will be expended up to and including May 31, leaving a balance of $170,000 on the reduced $2,000,000 appropriation by the Governor. Adding the balance of $384,000 from the 1936 appropriation, according to the way I was taught mathematics, there would be $554,000 in the Flood Control fund to carry on the work now in progress.

I am afraid that Governor James has been misled on information he is receiving from his advisers on Flood Control. At the very beginning of the Flood Control controversy, Governor James injected a false issue, that of the Federal Government instead of the State holding the title to lands used for Flood Control dams. Actually this amendment was a life-saver to Pennsylvania and a Governor who is particularly interested in economizing should be the first to defend it. The old Act required the State to buy and provide the land with the Federal Government building and operating the dams.

Pennsylvania thus would be forced to spend $50,000,000 to get $50,000,000 worth of dams, and the Federal Government through its control of rivers still would have the final say. Therefore, the Act was amended to relieve the States of the financial burden of providing land. By the amendment Pennsylvania saves nearly $50,000,000 yet this Governor and Mr. Stewart have attacked it and have called this feature of the Flood Control plans an "invasion of State's rights." I might call to the attention of the Governor that no dams can be built even with the Federal Government footing all the bills without State approval. If Mr. James opposed Flood Control why did he not in his campaign for office state his stand as he is now stating it?

The Governor of the State of Penna. has tried to convey the impression to the people of Penna. Flood Control plans have not been developed and that the controlling of floods is something new and has never been discussed in the past. If the Governor will go back to 1897, he will find in the records of Congress the "Chittenden Report." This report was requested by Congress. In the "Chittenden Report" it definitely states, "Flood relief is not a State problem but a National one." Further on it states, "It is not possible to secure the best developments of a Flood Control system except through the agencies of the National Government." For the control of Flood waters through the construction of reservoirs and dams, it definitely states, that if the constructions were left entirely to the State, certain conditions existing when sites were close to State lines the construction of dams would protect the people in the adjoining States instead of the State where constructed. I could make many more quotations from the "Chittenden Report" emphasizing the fact that the control of floods is a Federal problem. This was decided 42 years ago in the Congress of the United States.

We will now jump to the years of 1907-08 when the City of Pittsburgh was visited by three big floods that caused property damages of close to $10,000,000 right in the City of Pittsburgh. While these Floods were fresh in the minds of the people of Pittsburgh, the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce, by resolution, created the Chamber of Commerce Flood Commission. The heads of this Commission contained such names as H. J. Heinz, Colonel Logan, Geo. H. Maxwell, W. H. Jacoby of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, and numerous other names who are supposed to be interested as civic-minded men in Pittsburgh.

The Chamber of Commerce report on Flood which was completed after four years of study and survey costing $126,000 definitely states that Flood Control is not a State problem but a problem that belongs to the Federal Government. To bear out the fact that it was the constitutional power of the National Government to build reservoirs and dams the Chamber of Commerce is quoted as follows: "This is the same power as was exercised in the construction of levies on the lower Mississippi, to aid in maintaining a navigable stream, also one of the greatest moving forces in that case was a necessity for protecting the plantations along the Mississippi from overflow." Quoting from the third paragraph addressed to the Chamber of Commerce by the Chairman of the Commission, H. J. Heinz, he states, "This Committee has succeeded in solving a difficult problem and has provided a comprehensive report which is presented with the belief that it not only forms the solution of the problem of Flood relief for our own City and many communities on the rivers above and below, but also shows other benefits to be obtained for the general public welfare, notably improvements to navigation, water power, water supply and sanitary conditions." Unfortunately in the report, the members of the Commission placed in it a small paragraph that aroused the Utilities to throw their political strategy to shelve this report the same as they are doing today.

This paragraph reads, "The water power that would be developed could be utilized to produce electrical energy, and thereby yield a revenue that would cover the cost of maintaining and operating the reservoir system and in addition render return upon the investment."

Utilities in 1912 stopped Flood Control and for 17 years they have kept hidden the Chamber of Commerce report. Now in 1939, the Utilities through Governor James have again stopped Flood Control. The Governor stresses economy in all his talks. If stopping Flood Control is economy. I would like to ask the Governor judging from the cost of past floods if the saving of $2,000,000 would offset the loss of $212,000,000 which was the loss of property alone in the 1936 Floods $49,000,000 of this loss being in the Pittsburgh district alone. This loss does not represent the loss of life or the depreciation of property which is the most serious of all Flood losses. I believe it is time that the Governor seeks the advice of real Pennsylvanians on Flood Control. I wonder if Governor James on this issue has not permitted himself to be led astray by his Texas adviser and would be presidential maker, Colonel Estes. Colonel Estes may know Utility problems and may know his way around in Texas, but he doesn't know Pennsylvania and its people. The people of Pennsylvania want no pussy footing on Flood Control. They are not going to stand for a Colonel dictating the policies of Penna.—no musical comedy Colonels are needed in Penna. advising the Governor to permit the people of Penna. to suffer from future floods in order to protect Utilities. Flood Control is not a partisan measure and I appeal to the Republican members of this House not to make it one. You who represent districts that are flooded are going to have a hard job to explain to your constituents when their homes are flooded in the future that you are sorry for them, but Governor James felt when he discontinued the Flood Control plans that he owed more allegiance to the Utilities of Penna. who are not even Penna. owned than he did to the people of Pennsylvania.

SENATE

WEDNESDAY, March 1, 1939.

The Senate met at 12:00 o'clock, noon.

The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant-Governor Samuel S. Lewis) in the Chair.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Rev. BURLEIGH A. PETERS, offered the following prayer:

Almighty and Everlasting God, who art worthy to be held in reverence by all the children of men, we give Thee most hearty thanks for the manifold blessings of life and liberty which we daily receive at Thy beneficent hand even though we are most unworthy.

We need Thee so very much each day—so much more than we know or realize. That each of us may fully realize this fact turn Thou the searchlight of Heaven upon us and into our hearts. Help us to discover ourselves and to know our needs and to satisfy them in the deep folds of Thy love.

We are Thy children, for Thou hast made us. We live today, for Thou dost sustain us. Yet this life's little day, though it be fourscore years, is so very short at its greatest length that we would crowd into its fleeting days whatsoever of glory to Thee and service to our fellow-man we are capable. "O satisfy us early with Thy mercy; that we may rejoice and be glad all our days."

May Thy grace be sufficient for us and all our tasks this day and every day, that we may strive to become like that perfect manhood as it is found in Christ Jesus, Our Lord, in whose holy name we pray. Amen.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Rev. Walter Evans Deibler, offered the following prayer:

In the midst of so much selfishness, unrighteousness and godlessness, when so many groups with their subversive and un-American practices seek to gain foothold in our land, when men "have exchanged the truth of God for a lie, and worshipped and served the creature rather than the Creator," we would learn again that "righteousness exalteth a nation but sin is a reproach to any people." Often we need to be reassured that we are doing Thy will, Help us to know, Oh God, yea, make us willing to know and to follow Thy thoughts and Thy ways. Thou hast declared "For my thoughts are not your thoughts, neither are your ways my ways, sayeth Jehovah. For as the Heavens are higher than the earth, so are my ways higher than your ways, and my thoughts than your thoughts." We thank Thee, Oh God, for the faith that so many members of this House have expressed in Thee. We thank Thee for the faith of the dean of the Sacred College now in conclave who has asked that prayer be offered, "That the Lord would give the Church a man who would know how to guide with a wise hand the mystic ship of Peter, especially in these grave times." We join our prayer in this request. We pray for Thy continued guidance for us now and always through Jesus Christ, Our Lord. Amen.

RESOLUTIONS

CONGRATULATIONS

Mr. CHECK offered a resolution and asked and obtained unanimous consent for its immediate consideration.

The resolution was twice read, considered and adopted as follows:

In the House of Representatives, March 1, 1939.

We have just received the glad news of the marriage of our member from Westmoreland County, the Hon. David H. Weiss to Thelma Mae Brody at Alexander, Virginia, on Friday, February 17, 1939.

Wedding bells rang again but we heard them not.

This marriage business is becoming tedious and something must be done about it if the work of the House is to be calmly, intelligently and unemotionally carried on.

We are in the midst of a marrying epidemic, the germs are thick about us and there is talk of establishing a strict quarantine or of inoculating the remaining single members of the House against the danger of infection, so be it

Resolved, That this House heartily congratulates the said David H. Weiss, our latest victim of connubiality upon this unexpected accomplishment, upon the manner in which he guarded the secret of his wedding and wishes him a long and happy life with the woman of his choice and to her, who has linked her life with his, we extend our hope for a future filled with joy and gladness.

ANNOUNCEMENT BY THE SPEAKER

The SPEAKER. On Tuesday evening next the biennial reception given by the Governor to the members of the Legislature and their wives will be held. The members have received invitations to attend, and I would remind them to bring their wives.

On Tuesday afternoon it will be the pleasure of Mrs. Turner to have the wives of the members and the lady members of the House at tea. We have tried to take care of not only the wives of the members but also the widows of members. If there should be any single members who are in the position that Mr. Alspach from Lancaster is in and they have what they hope to be their better halves with them, I would suggest that you leave word at the Speaker's Office so that they may also be properly invited.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Rev. BURLEIGH A. PETERS offered the following prayer:

Ever Blessed God, Our Heavenly Father, we are so thankful to Thee for Thy divine guidance of our nation over these one hundred fifty years of our national existence under the present form of representative government. Phenomenal has been our growth and constant has been our development.

We have safely met every national emergency and given freely of our noblest sons for the preservation of our national integrity. We have developed a deep love for our country and grown fond of her cultural and institutional life. We sing:

"My Country, 'tis of thee,
Sweet land of liberty,
Of thee I sing;
Land where my fathers died,
Land of the pilgrim's pride,
From every mountain side
Let freedom ring."

Help us, O Father of us all, to uphold, preserve and defend the Constitution of the United States, the greatest instrument of government, vouchsafing the rights of the sovereign states, ever penned by the hand of man.

May we ever seek to defend the integrity of the courts of our land and live at peace with ourselves and the nations of the earth.

Let every true American evermore be convinced that we have the best, the safest, the wisest and the most honorable government on the whole earth, even though it is but one hundred fifty years old. May we have faith in America and attest that faith by honest, upright, God-fearing citizenship. For Jesus' sake, Amen.

COMMUNICATION FROM THE LIEUTENANT-GOVERNOR TO THE ATTORNEY GENERAL REQUESTING INFORMATION AS TO PRESENT STATUS OF SENATOR P. J. HENNEY, AND REPLY THERETO.

The PRESIDENT. At this time I am going to ask the Clerk to read copy of a letter I wrote to the Attorney General, as well as, his reply thereto:

The communications were read as follows:

February 20, 1939.

Hon. Claude T. Reno,
Attorney General,
Harrisburg, Penna.

My Dear General Reno:

I am writing for the purpose of requesting you to advise me as to the present status of Senator P. J. Henney, of the Forty-fifth Senatorial District, of Allegheny County, as well as of my duties as presiding officer of the Senate in reference thereto.

I am herewith transmitting for your information, copy of letter from George F. Holmes, Secretary of the Senate, wherewith he presented to the Senate the resignation of Senator Henney, copy of which is also herewith attached, together with the extract of the Legislative Journal of February 6th, 1939.

Yours very truly,

S. S. LEWIS.

DEPARTMENT OF JUSTICE

Harrisburg, Pa., March 3, 1939.

FORMAL OPINION NO. 276.

Honorable Samuel S. Lewis,
Lieutenant-Governor,
Harrisburg, Pennsylvania.

Sir:

We have your request to be advised as to the present status of Senator P. J. Henney, of the Forty-fifth Senatorial District of Allegheny County, and also as to your duties as President of the Senate in reference thereto.

You have also submitted for our consideration an extract from the Legislative Journal of February 6, 1939, page 274, in which the formal resignation of Senator Henney was set forth as follows:

In The

SUPREME COURT OF PENNSYLVANIA

THE COMMONWEALTH OF PENNSYLVANIA EX
RELATIONE ANNA P.
ELKINS
v.
P. J. HENNEY

Miscellaneous Docket
No. 1026

TO: THE SENATE OF PENNSYLVANIA:

HONORABLE THOMAS KENNEDY, LIEUTENANT-GOVERNOR; AND HONORABLE JOHN MORLOCK, SECRETARY OF THE SENATE.

I, Patrick J. Henney hereby resign as a Senator representing the Forty-fifth Senatorial District, effective immediately.

December 24, 1938

PATRICK J. HENNEY
P. J. HENNEY

Witness:

Frederick G. Van Denbergh, Jr.

It further appears from the Legislative Journal that this resignation had previously been received and placed in the official files of the Secretary of the Senate.

It has likewise been called to our attention that Senator Henney has been absent from his post in the Senate since the date of his resignation. We also can take official notice that the resignation contains as its caption the case pending before the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania, wherein the right of Senator Henney to hold office was being challenged in quo warranto proceedings.

An almost identical set of facts was passed upon by former Attorney General Carson in an opinion dated November 16, 1905, and reported in Official Opinions of the Attorney General (1905-06) page 376; and also reported in 14 Pa. Dist. 832; 31 Pa. Co. Ct. 601; 8 Dauph. 216. The Attorney General there advised the Speaker of the House of Representatives that a resignation of a member of the House, directed to the Speaker and received by him, was effective, and that the Speaker should issue a special writ for the filling of the vacancy in the district previously represented by the resigned member.

While we do not necessarily affirm all of the reasoning in Attorney General Carson's opinion, nevertheless, the advice contained in that opinion is sound and should be followed by you in the present situation. We cannot agree with the former Attorney General that in Pennsylvania we should follow the rule that a resignation of a public officer is not effective until accepted by the proper authorities, since there is eminent authority for the reverse of this proposition. In the absence of a ruling by our Supreme Court on this question, we are of the opinion that public officers in Pennsylvania may resign effectively without the necessity of having such resignation accepted.

Nevertheless, the former Attorney General correctly points out that, even if acceptance of the resignation was required, the receipt of this resignation by the Speaker of the House and the subsequent action of the resigned member resulted in the resignation having been properly accepted. In the case now before us for consideration, we are of the opinion that the receipt of Senator Henney's resignation by former Lieutenant-Governor Kennedy and former Secretary of the Senate Morlock is sufficient acceptance of the resignation.

The fact that Senator Henney may have resigned under the allegedly mistaken belief that he had been required to do so by the Supreme Court is of little moment for the purposes of this opinion. In STATE v. DART, 57 Minn., 261, it was held that an officer may resign pending removal proceedings, and in COMMONWEALTH ex rel. v. DONOGHUE, 31 D. & C. 105, the court decided that a resignation made under a mistake of law was nevertheless valid and binding.

In 46 C. J. 980, Section 134, the rule as to the acceptance of resignations is stated thus:

"Where no particular mode of accepting a resignation is specifically provided by constitution or statute, no formal mode of acceptance is necessary, and it may be by parol, or it may be shown by performance of an official act which could not legally be performed unless the resignation was accepted. Thus the acceptance may be manifested by the election or appointment of a successor by the office or body authorized to fill vacancies, or by calling an election for that purpose." (Underscoring ours.)

In view of all these circumstances, you are advised that you may regard the resignation which Senator Henney submitted to your predecessor in office as terminating and vacating his office as Senator of the Forty-fifth Senatorial District, whereupon it becomes your duty under Article II, Section 2 of the Constitution of Pennsylvania to issue a formal writ of election by reason of such vacancy.

Very truly yours,

DEPARTMENT OF JUSTICE.

CLAUDE T. RENO,
Attorney General.

SENATOR P. J. HENNEY'S NAME STRICKEN FROM THE ROSTER, AND SPECIAL ELECTION IN FORTY-FIFTH SENATORIAL DISTRICT PROVIDED FOR.

The PRESIDENT. In view of the opinion of the Attorney-General, I direct the clerk to strike off the name of Senator Henney from the roster, and I declare a vacancy in the Forty-fifth Senatorial District. For the information of the Senate and of the public, I will, in accordance with the election laws, issue a writ for a special election.

PETITION OF HERBERT S. LEVIN FROM DECISION OF JUDGE THOMAS D. FINLETTER, IN THE MATTER OF CONTESTED ELECTION OF HERBERT S. LEVIN IN THE SECOND SENATORIAL DISTRICT OF PENNSYLVANIA.

The PRESIDENT. The Clerk will read the following petition:

IN RE: APPEAL OF HERBERT S. LEVIN APPEAL FROM THE DECISION OF JUDGE THOMAS D. FINLETTER, IN THE MATTER OF THE CONTESTED ELECTION OF HERBERT S. LEVIN TO THE OFFICE OF SENATOR IN THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY FROM SECOND SENATORIAL DISTRICT OF PENNSYLVANIA IN THE COURT OF COMMON PLEAS NO. 4 OF PHILADELPHIA COUNTY (SITTING AS THE ELECTION COURT), AS OF SEPTEMBER TERM, 1938, NO. 5126

PETITION OF HERBERT S. LEVIN

To the Honorable, the Senate of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania:

The Petition of Herbert S. Levin respectfully represents:

1. Your petitioner feels aggrieved by the decision of the Court of Common Pleas No. 4 of Philadelphia County, wherein he was declared defeated by Samuel W. Salus by one vote, both as to the computation of votes and as to the finding by the court that your petitioner was guilty of bribery.

2. Your petitioner appeared before the aforesaid court and testified, denying the accusations made, and submitted himself to lengthy cross examination. He testified then and again avers that he at no time committed any unlawful or improper acts in the conduct of his election campaign; and that he at no time offered or gave to any voter any promise or money or other thing of value to induce such voter to cast his vote for your petitioner.

3. Your petitioner submits that he was duly and legally elected as the Senator for the Second Senatorial District of Pennsylvania; and he further submits that he was duly seated as the Senator for the Second Senatorial District and that he has since that time, exercised all the rights and prerogatives of the Senator for the Second Senatorial District, with the consent and approval of the Senate.

4. Your petitioner, as the duly elected and duly seated Senator for the Second Senatorial District of Pennsylvania reserves unto himself all his rights under the Constitution and laws of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and the rules of the Senate of Pennsylvania.

5. Your petitioner files this petition to comply with the technical requirements of the election code and to obtain for himself complete vindication and exoneration and to remove from his reputation the blot which has been placed upon it by the court's decision, with which he respectfully disagrees and which he believes to be in error. He repeats, as he has already informed your honorable body, that his reputation and standing in the community are now more important to him than the honor and prerogatives of his seat, great though the latter be.

6. Your petitioner avers that the pertinent facts in this appeal are as follows:

a. He was the candidate for the Democratic party for the office of Senator in the General Assembly for the Second Senatorial District at the general election held on November 8, 1938.

b. The only other candidate for said office was Samuel W. Salus, candidate for the Republican party.

c. The final and official returns of said election were: Herbert S. Levin—23,487; Samuel Salus—23,440.

d. Thereafter, on November 28, 1938, a petition for contest of said election was filed on behalf of the said Samuel W. Salus, in the Court of Common Pleas No. 4 of Philadelphia County, setting forth various charges concerning alleged illegal votes cast for Herbert S. Levin.

e. That Herbert S. Levin thereupon files his answer to said petition, denying the charges therein contained, and adding to said denials allegations of illegal votes cast on behalf of Samuel W. Salus.

f. That the said contest was heard before Judge Thomas D. Finletter, who filed his opinion rejecting 68 votes cast for Herbert S. Levin and 20 votes cast for Samuel W. Salus, holding that the correct legal result of the aforesaid election was as follows: Herbert S. Levin—23,419; Samuel W. Salus—23,420.

Wherefore, Your petitioner files this petition without prejudice to his rights, to confirm his election and vindicate his reputation and prays that his appeal herein be heard and that thereafter he be declared once again to have been legally and properly elected and to have at no time employed any illegal or improper methods to obtain his election.

HERBERT S. LEVIN.

STATE OF PENNSYLVANIA }
COUNTY OF PHILADELPHIA } ss

HERBERT S. LEVIN, being duly sworn according to law, deposes and says that he is the petitioner named in the foregoing petition; that he believes that he was duly elected to the seat of Senator in the General Assembly for the Second Senatorial District, and that the statements set forth in his petition are just and true, to the best of his knowledge and belief.

COMMUNICATION FROM THE BIG FOUR FATHERS OF PHILADELPHIA, URGING FURTHER FINANCIAL SUPPORT OF PHILADELPHIA PUBLIC SCHOOLS.

THE BIG FOUR FATHERS ASSOCIATION
PENNSYLVANIA, PENNA.

Subject: Resolution supporting financial needs of the Philadelphia Public Schools

My Dear Mr. Lewis:

For your information and attention, we are attaching hereto cc. of resolution adopted by our association in public meeting at the Olney Sr. High School, Philadelphia, during January, 1939.

We believe, from the deep and constructive interest that our citizens take in the public schools of our city, that there is need for further financial support from our State. This being a state institution administered by our local representatives, merits your constructive interest. We trust therefore, at the proper time, you will give of your support.

It is needless to call your attention to the greater support granted by other States, as pointed out in the resolution attached, and of our belief in the fine educational system of Philadelphia, administered by an able group of men from all walks of life.

Thanking you in advance, we remain,

Respectfully yours,

GEORGE COOK, JR.

President.

HURBERT E. REIMEL

Chairman—Schools Committee.

Resolution adopted in public meeting of the Big Four Fathers Association of Philadelphia, January, 1939.

Whereas, There is reliable information given to our Association of a serious financial deficit to operate the school system of Philadelphia, which may force the closing of our schools, in the entire area of our City, for the month of December, 1939, and

Whereas, We the parents and citizens who have the reasoning to understand the chaos, such closing of schools would incur, as well as the precedent this would set, and

Whereas, We have the confidence in the administration affairs of our Board of Public Education, knowing it is comprising in membership of men from all walks of life, who have the foresight and intelligence essential to administer the school system, as has been proven for this and many years past, and

Whereas, The school system of Philadelphia, we believe is receiving insufficient financial support from our State, and basing this reasoning upon the support given by other States of a larger grant per pupil, as illustrating one instance, the State of New York,

Resolved therefore, That the Schools Committee and Officers of The Big Four Fathers Association, be instructed to take active interest with our Governor of the State, as well as the State Senate and House of Representatives, to enlist their aid, by the grant of the additional financial support essential for a full year operation of the school system for this, and other years in the future,

Be it further resolved, That a copy of this resolution be forwarded to all State officials who have jurisdiction in educational affairs, as well as the Board of Public Education of our City, for their information to sense the feelings of our citizenry, who take a deep interest in the public school system of our State.

Which was referred to the Committee on Education.

PETITION FROM PUBLIC CHARITIES ASSOCIATION OF PENNSYLVANIA RECOMMENDING FAVORABLE ACTION ON PHILADELPHIA'S PROPOSED NEW CHARTER BILL

PUBLIC CHARITIES ASSOCIATION OF PENNSYLVANIA

Philadelphia, Pa. February 2, 1939

The President of the Senate,
Capitol Building,
Harrisburg, Pa.

Dear Mr. President:

The attached communication addressed to the members of the Senate and the House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania by the Public Charities Association, asking for favorable action on Philadelphia's proposed new charter legislation, is being sent to you with an identical copy also going to the Speaker of the House of Representatives.

Sincerely yours,

EARL G. HARRISON

President.

PUBLIC CHARITIES ASSOCIATION OF PENNSYLVANIA Philadelphia, Pa.

To the Honorable, the members of the Senate and the House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania:

At a meeting of the Central Executive Committee of the Public Charities Association held on January 19, 1939, in Philadelphia, it was resolved that this Association memorialize the General Assembly of Pennsylvania to allow the people of Philadelphia to decide the method by which our city shall be governed.

Such action on your part would be in harmony with the amendment of the State Constitution of 1933 permitting cities to decide on their own form of government and would also place responsibilities regarding the form of government Philadelphia should have on those most directly affected by it.

In order that this desirable end be brought about, we respectfully urge your honorable bodies to aid in this by passing an act in accordance with the report of the Philadelphia Charter Commission which will permit the citizens of Philadelphia to vote on the proposed new charter, which provides a council-manager form of government for the city.

Respectfully submitted,

EARL G. HARRISON
President

PRESIDENT AND UNITED STATES VETERAN'S ADMINISTRATION MEMORIALIZED TO CONSTRUCT AND EQUIP A MEDICAL WAR VETERAN HOSPITAL IN PENNSYLVANIA

In the House of Representatives, January 24, 1939.

Whereas, Nearly four hundred thousand sons of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania wore the uniform of our Nation during the World War; and

Whereas, Many other Pennsylvanians have served honorably in the Army, Navy, or Marine Corps in every war and military expedition authorized by the United States Government prior and subsequent to the World War; and

Whereas, Although Pennsylvania contributed more men and money to the Federal Government during the World War than any other State in the Union (excepting the State of New York) the Federal Government has not recognized this fact by erecting a proportionate number of United States Veterans' hospitals within the Commonwealth; and

Whereas, To date the Federal Government has constructed only two hospitals in Pennsylvania, one at Coatesville and the other at Aspinwall; and

Whereas, As many as five hospitals have been erected in other States; and

Whereas, At present the hospitals at Coatesville and Aspinwall are filled to capacity and there is a waiting list of disabled veterans seeking admittance; therefore be it

Resolved (if the Senate concur), That the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, memorialize the President of the United States and the United States Veterans Administration to construct and equip immediately a large general medical war veteran hospital in Pennsylvania, in order to provide hospitalization for thousands of disabled Pennsylvania war veterans who are in need of hospital attention, but who are unable to receive the same because of present inadequate facilities.

RESOLUTION TO AMEND SENATE RULE NO. 23

Mr. GELDER offered the following resolution, which was twice read as follows:

In the Senate, March 6, 1939.

Resolved, That so much of Rule 23 of the Standing Rules of the Senate as relates to the membership of the Committees of the Senate shall be amended so as to read as follows: "The several above committees shall consist of the following:

"Aeronautics, Agriculture, County Government, Education, Finance, Labor and Industry, Law and Order, and State Government, fifteen (15) Senators each; Appropriations, Judiciary General, twenty-one (21) Senators each; Banking and Mines and Mining, fourteen (14) Senators each; Corporations and Municipal Government, thirteen (13) Senators each; Elections, eleven (11) Senators; [and] Executive Nominations, seven (7) Senators [each]; Federal Relations, ten (10) Senators; Forestry, Game, and Fish and Welfare, Public Assistance and Pensions, sixteen (16) Senators each; Highways, eighteen (18) Senators; Insurance, Military Affairs and Public Utilities, twelve (12) Senators each; Judiciary Special, nine (9) Senators; Public Health, eleven (11) Senators; Rules, six (6) Senators."

Mr. GELDER. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that Rule 39, which requires resolutions be referred to an appropriate committee, be suspended and the Senate do now proceed to the consideration of the resolution just read.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection?

The Chair hears none.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the resolution?

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the Senator from Susquehanna, Mr. Gelder.

The PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from Susquehanna, Mr. Gelder, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. GELDER. Mr. President, I will.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, as I read the resolution I take it that the only change is in increasing the membership of the Committee on Elections from nine to eleven. Is that correct?

Mr. GELDER. Mr. President, that is correct—for the purpose of adding two additional Democratic members to the committee.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, if this resolution were to increase the number of members of the committee just a little more, so as to make it a more reasonable committee, I would be very glad to join in the amendment to the rule; but it does not make any difference, according to the way things are done today, whether the majority consists of one or seven; so that, these gentlemen who have now a majority of nine members to two on that committee do not make the situation any better by making it seven to four. It would not make any difference if it were seven to five, and I think they have got themselves into the kind of a hole with the public that they better get themselves out of by themselves, and not by a Democratic vote. I ask my colleagues to vote this resolution down, and I ask for a roll call.

Mr. GELDER. Mr. President, I would like to explain to my colleagues that the responsibility will still remain with the Republicans, as there will still be a Republican majority on the committee. Inadvertently, however, there was not the same ratio of Republicans to Democrats on that committee that there was on other committees in the Senate, with the exception of the Committee on Rules, and this resolution will make it more nearly in proportion.

I would like to assure the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro, that the Republicans are in no way trying to evade their responsibility.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I just want to say that as I looked over the list of committees, and the proportions, I do not think that this was an inadvertent disproportion; I think it follows right down the line, and I think it was not done so inadvertently as it is made to appear.

And the question recurring.

Will the Senate agree to the resolution?

The yeas and nays were taken agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, and were as follows, viz:

YEAS--26

Bartlett,	Eroe.	Mallery,	Stevenson,
Chapman,	Farrell	Miller,	Tallman,
Crowe,	Gelder,	Owlett,	Thomas,

Less than two-thirds of all the Senators having voted "aye," the question was determined in the negative.

RESOLUTION TO EXPAND THE SCOPE OF INVESTIGATION OF THE MILK PROBLEM

Mr. REED. Mr. President, last week a resolution introduced by Senators Scarlett and Heyburn, dealing with a certain phase of the milk problem, was adopted in this Senate. Since that time I have received quite a few inquiries from farmers in my district, in which they say that while that resolution is good it is not broad enough, that there is another phase of the milk problem that ought to be investigated at the same time as the phase mentioned and provided for in that resolution. They mentioned the milk trust, the milk lobbyists and milk attorneys. They claim that the milk trust have their tentacles running all through the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, Mr. President, and that these matters ought to be investigated also.

Senator Sipe, my colleague, and, I think, other Senators have received the same kind of requests and information from their districts, and I believe there will be no objection to the passage of a resolution asking that this phase of the problem be also investigated at the same time that the other phase is being investigated; and by the same committee; and for that purpose, Mr. President, I wish to offer this short resolution, and ask that it be adopted immediately.

Mr. REED, on behalf of Mr. Sipe and himself, offered the following resolution, which was twice read as follows:

Whereas, on February 7, 1939, a Resolution was introduced in this Senate by Messrs. Scarlett and Heyburn setting forth that the production and distribution of milk constitute a subject of very vital importance to the citizens of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, and asking for a joint committee from the Senate and House "to investigate and study, (a) all regulations, records and activities of each department, severally and jointly, and to take the testimony of such witnesses as may be deemed necessary to ascertain full facts which will be useful and helpful in formulating future remedial and regulatory legislation," and

Whereas, said Resolution was passed and adopted by the Senate on February 28, 1939, with but one dissenting vote, indicating that the subject of milk production and distribution was of general importance to people of Pennsylvania; and

Whereas, in the discussion of this Resolution on the floor of the Senate it appeared that a very significant phase of the subject, interesting to the producer and consumer, and vital to a proper and thorough investigation of the problem, embracing milk trusts, milk lobbyists and milk attorneys, was omitted from the said Resolution;

Now, Therefore, Be It Resolved:

That in order to make its investigation full and complete, the said joint committee is hereby authorized and directed to include in its said inquiry and investigation, milk Companies, milk Trusts, Milk Lobbyists, and milk Attorneys, their interests and activities, with full power given the said joint committee to issue subpoenas under the hand and seal of its Chairman, requiring and commanding any person to appear before it and answer such questions touching matters properly being inquired into by the Committee, and to produce such books, papers, records and documents as the Committee may deem necessary. Such subpoenas may be served upon any person, firm, partnership or corporation and shall have the same force and effect as subpoenas issued out of the Courts of the Commonwealth. Any person who shall wilfully neglect or refuse to appear and testify for said Committee, or to produce any books, papers, records, and documents, shall be subject to the penalties provided by the laws of this Commonwealth in such cases.

Mr. REED. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that Rule 39, which requires resolutions be referred to an appropriate committee, be suspended and the Senate do now proceed to the consideration of the resolution just read.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection.

The Chair hears none.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the resolution,

It was agreed to.

RESOLUTION CALLING UPON EACH MEMBER OF THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY TO MAKE KNOWN ANY INTEREST HE OR SHE HAS IN THE PRODUCTION, DISTRIBUTION AND CONTROL OF MILK IN THE COMMONWEALTH.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, on previous occasions my audacity has urged me to plead for intellectual honesty by this body in considering the many public matters that come before us. I am enthused that my urge along this line has become a mote in the eye of my friend, columnist, philosopher and scholarly Mr. Cummings of the Philadelphia Inquirer.

It has also been my delight and joy to plead for parliamentary dignity unadulterated by partisan spirit or expediency. This, too, has become a mote in Mr. Cummings' other eye. My colleague from Armstrong, Mr. Sipe, is urged to be merciful lest his pleas upon the same subjects become a myriad of moths that will make a leopard skin of Mr. Cummings' eyes and bring on total blindness.

The efficacy of the free press to promote the public welfare is contingent upon the presence of intellectual honesty and journalistic propriety. When these attributes are lacking the press is just another weapon for unscrupulous men to assassinate honesty and bury truth in a pit as deep and dark as hell!

Journalists are mortals, and, as such, are subject to the fallibilities of mortals. A journalist as a politician may have a long and itching palm. He, too, may eat the same bread and sleep the same sleep that other mortals do. Such being the case, it little behooves the journalist to place himself on a pedestal higher than other mortals.

It is deplorable that so much of the free press in our Commonwealth has become the prototype of the common bawd, and sells its body to the higher bidder. This despicable condition is directly attributable to the owners of the press, who act as panderers, and not to the employees who toil and write to earn a daily crust of bread.

Mr. President, tonight my colleague from Armstrong, Mr. Sipe, and myself are undaunted by the jibes of the press. Our discipleship to intellectual honesty and parliamentary dignity still commands our desires. Consistent, therefore, with this desire, Mr. President, we read in place the following Resolution and demand its immediate adoption:

Mr. CAVALCANTE, on behalf of Mr. Sipe and himself, offered the following resolution which was twice read as follows:

Whereas, On February 7, 1939, a concurrent resolution was offered in this Senate by Messrs. Scarlett and Heyburn touching the investigation of the production, distribution and control of milk in this Commonwealth, and

Whereas, The production, distribution and control of milk is vital to the health of every man, woman and child in this Commonwealth, as manifested by the adoption of said resolution in this Senate on February 28, 1939, with but one dissenting vote, and

Whereas, The records of this General Assembly, the Public Press and the voice of the milk-producing farmers of this Commonwealth all indicate that milk trusts, milk lobbyists, milk attorneys, milk legislators and milk interests have intentionally or unintentionally projected themselves into the activities of the Milk Control Board as well as into the passage of milk legislation, and

Whereas, The sponsors of said resolution desire and the vital public interest requires that the investigation of this subject be conducted impartially, nonpartisanly and justly by disinterested members of this General Assembly, and

Whereas, Candor, integrity and human experience all dictate that an impartial, non-partisan and just investigation of any given subject is more apt to be accomplished by men disinterested in the subject under investigation, either directly or indirectly, and

Whereas, The Constitutional fathers of our government, in order to perpetuate this fundamental principle, incorporated in Article 3, Section 33, of our Constitution the following provision:

"A member who has a personal or private interest in any measure or bill proposed or pending before the General Assembly shall disclose the fact to the House of which he is a member, and shall not vote thereon."

Now Be It Resolved (if the House of Representatives concur), That each member of this General Assembly do immediately upon the passage of this resolution make known in writing to the Clerk of the House of which he or she is a member any interest, personal or private, directly or indirectly, that such member has in the production, distribution and control of Milk in this Commonwealth and whether such member is a stockholder, attorney, or official in any milk interest.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that Rule 39, which requires resolutions be referred to an appropriate committee, be suspended and the Senate do now proceed to the consideration of the resolution just read.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection.

Mr. OWLETT. Mr. President, I object.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair hears objection.

MOTION TO SUSPEND RULE 39

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, I move that Rule 39, which requires resolutions be referred to an appropriate committee, be suspended, and the Senate do now proceed to the consideration of the resolution just read.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. SIPE. Mr. President, I want to say that in their investigation of the milk producing and milk distributing business in Pennsylvania, provided for in the resolution offered by Senators Heyburn and Scarlett, there was left out provision for the investigation of the lawyers and lobbyists of the milk monopoly that camp here in Harrisburg and that have been camping here ever since so-called "milk control" started in Pennsylvania; and without such a provision the investigation will be incomplete.

The resolution Mr. Cavalcante and I are offering simply broadens the scope of the resolution of Senators Heyburn and Scarlett in order to subject to investigation those groups which have played so prominent a part in milk legislation—and also, I think it will be found, in influencing the conduct of the Milk Control Board to the great injury of the milk-producing farmer, to the injury of the consumer and to the enrichment of the big dealer. I do not see how any Senator who voted for the resolution of Senators Heyburn and Scarlett could refuse to vote for this resolution.

Any investigation that leaves out such organizations in the milk producing industry that pose as producer organizations but are in reality retailers' organizations is also incomplete. Sad to say, it was an organization within the milk industry, an organization holding itself out as a producers' organization but in reality a retailers' organization, that took a very prominent part in bringing about the recent order of the Milk Control Board that gave such a wallop to the farmers of western Pennsylvania as to drive many of them out of the business. A week or two ago I did say a few words in regard to that wallop that the milk producing farmers in western Pennsylvania have received; I did call attention to the fact that in round numbers, as nearly as can be conservatively estimated, that outrageous order takes out of the farmers' income, in the Pittsburgh district, at least $500,000 a month.

About a week ago there was an immense mass meeting of farmers in the Court House of Butler County, a mass meeting that almost bulged the walls, in which men well conversant with the milk industry in Butler County asserted that that order would take out the profits of the milk producing farmers in Butler County between six and seven thousand dollars a month.

Of course, I am aware that some representatives of the milk monopoly and some old-line politicians in both political parties in Butler County are spreading the bunk that what I am sore about is the fact that the consumer has gotten a little relief under this order. It is true that the consumer gets relief to the extent of two cents a quart, but one and one-half cents of that relief comes off the farmer. So I am sorry—sorry because the consumer has gotten a little relief, but what I am sore about is this: that the farmer has taken so big a cut and the milk dealer so little a cut; that is what I am sore about; and we will not get anywhere, I feel, in obtaining for our Pennsylvania farmers a modification or revocation of this order unless we speak very plainly.

We will have to speak plainly, we will have to forget the Democratic politicians that are trying to excuse the members of the Milk Control Board for this atrocious order, and we will have to pay no attention to those Republican politicians who are endeavoring to excuse the Governor for approving this outrageous order.

I might say at this point that the milk lobbyists and the milk attorneys have a great advantage over the farmer, the milk producing farmer. You see, the farmer has to work from early morn until night, he has to milk his cows, he has to plow, to sow, to reap in order to keep his farm going and his head above water; he has no time to come down here and camp at Harrisburg, making his side of the case known to the Milk Control Board and to the Governor—none at all.

Now, I say we must not excuse the Governor. I hold no brief, as I say, for the Milk Control Board; it is a Democratic board, but it should not have made such an outrageous order. I am glad, however, that one member found the order too raw for him to sign. But the order was not too raw for the Governor of Pennsylvania to sign and he signed it—or approved it, rather, in spite of the promises that he had made in rosy and glowing terms to all the farmers of Pennsylvania—as well, by the way, as making the same kind of promises to every other group in Pennsylvania. So he bids fair to go down in the history of the great Keystone State as having reached the maximum in promises and the minimum in fulfillment thereof.

Yes, the farmers in my district, the farmers of western Pennsylvania, listened to the voice, the radio voice, of the Governor when he was making these promises, listened how he promised them almost the earth with a fence around it—mixing with his ballyhoo and bunk, as I said before on the floor of this Senate, a great many Bible quotations. The farmers listened, and I have no doubt that many of them thought he was conducting a religious campaign, when they heard so many Bible quotations.

Mr. President and members of the Pennsylvania Senate, in a sense the Governor was conducting a religious campaign—in a sense it was a religious campaign, because it was anointed—anoointed by the oil of Pew.

The Governor, you know, likes to call himself a breaker-boy. Well, some folks in Pennsylvania, during the campaign at least, denied that he had ever been a breaker-boy. I say to you that he is a breaker-boy, because he and the Milk Control Board are breaking the backs of the farmers in western Pennsylvania.

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. OWLETT. Mr. President, I rise to a point of order. The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Tioga, Mr. Owlett, will state his point of order.

Mr. OWLETT. Mr. President, the Senator from Armstrong, Mr. Sipe, is not talking on the resolution.

The PRESIDENT. The point of order of the Senator from Tioga is well taken.

Mr. SIPE. Mr. President, very well. Let me say this on the resolution, by way of boiling down what I said in the first place: we will never get anywhere on milk control in Pennsylvania—a control that is just to the milk producing farmer and just to the milk consuming person—never gets anywhere unless we conduct such an investigation as will include the lawyers and lobbyists of the milk trust. Is that on the point?

Let me tell a little bit about one milk lobbyist from my part of the State. I have known him for twenty-five years. I have seen him camping around Harrisburg a great deal since the inauguration, and he is not unacquainted at Harrisburg ever since so-called milk control started in Pennsylvania. You will recall, Mr. President and gentlemen of the Senate, that the resolution of my colleagues, Senator Heyburn and Senator Scarlett, was adopted by this body on the 28th of February. That night I worked pretty late here in the Senate Chamber, and near the strange and mystic hour of midnight, when the veil between the frail and fleeting present and the eternal future grows thin, into this holy chamber came this milk lobbyist, hunting a copy of the resolution of Senators Heyburn and Scarlett. Since then he has been working like a beaver to see that this resolution of my colleagues does not go through the House. He is offering the argument that under said resolution every State department in Pennsylvania could be investigated—a ridiculous argument intended to mislead and deceive; and I am reliably informed that he is making the boast that he can see to it that the resolution will be pickled in a committee in the House.

This gentleman, coming, as he does, from the western part of the State, being born and reared in one of the greatest milk producing counties in western Pennsylvania, namely, Crawford County, should have a little more sympathy for the farmer group from which he sprang.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President and members of the Senate, I rise to support my colleagues in asking that you vote for this resolution. Saturday I had at my home a neighbor who told me that this milk order was costing him thirteen dollars a day. That makes a total of $4,745 a year. This farmer has a herd of one hundred forty-six cattle. It is impossible for him, under any circumstances, to continue in the farming and dairy business as long as this order remains on the books. He gave me some pertinent facts I think you ought to hear.

He said under the rulings of the Milk Control Board they must deliver to the so-called milk retailer milk containing 4% butter-fat, and yet that same retailer is allowed to sell, to the consumer in Pennsylvania, that milk, under the label of Grade A, containing only 3.6% butter-fat—meaning that this man buys a hundred-weight of milk, gets about forty-six and a half quarts of 4% butter-fat milk out of it, turns around and adds whatever he wants to add, water or skim milk, and delivers to the consumers approximately fifty-two quarts of milk.

When the original Milk Board went into office the farmer produced 3.6% milk. It was found, out through western Pennsylvania—because a majority of the farmers had Jersey and Guernsey cows—that a good deal of the milk ran over 3.6% butter-fat; but they received no more for it, and some of the farmers became a little more shrewd and mixed their herds up and brought in a few more Holstein cows, which produced more milk but not as great in butter-fat. The milk trust did not let them get very far; they got wised up to it and put an order through the Milk Control Board that said the farmer must produce milk of 4.4% butter-fat.

Another discrepancy in the distribution of milk is the order that says the farmer must charge 11¢ a quart for milk, the same as the city retailer does, who pasteurizes his milk. Now, there is no sense in forcing the farmer to charge 11¢ for milk, and make him put it into containers, the same as the retailer in town who has to pasteurize his milk. But that is the point—that the so-called retailer in town has the argument that the so-called pasteurized milk is naturally the healthiest. And forcing the farmer to sell at the same price as the retailer in town soon destroys the market the farmer-dealer might otherwise have.

It is important that we do investigate the milk problem from top to bottom. I understand that the greatest amount of money spent in Pennsylvania for any commodity is for milk. The poor people buy more of it than anybody else. We must do something. Whether this resolution is going to be the vehicle upon which we can investigate this entire question, or not, I am not sure; but I will vote for any resolution that will expedite matters, that will soon wipe from the books this one order that is costing, as Senator Sipe has told you, a half million dollars a month to the western Pennsylvania milk producers. Gentlemen, you cannot vote "no" on this resolution, you must vote "aye" if you are sincerely interested in the farmers of Pennsylvania and in the consumers.

QUESTION OF PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I rise to a point of parliamentary inquiry.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro, will state his question of parliamentary inquiry.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, when this subject was discussed last week, I was somewhat concerned by it, because I own two cows, but they tell me that this only relates to Senators from Western Pennsylvania, so my two cows are put in their barns at night, if the March winds do not blow the mortgage down on this house; but tonight this resolution deals with all of Pennsylvania and everybody is to be investigated.

While I own two cows, I sell all the milk to my wife, in order to comply with the regulations of the Federal Government with regard to taking losses in the operation of a farm. I sell the milk at the same price as champagne, because it costs me just the same.

If there is a reduction in the price—my cows are contented cows, but my wife is not—and if there is to be a reduction in price, I have a particular interest in the investigation. The point of my inquiry is whether I am one of the Senators who might have to get up on the floor and announce whether I have an interest in this bill and if I have whether my interest comes under that heading; because if you do not pass the resolution, I am all right; but if you do pass the resolution, I come under it, and I submit to the orderly process of your inquiry on the question—which I hope will detain you long enough to allow us to pass this resolution.

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, this seems to be a free-for-all. I would like to say that for many years, I have been a director in a milk company that produces the finest milk in the city, the Walker-Gordon Milk Company, and I would like to instruct the Senator from Westmoreland, Mr. Dent, when he was belittling the fat content of 3.6 per cent, that, as a result of many years of experience, four per cent is the ideal percentage of fat in any milk, for children and for adults, and I do not mind passing that information on to my friend, the Senator from Westmoreland, Mr. Dent, that four per cent is the ideal percentage.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I want to assure the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Woodward, that I agree with him, but it seems that the farmer has to produce four percent, but the retailer only has to sell 3.6 percent. The people who are supposed to get the benefit from the four percent do not get it at all, because the retailer skims off the four percent and keeps it for himself.

Mr. OWLETT. Mr. President, there is now before the Senate, as I understand it, a motion to suspend a rule, in order that this resolution may be immediately considered. This Senate passed last week a resolution setting up a committee to investigate the milk industry; then today Senator Reed introduced a resolution, and we all unanimously suspended the rule and passed it unanimously—bringing in milk trusts and the lobbyists and milk attorneys and everyone else.

There is no one more interested in the problem of the milk producers than myself, representing as I do one of the largest dairy counties of this state. I submit, Mr. President, that a resolution conceived in hate and offered with malice and accompanied by political speeches—and the resolution itself is a political speech—it at least should go to a committee, under the rules of the Senate, to study it, and I therefore ask the Senate to vote down the motion for immediate consideration, that a regular committee in a regular way may study this resolution, in view of the fact that we have already passed two resolutions regulating the milk industry.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. CAVALCANTE and Mr. DENT, and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—24.

Cavalcante,	Frey,	Kilgallen,	Reed,
Coleman,	Gilson,	Kunkel,	Rice,
Dando,	Haluska,	Lanius,	Ruth,
Dent,	Heyburn,	McCreesh,	Shapiro,
DiSilvestro,	Jacobs,	McGinnis,	Sipe,
Eroe,	Jaspan,	Mundy,	Stiefel.

NAYS—23.

Bartlett,	Farrell,	Miller,	Tallman,
Chapman,	Gelder,	Owlett,	Thomas,
Crowe,	Geltz,	Pierson,	Walker,
Deitrick,	Homsher,	Scarlett,	Wolfenden,
Ealy,	Letzler,	Snowden,	Woodward,
Edmonds,	Mallery,	Stevenson,

Less than two-thirds of all the Senators having voted "aye," the question was determined in the negative.

The PRESIDENT. The resolution will be referred to the Committee on Agriculture.

RESOLUTION TO INVESTIGATE WPA IN CAMBRIA COUNTY

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, I wish to offer a joint resolution, but before I offer this resolution I wish briefly to speak on it. I am going to offer, within a few minutes, a joint resolution asking for an investigation of four governmental agencies functioning in the County of Cambria, namely, the Department of Highways, the Department of WPA, the Department of Unemployment Compensation, and the Department of Public Assistance.

Throughout the last four or five months people from my county have come to me with allegations that graft, bribery, incompetent personnel, political coercion, and what not, exist throughout these four departments. I have, I believe, sufficient proof, but I cannot exercise my duty unless I am authorized to do so. I am going to ask this body tonight to give me, or to place in the proper committee for investigation, the proper authority to investigate this condition in my county. I am aware that I should be possibly the last man to ask for any such investigation in my county. As all of you know, I am a Democrat, and most of these offices are held by Democratic job holders; but I care not for party affiliations; it is my duty to do my duty and to do it honestly.

I have warned, on a number of occasions, a number of the job holders in my county that unless they straightened this up I was going to ask this Senate for an investigation. I am suspicious that the allegations made are true; in fact, I have sufficient proof now, I believe, to enter prosecution. It is not my intention to prosecute or persecute any person that is innocent of any of these charges, but certainly it is my duty to prosecute, or have the court prosecute, any person, whether he be Democrat or Republican, if these charges are true.

Now, since I spoke last week of this intended, proposed, resolution, a number of persons have told me that we cannot properly, legally, investigate the so-called WPA. It is my contention that we can. In my county of Cambria, eighty-five percent of the projects employing persons today on WPA, are sponsored by the Highway Department, are spending Highway funds, and using Highway material. If that be true, which it is, I see no good reason why we cannot investigate this Department.

Therefore, Mr. President, I offer the following resolution and ask that it be read:

Mr. HALUSKA offered the following resolution, which was twice read as follows:

Whereas, Charges have been made that in Cambria County, there has been an improper use of funds by the State Highway Department, the Work Progress Administration, the Department of Public Assistance, and the Unemployment Compensation Division of the Department of Labor and Industry of this Commonwealth; and

Whereas, The charges made are not only confined to the improper use of funds by these departments and agencies, but also as to the existence of many highly irregular practices, incompetent personnel, political coercion, graft, bribery, and macing; and

Whereas, From time to time, these charges have been repeated; however, up until the present, the charges have never been proved or disproved; and

Whereas, The agencies of government of this Commonwealth and of the government of the United States, acting through our own state agencies or independently, must not be conducted in such a manner as to subject their activities in any way to charges directed to the honesty and integrity of those persons having the administration of such agencies; and

Whereas, Only through the investigation of these charges, and a full disclosure of the facts in relation thereto, can the truth be learned, therefore be it

Resolved, (if the House of Representatives concur), That the President Pro Tempore shall appoint three members of the Senate, one of whom shall be designated as chairman, and the Speaker of the House of Representatives shall appoint two members of the House, who, together shall constitute a joint legislative committee, and whose duty it shall be to make a thorough and impartial investigation of the various charges made relative to the several departments and agencies of this Commonwealth and of the Federal agencies operating and acting through the several departments and agencies of the Commonwealth, with particular attention to the commission of any offenses under the provisions of law of this Commonwealth; and be it further

Resolved, That said committee shall have power to issue subpoenas under the hand and seal of its chairman, requiring and commanding any person to appear before it and answer such questions touching matters properly being inquired into by the committee, and to produce such books, papers, records and documents as the committee may deem necessary. Such subpoenas may be served upon any person, and shall have the same force and effect as subpoenas issued out of the courts of this Commonwealth. Each member of the committee shall have power to administer oaths and affirmations to witnesses appearing before it. Any person who shall wilfully neglect or refuse to appear and testify for said committee, or to produce any books, papers, records and documents, shall be subject to the penalties provided by the laws of this Commonwealth in such cases; and be it further

Resolved, That if the commission is unable to complete its investigation during the current session of the General Assembly, it shall have power to sit and continue its investigations after the adjournment of the current session, and it shall then make its report and recommendations to the Governor, or to the next Session of the General Assembly.

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that Rule 39, which requires resolutions be referred to an appropriate committee, be suspended and the Senate do now proceed to the consideration of the resolution just read.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection?

The Chair hears none.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the resolution,

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I think it was way back in 1935 that the Senator from Tioga attempted an investigation of the WPA and I think he met with some resistance, and subsequently discovered, through the aid of the courts, that the law which was then cited by the Senator from Tioga was not correct; that the Senator from Tioga could not investigate the WPA.

This resolution combines an investigation of the WPA with several other departments. There may be a question as to whether or not even the Unemployment Compensation Bureau can be investigated, by virtue of its tie-up with Federal funds. Certainly, to the extent to which administration funds might be furnished by Washington there might be some question about the right to investigate that.

I would suggest that the Senator amend the resolution or alter the resolution or refer the resolution to a proper committee, so that that question may be looked into. I do not want anybody to accept my law on the subject, but once before I convinced one of the members of the Senate that my law was right, back in 1935.

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, I have some recollection of the resolution introduced by Senator Owlett, and if I understand it correctly, it was the purpose of that investigation to investigate the WPA as a whole, throughout the State. My resolution pertains to one county only, and I have sufficient proof—I cannot disclose this proof in an open meeting of this type, in an open hearing, because it would hamper my investigation, if it should go through, but I would be glad to give my findings upon some of the allegations made to a committee, to prove to them without any doubt that this body has a perfect right to investigate, because the Department of Highways sponsors at least seventy-five per cent of the projects working out of Cambria County, and the Department of Highways of this Commonwealth is expending funds and using materials on those projects, and I see no good reason why we cannot investigate that end of it.

Mr. OWLETT. Mr. President, well do I remember the corps of attorneys that were hastily brought to Harrisburg by the New Deal when we tried to uncover the graft and corruption in WPA a few years ago. They took it into the Federal Court and succeeded in getting a judge to hold that the State of Pennsylvania could not investigate WPA, but I would like to call attention of the Senate to the fact that there is, it seems to me, a distinction between an investigation of WPA as such, and an investigation of projects which are partly financed by the State, and it would be interesting indeed to find out if the New Deal administration at Washington would try to cover up the corruption that has been rampant through this State for the last year, under cover of the claim that we cannot investigate Federal matters.

I never heard of this resolution until this evening, when the Senator from Cambria, Mr. Haluska, told me a short time ago he planned to introduce it, but it seems to me it is a good resolution, and the more of this that can be uncovered the better the State of Pennsylvania is and the better the nation is.

Personally, I am going to vote for that resolution.

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, I am in favor of the resolution. I just happened to find a very interesting newspaper clipping from the New York Times in my pocket. It is a very brief statement, and it reads as follows:

"One prominent Washington person who obviously has not read the election returns is Aubrey Williams, Assistant WPA Administrator under Harry Hopkins, (I understand he has been kicked upstairs now). Speaking at Birmingham, he said that the equitable distribution of wealth in the nation cannot be achieved with our present industrial system. Mr. Williams was kind enough to say that we need not change our form of government, but he insisted on fundamental changes in the industrial order.

"Mr. Williams is also reported to have said: 'I am not sure that class warfare is not all right.' This sounds a bit like keeping an open mind on slight cases of murder, but as long as he is not altogether sure, perhaps comment would be premature. The fundamental change in the industrial system, however, seems to be a firm conviction in Mr. Williams' mind, though the election returns were quite emphatic the other way."

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, my colleague from Tioga county, Senator Owlett, is very amusing. He seems to be very sensitive as to whose wrist is being grasped, or whose bull is being gored, as to whether or not the action to be taken is appropriate or not. A little while ago he was moved to accuse the Senator from Armstrong and myself as being politically motivated and propounding political speeches as a preface to my resolution aimed at exposing the corruption that prevails within the Halls of the General Assembly. The Senator from Tioga, Mr. Owlett can see the mote in the eyes of the New Deal, but he does not see the mote in his own eye.

Mr. FREY. Mr. President, I think the Senator from Fayette, Mr. Cavalcante means beam.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, it is not beam, because that is light. I just want to make these few observations, because, we are trying our best to seek for some intellectual honesty, in dealing with these matters, and if there is any beam anywhere I do not see it in the eyes of the Senator from Tioga, but I do wish that he could clear his vision sufficiently enough to forget partisan spirit and expediency for a little while, and see the beam of intellectual honesty and parliamentary dignity, and see if he can pursue that for a little while.

Mr. OWLETT. Mr. President, I am still going to vote in favor of the resolution.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I have on the record a statement that I would like to call attention to the members of this Senate. I did not make it for the purpose of securing a vote against this resolution. If the Senator from Tioga insists on using this as a political vehicle I shall be unwilling to drive my car into the ruts which he has proposed to place in front of me.

I am in favor of investigating anything that is crooked, and if we are going to start now, I do not know where we will finish, but it will be a good beginning.

I merely want to call attention to the fact that he would not want to so force this resolution, because the gentleman referred to the issuance of subpoenas which might have no effect in the case of the Federal Government.

In plain English everybody knew what it meant, it was a resolution to make each man declare his interest in a bill that was referred to committee, because that would hurt, but when a resolution is offered here that might prove that WPA, the great bugaboo of political parties on both sides—I suppose when the Republicans get control of it the Democrats will then be talking about graft in WPA—that interests me very much.

It looks like when a Republican judge decides that a Senator has resigned, or if a Senator's position is inconsistent with the holding of office in the Senate, why, that is a decision of the court, but when a judge decides that WPA cannot be investigated, that is a decision of some judge who was gotten around to make that decision. Nobody is fooled by that, any nobody is fooled by what is doing on with this resolution. I think it is a good idea to investigate wherever you can, any department that is supposed to be covered with graft, but I do not think it should be used for political purposes, because it has some dynamite in it.

Some of these fellows who are so anxious to get in it now may find a few of their fingers may be crippled if they play politics, and prevent them from playing real politics.

I will vote in favor of the resolution and I will ask all of my Democratic colleagues to vote in favor of it, because the record will show we are not objecting to the resolution, but we are objecting to the form of the resolution; and if unanimous consent is given to this I will be surprised, because I think this is bad politics. I will go along with it, but the next time a resolution comes up which is obvious and my friends on the other side ask that it go to a pickling committee, as was done with the resolution just submitted by my friend Senator Cavalcante and his colleague Senator Sipe, I will call attention to the fact that politics are not only played outside, but also inside the halls of the Senate.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the resolution?

It was agreed to.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

MR. DEITRICK. Mr. President, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

MR. PRESIDENT. The Senator from Northumberland. Mr. Deitrick, will state his question of personal privilege.

MR. DEITRICK. Mr. President, I noticed on Friday, March 3, 1939, an item in a Sunbury daily newspaper. I read the article, which was captioned in this way: "Six Republicans Nominated To County Board."

Mr. President, this caption prompted me with a desire to put my views on record, as the Chairman of the Welfare Public Assistance Compensation Board of the Senate and as Chairman of the Joint Welfare Committee of the Senate and House investigating the administration of Public Assistance, hence the following:

It is often said that a blind hog will, at times, find an acorn and that a blind mute, even though he cannot see or hear, will find something with which to find fault, and at the same time will find some way to express himself so that he will let it be known that he is not pleased and has reason to file an objection.

I have sat in many sessions of this learned body and have listened to many comments and speeches by the members and I must say that I enjoyed some of them and saw much of wisdom and truth in the words spoken, but at the same time there were quite a few words spoken here that seemed meaningless and worthless. We all have a right to our opinions and, although my opinion may differ from yours, nevertheless it is only right and just that we can form our own conclusions and that we have the right to express them on the floor of this house.

Two years ago I heard the Republicans of this Senate flayed, mercilessly at times, by the at that time so-called majority party. It was hard to sit still and hear the things that the Republican party was accused of doing in the days when it was in power. Inwardly, I objected, but being a new member, I felt that, if we had any defense, it should be made by the older members of our party, for they had more ability and more experience than I and knew better whether the things said were true, partly true, or false. Sometimes a very able defense was made by one or more of the able Republican orators, but most of the time I felt that, like the old adage, "Where there is smoke there is fire," there might be and undoubtedly was some truth in some of the statements made by the speakers of the Democratic senators of this learned Assembly.

Many times I sat back thinking of the various accusations that were being made and felt that though all the things that were said could not be true; yet I felt certain that although they were spoken by our opposition, there must be some truth in some of the things that were said, for were not, in some cases, the accusers men who at one time were prominent in Republican politics?

They certainly would be able to find the flaws in the party, for they knew the party and were well schooled in the workings of the Grand Old Party. They were free to say that the reasons they changed their party affiliations were that they felt the Republican party was doing things which were not in accord with the will of the people and were not sincere in trying to better the state—to make it possible for the people to live better and more happily than before.

They openly accused the Republican party of putting party before people. Now after the election of last November I feel that the Democrats themselves became too selfish and put the well-being of their party before the welfare of the people. We all know what happened, for Thank God the people of our country still want a government for the people instead of people for a government. They do not want to be told what to do, nor how, and when to do it. They want to, and do think for themselves.

I hoped all through the last regular session of this Legislature that the Republicans would win and all the while I felt certain that should they come back into power they would not only profit by the mistakes in their own party, but would also sense the more recent ones in the Democratic party as well, and would try to carry out some of the ideals of the middle man and the so-called non-partisan voter who carries the balance of power that wins or loses elections. I felt that my party would respect the wishes of the man who does not particularly care whether the Democrats or Republicans win but who is vitally interested in the success of the party that will try to carry out what the present minority party was, two years ago, want to refer to as the mandates of the people.

The Senate has recently been accused of not having any dignity. It does have some dignity, but I am truthful when I say that it is not as much as I think it should have, although it certainly is on a par in that respect with that of any session, regular or extraordinary, that has been held since I became a member.

It is unfortunate that the highest law-making body in the best State in the Union should apparently become the best law-breaking body in the whole United States. This does not, in my opinion, reflect upon one of the two major political parties more than on the other. No wonder that most of the spectators gasped when they heard the rulings of the chair. To my way of thinking, Hitler, Mussolini or Stalin would be humiliated were they to see the actions as carried out by this body within the last ten weeks, for, although they are called dictators, I don't think they could be classed as statesmen.

I was appointed chairman of the Welfare, Public Assistance and Pension Committee of this Senate. I have been working with a joint committee of the House of Representatives since the recess began several weeks ago. Again and again we have been assured that politics were to be kept out of relief. This and that authority was bound, bent and determined that politics would not play any part in the administration of relief. We had enough experience with the way relief was handled by the Democrats. We were assured that certain very needy cases were given nothing by the Public Assistance Boards of certain counties because these needy people were registered as Republicans and would not change their party affiliations. This irregularity was over now, we were told, and we could rest assured that men and women would be picked for our county boards who would act in a fair and non-partisan manner in the administration of relief.

These men and women were to represent the various public interests and charity organizations in their respective districts. They were not to be politicians but persons who would not represent any party—who would think only of the person needing care. Ah, yes, we were told that we could feel assured that the unfortunate would be taken care of whether of Democratic, Republican, Socialist or any other political persuasion. Need was to be the deciding factor and any one who benefited by receiving relief was not to be placed in the position of feeling indebted to any party.

BUT—What did we get?

I can best speak of my own county of Northumberland.

Every member of our board was asked to resign. Not one, whether he or she was Democrat or Republican, was retained.

When our present board was appointed the Secretary of our Medical Society was asked by the Pennsylvania State Medical Society to suggest two names for membership. The Secretary is my assistant at the Mary M. Packer hospital in Sunbury. We talked the matter over and submitted the names of two reputable Democratic physicians. Neither one held either an appointive or elective office and the Governor then in power appointed both of them. Our present regime has seen fit to depose every member of our present board including these two reputable physicians. One of these physicians was a very active member of the American Legion. I understand that this year the State Medical Society wrote a letter to our Secretary asking our Society to suggest two names for the Public Assistance Board. When that letter was read to the Society one of its members advised the Secretary to throw the letter in the waste basket, as the appointments had been made. The Doctor who gave this timely advice also informed the members that he was to be the County Medical Director. This Doctor is a business associate and also a member of the Committee that gave the dinner to our County Chairman and the Committee Chairman of the James for Governor of Pennsylvania Committee. He certainly should be in a position to know, for wasn't he an aide to the dispenser of patronage of Northumberland County?

Now before we get to the personnel as published in the county newspapers, I want to go on record as not being actively opposed to any member as named, but I do want it understood that I am opposed to politicians having control of any board, whether it is my own or some other county in the State of Pennsylvania. I was opposed to it when the Board was controlled by the Democrats and I am just as much against it now that the Republicans have the naming of the Board. As individuals I have nothing whatever to say about their qualifications, but collectively I charge that they cannot as efficiently carry out our suggested relief program as a board that would be free or at least uncontrolled by any one person or by any one group of politicians. I am for relief for the needy and unfortunate, but I want it administered in such a way that they feel obligated to no one individual or party.

Now let's look over the names as submitted according to published accounts for the positions on the Public Assistance Board of Northumberland County.

B. B. Cannon, of Milton—has been very active in Republican politics; reputed to be one of the Pinchot leaders in our County. Ardent prohibitionist. Said to have either been the candidate or the runner-up to the active candidate on the Prohibition Ticket for the Presidency of the United States. He is so opposed to liquor that candidates are warned not to drink any beer for fear that he might smell it on their breath and thereby they might lose the support of a loyal Republican worker.

Frank A. Neff, one of my best friends. He and his family were patients of mine, when I was normally engaged in the practice of medicine, but nevertheless a politician. He was at one time on our School Board in Sunbury, but resigned before his term of office was over, because he was transferred by the Bell Telephone Company, by whom he was employed. Two years ago he was picked by us Republicans to defeat the incumbent Democratic Mayor. We thought he was a good enough politician to win, but he wasn't.

These two men were the only ones suggested for appointment from the western end of our County. They well represent the citizens of our County from Shamokin to the Lycoming County line on the north and the Dauphin County line on the south. The past administration was good enough to let us have three and one of them is a Republican.

In the Borough of Mount Carmel, which is at the extreme end of our county, two people have been supposedly appointed.

Mrs. Ida Butts Morse, a woman whom I have known since I was a boy. As a leader of the women in politics, she has no superior and few equals. She is classed as a stormy petrel by the people I consulted and was elected to the School Board in Mount Carmel after one of the bitterest political fights ever held in that borough. You know this district is the one where a new influence in an old school board threw out without cause 32 to 35 school teachers. The members themselves freely admitted that there were no complaints against the dismissed teachers, but they had to make room for that many of their own friends. This Board was Democratic, but that act was so odious that with similar actions which happened about that time it was responsible for a Democratic Legislature passing the present Teachers Tenure Act. Anyway, Mrs. Morse was a good enough Republican to win out in a subsequent election.

Joseph G. Zecoskie is the other one from Mount Carmel. He is a good fellow, but unfortunately he is a squire. He is about to come up for re-election. As to whether or not squires in the coal region are politicians I will leave that up to your imagination, or, better still, if you are in doubt, ask some of the Senators who come from the hard coal region or write to your friends, who happen to live in that particular region.

Now we come to Shamokin. Shamokin was given three out of the seven. Let's look them over and see how non-partisan they are.

Francis Reid, the one man on the Board that really has a business of his own, he is in the milk and ice cream business. He, perhaps, more than any other member of the Board, would be interested in trying to administer relief judicially, impartially and equitably. He realizes that taxes have to be paid, and that relief has to be administered. The thing cannot run itself. He may be everything that is required, but we must know that he was at one time our delegate to the Republican National Convention.

Now we have but two more left—one Republican and one reputed Democrat.

Let's take the Republican first, Mr. John U. Schroyer. He was the Chairman of the Committee that gave the dinner to the then Republican County Chairman, who is now the Insurance Commissioner of the State of Pennsylvania, and his colleague, who was the manager of the James for Governor campaign in our County and who is at present our County Chairman. If these positions are to be given out for loyalty to the leaders of the Republican Party he should get the job. He gave a big party in the American Legion Banquet Hall in Shamokin. Most of us paid to get there, but I have been informed quite a few didn't.

I don't begrudge the two dollars and fifty cents I paid for my dinner, for my only regret is that I was too far away from the Speakers table to see the beaming countenance of our "fearless and peerless leader" who had been so sobriqueted by the Chairman of that Banquet Committee, who I am informed aspires to the Senatorial Seat of the Twenty-seventh District. I hope he is determined to seek that office and I sincerely wish that his position on the Public Assistance Board of our County will aid him to get votes, instead of acting as a boomerang for I can assure you that, no matter who is going to be his opponent, Mr. Schroyer is going to have a hard job, for there are lots of things that catch up to you once you get into politics. All of us, I believe, have reason to know that.

Now we come to the one and only Democrat. In other words, John J. Dusick, or the "Lone Wolf." He is, at present, a squire and like I said of Squire Zecoskie of Mount Carmel, you can judge for yourself whether or not a squire in the hard coal regions of Pennsylvania is or is not a politician. He is very active, I have been told, in the affairs of the United Mine Workers of America. This organization should have a Representative on our Public Assistance Board, but I contend that a Justice of the Peace should be barred from serving on that Board for, although as a member of that Board, he may have every intention of doing everything right, human nature is so constituted that every one today to a certain extent looks after himself, for if he doesn't it appears to me he will be left high and dry. Now can you imagine that any one will not use any means within their power to pile up votes when they are up for re-election? Don't forget that these squire jobs in the coal region are full-time jobs, and according to all reports, they are very good paying ones at that. I spoke to a good Democrat in our County about Squire Dusick, for I wanted to get his good points, for I do contend that we should have at least two members of the minority party on every Board to keep the Board functioning smoothly and to keep the citizens of both parties better satisfied. He spoke of Dusick as a radical and told me that he, Dusick, ran for the Legislature this last election and was defeated at the primaries by his own party. He said that Dusick immediately changed his Democratic attitude and supported the whole Republican ticket. Perhaps he had in mind a certain reward that he would like to receive should the Republican Party come back into power. Now that the Republicans have been successful, is he or is he not reaping his reward?

In closing, I want it understood that I have nothing personal against any of these selected individuals, but I do feel that we have heard so much about keeping politics out of Relief that it should be an incentive to each one of us to do our bit to eliminate all those individuals and agencies that have a tendency to commercialize on the unfortunate individuals who are unable to support themselves and their families by obtaining employment through the usual and normal channels.

BILL ON THIRD READING AND FINAL PASSAGE

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 80, (House Bill No. 143), entitled:

An Act to amend clause (b) of section four, article two of the act approved the twenty-fifth day of June, one thousand nine hundred and nineteen (Pamphlet Laws 581) entitled, "An act for the better government of cities of the first class of this Commonwealth," as amended by providing a succession of officers of such cities to act as mayor in case of a vacancy or disability of the mayor to act."

And said bill having been read at length the third time, and agree to,

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. JASPAN. Mr. President, my colleague from Philadelphia need not be concerned about passage of a bad law. This is the year of our Lord 1939 A. D. The legislature is now more or less Republican in politics and I am quite confident it will change its tone from that of 1937 and 1938.

Mr. President, I realize that this bill has been politically inspired and if it becomes a law it will tend to serve the best interests of the Republican party. I cannot complain on that score excepting as it affects Philadelphia.

What does concern me, however, is the fact that if and when this bill becomes a law and it becomes necessary to invoke its provisions, and there is great danger of it at the present time, the city will have as its acting Mayor, the present President of City Council, George Connell—George Connell in my mind knows little and understands less of city management and finances.

George Connell has been a member of the present City Council since 1920 and has both actively or passively lent himself to an orgy of extravagance and waste unprecedented in the history of Philadelphia, which has resulted in the city's present bankrupt condition. Make no mistake about it, the city of Philadelphia is in a state of virtual bankruptcy. Payrolls are not met promptly. Its bills are not paid on time. George Connell has stood by for years without making any attempt to improve its financial stake. The fact is he does not know how. I personally do not expect much of him.

I did, however, cherish illusions as to Mayor Wilson, but I am frank to say that I have been very much disillusioned. His words and acts have contradicted each other time and again. One must not forget that Mayor Wilson lays claims to clairvoyant powers. He is more or less of a mesmerist and magician. He can pull a card out of one pocket and give Philadelphia fifty cent gas and out of another pocket a card giving you five cent fares. He forgot that he had to reckon with the utilities and other interests, but as time went on they learned to reckon with him. The report of the Grand Jury brings it out very clearly.

Today in Philadelphia vice and crime are rampant and what makes it worse and more dangerous is the fact that it is highly organized. The Mayor and President of City Council have done nothing to curb the activities of the mob and to suppress crime generally. Think of it, Philadelphia, the third largest city in the United States, the Cradle of Liberty, bankrupt and crime infested. It certainly is a sad commentary on the pages of Philadelphia history.

Notwithstanding, we are now ready to vote for a bill which might result in putting a man into the Mayor's chair who is absolutely incompetent and unfit for the position. Today, this same man stands ready to further embarrass the city by hocking one of its most valuable assets, the gas works. The blood of the gas works has already been sucked long enough by the U. G. I., and it is being settled at the expense of the tax-payer. Mr. Connell is willing and ready to add to the woes of the city as to the status of the Gas Works. Further, Mr. Connell has done the bidding of the big interests. He along with many others have been marionettes long enough to the prejudice of the welfare and interests of the people of Philadelphia.

Be assured that I am not motivated by politics in pressing for the defeat of this bill. I am a citizen of Philadelphia. I have lived there for many moons. I feel I understand their needs and wants. I have felt their pulse and I can say without fear of contradiction that if there be any need for any change in the Mayor's chair, let us have a man who has courage, ability, intelligence, knowledge and ability rather than a tool or puppet. Rather than have you pass this bill, I would give Philadelphia back to the Indians; they would make a better job of it.

Mr. OWLETT. Mr. President, I just wish to offer some explanation on this bill. This act provides that in the case of disability or a vacancy in the office of Mayor in the city of Philadelphia that the President of Council shall succeed to that office. That is the way the act provided, prior to 1937. In line with the modern trend of thought and in line with all the other acts in this Commonwealth, in line with the provisions of the City Charter, the new City Charter, an act introduced by my friend from Philadelphia, the Council or a member of Council is selected as Mayor in case of vacancy. That is all this act provides, and this is putting the act back in the form in which it should be in line with modern thought.

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, my esteemed colleague from Philadelphia, Mr. Jaspan, remarked that he had lived in Philadelphia for many moons. He has therefore viewed the iniquities of the city of Philadelphia only by moonlight, I would like to remind him this is not a moonlight bill but a plain daylight bill, to prevent the Mayor of Philadelphia from being a Democrat.

It is a daylight bill.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I hope that I can keep the Senator from Tioga to his promise that when the City Charter Bill comes up he will agree its provisions are good not only in that one respect but they will be good for Philadelphia in every respect, and I shall try to keep him to that—what he said here tonight. The City Charter Act provides that City Council elect a Mayor; and that, of course, is in line with progressive procedure. As a matter of fact, this bill is unnecessary, because this bill also provides that City Council shall elect a Mayor in the last year. This is the last year of the present Mayor's term, and this bill can only be considered to be sponsored by some person particularly interested in making sure that the gentleman who is now the president of Council, or my good friend, the Chairman of the Committee of Finance, Mr. Samuels, shall become the Mayor; because if you gentlemen do not do anything to the bill, and leave it as it is, and what they—shall I say “think”, I hesitate to say “hope” will happen, does happen to the Mayor of Philadelphia, as provided in the Charter, and select a Mayor, but unfortunately that does not seem to suit certain people.

I do not care whether this bill passes or not; I am going to vote against it because I do not believe in it, because it is particularly aimed at a particular situation, and just as haste causes the making of bad laws, so certain situations tend to make bad legislation.

I am surprised though that the administration should lend its assistance to this unnecessary piece of legislation at this time, at a time when there are important matters such as have been spoken of and referred to by the Senator from Northumberland, and I want to pay a compliment to the spirit which moved him to get up and state these things.

I think it would be good for all of us to get up and state these situations now when it would help, because these are troublous times, and we must establish the Government on a firm foundation.

It is time we stopped playing politics, trying to get twenty-six votes to pass this bill or twenty-seven votes to pass that bill, to suit a certain situation. There is no necessity for it. It is pure and simple politics, on the part of both Democratic and Republican Senators, at a time when they could be devoting their time to better purposes. Leave the laws alone, and you will find that the person who will be appointed Mayor there will be elected by a Republican council.

Today pass this bill and it will be found you cannot appoint anybody else but the President of the Council and then if he cannot serve the Chairman of the Finance Committee.

It is purely political and it is silly.

Mr. EDMONDS. Mr. President, I am not a resident of Philadelphia, but I was born in the city of Philadelphia and lived there for fifty years, and I am interested in its welfare. The picture which the Senator from the other side, Senator Jaspan, has presented is one in which I am particularly interested, in that he represents the district in which I was born.

Now, there is politics in this, and what is it? It is undoing the politics of two years ago, and I am here simply for the purpose of saying that I am proposing to vote for this bill, and I shall vote for it, because the executive and the auditing powers of the City Controller should not be interchangeable in the way that it was proposed two years ago. It is as silly as it would be in the event the Governor was sick to say the Auditor General should succeed him.

An executive is selected for the purpose of performing administrative functions, and a controller ought to be absolutely independent, and while I am a Republican, I say with a great deal of pleasure that I voted for many Democrats for Controller when the organization was Republican, on the ground there should be added check of that kind. I have no quarrel with the fact that the present Controller is a Democrat; he is doing an admirable piece of work.

But, when two years ago they made the Controller the successor to the Mayor they joined together two functions that are entirely opposed. Of course, he will give up the office of City Controller when he becomes Mayor, but the qualities that make him a good Controller may not necessarily make him a good Mayor. There are different kinds of qualities required for the two jobs, and for that reason I shall vote for this bill on the ground that we are doing a wrong that was done two years ago.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, I would like to interrogate the Senator from Montgomery, Mr. Edmonds.

The PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from Montgomery, Mr. Edmonds, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. EDMONDS. Mr. President, gladly.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, does not the same argument apply to the President of Council?

Mr. EDMONDS. Mr. President, I did not quite understand that.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, does not the same objection apply to the President of Council as applies to the Controller?

Mr. EDMONDS. Mr. President, he was the President of City Council two years ago when this thing was messed up, and it seems to me the proper step is to take it back to where it was.

Mr. GILSON. Mr. President, I think we ought to forget politics and thank the Senator from Montgomery, Mr. Edmonds, for having moved out of Senator Jaspan's ward in the city of Philadelphia.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, the records will show the fact that when this bill came up I voted against the bill, although at the time I was a Democrat, and it was a Democratic measure. I voted against it for the reason suggested by the Senator from Montgomery, Mr. Edmonds. Mine was the only dissenting vote, so apparently it was not much of a political issue, because it was adopted by a vote of forty-nine to one, but my reason for voting against is just what the Senator from Montgomery, Mr. Edmonds, has said.

But the Senator from Montgomery, Mr. Edmonds, must not forget that the changes were made politically three years before that, 1933—two years before that—when the director of Public Safety, who was a Republican, was the next successor in line, in case of accident to the Mayor, and the Republican Party feared that the Public Safety Director might become Mayor and they did not like that; and they took out his succession and changed it; so if you count up the politics it is two to one in favor of the Republicans; but I am not interested in that except to say that the Senator from Montgomery, Mr. Edmonds, does not answer the question by merely saying the Controller is not a proper man. If you leave it just as it is the Controller will not succeed, and therefore the argument falls, because this year, under the existing law the man to succeed is appointed by Council and he may be a Councilman or anybody else.

I would like to see this bill so amended that Council would be put in the position of being obliged to pick a Mayor, and let them pick somebody who will have intelligence and ability to do something constructive for the city of Philadelphia.

Mr. MILLER. Mr. President, I would like to interrogate the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Jaspán.

The PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Jaspán, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. JASPÁN. Mr. President, with pleasure.

Mr. MILLER. Mr. President, not being privileged to represent Philadelphia, or any section in or about Philadelphia, I would like to be enlightened before casting my vote and ask if the Senator from Philadelphia would desire to relate to this Senate an obituary in respect to the present Controller, such as he has recited in reference to the President of City Council?

Mr. JASPÁN. Mr. President, I am not so foolish as to answer ridiculous questions.

Mr. EDMONDS. Mr. President, the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro, has been a Senator for some time, and when he cast his vote of four or five or six years ago, when he was a Republican, he voted against this issue. My own feeling is this: Let us say we got off on the wrong track, four or five or six years ago; I do not know when the time was, but let us get back on the right track now.

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, I hope this bill is entirely unnecessary. I am sincerely hoping Mayor Wilson will recover. I feel Philadelphia will not be the same place without Mayor Wilson. I do not think we should take it for granted this bill is at all needed.

And the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The yeas and nays were taken agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I desire to be recorded as voting "no."

The PRESIDENT. It will be so noted.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Rev. Walter Evans Deibler, offered the following prayer:

We thank Thee, Oh God, for our country. Two days ago we celebrated the sesqui-centennial of the first meeting of the Congress of these United States of America. Our hearts are thrilled with the achievements, protection and blessings which Thou hast vouchsafed unto us through this century and a half of history. We thank Thee for the courageous, God-fearing men who played their part well in the formation of our democracy. Help us, Oh God, to have their spirit in this our day. As then so today in the language of Patrick Henry, "there is a just God who presides over the destinies of nations, and who will raise up friends to fight our battles for us." "We are not weak if we make a proper use of those means which the God of Nature has placed in our power." Who is so imbecile of mind as not to be thoughtful of the serious problems confronting us today? Who is so duped with selfishness and un-Americanism as to prefer another system of government? Who is so stunted and distorted in his patriotism as to give but a half loyalty to our democracy? Who is so cruelly frigid emotionally as not to be aroused mentally and stirred in heart at the gracious guidance of Almighty God in the formation of our democratic form of government? We thank Thee, Oh God, for our people who love our flag, who are willing to defend it, and to serve under it.

"God bless the flag and its loyal defenders,
While its broad folds o'er the battlefield wave,
Till the dim star-wreath rekindle its splendors,
Washed from its stains in the blood of the brave!"

God bless the President and the Congress of the United States. Bless the Governor of our Commonwealth and this General Assembly.

"God bless our native land; firm may she ever stand;
Through storm and night:

When the wild tempests rave; Ruler of wind and wave;

Thou who art strong to save, be Thou her might."

God bless the United States of America. Amen.

RESOLUTION INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

By Mr. WATKINS. RESOLUTION NO. 23.

In the House of Representatives, February 28, 1939.

Whereas, numerous taxing authorities in Schuylkill County, and elsewhere throughout the State, are sorely distressed and hampered in their governmental and educational functions by reason of their inability to collect taxes due and payable by certain of their taxpayers; and

Whereas, many large coal companies, and similar concerns, are at present in the process of reorganization under proceedings instituted in our Federal courts in compliance with Section 77 (b) of the Federal Bankruptcy Act, which companies are heavily indebted to municipal authorities; and

Whereas, said municipal taxing authorities would be greatly benefited by the prompt payment of taxes due from such companies now in process of reorganization as aforesaid, our teachers could be paid and our schools kept open; therefore be it

Resolved, by the House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania that his Excellency the Governor of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, be requested to direct the Attorney General of Pennsylvania to intervene in such proceedings for re-organization under Section 77 (b) of the Federal Bankruptcy Act brought by or on behalf of any corporation indebted for taxes to municipal sub-divisions of this Commonwealth, and endeavor to procure the prompt payment of the whole or a substantial portion of the taxes so due and owing; and be it further

Resolved, that a copy of this resolution be immediately transmitted by the Chief Clerk of the House to his Excellency the Governor of the Commonwealth.

Referred to the Committee on Rules.

Section 1. Be it resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met. That the following amendment to the Constitution of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania be, and the same is hereby, proposed, in accordance with the eighteenth article thereof:—

That article nine, section eight of the Constitution of Pennsylvania is hereby amended to read as follows:—

Section 8. The debt of any city, borough, township, school district or other municipality or incorporated district, except as provided herein and in section fifteen of this article, shall never exceed seven (7) per centum upon the average assessed value of the taxable realty therein for the nine years immediately preceding the time any debt is incurred or increased; and the debt of any county, other than Philadelphia, shall never exceed ten (10) per centum upon the average annual assessed value of the taxable realty therein for the nine years immediately preceding the time any debt is incurred or increased; and the debt of the City and County of Philadelphia shall never exceed fifteen (15) per centum upon the average annual assessed value of the taxable realty therein for the nine years immediately preceding the time any debt is incurred or increased; nor shall any county, city, borough, township, school district or other municipality or incorporated district incur any new debt or increase its indebtedness to an amount exceeding two (2) per centum upon such average annual assessed valuation of taxable realty for the nine immediately preceding years without the consent of the electors thereof at a public election in such manner as shall be provided by law.

In ascertaining the borrowing capacity of the City and County of Philadelphia at any time, there shall be deducted from such debt so much of the debt of said City and County as shall have been incurred or is about to be incurred and the proceeds thereof expended or about to be expended upon any public improvement or in the construction, purchase or condemnation of any public utility or part thereof or facility thereof, to the extent that such public improvement or public utility or part thereof, whether separately or in connection with any public improvement or public utility or part thereof, may yield or may reasonably be expected to yield revenue in excess of operating expenses sufficient to pay the interest and sinking fund charges thereon.

The method of determining such amount so to be deducted may be prescribed by the General Assembly.

In incurring indebtedness for any purpose, the City and County of Philadelphia may issue its obligations, maturing not later than fifty (50) years from date thereof, with provisions for a sinking fund sufficient to retire said obligations at maturity, the payment to such sinking fund to be in equal or graded annual or other periodical installments. Where any indebtedness shall be or shall have been incurred by said City and County of Philadelphia for the purpose of the construction or improvement of public works or utilities of any character from which income or revenue is to be derived by said City and County or for the reclamation of land to be used in the construction of wharves or docks owned or to be owned by said City and County, such obligations may be in an amount sufficient to provide for and may include the amount of the interest and sinking fund charges accruing and which may accrue thereon throughout the period of construction and until the expiration of one year after the completion of work for which said indebtedness shall have been incurred but not in excess of five years from the time of the incurring of such indebtedness, and said City and County shall not be required to levy a tax to pay said interest and sinking fund charges as required by Section ten, article nine, of the Constitution of Pennsylvania until the expiration of said period of one year after the completion of said work.

Provided, however, that any city, county, borough, township or other municipality or incorporated district may, with the consent of the electors thereof, increase its indebtedness to the extent of three (3) per centum over and beyond any limitation fixed herein, toward the sole purpose of constructing or completing sewage treatment works.

REPORT FROM COMMITTEE ON RULES

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, I desire to offer a report from the Committee on Rules.

The report was read by the Clerk as follows:

In the House of Representatives, Monday, March 6th, 1939.

Resolved, That Monday, April 3d, 1939, be fixed as the last day for the introduction of Bills in the House of Representatives during this Regular Session, except Bills for the raising of Revenue and Appropriation Bills.

Signed by the Committee on Rules:

ROBERT E. WOODSIDE, JR.
NORMAN WOOD.
JACOB B. SCHROCK.
WILSON L. YEAKEL.
ROBERT S. HAMILTON.
ELLWOOD J. TURNER.

On the question,

Will the House adopt the report?

Mr. ANDREWS. Is the resolution now before the House, Mr. Speaker?

The SPEAKER. The report of the committee is before the House.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, I arise to suggest to the Majority Leader the possibility of dovetailing the resolution presented by the Committee on Rules with another interesting and important resolution that it also pending before this House.

I believe, Mr. Speaker, that we will have an opportunity to vote sooner or later upon the resolution inviting two distinguished United States Senators to come before this House and to counsel it concerning the state of the nation and the state of Pennsylvania. I submit to the Majority Leader and to the Speaker that if these two distinguished statesmen having anything worth offering it would be unfair to close the case and not be in a position to take advantage of their, what I do not doubt will be, very excellent advice.

Therefore, Mr. Speaker, I suggest to the Majority Leader that until he has arranged a date for the two distinguished Senators from the State of Pennsylvania, that he hold this resolution in abeyance.

On the question recurring,

Will the House adopt the report?

The SPEAKER declares the ayes appeared to have it,

Whereupon, a division was called for, more than one hundred and five members, a majority of the House, having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative and the report was adopted.

RESOLUTION NO. 6

Mr. TAYLOR. Mr. Speaker, I desire to call up at this time Resolution No. 6, Printer's No. 31.

The resolution was read by the Clerk as follows:

In the House of Representatives, January 23, 1939.

Whereas, Nearly four hundred thousand sons of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania were the uniform of our Nation during the World War; and

Whereas, Many other Pennsylvanians have served honorably in the Army, Navy, or Marine Corps in every war and military expedition authorized by the United States Government prior and subsequent to the World War; and

Whereas, Although Pennsylvania contributed more men and money to the Federal Government during the World War than any other State in the Union (excepting the State of New York) the Federal Government has not recognized this fact by erecting a proportionate number of United States veterans hospitals within the Commonwealth; and

Whereas, To date the Federal Government has constructed only two hospitals in Pennsylvania, one at Coatesville and the other at Aspinwall; and

Whereas, As many as five hospitals have been erected in other States; and

Whereas, At present the hospitals at Coatesville and Aspinwall are filled to capacity and there is a waiting list of disabled veterans seeking admittance; therefore be it

Resolved, That the House of Representatives of the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, memorialize the President of the United States and the United States Veterans Administration to construct and equip immediately a large general medical war veteran hospital in Pennsylvania, in order to provide hospitalization for thousands of disabled Pennsylvania war veterans who are in need of hospital attention, but who are unable to receive the same because of present inadequate facilities.

The Resolution was adopted.

STATEMENT BY MR. HOLLAND.

Mr. HOLLAND asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

To take up the time of this House with already solved problems is wasting taxpayers' money, and if we are to effect the economy of government, as talked about so much in the recent campaign, we certainly should show a little more action and less stalling for time.

March is here, and yet is this House to see the proper functioning of House Committees. Are we going to revert back to the rule of the old reactionaries in Pennsylvania, when Committees functioned in name only? Are those men—who in the old days dictated the policies of government in the hotel rooms of Harrisburg—again performing the works of the Committees as they did before the people of Pennsylvania spoke? To take up the time of this House each week speaking on Flood Control should not be necessary, and I believe that if the Governor of the State of Pennsylvania will go out among the people of Pennsylvania and heed to their voices instead of the voice of a musical comedy colonel, representing the Utilities, he would immediately retract all the statements he has made and compel his Secretary of Forests and Waters to also retract his statements regarding Flood Control Plans.

The Federal Government is about to appropriate large sums for Flood Control. Many States, who have Governors whose foresight is not dimmed by Utilities, will avail themselves of these funds and protect the people of their individual States from future catastrophies caused by floods. However, the Governor of the State of Pennsylvania, trying to get National recognition on a controversial subject of "State's Rights", has injected into the Flood Program an issue that was settled by Federal and State Governments before the Governor was born. The control of rivers has always been a Federal matter, and therefore the control of floods means the control of rivers. It is not a New Deal idea. It's the idea and the plan of his own Republican Party since there has been a Republican Party. I would suggest to the Governor, if he is to be Oil Man Pew's and Mr. Utilities' candidate for President, he will get more votes wiping out future floods than worrying about a few dams that might be used to generate electric power.

If the Governor wants to balance his budget by betting $111,000,000 dollars on Roosevelt, here is his chance to reduce his Relief Rolls by using Roosevelt's money to put men on relief to work. If this money is to be spent on floods, then Pennsylvania should avail itself of the opportunity of getting every cent that it can get from the Federal Flood Appropriation.

If Governor James wants to be President, he might get the good will of not only the people of Pennsylvania, but also the people of West Virginia and Ohio who are affected by his stoppage of the entire Flood Control program. I might give him a warning now, that there is a man named Taft in Ohio, who is holding his own to be nominated on the Republican ticket for President, and I think that Mr. Taft could have a very fine issue to stop James' nomination on the Republican ticket.

In the last election many of you men campaigned on the issues that if you were elected you would not be a "rubber stamp", that you would go to Harrisburg and would assert your rights as Legislators and would use all your power in the Legislative branch of the Pennsylvania Government to serve the people and the people only. Here is your chance to demand that the Governor listens to the voice of the People of Pennsylvania instead of a Texas colonel, or a sea-sick admiral, or the Utilities. You Legislators are their voices in these Halls.

In the Committee of Federal Relations, Resolution Number 15, Printer's Number 15, is being held. This Resolution merely expresses and Points out to the Governor the true story on Flood Control. It urges that the Governor of the State of Pennsylvania considers first the lives of the people of Pennsylvania before any other interests. It urges the Governor of the State of Pennsylvania, through your Legislative powers, Members of this House, to carry on and bring to a successful completion the entire Flood Control program which has the backing and was fully approved by the Tri-State Authorities, the Chamber of Commerce, and other informed business interests.

To the Republican members of this House, as well as the Democratic members, I appeal to you to consider this problem on a strictly non-partisan basis and to you new members as well as old members of the Republican Party, here is your opportunity to prove to the people of Pennsylvania that you represent the people of Pennsylvania. Your vote on the discharge of the Committee of Federal Relations for further consideration of Resolution No. 15, Printer's No. 15, will show who are the "rubber stamps" of the Utilities of Pennsylvania.

RESOLUTION

DISCHARGING COMMITTEE

Mr. HOLLAND offered a resolution and asked unanimous consent for immediate consideration.

The SPEAKER. This is a privileged resolution. For the information of the members of the House the Chair will read Rule 40 "When Committees May Be Discharged From Consideration Of Bill: 40. That when a bill or resolution has been ten calendar days in the hands of a committee after having been referred to it, any committee may be discharged from further consideration of the bill or resolution by a vote of a majority of the members elected to the House."

The resolution was read by the clerk as follows:

In the House of Representatives, March 6, 1939.

Resolved, That the Committee on Federal Relations be discharged from further consideration of House of Representatives Resolution No. 15 (Serial No. 31) urging the Governor to complete flood control programs, said resolution having been in the hands of said committee for a period of ten days and more, having been referred on February 7, 1939.

On the question,

Will the House adopt the Resolution?

Resolution No. 15 was read by the clerk for the information of the House.

Mr. TAHL. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, as Chairman of this committee I feel it is my duty to explain to the House why this motion to discharge the Committee should not prevail.

This resolution was introduced on February 8th. I think it was the day when this House adjourned for two weeks and we did not return until the 27th. I was here on the 27th and the gentleman from Allegheny never saw fit to make any request for the consideration of this resolution. In view of that, I feel that the motion should not prevail and the committee should have a chance to immediately consider it.

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. Holland and Mr. Reuben E. Cohen.

Messrs. Holland, Harkins and Russell E. Reese asked for a verification of the roll.

The roll was verified and was as follows:

ANNOUNCEMENT BY SPEAKER

The SPEAKER. The Chair desires to express the pleasure of the House at the presence this evening of so many of the wives of members. The reflection of the light on the rostrum is extremely great and makes it very difficult to see the printing that is before the Speaker, but that is nothing in comparison to the brilliance that is reflected to the rostrum this evening by the shining faces of the members of the House. We feel it reflects good will, good feeling and good cheer on the part of the members of the House due to the fact that their wives are with them.

SENATE

TUESDAY, March 7, 1939

The Senate met at 2:00 o'clock p. m.

The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant-Governor Samuel S. Lewis) in the Chair.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Rev. BURLEIGH A. PETERS offered the following prayer:

What mean we by this service, O Gracious God, this convening in these legislative halls from day to day? What part are we playing in Thy Divine economy and the welfare of this great Commonwealth?

From the re-echoing voices of our founding forefathers and the declarers of our independence come the words always synonymous with democracy and liberty and freedom—"Governments are instituted among men, in order to secure certain unalienable rights, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed." Thus we are here daily wielding the power of legislation by the consent of the governed, the people of our great State. We would be careful and judicious in its use that the highest ends of the governed may be attained.

And in the midst of this signal service and its honorable discharge we would be sure, above all things, that its spirit be attuned to the Infinite One, the earth's greatest Potentate and Ruler of all nations.

Guide us in this highest legislative spirit this day while we labor here. In the Holiest of all names, we humbly pray. Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVED

The PRESIDENT. A quorum of the Senate being present the Clerk will read the Journal of the preceding session.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of the preceding session, when, on motion of Mr. OWLETT and Mr. HEYBURN further reading was dispensed with, and the Journal was approved.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. SIPE. Mr. President, I wish to rise to a question of personal privilege.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Armstrong, Mr. Sipe, will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. SIPE. Mr. President, I wish to say that one week ago today I protested on the floor of this Senate against the Governor's decision to keep the new tuberculosis sanatorium at Butler closed for the next two years.

I want to say this: that I have received communications from the Pennsylvania Medical Association asking me to be interested in the eradicating of syphilis in Pennsylv-vania. I want to assure the Pennsylvania Medical Association that I am deeply interested in eradicating syphilis in Pennsylvania, but I want further to say to Pennsylvania Medical Association that I am also interested in eradicating tuberculosis in Pennsylvania, and I therefore appeal to the Pennsylvania Medical Association to give a little help in the effort to cause Governor James, if he will, to change his mind about keeping this new tuberculosis sanatorium in Butler County closed for the next two years—the only State sanatorium of its kind in all western Pennsylvania.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. STIEFEL. Mr. President, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Stiefel, will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. STIEFEL. Mr. President, I do not wish to take the time of this Senate unnecessarily, but during the last week I have given some thought to the situation we all face here.

Since this Senate convened on January 3rd there has been an enormous amount of political maneuvering in this chamber, but very little legislation. I think a dispassionate observer might well say that from week to week we do not come here to attend to the business of the Commonwealth, but to do our utmost to strengthen the fences of our political parties. You see, I do not utterly absolve my own party from this criticism.

As a Senator and a citizen who looks with reverence upon the traditions and principles of our government, I do not observe with any satisfaction the employment of methods by either side in this Chamber which do violence to those principles and those great and noble traditions. But such bad and dangerous methods have been used.

I feel certain in my mind that more than one Senator seated on the other side has thought as gravely and with as much concern as I have over some of the proceedings with regard to Senator Levin last night a week ago. I am not speaking here now necessarily to attack those proceedings. I only mention them to express my belief that there are Republican Senators who in their inner hearts realize that in them the Constitution, the law and the rules of this Senate were overridden and set aside in order to accomplish a partisan purpose.

Perhaps that might be said also of us in some other matters and I agree with a very important member of the Republican majority that "Two wrongs do not make a right".

And I want to make it clear that in discussing these things I do not seek to assess blame, or weigh it, or avoid it if it applies to me. What I mean is that I do not feel smug about what has been going on here. It is dangerous;

It is wrong and we are sure to find, perhaps when it is too late, that the end does NOT justify the means.

We are already reaping a sorry harvest from a violent and unbridled political campaign; a harvest of hatred and reprisal that may go on—or must go on if we who should all be Americans first persist in being partisans first, last and all the time.

It is fully demonstrated now that His Excellency Governor James made many mistakes in his own campaign; in his speeches. His policies since he assumed office do not give us much assurance that he can or will abandon the course he mapped out for himself.

He made promises impossible to fulfill. His budget message last week completely proved that because he finds himself forced, as a Democratic Governor was forced, to levy taxes to continue relief of human distress, old age pensions, pensions for the blind; aid for mothers with dependent children. Where are the wailing Jeremiahs who were so eloquent in their Jeremiahs about our ruined industry, about high taxes, about the flight of industry from Pennsylvania?

Even since he became Governor he made wild and impossible pledges of so-called "economies" in the State Government which cannot be redeemed.

Here and now I want to say that I do not speak of these things to attack Governor James or to denounce him, but to state a truth that he must face, as much as any of us.

And that is that the Republican Party alone possesses no magic to waft away the problems of the Commonwealth, or the nation, and that no Republican Governor as such holds a wand in his hand whereby, with incantations, he may change stubborn facts.

What we really have to do here is not going to be done by the Republican Party alone. The Republican Party does not need to have complete control of this Senate to put through any real and necessary and worthwhile program of legislation.

As a matter of fact, it is not unfair to say that the bitter and uncompromising battle carried on by the Republican leadership to gain a permanent voting advantage in this Senate can be aimed only in the direction of putting through bills involving party advantage.

The record to date is one of "just politics." I think it was more than a coincidence that on the very day Governor James' budget message, revealing his inability to reduce taxes, was laid before the Legislature, the Dauphin County Grand Jury returned indictments against certain Democrats. The "timing" was too accurate to be accidental. But if it was hoped to draw public attention away from the budget message, the hope was not realized. The man in the street fully understands that the glowing promises of the last political campaign cannot and will not be achieved.

But he sees likewise that the hatreds generated in that political campaign are, apparently, to be maintained and that the only real policy of the James Administration is a purge of its political opponents.

In the long run I am confident that such a movement will not succeed and that the fulminations of Republican district attorneys against prominent Democrats—among them, the beloved Warren VanDyke, who died months ago—will in the fullness of time be shown at their true worth.

It is a commentary that requires no elaboration on my part that political hate has to find its outlet over the grave of a man who must remain eternally silent. He cannot answer, though these charges may be as false as the first lie.

Now, Mr. President, I will add very little more. The people of Pennsylvania elected Governor James. Many thousands voted against him. But by the rules of Democracy; by our laws and the principles of our government; he is, or should be, OUR Governor; the Governor of all the people. And with that, the Government of the State should be OUR government; the government of all the people.

But still there are men here; there are others in power; there is the Governor himself, who seem to divide our people into groups; who seem by their actions to classify the people of Pennsylvania either as Republicans or Democrats, or in other ways, rather than citizens of a great State having a common share in its problems; a common right in their solution.

The old order has changed. Politicians trained in an old school, when Pennsylvania was always predominantly Republican, may or may not believe it. Neither this Governor nor any to come after him, regardless of party affiliation, can hope to govern wisely and well unless he obtains the support, during his administration, of most of the people.

He cannot do it by making war upon a part of them. You cannot do it by making war upon us. Because war makes war. It has already created bitter dissension here that has gained our Republican opponents victories they did not need.

Please understand that I speak for myself, and yet I think I say what is in the minds of any Senator on this side when I assert that anyone of us would be willing to forget politics and work for the good of the State if we were given half a chance.

Please understand also that I am not offering an olive branch, particularly where none seems to be wanted. I am offering, as well as I can, a common sense view of our real task in this Chamber.

And that is to join hands, if we can, and to join with the Governor, if he will let us, to pass laws that are needed as promptly as possible and then adjourn this session with confidence that the people of Pennsylvania will say "Well done!"

Mr. President, this is no appeal to the Republicans to abandon or restrain the use of power they may hold in their hands. Let them use it, or misuse it, as they see fit. There are, I have no doubt, Republican Senators here who know as I do that it is a two edged sword, and who remember, as I do, that "they who live by the sword shall perish by the sword".

BILL SIGNED

The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant-Governor Samuel S. Lewis) announced that the Chief Clerk having reported that the following bill had passed both houses of the General Assembly and the same being correct, the title was publicly read as follows:

House Bill No. 143, entitled:

An Act to amend clause (b) of section four, article two of the act, approved the twenty-fifth day of June, one thousand nine hundred and nineteen (P. L. 581), entitled "First Class City Charter Law," as amended, by providing a succession of officers of such cities to act as mayor in case of a vacancy or disability of the mayor to act.

Whereupon,

The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant-Governor Samuel S. Lewis), in the presence of the Senate, signed the same.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Woodward, will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, in Washington, in January, was held the Fourth General Assembly of the Council of State Governments, and I hold in my hand the official resolutions adopted at that meeting—which I will not inflict upon the Senate but will ask to be incorporated in the Legislative Journal.

On the other hand, I am particularly interested in the report from the Executive Director, and, as the Legislative Journal is not read by everybody, I would like to have the privilege of reading about three pages of this. I have crossed out certain sections and omitted most of it.

I would like to say that the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. DiSilvestro, and the Senator from Delaware, Mr. Heyburn, were in more constant attendance at this meeting than I; but, as I am the senior member, I am taking it upon myself to make report to this Senate. This is the report:

It has been well said, recently, that "we are off on a race to make democracy work," and that as never before the American people are "conscious of their inter-relationship and their interdependence."

I know of no better way to preface a report of the activities of the Council of State Governments since your last General Assembly than to state that it has been engaged—assiduously engaged—in the general effort "to make democracy work," and that in its effort to do just this it has definitely promoted the principle and the practice of the inter-relationship and interdependence of states—of all of our areas of government—and of the American people.

One of the early accomplishments in the realm of co-operation between the states was brought about through the activities of the Interstate Commission on Crime. Because of the work of this Commission, twenty-six states have enacted uniform laws which have already resulted in more effective work in this field and have rendered obsolete the old slogan of the underworld—namely, "Get over the state boundary."

The compact device has been used successfully by the New York and New Jersey Commissions to end the impasse which for thirty years has existed with respect to the Palisades Interstate Park. This compact, as finally ratified by the Congress, coordinates the activities of two separate state boards into a single permanent governmental instrumentality similar to the New York Port Authority, and overcomes certain major and minor difficulties which have hindered effective supervision in the past.

During the past year, the Interstate Commission on the Delaware River Basin has brought about an agreement signed by the sanitation and public health officials of the four states in the Basin establishing purity standards for the different sections of the river. More important, a uniform act to promote interstate cooperation for the conservation of water resources in the Delaware River Basin has recently been drafted by a distinguished committee of experts, and will be introduced in all of the legislatures of the states involved.

A major problem of the states in the Delaware Basin, in their relationship with each other, has to do with the conservation of wild life and the policing of boundary areas and particularly of boundary waters. The Cooperation Commissions of these states are making an effort to secure uniform regulations for the taking of wild life, reciprocal licenses, and joint stocking and policing of these areas. These statutes provide for the reciprocal enforcement of violations of fishing laws in boundary water between New York and New Jersey, and New York and Pennsylvania, and the control of the taking of fish, especially from the Hudson River. Particularly has marked progress been made in the restoring of the shad industry in that section.

The same type of legislation has now been introduced in the Assemblies of all of the states bordering on the Great Lakes. Committees appointed by the Cooperation Commissions of these states, after a series of meetings held during the past few months, have endorsed these uniform bills, and their enactment and enforcement should go far toward restoring our lake fisheries.

Uniform and reciprocal statutes of this kind are found in the field of Highway Safety. Here it was possible to secure the enactment in a number of states of laws requiring the reciprocal reporting of motor vehicle accidents and violations; the addition of courses in highway safety in the public schools; the regulation of used-car selling; the compulsory inspection of motor vehicles and the adoption of model house trailer regulations.

Since the repeal of the eighteenth amendment, the regulation, sale, and importation of alcoholic beverages has been thrown back on the states, with a result that we have nearly as many systems of liquor control as we have states. Many states have seemingly established their own distinct systems with little regard for their neighbors. Price wars between states, boundary battles over importation limits, and unregulated marketing of liquor securities of one type or another—as well as the levying of discriminatory taxes on liquor and alcoholic beverages of other states—are only a few of the resulting problems.

Conscious of this situation, the New York and New Jersey Commissions, with the assistance of the District Secretariat of the Council of State Governments, organized a Regional Liquor Control Conference in 1936, and again in November, 1938. Cooperation Commissioners, liquor administrators, and state legislators from Massachusetts, Connecticut, Rhode Island, Pennsylvania, New Hampshire, New Jersey, and New York attended these conferences, and developed cooperative plans to facilitate effective regulation and control of the liquor traffic as between these states.

The Mid-west Regional Assembly, sponsored by the Council of State Governments, which was held last November in Chicago, considered questions arising from interstate conflicts in liquor regulation, and as a result thereof the five states involved—Illinois, Indiana, Kentucky, Michigan and Ohio—have reached an agreement which should result in the very material modification of all interstate discriminatory legislation in the Mid-west.

The uniform and model bills on such subjects as the control of labeling, advertising, warehouse receipts, credit, and discrimination are generally regarded as being in the public interest and should go far to advance the common good.

Other interstate problems, with respect to which progress is being made, include banking, insurance, and domestic relations.

In banking, the Commissions are cooperating with a Committee on Uniform Laws appointed by the National Association of Supervisors of State Banks and by the American Bankers Association—and the Council of State Governments is cooperating with these organizations in an effort to develop reasonably uniform banking practices.

Last December, representatives of five states approved for introduction a uniform medical certification act requiring applicants for marriage licenses to have a blood test for syphilis before the license is issued. This act or legislation similar to it has been approved in at least a third of the states.

For some time there has been increasing concern in many quarters over the enactment of a great variety of state laws which impede or completely block the traditional free flow of commerce among the states of the Union. Although economists have recognized this trend for some time, it was first dramatically brought to the attention of the general public by the timely speech of former Governor James V. Allred of Texas at the annual meeting of the Governors' Conference last September.

This problem is of such vital and immediate importance to the internal economy of the Nation, and the states have indicated such acute interest in it, that the Council of State Governments—in cooperation with the various state Commissions—has undertaken to encourage a movement to remove such barriers to interstate commerce. This restrictive legislation has developed in many forms, and some of it has been declared constitutional by the Supreme Court.

Such a problem is one which can best be approached through the machinery which has been developed by the Council. No method other than that of cooperative negotiation and compromise seems possible in dealing effectively with this question.

Every effort is being made by the Council of State Governments, in cooperation with the various state Commissions, to curtail discriminatory legislation and to prevent its further spread. This subject will be considered in greater detail during the course of this Assembly.

Important as are the official joint state activities, probably of equal or greater value are the accomplishments indirectly achieved through informal collaboration of state officials. This useful type of interstate action is exemplified by the 25 years of mutual consultation in the Governor's Conference, the National Association of Attorney-Generals, and the National Association of Secretaries of State. Informal consultation is noticeably replacing the stilted and often misunderstood communication on official matters between department heads and even higher state officials. The give and take of the legislative committee room has been extended in the form of attendance of cabinet officers at the meeting of their national associations and informal conferences on regional problems.

Our purpose also has been to improve government and its operation in a practical way through the furnishing of facts and information on specific subjects. In making available the experience of other states and the operation of certain laws and techniques of governmental administration in some of the states to all of the states, it is apparent that the Council is performing a useful service. The Council of State Governments is making such information available through its cooperation commissions, its close contacts with legislative reference bureaus, and through the clearing house and secretarial functions which it performs for such organizations of public officials as the American Legislators Association, the Governors' Conference, and the National Associations of Attorney-Generals and Secretaries of State.

This inquiry and informational service established for the use of state legislators, administrative officials, and legislative reference bureaus has been increasingly busy. During 1938 requests for information were received from forty-four states and several foreign countries. An analysis of the subject matter of these inquiries shows that attention has centered this year around the structure and organization of legislative bodies, problems of inter-governmental cooperation, problems of state administration, administrative control of elections, and the organization of the functions of legislative reference bureaus. An important part of the Council's inquiry and informational service has been "spot" research—that is, finding definite answers which have been submitted.

The relationship of the Council with the seventeen other associations of governmental officials housed in the new building at 1313 East Sixtieth Street in Chicago has been particularly beneficial with respect to its informational service. The library service and the direct day-to-day contact with representatives of so many governmental agencies enables the Council to render far more complete service than otherwise would be possible.

The publications of the Council are also important channels for the dissemination of information on governmental problems.

State Government magazine, the Council's principal publication, has an average monthly circulation of more than 5,000 copies. A large majority of its subscribers are state legislators and officials, but increasing interest on the part of the general public has been apparent. Each month the magazine devotes a section to Governors, Legislators, Secretaries of State, and Attorney-Generals. While the Federal Congress is in session, a section is also devoted to Washington news. Numerous articles on subjects of current and permanent interest have been contributed by state and federal officials. Considerable space has been devoted to discussions of interstate and federal-state cooperation by authorities in those fields. The activities and the development of the Council and the cooperation commissions of the states have been fully reported.

The Book of the States for 1939-40 will be published within the next few months. The new volume will include much new material of permanent interest and value to those in public service as well as to students of governments.

Each week the Council issues three publications: (1) A Digest of Opinions of Attorney-Generals, (2) the Legislative Sessions Sheet; and (3) a bibliography of "Recent Publications on State Legislative Problems." The Council has also issued a number of research and information bulletins during the year—and six Governors' Bulletins dealing with a variety of subjects have been issued and distributed to the governors of all states. Four bulletins dealing with problems of interest to Secretaries of State have been prepared and distributed to all members of the National Association of Secretaries of State. The research bulletin service was continued during the year and approximately 1500 copies of these studies have been distributed. Legislators, legislative reference bureaus, and legislative councils have found this service particularly useful.

To sum up, it seems to me that the difficulties of achieving success in the field of "interstate government" are almost as well known as the problems. For 150 years these problems have been with us and each year they have become more complicated and some think less resolvable. Their solution would probably be easier if we changed human nature, which seems unlikely. Benjamin Franklin, writing in 1754, described some of the practical difficulties in these words:

"Some Assemblies being before at variance with their governors or councils, and the several branches of the government not on terms of doing business with each other; others taking the opportunity, when their concurrence is wanted, to push for favorite laws, powers, or points, that they think could not at other times be obtained, and so creating disputes and quarrels; one Assembly waiting to see what another will do, being afraid of doing more than its share, or desirous of doing less, or refusing to do anything because another will reap more immediate advantage—etc."

Since Franklin's day we have established agencies which we hope are becoming increasingly proficient in combatting the situation of which he complained.

Commissions on Interstate Cooperation in all almost all of the states are bringing states closer together for work on problems, which, in so many instances, are common problems. And through the close relationship which many of them have with various departments of the federal government, we have an opportunity to demonstrate our competence in handling many important interstate problems—either through interstate cooperation or by supplying the necessary machinery, heretofore lacking, to make effective state-federal action. In this way our States will be better able to handle their problems and to perform those duties and meet those responsibilities which are their part as partners in our cooperative federal-state.

These accomplishments which I have detailed briefly came about under the leadership and direction of Mr. Henry Toll—former Executive Director of the Council of State Governments.

To this idea of "more effective government through interstate cooperation"—he has contributed fifteen years of brilliant effort—and in a very real sense, the Council of State Government—and this meeting—are the results of his work.

At his suggestion—I had the honor some three months ago to succeed him as Executive Director of the Council of State Governments—to take on a part of that job which confronts all of us—the job of "making democracy work"—a job which is going to require all of the cooperation, intelligence, energy, and statesmanship which we all can muster for many, many years to come.

REPORT OF THE PENNSYLVANIA DELEGATES TO THE FOURTH GENERAL ASSEMBLY OF THE COUNCIL OF STATE GOVERNMENTS
HELD IN WASHINGTON, D. C.
JANUARY 17, 18 and 19, 1939.

I.

Resolved that the Fourth General Assembly of the Council of State Governments strongly urge the continued financial support of the Council of State Governments by state legislatures and Commissions on Interstate Cooperation to the end that the services which the Council of State Governments renders to the Commissions on Interstate Cooperation, the Governors' Conference, the National Association of Attorney Generals, the National Association of Secretaries of State, the American Legislators' Association, and all public officers, may be better maintained.

II.

Whereas during the past biennium numerous legislative hearings, regional conferences, and Commission meetings have been held to consider recommendations for the purpose of reducing the confusion and conflict in the laws and administrative practices among the states and between the states and the federal government; And Whereas, definite recommendations have grown out of these hearings and conferences in the form of legislation and interstate compacts;

And Whereas, these legislative proposals have been enacted by the legislature of a number of states as a part of the legislative program of their Commissions on Interstate Cooperation, Now Therefore Be It Resolved by the Fourth General Assembly of the Council of State Governments that these recommendations and legislative proposals set forth in the publication entitled "Legislative Proposals of the Commissions on Interstate Cooperation" be included in the formal reports of the various Cooperation Commissions to their legislatures and officially considered item by item by the Commissions on Interstate Cooperation, and where approved, introduced in the legislatures as a part of their program.

III.

Whereas the conservation of our natural resources is one of the most important problems of the present time and whereas the imminent depletion of our fisheries is of concern to all of the states,

Now Therefore Be It Resolved that the Fourth General Assembly of the Council of State Governments endorse the work of the Great Lakes Fisheries Conference and the Eastern States Conservation Conference in seeking the conservation of these valuable fisheries and that it recommends to other states the adoption of similar cooperative efforts for the conservation of their natural resources.

Be It Further Resolved that the Assembly respectfully directs the attention of the Commission on Interstate Cooperation of the Pacific Coast states and of the Gulf States to the compact method as a means of solving their fisheries problems.

Reciprocal Enforcement

Whereas the proper administration of the fisheries laws of states riparian on common waters necessitates further coordination of the enforcement activities of those states, Therefore Be It Resolved that the Fourth General Assembly of the Council of State Governments urge each state riparian on waters in common with other states to enact legislation giving to the officials of the other riparian states power to enforce fisheries laws against its citizens in the territorial waters of that state when the other states shall reciprocally grant like powers to the enforcement officers of that state, and

Congressional Consent

Resolved that the Fourth General Assembly of the Council of State Governments memorialize Congress to pass legislation giving consent in advance to compacts between the states for the conservation of fisheries and wild life resources, and

Be It Further Resolved that Congress, in order to further the conservation policies of the states, be urged to pass legislation prohibiting the shipment in interstate commerce from any state of fish caught in violation of the laws thereof and prohibiting the shipment into any state of fish in violation of the conservation laws thereof.

IV.

Resolved that in accordance with the recommendation of the Midwest Regional Assembly of the Council of State Governments, this Fourth General Assembly of the Council recognizes that trade barriers, under any guise, are detrimental to the economic welfare of the country; That this Assembly recommends complete adherence to the traditional American policy of free trade between the forty-eight states;

That this assembly requests the secretariat of the Council of State Governments to study legislation and policies which tend to create such barriers and to restrict the free flow of commerce; and

That this Assembly call an interstate conference on this subject, to be attended by legislative and administrative delegates designated by the Cooperation Commissions of the various states.

And Be It Further Resolved that the Council of State Governments requests the Congress of the United States to conduct a general investigation of all freight rates and to recommend an equitable freight rate for the entire United States.

V.

Whereas the critical conditions of the past decade have accentuated many of the social and economic problems of the United States, and

Whereas the federal government and the state governments have endeavored, through emergency legislation and policies, to solve these problems, and

Whereas in turn many of these acts have created new problems involving powers of the states, Therefore Be It Resolved by the Fourth General Assembly of the Council of State Governments that we do hereby memorialize the federal government and its various agencies to join with the Council of State Governments in its work of cooperation, in order to solve these problems and to accomplish the desired objectives, and to maintain the clear-cut division between the sovereign powers of states and the delegated powers of the federal government, and to avoid any policies, except by constitutional amendment, which tend to result in the basic alteration of the American system of government.

VI.

Resolved that the Fourth General Assembly of the Council of State Governments go on record as offering a vote of sincerest thanks to the retiring Director of the American Legislators' Association and the Council of State Governments for his year of faithful, generous and almost unbelievably efficient service in building this body from a dream to an accomplished reality. Well and faithfully as others may and will serve it, this body will throughout its existence be a monument to the unfailing service and magnificent ability of Senator Henry W. Toll of Colorado. More words could be used but they would convey no deeper feeling.

VII.

Resolved that the Fourth General Assembly of the Council of State Governments express its appreciation to the National Resources Committee, the United States Department of Agriculture, the Wage and Hour Division of the Department of Labor, the United States Bureau of Fisheries, the Governors' Conference, the American Legislators' Association, the Conference of Governors' Secretaries, the National Association of Attorney Generals, and the National Association of Secretaries of State, for their whole-hearted and sincere cooperation in making the Fourth General Assembly a meeting of inspiration and practical usefulness to each of the State Governors of the United States.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. JACOBS. Mr. President, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Cumberland, Mr. Jacobs, will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. JACOBS. Mr. President, we have heard the more venerable members of the Senate hold forth and view their opinions here for the past two months; but I think it is just about time some of the younger members of the Senate said what they thought about this place down here. You all heard the remarks of the Senator from Westmoreland, Mr. John Dent, last week. They were pithy and to the point—maybe too long, but they were pretty good.

I would like to tell you that I do not think a whole lot of this Senate of Pennsylvania. It has been my privilege to be a Senator for two sessions; this is my second session. Back in 1937 I had to sit here and listen to the Republican members of this Senate filibuster so that the Democrats could not put their program through; and now it is my privilege to sit here and hear the Democratic members filibuster to prevent the Republican members from putting through their program.

(Several Democratic interpolate: "What is their program?")

I do not know what it is, but I imagine they have one. I have a privilege which is not shared by many members of this Senate. Every night when we are through I ride home. I have eighteen miles to go, and I have half an hour to think, on that ride home; and on the ride down here each day I have a chance to cogitate on just what we have accomplished so far this session.

As nearly as I can figure, Mr. Stiefel's remarks about politics were very nearly correct. For over two months we have talked politics down here; I have drawn three pays, and I am honest enough to say that God knows I have not earned them, and I do not believe the rest of the members of this Senate have earned their pays down to date.

We heard a speech last night on intellectual honesty. I believe if we think over our attitude on intellectual honesty it can all be summed up pretty well in the text—and I think it covers the situation pretty well—that ninety-nine out of every hundred of us are liars. We were elected to come down here to do something; what we seem to think we were elected to do is to come down here and determine who should have this job and who should have that job, and determine who shall sit in this Senate from the Second Senatorial District.

I am here to tell you honestly that over in my county, Cumberland, or among the voters of my whole district, neither Herbert Levin nor Sam Salus could be nominated on any majority or minority ticket that might be put up at the primaries. The people of my district are not interested in who sits in that seat, but are interested in what the present Administration accomplishes.

As a Democrat, I do not hope they will accomplish a whole lot—and go down in history as a great Administration; but I do say this, and I mean it honestly—if the Republican Administration will put before us bills we can vote for, that are good, or, on the other hand, if they will go ahead and repeal bills that are bad—if there are any bad acts on the statute books, I, for one, will give them one hundred per cent help, and I think they will get help from some other members on this side of the Senate.

My main desire is to show the people of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania that we are here to work in their interests. We want to put over a program that will help them, even if that program will be one which requires the repeal of things that have done them a lot of harm.

In addition, I am trying to practice law back home, and I would like to get back there before the middle of July, so I can attend to my business.

HOUSE MESSAGE

TIME OF NEXT MEETING.

The Clerk of the House of Representatives, being introduced, informed the Senate that the House returns resolution from the Senate with amendment, in which the concurrence of the Senate is requested.

The Resolution, as amended, was read as follows:

In the Senate, March 6, 1939.

Resolved (if the House of Representatives concur) That when the Senate adjourns this week it reconvenes on Monday evening, March 13, 1939, at nine o'clock; and when the House of Representatives adjourns this week it reconvenes on Monday evening, March 13, 1939, at nine o'clock.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the amendment?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the resolution as amended?

It was agreed to.

Ordered, That the Clerk inform the House of Representatives accordingly.

RESOLUTION REQUESTING DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC ASSISTANCE FOR INFORMATION AS TO ALIENS RECEIVING STATE ASSISTANCE.

Mr. STEVENSON. Mr. President, in offering this resolution here today it is not made with the idea of giving offense to any race or creed, nor is it to find fault with any existing law, it is simply a fact-finding resolution, intending to get at the bottom of the expenditures in the matter of relief in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania; and I would ask for its immediate adoption.

Mr. STEVENSON offered the following resolution, which was twice read as follows:

Whereas, The cost of direct relief and the contributory expenditures of funds for pensions and grants to indigents have assumed such proportions in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania that the said Commonwealth, with its present income, is not able to meet its obligations to the school districts, to give adequate assistance to the State-owned and State-aided institutions and to relieve industry of its burdensome taxes, and

Whereas, It is known that in the aggregate, large sums of the above expenditures are going to the support of persons whose allegiances are to foreign governments, and

Whereas, It is our responsibility to the tax-payers of this Commonwealth and it is our duty as members of this Senate to secure certain information as a basis for intelligent remedial legislation; therefore be it

Resolved, That the Senate of Pennsylvania requests the Department of Public Assistance to furnish its members with the following information for the months of January and February 1939: (1) the number of aliens in each county to whom direct relief was paid; (2) the number of such persons directly benefited by such grants; (3) the total amount of money paid; (4) the number of aliens in each county to whom pensions are paid and the total amounts of money so paid (a) on account of old age, (b) on account of loss of vision, (c) on account of meeting the requirements for mothers' assistance; and be it further

Resolved, That the Secretary of the Senate shall transmit a copy of this resolution to the Secretary of the Department of Public Assistance.

Mr. STEVENSON. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that Rule 39, which requires resolutions be referred to an appropriate committee, be suspended and the Senate do now proceed to the consideration of the resolution just read.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection,

The Chair hears none.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the resolution,

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, as I heard the resolution read, it appeared to me that it referred to information concerning pensions. I do not think that there are any pensions paid, as such, by the Commonwealth; and I imagine the Senator from Clinton, Mr. Stevenson, means assistance. If that is so, I believe the resolution requires correction at least to that extent, and I suggest that the correction be made before we act upon it.

Mr. STEVENSON. Mr. President, I might say it is intended to care for the grants that are given by the Department of Assistance.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, the resolution refers to pensions, and the only pensions payable are pensions to the blind, which are made specifically, under the Act, to anybody, whether an alien or not. So, the only investigation the Senator from Clinton would want is that which would relate to other forms of assistance.

I think the resolution requires correction, by amendment, at least to that extent; and I hope the Senator will not object to that.

Mr. STEVENSON. Mr. President, I do not object to that suggestion; I am glad to receive it.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I move to amend, line two, by striking out the word "pensions" and inserting in lieu thereof the word "assistance;" line twenty-one, by striking out the word "pensions" and inserting in lieu thereof the word "assistance;" line twenty-three, by striking out the phrase "on account of loss of vision, (c)."

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

The resolution, as amended, was read as follows:

Whereas, The cost of direct relief and the contributory expenditures of funds for assistance and grants to indigents have assumed such proportions in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania that the said Commonwealth, with its present income, is not able to meet its obligations to the school districts, to give adequate assistance to the State-owned and State-aided institutions and to relieve industry of its burdensome taxes, and

Whereas, It is known that in the aggregate, large sums of the above expenditures are going to the support of persons whose allegiances are to foreign governments, and

Whereas, It is our responsibility to the tax-payers of this Commonwealth and it is our duty as members of this Senate to secure certain information as a basis for intelligent remedial legislation; therefore be it

Resolved, That the Senate of Pennsylvania requests the Department of Public Assistance to furnish its members with the following information for the months of January and February 1939: (1) the number of aliens in each county to whom direct relief was paid; (2) the number of such persons directly benefited by such grants; (3) the total amount of money paid; (4) the number of aliens in each county to whom assistance is paid and the total amounts of money so paid (a) on account of old age, (b) on account of loss of vision, (c) on account of meeting the requirements for mothers' assistance; and be it further

Resolved, That the Secretary of the Senate shall transmit a copy of this resolution to the Secretary of the Department of Public Assistance.

BILL ON THIRD READING AND FINAL PASSAGE

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 16, entitled:

An Act to amend section one as amended of the act approved the third day of June, one thousand nine hundred and nineteen (P. L. 370), entitled "An act to fix the number and salaries of assistant district attorneys in counties of this Commonwealth having over one million five hundred thousand inhabitants, and prescribing the powers and duties of said assistant district attorneys" by increasing the number and fixing the salaries of the assistant district attorneys thereof

And said bill having been read at length the third time, and agreed to,

And the amendments made thereto having been printed as required by the Constitution,

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I prefer to make what remarks I have about this bill from a written manuscript, because I want to be careful in delivering them; I think we should all be careful in talking about any Judicial or quasi-judicial matters, so that we do not let a slip of the tongue create a wrong impression. For that reason, I am doing what with me is a job, and that is to read what I have to say.

While I am of the opinion that the City of Philadelphia should not be saddled with any additional expenses at this time, I am going to vote in favor of this bill because I believe that no funds should be withheld where the safety and morals of the citizens are involved.

A recent grand jury report has emphasized the fact that one of the principal law enforcement arms of city government—namely the District Attorney's office in the City of Philadelphia—has not exercised its powers vigorously and courageously.

This is not the time to discuss the reasons for the alleged laxity in the office or to cry over spilled milk. Those are matters for the citizens of Philadelphia to deal with in another way.

Right now we are concerned with supplying the authorities with every facility for fearless and vigorous enforcement of the laws. If they do not then make the best use of such facilities the responsibility is theirs and theirs alone.

Under the last State Administration the Legislature passed the Magistrates' Act which called upon the District Attorney of Philadelphia to assign assistants to criminal cases in magistrates' courts. The District Attorney appointed such assistants. The City Controller took the position that there was no legal authority for their appointment and that he therefore could not pay them. The Courts sustained this view.

The District Attorney maintains that he cannot perform his full duty under the Act without such assistance. I hope that this bill will become a law so that all possible excuse will be removed for any failure on the part of the District Attorney to act promptly and effectively in combating crime.

I call attention to the fact that the Grand Jury disclosures in Philadelphia of participation in crime by councilmen, magistrates and other City officials cannot and should not be ignored by any District Attorney who realizes his duties and his responsibilities.

From considerable experience at the Bar, including service as an Assistant District Attorney, I am convinced that a vigorous, fearless and nonpolitical District Attorney in Philadelphia or any other city does not need the assistance of special grand juries to uncover and punish crime.

With the ten new assistants authorized in this bill; with his regular staff and with the score or more of County Detectives which he has now and has had for many years, I hope the District Attorney of Philadelphia County will now exercise the full powers of his office and by vigorous investigation, indictment, trial and conviction of offenders, high and low, clean up these notoriously disgraceful conditions, that exist in Philadelphia.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The yeas and nays were taken agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, and were as follows, viz:

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I should like to interrogate the Senator from Somerset, Mr. Ealy

The PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from Somerset, Mr. Ealy, permit himself to be interrogated.

Mr. EALY. Mr. President, I will.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, this bill is a deficiency appropriation to the Department of Justice, and I recall in the last Special Session of the Legislature we received an estimate of deficiencies from the then Attorney General which, I was given to understand covered all the deficiencies necessary for the rest of this biennium. Will the Senator from Somerset, Mr. Ealy, state for the information of the Senate for what purposes the deficiencies in this bill, which I take it amount to $60,000, are intended?

Mr. EALY. Mr. President, the amount of deficiencies requested are $88,000 instead of $60,000.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, there may have been an amendment since I last saw the bill.

Mr. EALY. Mr. President, I do not think so.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I take it that the bill has been amended since the last time it appeared.

Mr. EALY. Mr. President, the bill has not been amended since that time. The only change was by an amendment which was made yesterday and that was to correct a typographical error. There has been no change in the substance of the bill since it was reported out of the Committee. The amount of the appropriation asked for the Department of Justice is $88,000. I think I am more pained at the passage of this bill than the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro.

At a Special Session of the Legislature, representatives of the Department of Justice appeared before our Committee and asked, I believe, for a $150,000 deficiency appropriation. At that time they were given $50,000. This bill really has five separate parts to it.

The first part is in relation to a deficiency in the office of the Lieutenant-Governor, of $2,600.

The second part relates to the Department of Justice and is broken up its three sections. The first section asks for an additional appropriation of $30,000, to remove deficiencies in the ordinary expenses of the office, and the Department of Justice says this deficiency was occasioned by the payment of salaries and other operating expenses prior to January 17, 1939, beyond the rate which was set in the appropriation. At the end of January there was a balance of $16,140.51, and in that fund there was approximately $11,000—I meant to say, Mr. President, that the payroll requires approximately $11,000 a month.

The second part of the appropriation asks for $43,522, and it is made up for the most part of the expenses of the Special Grand Jury in Philadelphia. That costs alone $31,000.

In addition to that there were certain expenses for bills incurred for trials under indictment and other expenditures in connection with the Grand Jury, which were incurred since December 1st, $7,522. The last part of the appropriation of $15,000 is for payments of salaries and other operating expenses in the payroll division, prior to January 17, 1939. At the end of January there was a balance of $34,000 in this fund, and it requires $14,000, approximately, a month.

The Department has this to say with regard to this payroll supervision: "During the past two years the payroll supervisor has added ten additional personnel to his staff, nine junior payroll agents at a salary of $2,040 per annum, and one stenographer," and this deficiency is caused by that extra personnel.

The other part of this bill relates to the Department of State and was caused by printing several Constitutional amendments. They had to take funds out of some other part of the appropriation of the Department in order to advance to the newspapers the money with which to pay for these costs.

The expenses for extra costs taken up by the Department as listed in the list which was given to me, amount to $110,000. Included in this is this third degree investigation in Fayette County, which cost the State for attorney's fees and traveling expenses upward of $22,000.

I want to say that there is a young lady over in the Department of Justice that can give you two reasons in favor of every bill here for one you can advance against it. She has made it pretty plain to me that this is an expense which has been incurred prior to this time and is something, I suppose, we will have to pay.

I have been trying to impress upon all the heads of these departments that they will have a great deal of trouble two years from now, if I understand the intent of this Senate, in getting a deficiency appropriation through for items of this kind.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, when this bill came to me over the week-end it was a bill to appropriate a deficiency to the Department of Justice. When this bill came here from the House it was a bill to provide for a deficiency incurred in the Department of Justice. As I see by the calendar, this bill came over February 28th. On March 1st, I noticed today, it was reported out of Committee as amended, and the amendments put in the Department of State and the Lieutenant-Governor, and in addition increased the item awarded to the Department of Justice, so that there were amendments to this bill other than what the Senator from Somerset, Mr. Ealy, made yesterday.

Mr. EALY. Mr. President, the amendments were made in Committee and prior to the time this bill was reported out.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, that is correct.

Mr. EALY. There were two other bills, Mr. President, which came over here from the House, one relating to the Lieutenant-Governor's deficiency and the other bill relating to the Department of State, and these were all three combined in one bill by the Department of Justice.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, that is what I wanted to point out. In addition to this bill before us there have been introduced bills covering deficiencies in the Lieutenant-Governor's Department, and the Department of State, and if these are included that is something that has been giving me some concern.

To my mind this bill is an example of the position that people are put in in voting. Here is an appropriation—part of this bill, I believe is to cover the Grand Jury Investigation in Philadelphia. There has been appropriated just $7,000, which will be sufficient only to pay its bill and allow it to expire.

We are going to be asked to appropriate $100,000 for the Grand Jury that is engaged in investigating officials in Harrisburg, in Dauphin County.

The Grand Jury, whose functions have expired, presented to the presiding judge an indictment which this Legislature cannot afford to ignore. It was referred to by me a few moments ago. The indictment deals with high public officials. It starts at the root of government in Philadelphia. It connects government officials—officials who have tax-levying authority, who have a right to the payrolls; who have law enforcement under their control; it directly connects those men, some of them, with the underworld. It seems to me this is as of much concern to the Governor of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania—that condition shall be ferreted out and exposed, as it is when that involves, as of course it does, Republicans—for the Governor to ferret out conditions which involves Democrats.

I agree with many of the things said here today.

I do not agree that we should show annoyance at statements made by members of this Senate, whether they tax our patience for the time being or not, or whether they take a little more time than we think they should. There has been developed here on the floor of this Senate in the last few years in my opinion, a healthy condition. The younger members of the Senate will recognize it, as they go along, if they have patience. Sometimes some of the things that are said seem to take longer than necessary, but no one can deny the importance of the statements that were made by my colleague, Senator Deitrick, last night, and by Senator Jacobs, this morning, and Senator Stiefel, and others whose names do not come to my mind at the moment. Every one of those things are important and relate to matters which should be brought out, in my opinion, if we are to have good government.

I am pointing out the fact that I would like in some way to put on the record my objection to the limitation of this fund to $7,000, in Philadelphia, and permitting that Grand Jury to expire and its functions to cease, in the face of statements by responsible, respectable, and able jurists, who contend that that situation, which has not been disclosed fully, but which has been indicated by the report, is so intolerable and so revolting that they strike at the root of this government.

In discussing this bill—I am going to vote for the bill because I cannot accept the responsibility for administering the department—that is the administration's responsibility—our only prerogative can be to criticise what they do after they have asked for the authority and for the money with which to carry out that functions.

I think I have a right to take occasion, when discussing this bill, to point out that the rule to stop playing politics with fundamental principles of government applies as well to the executive department as it does to the legislative. I do not think that in times like this, the Executive, the Governor of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, should make fish of one and fowl of the other.

I do not think that any Grand Jury which presents the kind of a presentment that this one in Philadelphia did should be stopped. On the contrary I think it is as much the duty of the Governor, whether he said that in his public statements prior to the election or not, to see to it that law and order exists among Republicans as well as it does among Democrats. The public at large is going to get the impression, from the fact that there has only been asked $7,000—enough to pay expenses of the Grand Jury in Philadelphia and let it expire and leave it powerless, whereas in Dauphin County there has been asked one hundred thousand dollars—the public is going to get the impression the Governor of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania is not interested in crime except where it exists among Democrats. I personally do not believe it. I hope it is not true. I think it is the advice he is getting, and I want to protest against that.

We will be asked to give financial aid to Philadelphia. At least, those in control of the government are trying to increase the Board of Revision of Taxes, so that they will have more political jobs and apparently are increasing the number of Assistant District Attorneys, so that they will have even more additional jobs, and continue to ignore what is most important in setting the city on its financial feet, and that is law enforcement.

The City of Philadelphia will not need much help from the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, and certainly, financially, it cannot get it, if the city officials will enforce the laws and get rid of corrupt and grafting officials who tie up with all kinds of organizations that have no place in a real, decent form of government.

Mr. EALY. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro.

The PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, certainly.

Mr. EALY. Mr. President, I desire to ask the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro, whether or not Governor Earle discontinued this Grand Jury investigation as of the first of December.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, Governor Earle did not discontinue the Grand Jury investigation; Governor Earle said he would ask the Legislature to give enough money to allow the investigation to continue. He said he had no more money to give, unless it was appropriated, and we not only are apparently not going to appropriate for the Philadelphia Grand Jury, but from what the Senator from Somerset, Mr. Ealy, said, the amount is to go for the Fayette investigation.

I notice we are making, as part of this bill, an appropriation to pay some more for that prosecution, which cost in the neighborhood of $80,000 for lawyers alone.

Mr. EALY. Mr. President, Governor Earle, as of December 1st, discontinued giving State aid to the Philadelphia Grand Jury, allowing them at that time $1,000 additional to pay bills that had accrued up to that time.

This bill pays for the Grand Jury investigation $30,000 plus $7,522, to which the Senator refers, and $6,000 additional to pay costs to complete the trials on indictments which have been filed.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, the answer to this is obvious. Assume for the sake of argument that Governor Earle did do that which the Senator from Somerset, Mr. Ealy, says he did. This is a new Governor who says he is not going to tolerate the graft which was tolerated by the Democratic Administration. I ask him to take cognizance of the fact that the Grand Jury of Philadelphia has said not only do they consider matters so important that they must make presentments, but they have also organized themselves into a committee to do something as individuals which they cannot do as a Grand Jury, to stop the affiliation of public officials with criminals.

It seems to me if this is a non-political group, this Grand Jury—called by a Republican assistant District Attorney, called at his request to investigate what he said were grafting conditions, this same jury finds that he did not wholeheartedly proceed to find out the graft existing among officials.

I am now saying the Governor of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania has no right as an official, as a citizen certainly, to ignore these conditions, irrespective of what Governor Earle did.

Mr. EALY. Mr. President, does the Senator think the State should enter the County and conduct an investigation such as the so called third degree case in Fayette County and also the Philadelphia Grand Jury investigation?

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I think that each one of those situations should depend on its own facts.

Mr. EALY. Mr. President, does the Senator mean such as they are doing in Luzerne County?

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I say this investigation should apply to charges in the Philadelphia situation.

I see them conducting investigations in all cases where Democrats are involved, but I see them running away from any cases where the Republicans might be involved. He does not have any greater privileges or halo or prerogatives than the Democratic Governor did. I am ready and willing to convict anyone, Republican or Democrat, who violates the law; but I want to protest against the conviction of one against the other.

Mr. EALY. The answer to that is this, Mr. President, I call attention to the fact that part of this entire bill, part of which was paid by a special appropriation in the Special Session, included compensation for attorneys and investigators and miscellaneous expenses in the Bruno case and in the case of Senator Clark.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I do not know what the expenses of Senator Clark's case can be, because the Senate even refused to appoint a committee, although motion was made that such a committee be appointed. The only thing that happened in the Senator Clark case, if you are talking about expenses, is that he was tried before a Republican judge by a Republican district attorney—and if there was any expense it was the expense of counsel Senator Clark obtained to get him off so easily, with a fine of but $1,000. I again call your attention to the fact that that was a Republican Senator tried by a Republican court and prosecuted by a Republican district attorney. Well, that is all right, I suppose.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Rev. Walter Evans Deibler, offered the following prayer:

While the nations of the world are exhibiting war-like attitudes in one way or another, we thank Thee, O God, for the peace that has prevailed. For a poor peace is better than no peace at all. We renew our petition to Thee in behalf of a lasting peace. Help us to hear and weigh well the words of the Psalmist "I will hear what God the Lord will speak: for He will speak peace unto His people, and to His saints; but let them not turn again to folly." So with Saint Paul may we "mark them which cause divisions and offences contrary to the doctrine which ye have learned." Regretting having ten million unemployed in our country yet O Lord, help us to strive to feed these rather than employ ten million to become cannon fodder. We thank Thee for Thy guidance in the choice of his holiness Pope Pius XII who has dedicated his ministry to the cause of peace. To this end give unto him the constant guidance of Thy Holy Spirit. May it truly be said today as of old that "the church has chalices of wood and prelates of gold." Lay Thy spirit heavily upon all the rulers of the world so that more and more peace may prevail. Give us grace to make our contribution to this cause for the honor of Thy name, O God. Amen.

RESOLUTION INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

By Messrs. CORDIER and DENMAN. (Concurrent.)
RESOLUTION No. 24.

In the House of Representatives, March 6, 1939.

Whereas, The publicity recently given to the amount of money appropriated to the Bureau of Aeronautics, for use during the present biennium, has occasioned much public comment; and

Whereas, An investigation should be made of the activities and expenditures, and also the plans of the Bureau, in order to determine upon its future operations and future appropriations; therefore be it

Resolved, (if the Senate concur) That a joint Legislative Committee is hereby created, consisting of four members of the House of Representatives, one of whom shall be a member of the minority party, to be appointed by the Speaker of the House; and three members of the Senate, one of whom shall be a member of the minority party, to be appointed by the President Pro Tempore of the Senate, whose duty it shall be

(a) To organize immediately after its appointment, by the election, from its membership, of a chairman, vice-chairman and a secretary.

(b) To immediately begin a thorough investigation of the operations of and the expenditures made by the Bureau of Aeronautics since its creation, with the end in view of suggesting what policy should be adopted in order to make its work more effective and less expensive.

(c) To decide how far the Bureau should proceed as a separate organization and whether cooperation with the Federal Government or other states would be practicable.

(d) To investigate safety devices and make recommendations in regard to the use thereof.

(e) To inquire into possible abuses of the powers of the Bureau heretofore practiced and to make suggestions for the correction thereof.

The committee hereby created shall have power to issue subpoenas under the hand and seal of its chairman requesting and commanding any person or persons to appear before them and to answer such questions touching matters properly being inquired into by the committee, and to produce such books, papers, records and documents as the committee may deem necessary. Such subpoenas may be served upon any person and shall have the force and effect of subpoenas issued out of the courts of this Commonwealth. Any person who shall wilfully neglect or refuse to testify before said committee or to produce any books, papers, records or documents shall be subject to the penalties provided by laws of the Commonwealth in such cases.

By Mr. McCLESTER. (Concurrent.)

RESOLUTION No. 25.

In the House of Representatives, March 6, 1939.

Whereas, There have been certain bills introduced into the Seventy-sixth Congress, namely H. R. 188; S. 126; S. 138 and S. 158, which, if passed, would be harmful to labor, agriculture and industry in Pennsylvania; and

Whereas, The primary object of these bills is to compel by legislative action the establishment and maintenance of freight rates from one rate territory to another on the rate per mile that applies within the destination territory which in turn would provide a substantially higher rate in one direction than in another over the same rails and between the same points; and

Whereas, The United States has been naturally divided into several rate territories because of differing costs of transportation caused primarily from the fact of differing volumes of tonnage produced and available for transportation in the various sections of the country; and

Whereas, Pennsylvania is located in what is designated Official Territory, and being that territory lying East of the Mississippi River and North of the Ohio and Potomac Rivers, and recognized as one of the greatest industrial sections, not only of the United States but of the entire world, and because of this fact it provides the greatest number of tons per mile of transportation and consequently the lowest cost of operation for the railroads in that territory of any territory in the United States; and

Whereas, These bills, or any of them, if enacted into law, would require the Interstate Commerce Commission, regardless of the facts, evidence, equity, their better judgment or otherwise, to disregard differing costs which form the basis for these different rate territories, and arbitrarily make from Official Territory to all other territories rates which would be materially higher than would be charged shippers in these other territories for shipping the same or similar articles, the same or similar distances into Pennsylvania, to the serious disadvantage of, and discrimination against Pennsylvania; and

Whereas, Such a prejudice to Pennsylvania and preference of these other territories would not only seriously restrict the marketing and consequently the production of articles of commerce in Pennsylvania to the substantial and grave loss to its labor, agriculture and industry, but, even more seriously, would induce substantial removal of manufacturing operations from Pennsylvania to these more favored localities to the disadvantage of all its citizens; therefore be it

Resolved, (if the Senate concur), That the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania hereby urges and requests all Pennsylvania Senators and Representatives in Congress to not only vote against these bills and any other similar bills or amendments to or provisions of bills which have the same purpose, but to also use their efforts to convince their colleagues in both Houses of Congress of the unfairness and impropriety of such legislation; and be it further

Resolved, That copies of this resolution be forwarded to each Member of the Seventy-Sixth Congress from the State of Pennsylvania.

Referred to the Committee on Federal Relations.

RESOLUTION INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

By Mr. MATTHEWS. (Concurrent.)

RESOLUTION No. 26.

In the House of Representatives, March 6, 1939.

Whereas, It is claimed that the persons authorized to conduct civil service examinations for State positions have not properly interpreted the intent of the acts providing for civil service employment and have, therefore, violated the legislative intent of the acts which called for competitive examinations; and

Whereas, The first Liquor Control Act contained a civil service provision calling for examinations and ratings to determine the qualifications of applicants, but it is claimed, on account of the many unreasonable and irrelevant examination questions propounded, many persons, including war veterans, were deprived of employment, though they possessed mature judgment and practical ability to perform duties pertaining to the position for which they applied; and

Whereas, More recently, the Legislature enacted Civil Service Compensation Laws and Civil Service Laws governing employment in the Department of Public Assistance; and again it is alleged, the requirements, standards, and the type of examination questions propounded were such that many persons, including war veterans, were deprived of employment, though they possessed mature judgment and practical ability to perform the duties pertaining to the position for which they applied; and

Whereas, All of the aforementioned Civil Service Acts state that examinations shall be practical in character and relate, so far as possible, to the subject for which the applicant is being examined; and it is claimed that most examinations contained a number of questions having no bearing whatsoever on the work to be performed by the applicant; therefore be it

Resolved, That the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania conduct an investigation of the examinations given persons who applied for civil service positions in the Department of Industry and the Department of Public Assistance so that if it should be disclosed that any of the examinations were impractical in character, then all such examinations may be declared null and void and new examinations prepared and so that any citizen of this Commonwealth shall have the right and privilege to take the examination for the position he or she is qualified, by reason of experience, ability, and mature judgment.

Referred to the Committee on Rules.

RESOLUTION FOR CONCURRENCE

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced, presented the following extract from the Journal of the Senate, which was read as follows, viz:

In the Senate, March 6, 1939.

Whereas, Charges have been made that in Cambria County, there has been an improper use of funds by the State Highway Department, the Works Progress Administration, the Department of Public Assistance, and the Unemployment Compensation Division of the Department of Labor and Industry of this Commonwealth; and

Whereas, The charges made are not only confined to the improper use of funds by these departments and agencies, but also as to the existence of many highly irregular practices, incompetent personnel, political coercion, graft, bribery, and macing; and

Whereas, From time to time, these charges have been repeated; however, up until the present, the charges have never been proved or disproved; and

Whereas, The agencies of government of this Commonwealth and of the government of the United States, acting through our own state agencies or independently, must not be conducted in such a manner as to subject their activities in any way to charges directed to the honesty and integrity of those persons having the administration of such agencies; and

Whereas only through the investigation of these charges, and a full disclosure of the facts in relation thereto, can the truth be learned, therefore be it

Resolved, (if the House of Representatives concur), That the President Pro Tempore shall appoint three members of the Senate, one of who shall be designated as chairman, and the Speaker of the House of Representatives shall appoint two members of the House, who, together shall constitute a joint legislative committee, and whose duty it shall be to make a thorough and impartial investigation of the various charges made relative to the several departments and agencies of this Commonwealth and of the Federal agencies operating and acting through the several departments and agencies of the Commonwealth, with particular attention to the commission of any offenses under the provisions of law of this Commonwealth; and be it further

Resolved, That said committee shall have power to issue subpoenas under the hand and seal of its chairman, requiring and commanding any person to appear before it and answer such questions touching matters properly being inquired into by the committee, and to produce such books, papers, records and documents as the committee may deem necessary. Such subpoenas may be served upon any person, and shall have the same force and effect as subpoenas issued out of the courts of this Commonwealth. SENATE MESSAGE

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced presented an extract from the Journal of the Senate, which was read as follows:

In the Senate, March 6, 1939.

Resolved (if the House of Representatives concur), That when the Senate adjourns this week it reconvene on Monday evening, March 13, at nine o'clock; and when the House of Representatives adjourns this week it reconvene on Monday evening, March 13, at eight o'clock.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the House of Representatives for its concurrence.

On the question,

Will the House concur in the resolution of the Senate?

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to offer an amendment at this time.

The SPEAKER. The amendment will be read by the Clerk for information.

The Clerk read the amendment as follows:

Amend last line by striking out the word "eight" before the word "O'clock" and insert the word "nine"

The SPEAKER. Will the House give unanimous consent to the insertion of the amendment at this time? Is there objection? The Chair hears none and the amendment will be inserted in accordance with the instructions of the House.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the resolution as amended?

Mr. HERBERT B. COHEN. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I wish to state that we in the minority are quite in favor of the resolution as it is now amended. Just as you of the majority have been confronted with an exigency that requires a continuation of the meeting of the House from eight o'clock to nine o'clock, we of the minority are confronted with an exigency at every convention of the House. It is within the contemplated action of the minority to caucus some time on Monday evening, and with the early convention of the House, as has been the practice so far during the session, at eight o'clock rather than at nine, the minority has found it impossible to find a suitable time at which to caucus. We feel that this amended resolution now before us, convening our session at nine o'clock instead of eight will more adequately meet our requirements.

We respectfully solicit the Rules Committee to take steps so that in the future the meeting of the House of Representatives shall be at nine o'clock on Monday evening.

On the question recurring,

Will the House concur in the resolution as amended?

It was concurred in.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate with the information that the House has passed the same with amendment in which the concurrence of the Senate is requested.

And said bill having been read at length the second time and agreed to.

Ordered, To be transcribed for a third reading.

BILLS ON THIRD READING

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 115, entitled:

An Act to amend section ten of the act approved the thirty-first day of March, one thousand eight hundred and sixty, (P. L. 427), entitled "An act to consolidate, revise and amend the laws of the Commonwealth relating to penal proceedings and pleadings, by providing further for the administration of oaths and affirmations to witnesses appearing before grand juries.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. HERBERT B. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the sponsor of this bill.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Dauphin permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. DAVID P. REESE. I will, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. HERBERT B. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I desire to inquire of the gentleman from Dauphin, the sponsor of this bill, whether this bill as it reads gives the foreman of any Grand Jury the right to swear in any witness appearing before it?

Mr. DAVID P. REESE. That is correct, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. HERBERT B. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, may I inquire of the gentleman how the witnesses of an ordinary Grand Jury are called to the attention of the Grand Jury so that they might be called by the Grand Jury?

Mr. DAVID P. REESE. Mr. Speaker, they are called to the attention of the Grand Jury by bringing them into the Grand Jury room and then having them sworn.

Mr. HERBERT B. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, may I inquire of the gentleman from Dauphin whether they can be so sworn by the foreman after being called into the room, although their names do not appear on the indictment?

Mr. DAVID P. REESE. Mr. Speaker, they can.

Mr. HERBERT B. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, then this bill will change the present law so that the Grand Jury might be able to swear in any individual appearing before it even though the name of the individual does not appear upon the indictment?

Mr. DAVID P. REESE. That is correct, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. HERBERT B. COHEN. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I feel that this bill should be the subject of additional study. I realize that with reference to individuals who appear before the Grand Jury at the present time it is required that their names appear upon the bill of indictment. Now, to allow the Grand Jury to hear witnesses whose names do not appear upon the back of the indictment is going to open up the possibility of a tremendous amount of fraud. The Grand Jury might summon defense witnesses, and individuals who have information that might tend to confuse the Grand Jury might prevail upon individuals in charge of the Grand Jury that they be sworn and testify before the Grand Jury.

Existing law, as I understand it, is a precautionary measure, so that the District Attorney shall have a record of all witnesses who appear before the Grand Jury, and that witnesses who have information or testimony that should be utilized by the defense will not be called before the Grand Jury to give that testimony. One of the tricks in the practice of criminal law has always been to try to have the District Attorney include on the indictment the name of an individual who would give testimony for the defendant. I say if we alter our criminal procedure whereby an individual whose name is not upon the indictment may be taken before the Grand Jury, sworn and give his testimony, we are changing entirely the functions of the Grand Jury from a group who should look only to the prima facie case involved, and opening up the Grand Jury activities to hearing defense witnesses.

Under those circumstances, Mr. Speaker, I cannot believe that it was the intention of the framers of this bill to indulge in any such tactics. I just had the bill called to my attention. I feel that the integrity of the Grand Jury, as it is now functioning, should be maintained.

MOTION TO POSTPONE

Mr. HERBERT B. COHEN. I would respectfully move, Mr. Speaker, that the bill be placed on the postponed calendar so that an opportunity may be given for further study.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

Mr. DAVID P. REESE. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I would like to object to this motion without going into a discussion on the merits of the bill. However, I would like to have the privilege of replying to the gentleman from York, Mr. Cohen, by indicating to him and to the rest of the members of this House, that it was not the intention of the framers of this bill to allow unusual practices to develop. The ordinary procedure allows the Judges to swear in such witnesses, even though their names do not appear upon the indictment, and this is merely to facilitate the work of the Grand Jury in allowing a member of the Grand Jury to swear them in so that they will not take up too much of the Judge's time. That is all there is to the bill.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the motion?

It was not agreed to.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, in order to clarify the meaning and intent of this bill, I would like to say this: under the law as it exists today the District Attorney draws a bill of indictment and takes it before the Grand Jury. On the back of the bill of indictment he may have the names of all the witnesses or only part of them. Those witnesses whose names appear upon the back of the bill of indictment may go before the Grand Jury and be sworn by the foreman, but should the Grand Jury in the course of hearing a bill of indictment decide to call in other persons they would have to call in the Judge in order that they could be sworn. But more important than that, in the conduct of an investigation there are no bills of indictment, and the question has been raised, as the result of the way the law is written, that in an investigation by a Grand Jury it is impossible for the foreman of the Grand Jury to swear in any witnesses, and as a result of that it is impossible for any witnesses to appear before the Grand Jury conducting an investigation and be sworn by the foreman of the Grand Jury, so that it is necessary for the Judge to remain there practically all of the time merely for the purpose of swearing in witnesses. It is a matter of considerable inconvenience and that is the real purpose for this measure.

Mr. HERBERT B. COHEN. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I feel that this is more or less an academic situation. As lawyers, who are well acquainted with the criminal law, we should sit down and determine the far reaching effect of this change in our procedure. As the gentleman from Dauphin has ably indicated, the procedure as outlined requires the foreman of the Grand Jury to swear in only those witnesses whose names appear on the back of the bill of indictment, and any other witnesses who appear before the Grand Jury must be sworn in by the court before those witnesses are qualified to testify before the Grand Jury. I say that safeguard was placed in our criminal law to prevent the smuggling of witnesses into the grand jury, who would have testimony that would not be the Commonwealth's testimony. Now, there might be a certain exigency that is created by a grand jury investigation, but I say to the membership of this House that it is not, and it should not be, within the contemplation of the framers of this bill to destroy the procedure that has been existing for some time, namely, that before an individual can be sworn in by the foreman of a Grand Jury his name must appear on the back of the bill of indictment. That is a precautionary measure. That is a measure so that the district attorney who is the prosecutor in this case and presenting the evidence before the grand jury knows that the only witnesses who appear before the grand jury to give testimony are Commonwealth witnesses, otherwise, if you let the bars down, as this act contemplates doing, while it might help the gentlemen of the majority out of a situation now being investigated, you are changing our fundamental law; you are making it possible for a group of criminal lawyers who wish to pervert justice to come in and smuggle into a grand jury room witnesses who are not Commonwealth witnesses, who will confuse the grand jury and who will defeat bringing out a bill of indictment. I say it surely is not within the contemplation of the membership of this House to make that radical change in our fundamental law. We know by experience that the way to safeguard the grand jury against spurious witnesses is to demand that those witnesses have their names placed on the back of the contemplated bill of indictment, placed there by the district attorney, and if you let down the bars you are throwing the grand jury open to the introduction of testimony that in all justice to the Commonwealth should not be there.

Therefore, Mr. Speaker, I made the previous motion and I feel sure that the information given by the gentleman from Dauphin causes such a doubt, at least in my own mind, that it is of sufficient importance to require some further study on the part of the House, and I would ask that some consideration be given whereby action on this bill can be delayed, so that we will not take a step such as this blindly.

BILL POSTPONED

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I am satisfied in my own mind that the objection which is made by the gentleman from York is not sound, but I feel that in a measure of this kind every consideration should be given to the bill and therefore in response to the request made by the minority, I will move that we place the bill on the postponed calendar for further study.

The motion was agreed to.

BILL ON THIRD READING

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 191, entitled:

An Act to amend the title and section six of the act approved the twenty-ninth day of May one thousand nine hundred thirty-one (Pamphlet Laws two hundred eighty) entitled "An act relating to delinquent taxes on seated lands and prescribing interest charges on nonpayment thereof requiring the receivers and collectors of county city borough town township school district and poor district taxes to make a return to the county commissioners of such unpaid taxes and providing for the lien thereof authorizing the county treasurers to collect such taxes and to sell seated lands at public sale for taxes heretofore or hereafter returned as unpaid and authorizing the county commissioners to purchase such lands and resell the same under certain circumstances" by providing that tax collectors and receivers shall be paid a commission on all delinquent taxes collected

And said bill having been read at length the third time, considered and agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

RESOLUTION NO. 14

Mr. STOCKHAM. Mr. Speaker, I desire to call up at this time Resolution No. 14, Printer's No. 32.

The resolution was read by the Clerk as follows:

In the House of Representatives, February 7, 1939.

The whole world is distressed and waring and following strange dogmas.

Our own country continues in the grip of the severest economic depression and financial panic in our history.

The federal administration, by its domestic policy, has engendered an unhealthy class consciousness within our borders.

Secret diplomacy, a policy strange to our Republic, threatens to embroil our Nation in the dangerous and viscious disputes of Europe.

The policy of reciprocal trade tariffs seem to build up our unemployment roles rather than spur trade.

The dangerous "isms" of Europe appear to be fostered and encouraged by certain federal bureaus, threatening the overthrow of our government.

The whole New Deal has created the largest debt in our history, makes no effort to balance its budgets and threatens inflation.

The Commonwealth of Pennsylvania has a large interest in these problems and a great stake in the economic affairs of the United States; therefore be it

Resolved, That the Speaker of the House of Representatives be directed to communicate with the two United States Senators, the Honorable Joseph F. Guffey and the Honorable James J. Davis, the Keystone State's ambassadors to the seat of the federal government at Washington, and invite them to appear together, at an agreeable time, before this House and give to its members a report of the state of the Nation, to the end that Pennsylvania may be fully and authentically advised of the things which threaten our people and that this great Commonwealth may be the better guided in the formulation of a legislative policy that shall protect her best interests and the quicker relieve her distress.

On the question,

Will the House adopt the resolution?

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, we have arrived at exactly the point where I told the majority they would arrive yesterday when they so blindly rallied to their mistaken leadership.

We have passed a resolution providing that the last day for introducing bills shall be April 3rd. Now we know that we cannot bring the distinguished gentlemen from Washington here by April 3rd, and therefore it would be impossible for us to receive any wisdom that they might shower upon this House at that time.

I submit to the membership of the House that there isn't any reason in bringing the distinguished Democratic Senator Mr. Guffey to this House. If he were asked to advise us, if we were to ask Senator Guffey, "What shall we do?" I know he would say, "Boys, just you reenact all of the Earle emergency tax legislation and you will be sitting pretty." Then we would aptly say, "But, Senator, we have already decided to do that." Then we would say, "Anything else?" and Senator Guffey would say, "I would hate to see your Governor get along with any appropriation one cent less than our Governor had, and I hope you will arrange to see that Governor James has every cent of appropriation that Governor Earle had." Then we would say to Senator Guffey, "Why, Senator, we have already arranged to do that." We would also say, "Anything else, Senator?" He would say, "Well, there is the Department of State, my friend, Dave Lawrence, formerly headed it and he did a pretty good job, and I would hate to see his successor get one cent less of ap-proprietation than Lawrence got." Then we would say, "That is exactly what we are intending to do; we are going to give the new Secretary of the Commonwealth every penny that her predecessor obtained." Then we would say, "Anything else, Senator?" And Senator Guffey would say, "Well, we hope to get back into power one of these days and we hope you do not tighten up too much on these campaign contributions because we Democrats had that down pretty fine. I hope you will leave the door open." Then we would say, "Senator, we have decided to do all that."

So you see, first of all you cannot bring in these statesmen in time to incorporate their recommendations in the bills. Secondly, all that the distinguished Republican Senator could say is something about reducing the cost of government and cut the taxes and we would have to say, "Down there at Washington we are intent upon reducing the cost of government, we Republicans are all hell-bent on cutting taxes," and you would have to say, "Senator Davis, you see we have a different situation in the state and we decided to follow the Democratic example and keep the taxes where they are and just twaddle along at the same old cost of government."

Mr. STOCKHAM. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I would not presume what these statesmen from Washington purpose to tell us. I would believe that this invitation would give them the opportunity to give us such information as might be available, and there is still sufficient time. What we must remember is that the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania pays better than ten per cent of all federal income. We must remember that there are problems within this Commonwealth that have to do with unemployment and relief that are exceedingly burdensome, and that are brought in from other parts of the country and from other lands. We are a people that are magnanimous, we are a people with a big heart; we are a people that have our part to do in the affairs, not only of the federal government, but particularly those relating to this great Commonwealth. We are a leader among the states of the Union, and we are affected very seriously by all that transpires, just as I have stated in the preamble to this resolution. Now, we propose to meet all these problems, and we need the advice, help and suggestion as to what is going on at the seat of the federal government. I am sure it will help us.

When the President of the United States said the other day that business should not fear, that was a peculiar statement to come from the President because no other President has ever had to say that. The fear of business, the fear of industry is very pertinent to every person in this Commonwealth, a great industrial state, and also a great agricultural state. The Governor of this state in his inaugural address said that Pennsylvania had reached the limit of its forbearance on the burdens that had been placed upon it. We are cognizant of the fact that other states who are about us are practically free of relief, and that our burdens arise by the transposition of people from other sections of the country to this great, generous state. We would not have them go away, but we must know how we are going to meet the situation. We believe that information from those people who represent us in the United States Senate, should be forthcoming, and we believe they should be given an opportunity at the invitation of you, Sir, to come here and give us information that will be enlightening and helpful to us.

Mr. TRONZO. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, this is one resolution that I would like to be for, but I am going to be against it because it does not go far enough. For example, if these two Ambassadors from the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania should refuse to come here, I think we should recall them. Then we might decide to send a couple of other ambassadors; we might send that well-known carpet-bagger Estes, and then Anti-Flood Control Stewart to Washington. It may be we might do another thing which I believe should also be included in this resolution, and that is we might secede from the Union, which was attempted before by other states and we might try it again. Mr. Speaker, we might also send this resolution back to the Committee on Mines and Mining for proper burial.

Mr. ACHTERMAN. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Bucks, Mr. Stockham.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Bucks permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. STOCKHAM. I will, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. ACHTERMAN. I am wondering whether or not in the event this resolution is passed, the membership of this House will be permitted to interrogate the two Ambassadors from Pennsylvania in Washington, in the event they appear?

Mr. STOCKHAM. Mr. Speaker, I suppose the same question which the gentleman has asked me, whether he will be permitted to interrogate me, should be asked of them.

Mr. ACHTERMAN. Mr. Speaker, I am wondering whether the gentleman would then see to it that the Republican Ambassador, the Honorable James J. Davis, would be prepared to answer the question as to how much his vote to cut WPA threw the budget of Governor James out of whack.

Mr. STOCKHAM. Mr. Speaker, it might be very enlightening.

The SPEAKER. The Chair feels that the question is not as to whether the Ambassadors would permit themselves to be interrogated, as it is who is going to interrogate them.

Mr. ACHTERMAN. Mr. Speaker, do I understand the Chair to mean that he will do his best to protect the Republican Ambassador?

The SPEAKER. The Chair feels that he has no right to protect any ambassador; he is only trying to protect the membership of the House from their foolishness.

Mr. ACHTERMAN. And, perhaps, Mr. Speaker, also to protect the Republican Senator from the wrath of the people of Pennsylvania.

Mr. OMINSKY. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentlemen from Bucks, Mr. Stockham.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Bucks permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. STOCKHAM. I will, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. OMINSKY. Mr. Speaker, is it the intention after these two Senators accept the invitation of this House to have them appear here during the session of the House or during a special ceremony of the House, to present their views?

Mr. STOCKHAM. Mr. Speaker, it is entirely within your province, how it is arranged. I would think during a session of the House.

QUESTION OF PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Mr. OMINSKY. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a question of parliamentary inquiry.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state his question of parliamentary inquiry.

Mr. OMINSKY. Mr. Speaker, may we know before we vote on this resolution, whether it is the intention of the sponsor or the Speaker to have them appear here during the session of the House or while the session is in recess?

The SPEAKER. The Chair has no option in the matter. That is a question which will have to be submitted to the Rules Committee.

Mr. OMINSKY. Mr. Speaker, is there anyone in this House who knows what the plans will be after this resolution is passed and we have voted in favor of it?

The SPEAKER. The Chair lays before the House the question of the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Ominsky, as to whether any one who knows what the plans will be after the resolution is adopted. Is there any member of the House who desires to answer that question?

Mr. STOCKHAM. Mr. Speaker, I believe upon one occasion there was entertained here a United States Senator, Senator "Ham" Lewis, we called him, and he was received courteously by everyone in the House. I think that answers the question.

Mr. MATTHEW J. WELSH. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Bucks, Mr. Stockham.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Bucks permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. STOCKHAM. I will, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. MATTHEW J. WELSH. Mr. Speaker, I notice that this resolution says: "The dangerous 'isms' of Europe appear to be fostered and encouraged by certain federal bureaus threatening the overthrow of our government." Now then, Mr. Speaker, what are those bureaus and what members of the bureaus did the gentleman get this information from?

Mr. STOCKHAM. Mr. Speaker, that is what we want to find out.

Mr. MATTHEW J. WELSH. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman does not seem to have any real reason for introducing a resolution of this kind at this time.

Mr. STOCKHAM. Mr. Speaker, I do.

Mr. MATTHEW J. WELSH. Then what is the reason, Mr. Speaker?

Mr. STOCKHAM. Mr. Speaker, I have already stated it.

Mr. MATTHEW J. WELSH. Mr. Speaker, I think this resolution is uncalled for—

The SPEAKER. Is the gentleman speaking on the resolution or does he desire to interrogate the Speaker of the House?

Mr. MATTHEW J. WELSH. I do, Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER. The Chair desires to advise the gentleman that he is always open to interrogation at any place except the rostrum.

Mr. GATES. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, in keeping with the exigency of the cross-examination, I would respectfully suggest that when the Speaker invites these two Ambassadors that he set the date as the last day of April.

The SPEAKER. The Chair, would advise the gentleman that he has no power to amend the resolution.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I would like to have the sponsor of this resolution or the Majority Leader inform this House as to whether in their opinion, in the event we invite these two distinguished Ambassadors here to tell us how to run the business of Pennsylvania, whether then it will be in order to appoint two members of this House to journey to Washington to give the people down there some very much needed advice?

Mr. STOCKHAM. Mr. Speaker, it might be possible that we could send such emissaries who would give them very good advice in Washington.

The SPEAKER. The Chair accepts the nomination of the gentleman from Cambria, Mr. Andrews to that post. On the question,

Will the House adopt the resolution?

The SPEAKER declares that noes appeared to have it.

Whereupon, a division was called for, one hundred and fourteen members having voted in the affirmative and thirty-six in the negative, the question was determined in the affirmative and the resolution was adopted.

REPORTS FROM COMMITTEES

Mr. HEWITT from the Committee on Public Utilities reported as amended, House Bill No. 338, entitled:

An Act to amend Article One, Section Two, Subsection Ten and Article Three, Section Three Hundred One of an Act approved the twenty-seventh day of May, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-seven, Pamphlet Laws one thousand and fifty-three, known as the "Public Utility Law" by excluding from the definition of "Facilities" as used therein property owned by municipal corporations of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania when the said act became effective and providing that the Pennsylvania Public Utility Commission shall have power to regulate and fix the rates for service furnished by public utilities owned by municipal corporations of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania only when the public service being furnished or rendered by any municipal corporations shall be beyond its corporate limits and extending such freedom from regulation and control by the Commission to public utility service furnished or rendered by an operating agency of any such municipal corporation.

Mr. DENMAN from the Committee on Public Health and Sanitation reported as committed, House Bill No. 28, entitled

An Act to regulate the sale of sulfamidamide and its derivatives in the interest of public health.

STATEMENT BY MR. HINDMAN

Mr. HINDMAN asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker and members of the House, during the four years that I have been a member of this House, I cannot recall a single instance where any matter has been of greater import or more far-reaching than that concerning which I am about to speak. Let us view it from an entirely non-partisan view point; let us view it from a view point entirely segregated from and absolutely devoid of political consideration. As you very well know, Mr. Speaker, I am a member of the minority group of this House, but I assure you that my premise on the subject which I am about to discuss would be the same if I were a member of the majority group.

Permit me to remind you that I began the practice of medicine as a very young man, and ever since that time my life has been very actively devoted to curing the sick, alleviating the suffering and preventing disease and its spread among human beings.

In many instances, my friends, this has been done without consideration for financial reward. I have always believed that God's greatest material gift to man was good health. Regardless of what your station in life may be or your achievements, whether you be prince or pauper, they count for nothing if you do not have at least reasonably good health.

With this background, I am sure you will not wonder that on Monday night when I heard His Excellency, the Governor's message read I was shocked, disappointed, and dismayed when it was stated that "I purpose that the sanatorium at Butler be not occupied during the coming biennium. The entire present waiting list from tuberculosis can be amply accommodated at the present sanatoria. To occupy the Butler institution would be an unjustifiable expense."

Ladies and gentlemen of this House, during the four years that I have been here I experienced no greater pleasure than I did when during the last administration we made it possible to take care of that great army of sufferers in the state of Pennsylvania, that great tuberculosis army, as well as take care of the very unfortunate calls of our citizenship who were mentally deranged and unable to care for themselves, people who had to be placed in institutions. As I was overjoyed when I realized what that meant to these people, so I was dismayed in the present instance when I heard the proposition to take that sanitarium away from us for two years.

Mr. Speaker, I do not wish to question the motive nor the sincerity of the Governor of the Commonwealth. I cannot, however, refrain from challenging him for proof of his statement that the entire present waiting list of sufferers of tuberculosis can be accommodated at the present sanatoria. Certainly we are entitled to know just how this is to be accomplished. I am sure that His Excellency, the Governor does not have a picture of the real facts, and the actual deplorable conditions existing. I believe I am prepared to back up my statements with proof from unimpeachable sources. After his statement, "To occupy the Butler Institution would be an unjustifiable expense," ladies and gentlemen, I cannot visualize any legitimate or reasonable expense which would be too great for so vital a use as when human life is at stake. I cannot visualize any just legitimate expenditure as being unjustifiable. Surely this would be an extreme example of placing property rights over human rights. I am in hearty accord with any sincere and legitimate move for economy. I cannot, however, subscribe to economy at the expense of human life.

I would like to call the members' attention to a letter which I received today from one of the leading authorities on tuberculosis in the western end of the state, Dr. Harry G. Noah, who is a member of the staff of the West Penn Hospital in Pittsburgh, and is also connected with the Tuberculosis League of Pittsburgh. Dr. Noah says:

"It has come to my attention through the press and interested friends that the program for the treatment of indigent tuberculous in Pennsylvania is to be greatly reduced this year to the extent that the new sanatorium will not be opened for an indefinite time. I am writing you because I know you understand my interests in this state program, having been in charge of Pittsburgh dispensary for several years.

"I feel that it is a great detriment to the community and to the state in general if this sanatorium is not opened. This is especially true during these hard times."

I will not read all of this letter, but I wish you to get this:

"From my own experience I feel that there are in Western Pennsylvania enough cases of needy, active cases to fill this sanatorium within thirty days from the time of its opening. If it is not opened, they will be denied any reasonable kind of treatment."

I also received a letter from Dr. C. Howard Marcy, who is Chief Medical Director of the Tuberculosis League of Pittsburgh, and who too is one of the outstanding authorities on tuberculosis in the western end of the state. Dr. Marcy says:

"At the present time there is a shortage of hundreds of beds for tuberculosis patients. Every tuberculosis hospital in this state has a long waiting list of patients seeking admission," where they are obliged to wait four or five months. "I sincerely hope that you will use your influence to oppose any delay in opening this hospital."

I do not wish to take up too much of the time of this House, but I feel this is so important that I should give you the facts. I would like to quote, ladies and gentlemen, from the best authorities that we have in Pennsylvania and in some instances some of the best authorities that we have in any state in the nation. This is taken from the Pennsylvania Medical Journal of May, 1938, which is a reprint of the Pennsylvania Tuberculosis Society, in which the statement is made:

"An appreciable increase in the number of tuberculosis deaths is sure evidence that the combined forces engaged in the fight against tuberculosis must continue their efforts with increased vigor and determination."

Mr. Dewees pointed out, "that following an increase in tuberculosis mortality in 1936, which broke a downward trend which had continued for a decade, another increase is revealed for 1937." He said:

"Tuberculosis is the leading cause of death in the ages from 15 to 45 and is by far the leading cause of death from communicable diseases between ages 5 and 20."

I wish you to get this, ladies and gentlemen, to show you the importance of this subject. Between the ages of 5 and 20 tuberculosis causes more deaths than the combined total of deaths from the five other greatest causes of death. Between these particular ages, ladies and gentlemen, which is the very flower of youth, young men and young women, boys and girls, budding into manhood and young womanhood, are its chief victims. That, ladies and gentlemen, should make us realize the importance of the problem before us.

Permit me to say that during all these years we haven't had a tuberculosis sanatorium in the western end of the State, the nearest one being Cresson, and that institution is just one hundred miles from Pittsburgh, so that if this Butler sanatorium were open it would serve approximately three million people. I do not believe when I tell you these facts that there will be any question as to the necessity of the Butler sanatorium. What I would like to do is get the real picture before you to allow you to get the real facts I might say incidentally that during all the years, as far back as eighteen or twenty years ago, ladies and gentlemen, there is a waiting list to be admitted to the sanatoria in this State from three months up to as high as eight or nine months, and at this very moment the waiting list in the state of Pennsylvania requires one to wait about four months for admittance. That is why I say this is such an important question. I wish to say to the members of this House as one who has had a pretty rich experience over a long period of years in the disease, that I would rather have a tuberculosis patient in the first three or four months than I would three or four years afterwards because, my friends, that is the time when the treatment of tuberculosis is most important and most of those cases do not have the proper treatment at that time and are hopeless.

There is another point that affects the western end of the state, as it does some other sections, but particularly the western end of the state, and that is the colored race. Negroes are especially prone to tuberculosis. I further quote from the article in the Pennsylvania Medical Journal as follows:

"Although Negroes comprise only 4.5 per cent of the total population of Pennsylvania, they present an extremely important factor in the tuberculosis problem."

"The Negro tuberculosis death rate was 194 per 100,000 population in 1936 compared with a white rate of 39.3. Negro deaths were 19.2 per cent of the total."

Ladies and Gentlemen, that means that the death rate is between three and five times greater among the colored people than it is among the white people.

The article continues as follows:

"In 8 counties which have Negro populations of 10,000 or more the tuberculosis mortality rate of Negroes is from 3 to more than 5 times that for the white population."

Strange as it might seem, we feel that fact materially strengthens our case. Three of those eight counties that have a Negro population of over 10,000 colored people are in the districts for which I am pleading, namely Fayette, Allegheny and Washington Counties.

The article continues:

"The report set forth that an outstanding development to meet the pressing need for increased tuberculosis hospital facilities was the decision of the state to provide more than 1300 additional beds for tuberculosis patients."

There is one other report I would like to give you and that is from the Tuberculosis Society of the State of Pennsylvania, in which it is started:

"The shortage of beds for the tuberculosis in Pennsylvania was one of the questions which received much consideration at the forty-fifth annual meeting of the Pennsylvania Tuberculosis Society."

They passed resolutions, one of which was:

"Whereas, at the present time Pennsylvania is lacking by not less than 1,000 in the required number of beds to care for tuberculosis patients needing and desiring treatment, and

"Whereas, the lives of citizens of the State afflicted with tuberculosis are being lost or jeopardized because of delay in receiving hospital or sanatorium treatment, and

"Whereas, many of these people who are ill with a highly infectious disease are a menace to children and others with whom they come in contact and are spreading tuberculosis in the communities in which they live, therefore be it

"Resolved, that we respectfully urge Governor George H. Earle and Dr. Edith MacBride-Dexter, Secretary of Health, to include in the budget of the State Department of Health for the next biennium provision for building a fourth tuberculosis hospital as a step toward taking care of the pressing need that is felt in all sections of the Commonwealth."

Another article from which I would like to quote is from the address of Dr. Edith MacBride-Dexter before the Tuberculosis Society several months ago in which she said:

"Our 3 sanatoria at present have a capacity of approximately 2400 beds, and we usually have a waiting list of from 700 to 1000 patients. In order to take care of these, we plan to increase our capacity by 1300 or 1400 beds. This will more than absorb our present waiting list and will provide facilities for the treatment of patients discovered by the new case-finding program in which the Department of Health is engaged."

"Our building program under the State Authority includes a new sanatorium in Western Pennsylvania for 500 adult patients and a wing for 50 children suffering from adult type tuberculosis."

Her report goes on and tells us about the extensions at Hamburg and also at Cresson.

Let me say, Ladies and Gentlemen, if this program which was inaugurated during the last administration is carried out, we feel in the future years the death rate in Pennsylvania which runs from 4,000 to something over 5,000 deaths in a year, will be very materially decreased, and in fact it wouldn't surprise me if these long waiting lists are cut down so that the death rate would be at least cut in half.

Now, Ladies and Gentlemen, I hope that you will regard this matter in the proper light. Do not regard it as a matter where dollars and cents alone are concerned, although I do believe that as an economic measure it will pay big financial returns. In support of that theory I might say that during the last several years the death rate of the state of Pennsylvania, for instance in diphtheria, has been reduced from 45 to 50 per cent down to less than 5 per cent. Ladies and Gentlemen, outside of the human end of it, as an economic measure it was one of the most wonderful investments of the state of Pennsylvania because it made possible a reduction in the toll of diphtheria cases, by reason of the fact that the Department of Health furnished free anti-toxin and assisted in every way possible to do that.

I feel that the members of this House have a great responsibility in this matter, particularly the members from the western end of the state, where this particular sanatorium is to be located.

A few weeks ago, through the courtesy of Temple University, each member of this House was presented with a copy of Russell Conwell's lecture, "The Angel's Lily." If any member of this House has failed to read it will you not do so at once? Without any attempt to be facetious, I would also commend it to His Excellency, the Governor,

Can it be that the spirit of the immortal Conwell has returned to Pennsylvania, the scene of his marvelous unprecedented activities and achievements to direct an influence on the destiny of the thousands of tuberculosis victims within its borders?

Mr. Speaker and members of this House, may we all in our journey of deliberation stop at the "Angel's Lily?"

STATEMENT BY MR. MORAN

Mr. MORAN asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I assure you that this is going to be brief. I am not going to start out by saying, "just one more word and I will conclude," and then keep on talking for an hour and a half. I am not going to do that.

After lagging behind almost all other states in the Union, the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania finally modernized its compensation laws. 1937-1938 Liberal as this law may be, it will be hopelessly inadequate if its administration be handled by a Workmen's Compensation Board and Referees who are not equally liberal. The gains that have been made in the legislation may be entirely eliminated by the reactionary administration of the Act.

Labor should not be deceived into believing that its rights are protected merely by having a statute on our books. The effectiveness of the Workmen's Compensation Act for the relief of suffering to injured employees and their dependents may be destroyed by the fact finding Workmen's Compensation authorities. Under our law the Referees and the Board find the facts of the case and apply the statute to those facts. Once these facts are found they are more or less binding and if found against an injured claimant or his dependents he will be without a remedy.

It is now a matter of common discussion that compensation agents of certain large corporations and representatives of certain large insurance companies are seeking appointments as Workmen's Compensation Referees and members of the Board. It is my view that if a man has spent many years representing large corporate interests in an effort to avoid the payment of compensation he would carry into office instincts in favor of employers and against the workingman and would resolve all doubts on question of fact against the workingman. It will be physically impossible for such a person to administer the Act liberally. Organized labor should therefore scrutinize the personnel of the compensation authorities and investigate prior connections of every person seeking such appointments and should be quick to condemn them to the appointing authorities. In this way labor will serve itself and preserve liberal compensation laws for the worker.

As a former member of the Superior Court, Governor James is fully aware of the truth of what I am saying to you and you can help him by expressing to him your views on persons who seek such appointments. I am sure he will welcome your co-operation.

SENATE

WEDNESDAY, March 8, 1939.

The Senate met at 2:00 o'clock p. m.

The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant-Governor Samuel S. Lewis) in the Chair.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Rev. BURLEIGH A. PETERS, offered the following prayer:

"He that dwelleth in the secret place of the Most High shall abide under shadow of the Almighty."

As the psalmist was thoroughly convinced of the truth and beauty of these words in his day, no less are we in our day, O Almighty God. They breathe peace of spirit to all honest searchers for it, and, conversely, run up the red danger signal of discontent, eternal detour and ultimate defeat unto all who care not to seek or to know the protecting power of Thine Almighty Shadow, in the conquest of this life.

May the taproot of our faith reach deeply into the subsoil of Thy unfathomable love, that from that hidden source, that secret place, the nourishing flow of spiritual nutriment may build more stately the mansions for our souls. O Lord, help us through our own convictions and determinations of life, to "lay up for ourselves treasures in heaven where neither moth nor rust doth corrupt and where thieves cannot break through and steal."

Guide us this day in thought and act by Thy inspirational presence. For Thy Name's sake. Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVED

The PRESIDENT. A quorum of the Senate being present, the Clerk will read the Journal of the preceding session.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of the preceding session, when, on motion of Mr. GELDER and Mr. HEYBURN, the further reading was dispensed with, and the Journal was approved.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro, will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, some time ago I suggested that by cooperation between both sides of the house some idea might be evolved which would insure a saving and be of benefit to the Commonwealth. I read in the papers last week that the Governor had arrived at an agreement with the mine workers and miners that their work should be reduced to three days a week.

I should like to say this as an illustration of the proposition to which I was referring. I made an investigation and I found that in 1936 there was collected in Pennsylvania $23,000,000 of dollars, in round figures, on unemployment compensation; in 1937, about $48,000,000; and in 1938 there will be approximately $78,000,000 which will be collected; and that means that on unemployment compensation last year there was approximately $80,000,000 spent. There is today a balance in the unemployment compensation fund of $82,000,000, which is an accumulation of principal, plus interest at three per cent, in the fund.

Now, Mr. President, the unemployment compensation law provides that there is no compensation, unemployment compensation, for partial employment; so that, if a person works three days a week for fifty-two weeks in a year, he gets no unemployment compensation, but if a person were unemployed for seven consecutive days and then goes to work the next week for seven days and then skips a week, he will be entitled to thirteen weeks' compensation during that year; he will be entitled to the full limit of compensation for those periods. I think the thirty-dollar-a-week man gets $15 a week, which is the maximum.

If, instead of reducing the employment of these miners to three days a week a plan had been evolved staggering employment, so that they worked a full week and then did not work the next week, each and every one of those miners would be entitled to compensation in the sum of $15 for every week of the thirteen weeks that they were out of employment.

It seems to me that that matter certainly should have been considered by the miners themselves, who are paying out three per cent of their wages every year into this particular fund; and I make the suggestion now that I think this is of sufficient importance to have it investigated, so that that condition may be changed.

I do not profess to know the solution of the coal problem, but I do think this is one of the things which should have been taken into consideration; it is of sufficient importance. I have arrived at a figure of somewhere in the neighborhood of $15,000,000 which might be diverted from this fund and spent for legitimate purposes, if they would stagger the employment, instead of reducing everybody to three days.

The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant-Governor Samuel S. Lewis) in the presence of the Senate signed the same.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Delaware, Mr. Heyburn, will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, as a matter of information to my distinguished colleague from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro, I would like to tell him that the Department of Labor and Industry has drafted amendments to permit workers to receive compensation for partial unemployment. The workers that the Senator from Philadelphia speaks of are known as partially unemployed and will receive compensation if the amendments are passed by the Legislature.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, the question of partial unemployment compensation is not a new one to me. It is a matter of fact that when this bill was drawn in 1936, at Special Session, I had something to do with the preparation of that bill, and I think I conferred with actuaries from about ten States on the question of unemployment compensation for partial employees.

The real question raised there was that you might bankrupt the fund in no time if you extended partial unemployment compensation to all employees. It involves the question of seasonal employment also. There are certain industries working only four or five months out of the year, and when you give partial unemployment compensation you will have to include those seasonal workers, and by doing that you might in the beginning very easily bankrupt the fund.

The procedure to follow is to allow accumulation of the fund so that when there is plenty of employment there is less compensation paid out, the fund accumulates; so that, the interest on that fund is larger, and allows expansion of the Act as time goes on.

Any attempt to include partial employment now in unemployment compensation without considering the effect on the fund might be disastrous.

For instance, I said before, and I do not know how many of you noticed the significance of the figures, but when there is $75,000,000 paid in and $72,000,000 paid out in one year, you see how little opportunity there is for accumulation, and to include in the compensation at the present time partial employment would create a deficit within the first year; so that is not the solution but the proper way to take care of a procedure of this kind, without affecting it State-wide, would be, as I say, to stagger employment and bring it within the existing terms of the Act. It does not require amendments to the Act to correct that condition.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. SIPE. Mr. President, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Armstrong, Mr. Sipe, will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. SIPE. Mr. President, whenever I am duped, hornswoggled, and fooled by any person, I am perfectly willing, when I find it out, to admit it, both to myself and to a breathlessly waiting world. Therefore, I want to read into the record for today the following statement which I inserted in the newspapers of my district shortly after last fall's election:

"I want to say that when I voted for the Earle bills. I did so because I feared that the District Attorney of Dauphin County, with Charles J. Margiotti as his mentor, would pursue the same course in the grand jury investigation as Mr. Margiotti pursued; that is, drag the investigation along until after the election, with a lot of damaging charges against Governor Earle and other high officials in his administration going out to the public without their having a chance to defend themselves until too late—until after election.

"I did not want to see Governor Earle and other high officials ruined without their having a chance to defend themselves until too late."

"I bona-fidely thought at the time that if the bills were passed, the legislative investigating committee would act with dispatch and get both the charges against the governor and other officials and their defense out before the public before the election.

"But such a course as I contemplated was not pursued by the legislative investigating committee. The governor and other officials were not called before the committee until after the election.

"Therefore I claim that I was sold down the river by somebody pretty powerful in the Earle Administration. I don't think it was Governor Earle."

Now, Mr. President, having made this literary contribution to the record for today, I wish to take the time of the Senate for just a few more remarks that have been formulated in contemplation of what my good friend from Cumberland County said yesterday when he lamented, deplored, bewailed, and bemoaned the fact that we have been fighting here in the Senate for nine weeks and not getting any work done.

I am sure that the Senator from Cumberland County realized who brought the fight on. I think he and the rest of us realize that the fight started when the Republicans tried to remove Senator Henney elected by the people, overwhelmingly, from his district. That brought that fight to us Democrats, and, of course, Democrats are not noted for running from fights; so the fight has been going on ever since.

Democrats, as I say, are not running from fights; they are not noted for that. Why, they even kicked up good healthy fights among themselves; and I think that the Senator from Cumberland, as well as the rest of the citizens of this goodly Commonwealth, have noted that in this respect—in respect to kicking up a fight among themselves—the Republicans are turning Democratic because they have a good healthy fight among themselves. So I yearn for the approaching, for the bringing forth, of this much-heralded Governor James' program; I yearn for it just as much as the Senator from Cumberland or any other Senator, so that we can quit fighting and get to work. Here we have gone along for nine weeks fighting because there was nothing else to do than fight and make speeches. Even here today there is no calendar, so I call on my Republican friends to bring out the program. Those things that I believe are for the best interests of the public, of the people of this Commonwealth I will support just as anxiously and as ardently as any Republican, and those things that my conscience or what little intelligence I have tell me are not for the best interests of the state I will oppose.

In other words, where Governor James is right I will endorse him; where he is wrong I will reject him. I will not look upon him as a sort of demagogue, or Demi-god, I mean, a Demi-god before whom we should bow and scrape, but I would like to look upon him as I am sure we all could, as a servant of the people.

So, bring out the program, I would like to take a look at it; I would like to see the color of its hair; I would like to see whether it is an old-line Republican program; I would like to see whether it is an Earle Democratic program with a few false whiskers on it, or whether it is a southern Democratic program.

At any rate, bring it here into the Senate. March it in in grand array, with flags flying and drums beating, even if you have to march it all the way across the plains and over the mountains, from the sage brush and the oil fields of Texas. Bring it.

REPORT FROM COMMITTEES

Mr. EALY. Mr. President, I am directed by the Committee on Executive Nominations to report with favorable recommendation the following nominations by His Excellency the Governor of the Commonwealth:

Honorable William E. Hirt, 2004 South Shore Drive, Erie, Erie County, for appointment as Judge of the Superior Court of Pennsylvania, until the first Monday in January, 1940.

ARTHUR H. JAMES.

JUDGE OF MUNICIPAL COURT OF THE FIRST JUDICIAL DISTRICT OF PENNSYLVANIA

Commonwealth of Pennsylvania,
Governor's Office, Harrisburg, February 27, 1939.
To the Honorable, the Senate of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania:

In conformity with law, I have the honor to nominate for the advice and consent of the Senate the following:

John Roberts Jones, Esq., Philadelphia, Philadelphia County, for appointment as Judge of the Municipal Court of the First Judicial District of Pennsylvania, until the first Monday in January, 1940, vice William M. Lewis, deceased.

ARTHUR H. JAMES.

MEMBERS OF STATE ATHLETIC COMMISSION

Commonwealth of Pennsylvania,
Governor's Office, Harrisburg, February 9, 1939.
To the Honorable, the Senate of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania:

In conformity with law, I have the honor to nominate for the advice and consent of the Senate the following members of the State Athletic Commission, for terms of two years and until their successors are appointed and qualified:

George J. Jones, Jr., Williamsport, Lycoming County vice Eddie McCloskey, whose term expired.

Havey J. Boyle, 3 Wynoka Street, Pittsburgh, Allegheny County, vice Doctor William D. McClelland, whose term expired.

Leon L. Rains, Rittenhouse Plaza, Philadelphia, Philadelphia County, vice Jules E. Aronson, resigned.

ARTHUR H. JAMES.

CONSIDERATION OF EXECUTIVE NOMINATIONS

Mr. EDMONDS. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now proceed to the consideration of nominations for appointment as Notaries Public, sent to the Senate, March 7th and 8th, 1939, by his Excellency, the Governor of the Commonwealth, together with the nominations just reported from Committee.

Mr. SCARLETT. Mr. President, I second the motion. On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, for the purpose of the record, I desire to read the following statement in connection with the nominations.

"The adoption of a sweeping general policy dealing with executive nominations is unwise and fraught with danger of injustice to individuals. It might also unnecessarily interfere with the proper administration of governmental functions.

"While the arbitrary conduct of the Republican majority fully justifies resentment it should not be permitted to rise to the point where it would result in 'government by hatred' or prejudice.

"This was the consensus of opinion of the Democratic Senators gathered in caucus this afternoon. In the discussion several governing principles became obvious. First it was clear to us that under no circumstances should judicial nominations be thrown into the arena of partisan politics, and that unless there was tenable objection to the qualifications and character of individual nominees, consent to judicial appointments should be given promptly.

"While the caucus felt that the Governor might have been more judicious if he had stayed clear of the taint of the Pennsylvania Manufacturers Association and its Grundy affiliations, nevertheless the caucus had the sincere assurance of Senator Gilson that the reputation, ability and judicial conduct of Judge Hirt in Erie county warranted the confirmation.

"With respect to John Robert Jones, named for appointment as Judge of the Municipal Court of Philadelphia, in line with the above attitude the Democratic Senators will join in this confirmation also.

"Secondly, it was the consensus of opinion that in principle where a vacancy exists by voluntary resignation or death in an office or a term has expired confirmation should follow unless there is valid objection to the nominee.

"Third, the caucus was opposed in principle to the wholesale removal of members of various boards, commissions, etc., merely because of the political complexion of the members and would not put their stamp of approval on such action by voting for confirmation."

That leaves us in the position of voting for the confirmation of Judge Hirt and Judge Jones and the members of the Boxing Commission, whose terms expire as to two cases and a resignation exists as to the third.

QUESTION OF INFORMATION

Mr. REED. Mr. President, I rise to a question of information.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Washington, Mr. Reed, will state his question of information.

Mr. REED. Mr. President, if the Senate confirms these appointees we want to be sure that they are legally confirmed, and the question that concerns me arises out of Section 8 of the Constitution, as found on page 44 of the Manual, and particularly this part: "In acting on Executive nominations the Senate shall sit with open doors," and so forth in confirming or rejecting the nominations of the Governor.

Now, the question occurs to me, are the doors of the Senate open at the present time? I notice that the door at the back has a gentleman at it, and the doors over here have men on them, and this a legal question I would like to present at this time.

Mr. OWLETT. Mr. President, I suggest that the galleries are open and free for the admission of anyone, who can hear the entire proceeding, and that complies with the provision of the Constitution.

Certainly it is not necessary to open up the floor of this Senate for the public to come in when we are on Executive nominations.

Mr. REED. Mr. President, I do not want to get into an argument with the Senator from Tioga but the section of the Constitution that I read does not limit the construction to any particular doors, it says "doors," which, I would say, means all doors.

The PRESIDENT. In order to facilitate matters we will declare the doors open.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, I trust that the declaration made by the President will be carried out physically so that the doors will be opened, so that there will be compliance with the proper section of the Constitution.

...Mr. President, on the matter of these confirmations, and specifically having in mind the statement made by the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro, I wish to call attention to that part of the statement which makes reference to the fact that the functions of Government might be interfered with if executive confirmations are held up.

I remember very distinctly, and the Legislative Journal will confirm my belief and remembrance, that the same argument was advanced when the confirmation of Mr. Hamilton was before the Senate that unless he was confirmed the Department of Revenue, an important agency of this Government, would meet with difficulty and stymie the entire Governmental structure.

Now, we also remember this, that shortly after the confirmation of Mr. Hamilton he put on a Paul Revere act from Harrisburg to Philadelphia to prevent the taking over of his office under the Constitution and the laws by the Coroner of that County; and, Mr. President, to this very moment I understand that Mr. Hamilton has not yet taken his oath of office and assumed the discharge of the duties of that office. The communications that I have received from that department to this very date, and the motor vehicle operator licenses that are issued by that department, are still signed by Mr. Kress, a deputy Secretary of Revenue.

So, I cannot help, Mr. President, when the same statement is made here today that these confirmations must be made or the orderly business of the Government will be interfered with, I just can not take much stock in those statements, and I do not, as a member of the Democratic party of this Senate, concur with that portion of the statement made by the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro. I do not know why that argument is advanced, as it was advanced in the case of Mr. Hamilton. The only reason I see why Mr. Hamilton has not assumed the duties of his office is because there might be some serious doubts in his mind as to which office might be the more lucrative to him, or whether he wishes to hold on to both offices.

Now, I make these remarks because in the nominations before us for confirmation today there are men who are holding lucrative positions and their confirmation for positions on the Athletic Commission here will mean another salary for them, when the Governor has repeatedly warned that he will not make appointments to men who already hold a job. If the members of this Senate will inquire and investigate they will find we are called upon to confirm today men who are holding lucrative positions, and that these positions to which they will be confirmed today will be a pyramiding of salaries. They could well be given to other worthy citizens of this State who might need them and, therefore, help to solve the main problem, the problem of unemployment, in our Commonwealth.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, in order that there may be no misunderstanding here, I should like to read again, for the edification of the Senator from Westmoreland, the statement which I made concerning interference with Governmental functions. I think when it is read everybody will agree I did not say that failure to appoint would interfere with Governmental functions. What I said was, and now repeat is:

"The adoption of a sweeping general policy dealing with executive nominations is unwise and fraught with danger, of injustice to individuals. It might also unnecessarily interfere with the proper administration of Governmental functions."

In other words, if we take the position that we are not going to confirm anybody, simply because we do not like the attitude or the actions of the Republican Senators, I think such a general move might very well interfere with Governmental functions.

I also agree that any reasonable person, whether he be Democrat or Republican will admit that this would be unwise and foolish, just as unwise as it would be for us to refrain from voting favorably on the nomination of Judge Hirt, who, as we have been advised, is performing his duty well and faithfully, because Mr. Hamilton has not taken his oath of office, because we resented it. As a matter of fact, I might say for the enlightenment of the Senator from Westmoreland that the Governmental functions of that department are being carried out, and they are being carried out by Mr. Hamilton, who is appearing every day and taking charge of his office. The only people who have a right to complain about that are the citizens of the City of Philadelphia, who are paying him a handsome salary for the time he is spending up here, and not in Philadelphia.

Just because that condition exists is no reason we should take it out on Judge Hirt or somebody else. I say that is a matter for which the administration will have to answer, a matter which the people of Philadelphia will give great concern to, because at the present time they are in a position where they have not an extra dollar with which to pay the help.

Everybody from five dollars a day or three dollars a day and up has been deprived of his money for a number of months, but Mr. Hamilton is retaining the position, getting his salary, and is working up here. That has nothing to do with the nomination and can be taken care of at the present time.

Before I sit down. I would like to have this understood. I think the Chair inadvertently stated that in order to settle the argument the doors will be declared open. I think it would be much better—because the Senator from Washington, Mr. Reed, I think is right. All doors should be open, and I think it would be much better if the Chair shall declare they shall be open, instead of merely making a decision which in itself is without authority. I imagine the use of the word was inadvertent.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

The motion was agreed to.

The nominations were read as follows:

HOUSE MESSAGE

RESOLUTION EXTENDING SYMPATHY TO GOVERNOR JAMES ON DEATH OF HIS MOTHER-IN-LAW

He also presented extract from the Journal of the House, which was twice read as follows:

In the House of Representatives, March 8, 1939.

Saddening word of the death early this morning in the General Hospital at Wilkes-Barre of Mrs. Grace Morris, the mother-in-law of our Governor, has but recently reached this General Assembly.

As a new day dawned, she passed into the everlasting lull, the immortal, uncommunicable dream.

Mrs. Morris had for several years made her home with the Governor and his family at Plymouth, and recently at the Executive Mansion.

The bond between them was close and we realize the depth of sorrow that its severance means to our Governor at this time; therefore be it

Resolved, (if the Senate concur), That we, the members of this General Assembly, extend to His Excellency, the Governor, our most profound sympathy during this, his time of grief, but knowing full well that no words of ours can assuage his sense of loss we feel that in the following verse from the works of Aldrich he may find some measure of comfort:

"But when the sun in all his state
Illumed the eastern skies
She passed through glory's morning gate
And walked in Paradise."

Mr. OWLETT. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now concur in the Resolution just adopted by the House of Representatives.

Mr. GELDER. Mr. President, I second the motion.
The motion was agreed to.

BILL INTRODUCED

Mr. STIEFEL. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to introduce a bill this time.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Mr. STIEFEL read in place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 190, entitled:

An Act to amend section two of the act, approved the twenty-fourth day of June, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-five (P. L. 236) entitled "An act providing that the right of action for injury wrongfully done to the person shall survive against the personal representative of the wrongdoer, and limiting the time within which suit for such injury must be brought," by reducing the time in which suit must be brought.

Which was committed to the Committee on Judiciary General.

REPORT FROM COMMITTEE.

Mr. EDMONDS from the Committee on Judiciary General to which was referred resolution offered by Mr. Shapiro on February 8, 1939, reported the same with amendment as follows:

In the Senate, February 8, 1939.

Whereas, It is important that all persons rightfully entitled to relief should receive adequate and prompt relief, and

Whereas, The cost of relief has mounted to tremendous sums and is increasing to unprecedented extents, and

Whereas, The extent of relief is affected vitally by other State and Federal governmental agencies, and

Whereas, In Pennsylvania, the Unemployment Compensation laws have contributed greatly to the reduction of the relief expenses, and

Whereas, the problem of proper relief unemployment compensation and federal grants are inter-related, and an understanding of the effect of one upon the other is necessary and will be helpful in an effort to solve the relief problem, now therefore be it

Resolved, That a special committee of six members of the Senate, three from the majority and three from the minority parties be appointed, whose duty it would be to study the operations, expenditures, and effect, of the various agencies including among others, Federal grants and unemployment compensation upon relief. The Committee should further study expenditures for administration, supplemental aid, and general relief grants by the Department of Public Assistance, and furnish information concerning all these matters from time to time to the members of the Senate, for use by members of the Senate and the House for their guidance in dealing with the whole relief problem, and be it further

Resolved, That the Department of Public Assistance and the Unemployment Compensation Division of the Department of Labor and Industry and all other agencies, shall furnish to the said Committee such information and assistance as they may request.

A motion was made by Mr. EDMONDS.

That rule 39, which requires resolutions reported from committee to lie over for one day be dispensed with and the Senate proceed to the consideration of the foregoing resolution.

Which was agreed to.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Fayette, Mr. Cavalcante, will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, I wish to read into the record a little item found in the Capitol newspaper called "Capitol Affair"—printed here somewhere in Harrisburg, concerning the affairs that are transpiring on Capitol Hill. The paper is dated March 7, 1939, and on page four we see a very beautiful picture of our present presiding officer Mr. Sam Lewis, on the one side, and His Excellency Governor Arthur H. James on the other, and a short distance from those two pictures I find the following item:

"Until Sheriff William J. Hamilton, Philadelphia, takes the oath as Secretary of Revenue, two past State American Legion commanders, Walter J. Kress, Johnstown attorney, and Otto Messner, former deputy auditor general, of Lancaster, are in command there as deputies."

Those two gentlemen are excellent men; they are capable and efficient in the performance of the duties they are now performing. I wish either one of these gentlemen could have been confirmed by this Senate as Secretary of Revenue.

On pages 268 and 269 of the Legislative Journal of February 6, 1939, we will find the proceedings of this Senate for confirming the nomination of Mr. Hamilton. The day is March 8, more than a month after the confirmation of Mr. Hamilton, and Mr. Hamilton has not as yet assumed his office. As a member of this Senate, who is charged by the Constitution with some responsibility in the confirmation of Executive Nominations, I publicly demand that His Excellency Governor James, inform this Senate the reason why Mr. Hamilton is not now in his position, and whether or not he is receiving a salary for not being in his position?

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. STIEFEL. Mr. President, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

Mr. PRESIDENT. The Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Stiefel, will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. STIEFEL. Mr. President, I want to pay my compliments to the President Pro Tempore for appointing to the committee on the supplemental study of relief gentlemen of great learning and experience. I hope that as the result of their labors we will have a comprehensive and monumental contribution to the knowledge and study of our State government.

I am envious of the State of New York, where publications of studies similar to the one proposed now are made thoroughly, with legal annotations and a careful study of legal precedents. I am sorry to state that up to the present the reports published in Pennsylvania cannot rank with those of other States, some have been very shallow. Let us hope that the erudition and experience of the gentlemen appointed on this committee to study our relief system will bring forth a valuable contribution to the knowledge of our State government.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

WEDNESDAY, March 8, 1939

The House met at 12 noon.

The SPEAKER (Ellwood J. Turner) in the Chair.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Rev. Walter Evans Deibler, offered the following prayer:

In this season of repentance, confession and contrition, O God, in the midst of many duties help us not to be unmindful of the allegiance we owe to Thee. Recognizing our human frailties teach us individually to see ourselves as Thou dost see us. Though assembled here from all parts of this state to unite our hearts and minds to do what is considered best for our people teach us that we cannot give more nor be more than we ourselves have or are. With the Psalmist we pray "Create in me a clean heart, O God; and renew a right spirit within me." If it is true that "a politician thinks of the next election; a statesman, of the next generation," then make of these Thy servants statesmen in the highest sense of the term. Deliver us from being imbued with the spirit of political chicanery. In the language of the poet may we

"Be strong!

We are not here to play, to dream, to drift;

We have hard work to do, and loads to lift;

Shun not the struggle—face it; 'tis God's gift."

This we pray through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

RESOLUTIONS INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

By Mr. REAGAN.

RESOLUTION No. 27.

In the House of Representatives, March 7, 1939.

The American farmer, upon whose prosperity depends the prosperity of the Nation, is being deprived of his opportunity to earn a living by means of not being able to compete with the cheap imports from other countries.

Crops can be grown and cattle raised abroad at much lower cost than can be done here where the standard of living to which the American farmer is accustomed demands a larger compensation for labor.

The importation of cheaply grown grains, foodstuffs, cattle and meat products from abroad has done much to deny to our farmers the prosperity their efforts deserve, therefore be it

Resolved, That it is the opinion of this House of Representatives of the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania that action should be taken by the Federal Government to prevent the importation of such grains and foodstuffs, cattle and meat products, the sale of which in the American markets contributes so largely to the economic plight of the American farmer, either by the imposition of a high tariff on such importation or the closing of our ports of entry to such articles, and be it further

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be immediately transmitted by the Chief Clerk of this House to the officers of the Congress of the United States and to the members of the Senate and House of Representatives in that Congress from the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Referred to the Committee on Federal Relations.

By Mr. DALRYMPLE. (Concurrent)

RESOLUTION No. 28.

In the House of Representatives, March 8, 1939.

Whereas, the President of the United States has publicly indicated a desire to have the Senate of the United States ratify a pending Treaty between the United States and the Dominion of Canada whereby the Great Lakes—St. Lawrence Deep Waterways would be constructed; and

Whereas, the ratification of such a Treaty would seriously and dangerously affect the economic, industrial, agricultural, commercial and shipping interests of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania by reason of a disruption in the manufacturing, mining and agricultural production of the Commonwealth, the transportation facilities of common carriers which traverse this Commonwealth and the port facilities of Erie and Philadelphia; and

terially reduce the exportation of the combined manufacturing, mining and agricultural products of this Commonwealth and would encourage the importation of products manufactured in European countries under living conditions far below the standard maintained in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and below the wage standard paid by the industrial, mining and agricultural transportation and shipping interests of this Commonwealth and would result in heavy loss of employment and revenue and would prove to be a contributing factor to increased taxation; therefore be it

Resolved, (if the Senate concur) that the General Assembly of Pennsylvania goes on record as opposed to ratification of the Treaty by the Senate of the United States and the opening of the Great Lakes—St. Lawrence Deep Waterways and requests the United States Senators to use their influence and vote against the ratification of the Treaty and the furtherance of this project; and be it further

Resolved, that the Senior United States Senator from Pennsylvania so record in the Congressional Record this body's opposition to ratification; and be it further

Resolved, that the Chief Clerk of this House immediately transmit a copy of this Resolution to each of the United States Senators from Pennsylvania.

Referred to the Committee on Federal Relations.

By Mr. HERFERD M. WOOD. (Concurrent.)

RESOLUTION No. 29.

In the House of Representatives, March 6, 1939.

Whereas, The whole world, rent asunder by strife and contention, violence and intolerance, is today in a state of turmoil and uncertainty, marked by a titanic struggle between Democracy and Autocracy, while in this Country anti-American forces are striving to discredit and destroy the ideals and institutions symbolized by the American Flag, and social, political and economic forces are combating one another; and

Whereas, Never before in the history of the Nation has there been greater need among our people for the unity, cooperation and tolerance for which our Country's Flag stands; and

Whereas, With the Stars and Stripes as its emblem, The United States Flag Association, a non-profit non-partisan and non-sectarian organization incorporated under Federal law and headed by the President of the United States as Honorary President General is, with the cooperation of various groups, organizations and fields of activity in our National life, conducting a National Patriotic Revival, culminating in FLAG WEEK, June eighth to fourteenth next, for the two-fold purpose (1) of awakening our people to the dangers threatening our National life, thereby causing them to resolve as never before to uphold and preserve our Country's ideals and institutions, and (2) of promoting National Unity, Patriotic Cooperation and Racial and Religious Tolerance; therefore, be it

Resolved, (if the Senate concur) That the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania hereby heartily indorses the plan for a great National Patriotic Revival, and that the Governor is hereby authorized and requested, first, to direct the Superintendent of Public Instruction to arrange for the suitable observance of FLAG WEEK in all the public schools, and secondly, to issue a proclamation calling upon the State officials to display the United States Flag on all State buildings during FLAG WEEK, and inviting the people of the State to fly the Flag at their homes and other suitable places as well as on their cars, and that in every community they hold special exercises at which means shall be taken to given significant expression to our thoughtful love of America, our pride in its glorious history, our faith in its destiny, our devotion to its ideals and institutions and our determination to uphold and preserve them now and forever.

Referred to the Committee on Education.

By Mr. HARKINS. (Concurrent) RESOLUTION No. 30.

In the House of Representatives, March 7, 1939.

Whereas, The Philadelphia Company is a corporation formed under the laws of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania; and

Whereas, The Philadelphia Company is the holder and principal owner of the utility operating companies of the Pittsburgh district in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania; and

Whereas, As a holding company, the said Philadelphia Company has been for years manipulating its holdings in such a manner that a great portion of the profits of the utilities owned and controlled by the said company have been diverted to the private use of the Philadelphia Company by reason of the formation of various underlying companies which are not required to report to the Public Utility Commission; and

Whereas, the Philadelphia Company has almost secured a monopoly in the Pittsburgh district for its underlying companies in serving the said district with gas, electricity, steam, street car and motor bus transportation; and

Whereas, The Public Utility Commission has been unable to regulate the affairs of the Philadelphia Company and its subsidiaries in the supplying of the utility products above mentioned; and

Whereas, The Pittsburgh district is being over-charged millions of dollars annually by reason of the failure of the proper regulation of these utilities; and

Whereas, It is the duty of the Legislature to relieve the consumers of this over-charge and to enact laws sufficient to regulate the action of these utilities; therefore be it

Resolved (if the Senate concur), That the Speaker of the House is hereby directed to appoint five members of the House of Representatives, and the President of the Senate is directed to appoint three members of the Senate who together shall constitute a legislative committee, and whose duty it shall be forthwith to fully and impartially investigate the corporate structure and the operations of the Philadelphia Company and all its subsidiaries and the charges made for public utility services by said company and its subsidiaries, and be it further

Resolved, That the said committee shall organize by a selection of a chairman and secretary, shall have power to issue subpoenas signed by the chairman and to be served by the sergeant-at-arms of the House or any of his assistants commanding any person to appear and testify and to produce such books, papers, documents and records as may be called for by the committee, shall examine said witnesses and hear their testimony and shall make preliminary report to the General Assembly now in session at a reasonable time prior to adjournment sine die, which report shall contain recommendations for such action or the enactment of such legislation as the committee, after hearing the facts, deems advisable. Any person who refuses to appear or to testify in obedience to any such subpoena shall be subject to the penalties now provided by law in such cases. Each member of the committee shall have power to administer oaths; and be it further

Resolved, That said committee shall have power to employ and fix the compensation of such attorneys, stenographers, clerks and investigators as it deems necessary to accomplish the purposes of this resolution, such compensation to be paid from an appropriation made for such purposes; and be it further

Resolved, That said committee, upon its organization, shall report to the General Assembly the amount of appropriation it deems necessary to carry out the intent of this resolution in order that the same may be provided by separate bill.

RESOLUTION No. 31.

In the House of Representatives, March 8, 1939.

Whereas, The Commonwealth of Pennsylvania has for years carried on a broad program for the eradication of tuberculosis; and

Whereas, the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania has from time to time established institutions for the care and treatment of persons suffering from tuberculosis; and

Whereas, the disease continues to spread, principally because of the ease of contagion and also because of the difficulty and length of treatment necessary to properly curb and combat it, and accordingly the question has arisen as to whether the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania is providing a sufficient number of such institutions for the proper hospitalization of tuberculosis patients; therefore be it

Resolved, That the Department of Health of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania report to the House of Representatives the following information:

(1) The number of tuberculosis patients who, during the last twelve months, have made application for admission to state tuberculosis institutions and who continue to await admission thereto.

(2) The number of beds in state institutions now occupied by tuberculosis patients.

(3) The number of vacant beds now available in such institutions.

COMMUNICATION FROM THE GOVERNOR

The Secretary to the Governor being introduced, presented a communication in writing from His Excellency the Governor, which was read as follows:

APPROVAL OF HOUSE BILL No. 143.

Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Governor's Office, Harrisburg, March 7, 1939.

To the Honorable, the House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania:

I have the honor to inform you that I have this day approved and signed House Bill No. 143. Printer's No. 9, entitled "An Act to amend clause (b) of section four article two of the act approved the twenty-fifth day of June one thousand nine hundred and nineteen (Pamphlet Laws 581) entitled 'An act for the better government of cities of the first class of this Commonwealth' as amended by providing a succession of officers of such cities to act as mayor in case of a vacancy or disability of the mayor to act."

ARTHUR H. JAMES.

STATEMENT BY MR. OMINSKY

Mr. OMINSKY asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker and Ladies and Gentlemen of the House, tomorrow—Thursday, March 9, the joint legislative hearing on the proposed new City Charter for Philadelphia will be held at the Board of Education Building on the Parkway in that city.

This bill is now pending in the Senate. In the nature of things it cannot come before this House for some days or weeks at the earliest.

I hope that as many members of the House as possible who live in or near Philadelphia will attend the hearing. But I realize that many others cannot do so and I take this opportunity to urge a suggestion I have in mind upon them.

The entire measure is embodied in three Senate bills—Nos. 1, 2 and 3, now in print and available to all members of the House. I earnestly urge every member of the House of Representatives to obtain these copies at once and acquaint themselves with at least the principal features they embody.

Mr. Speaker and members of the House, you may have read in newspapers yesterday that the Supreme Court has just issued orders permitting payment of salaries and wages due policemen, firemen and thousands of other City and county employes as of February 28 and March 15, although no budget for 1939 has yet been adopted by City Council.

This and similar incidents in the recent past are symptoms of a serious financial crisis in Philadelphia. For many years bad financial practices and bad governmental methods have accumulated under the present Charter until they have reached such a point that a deficit of millions of dollars has been created and the processes of government have been drastically restricted or hamstrung. Conditions have reached such a stage that the Council is engaged in negotiations to borrow $40,000,000 or $50,000,000 for a long term of years on the revenue of the City owned gas works. Such a loan to pay current expense items is without precedent and may prove to be in violation of the law and the Constitution. But it is being attempted as a desperate remedy for a desperate situation. In any event it does not provide a permanent cure.

The City Charter act which seeks to avert such crises in future years, is the result of careful and thoughtful study by a nonpartisan group of public spirited citizens and I can say without reservation that it is a real plan for permanent good government in Philadelphia without a single political implication.

Members living outside of Philadelphia may ask why their intensive interest and understanding of the measure is desirable. There are many general reasons why the progress and prosperity of Philadelphia are of immense importance to the State as a whole. I might, for one reason of present importance, cite the fact that although Philadelphia's population is about one-fifth of the entire State, recent relief figures show that approximately two-fifths of all State funds allotted for relief and other forms of public assistance have to be sent into Philadelphia.

Because of its financial situation the municipality is totally unable to do anything at this time to lessen that overload. But it is a demonstrable fact that if Philadelphia could provide between $8,000,000 and $10,000,000 for cooperation with Federal work relief programs during the next two years the State budget could be saved as high as $25,000,000 during the next biennium. I mention this to drive home the fact that all of us here, whether we live in Philadelphia or outside of it, have a definite interest in its welfare and in the establishment of a stable and effective system of government in the historic third largest City of the United States.

Please understand that I do not approach this subject from any political angle. I hope that the Charter will be dealt with on a nonpolitical basis. It is a good Charter. But the Legislature will not be called upon to say the final word upon it. Our task will be to pass it in the most satisfactory form that careful study and honest consideration will permit and then to submit it to the people of Philadelphia at a special election for them to make the final decision on its adoption or rejection.

But time is passing swiftly. Naturally the proposed Charter is complicated. It requires thoughtful study and I do not want to see so much time go by that it cannot be given careful consideration. And particularly I do not want to see a situation arise weeks hence when opposition to its passage may arise on the ground that members have not had sufficient time to acquaint themselves with these bills.

So I repeat my appeal to all members of the House to obtain copies of the Senate printing and study them and call upon any of us who are sincerely interested in adopting the Charter to explain features of it they may not understand or on first examination may not like.

If this is done the bills will come to our desks for action later on and we can take such action then as our judgment and consciences dictate.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. HOYT. Mr. Speaker and ladies and gentlemen of the House, inquiries from several of the members indicate that the intent and purpose of this bill is not apparent on its face, so I ask your indulgence while I explain it to you.

The Act in its original form calls for appropriations for various cities under certain conditions. In my district lies the only unincorporated town in the state, the beautiful cultured city of Bloomsburg, which has long been denied the benefits accruing under this Act, because of the strict interpretation of it, so I am asking that the words "or town" be inserted in this bill so that they can get the benefits. I ask your support in correcting this discrimination. Thank you.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

MR. WOODSIDE IN THE CHAIR

RESOLUTION

THANKS EXTENDED

Miss BRANCATO offered a resolution and asked and obtained unanimous consent for its immediate consideration.

The resolution was twice read, considered and unanimously adopted as follows:

In the House of Representatives,
Harrisburg, Pennsylvania, March 8, 1939.

Whereas, The wives of the Members of the House of Representatives, together with the lady Members of the House, were entertained most delightfully on March 7, 1939, at a tea in the Hotel Harrisburger, by Mrs. Ellwood Jackson Turner, wife of the Speaker of the House, Ellwood Jackson Turner; and

Whereas, A pleasant afternoon was spent by those in attendance in meeting the charming hostess and becoming acquainted with each other;

Therefore, Be It Resolved, That the Members of the House of Representatives extend to Mrs. Turner their thanks for the gracious gesture on the part of the wife of the Speaker to the wives of the Members of the House of Representatives;

And Be It Further Resolved, That a copy of this Resolution be transmitted by the Chief Clerk of the House to Mrs. Turner.

THE SPEAKER (Ellwood J. Turner) IN THE CHAIR.

The SPEAKER. The Chair desires on behalf of Mrs. Turner and myself, to thank the lady from Philadelphia and the members of the House.

I am certain if the ladies had as much pleasure out of the tea yesterday afternoon as Mrs. Turner and I had in extending the invitation, we have been more than repaid.

The SPEAKER. The Chair desires to say to the members of the House that we have had a great deal of difficulty with the distribution of the Criminal Code which was introduced this last week. It is the understanding of the Chair that it costs about a thousand dollars for one printing of the number of copies we received. The first printing was absorbed entirely in the files of the members of the House and distribution by the committee among Judges, District Attorneys and others in the state whose comments they want upon the bill. Members of the House have been inquiring for copies. We ask that the members do not ask for more copies than they need. At the present time we request that the members ask for only one copy. The copies will be in the Sergeant-at-Arms room and we will ask the members to personally go there for additional copies so as to avoid duplication. Do not attempt to send copies to the Judges in your counties, District Attorneys and others, because the sub-committee of the committee on Judiciary Special has undertaken to mail out copies to people whose comment they desire at this time.

In the interest of economy I feel certain that the members of the House, who have so far cooperated so splendidly will continue to cooperate with the Printing Committee and with the Chair in carrying out this request. If you desire any further copies it would be wise to talk to the chairman of the sub-committee, Mr. Brunner, so that he may determine whether they have mailed copies to the people for whom you might desire them.

RECESS

The SPEAKER. If there are no objections the Chair is about to declare a recess until 1:10 p. m. Are there objections? The Chair hears none and declares a recess until 1:10 p. m.

AFTER RECESS

The House reconvened at 1:10 p. m.

The SPEAKER (Ellwood J. Turner) in the Chair.

RESOLUTION

CONDOLENCE

Mr. KOWALSKI offered a resolution which was twice read by the Clerk as follows:

In the House of Representatives, March 8, 1939.

Saddening word of the death early this morning in the General Hospital at Wilkes-Barre of Mrs. Grace Morris, the mother-in-law of our Governor, has but recently reached this General Assembly.

As a new day dawned, she passed into the everlasting lull, the immortal, uncommunicable dream.

Mrs. Morris had for several years made her home with the Governor and his family at Plymouth, and recently at the Executive Mansion.

The bond between them was close and we realize the depth of sorrow that its severance means to our Governor at this time; therefore be it

Resolved (if the Senate concur), That we, the Members of this General Assembly, extend to His Excellency, the Governor, our most profound sympathy during this, his time of grief, but knowing full well that no words of ours can assuage his sense of loss we feel that in the following verse from the work of Aldrich he may find some measure of comfort:

"But when the sun in all his state
Illumed the eastern skies
She passed through glory's morning gate
And walked in Paradise."

On the question,

Will the House adopt the resolution?

It was unanimously adopted.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

COMMITTEE MEETINGS

Democratic Caucus, Monday, March 13, 1939, at 7.30 p. m., in the House Caucus Room.

A dinner meeting of the membership of the Committee on Third Class Cities at the University Club of Harrisburg, Tuesday, March 14, 1939, at 6 p. m. The membership of this Committee are invited guests and should notify Hon. Ray E. Taylor not later than March 13 whether or not they can attend.

REPORT FROM COMMITTEE

Mr. WOODSIDE from the Committee on Rules, reported as committed House Resolution No. 23.

RESOLUTION NO. 23

Mr. WOODSIDE asked and obtained unanimous consent for the immediate consideration of Resolution No. 23.

The resolution was read by the Clerk as follows:

In the House of Representatives, February 28, 1939.

Whereas numerous taxing authorities in Schuylkill County and elsewhere throughout the State are sorely distressed and hampered in their governmental and educational functions by reason of their inability to collect taxes due and payable by certain of their taxpayers and

Whereas many large coal companies and similar concerns are at present in the process of reorganization under proceedings instituted in our Federal courts in compliance with Section 77 (b) of the Federal Bankruptcy Act which companies are heavily indebted to municipal authorities and

Whereas said municipal taxing authorities would be greatly benefited by the prompt payment of taxes due from such companies now in process of reorganization as aforesaid our teachers could be paid and our schools kept open therefore be it

MONDAY, March 13, 1939.

The Senate met at 9:00 o'clock p. m.

The PRESIDENT (President Pro Tempore Frederick T. Gelder) in the Chair.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Rev. BURLEIGH A. PETERS, offered the following prayer:

O God of all peoples, who holdest the destiny both of individuals and nations in the hollow of Thine hand, we turn our hearts to Thee pleading that peace be the controlling principle and thought of all the people of our great nation. Amidst the present obnoxious hysteria of thought and word of the imminence of armed conflict let the great masses of our countrymen think peace, talk peace and act peace.

May we continue to provide an adequate national defense against any aggressor upon our shores, marking well that our present frontiers are the shores of the Atlantic and the Pacific, and not the Rhine.

Should this nation have a rendezvous with destiny, may it be a destiny of peace, O Almighty God, rather than that thousands of our finest sons of the Republic again be sacrificed upon the altar of belligerent action and that, as a nation, we feed again upon the empty husks of high-sounding slogans—"To make the world safe for democracy" or "A war to end wars."

To many thousands of veterans, O Father Thou knowest well, those words bring before their eyes the awful pageantry of '17 and '18 with its tragic suffering and death, which, please Thee O God, may it never happen again. We pray in the name of the Prince of Peace. Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVED

REPORT FROM COMMITTEE

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to make report from committee at this time.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Mr. DENT from the Dent Commission, reported as follows:

Mr. President and members of the Senate:

In presenting the majority report of the Commission studying the effects of taxation in Pennsylvania, it may be well to go over the ground roughly and cover a few of the facts, incidents and problems relating thereto.

First, let me say that the idea for the creation of such a Commission was not original on my part. I simply sponsored a resolution in February of 1937 when the turmoil about new and emergency taxes was at its height.

The work has been interesting, and as the report shows, illuminating. From the very beginning the political aspects of the work of this Commission have been uppermost in the minds of many persons. Fortunately, the membership of the Commission has treated this phase of the Commission's work lightly and has at all time tried to steer clear of the mire of political propaganda. To say that some political considerations were given the subject would only be stating a simple truth. All in all, the Commission can be pleased with the final report it presents to the people of Pennsylvania from a legislative viewpoint.

An interesting sidelight on the activities of the Commission and some of the difficulties in which it found itself can be had by reviewing some of the news-releases and campaign speeches of some of our candidates for State office last spring and fall.

One of the issues raised by a nondescript newspaper in my home County was the amount of money spent by the Commission and the bold accusations and plain insinuations that the members of the Commission were enriching themselves at the expense of the taxpayers. A scavenger weekly known as the Westmoreland Observer in my County has repeatedly carried stories to the public stating that the Commission has spent $50,000 to make this study. When the last $10,000 appropriation was passed this weekly scandal sheet carried headlines to the effect that the Chairman of this Commission had maced the taxpayers for another $10,000. While answering such trash is political folly, I wish to give an account to date of the monies expended by this Commission, under my direction. We have spent and accounted for $4,829.60, leaving a balance in the old appropriation of $179.40, making a total of $10,-179.40 unexpended out of a $15,000 total appropriation.

The commission has a few outstanding bills, aside from printing and legal fees, not totaling over $500. Totalling all reasonable expenses we can safely say that the entire amount expended will be well under $7,500.00. We hope this proves that legislative committees are the proper agencies for this type of governmental work. Personally, I hope this information simmers down to the average taxpayer, for contrary to the popular notion, the average citizen does believe what he sees in the newspaper.

Going into the campaign speech phase of this undertaking one need have but a very short memory to recollect the utterances of our present Governor, Arthur H. James, late of the Superior Court.

Any person interested knows full well how Mr. James discredited the Earle Administration with his outright charges that taxes imposed by the Democrats were ruining industry and driving employment out of the State.

He was aided and abetted in this political charge by one, Mr. Fuller, head of the Curtis Publishing Company. Also, in passing allow me to commend the Chamber of Commerce and the Small Businessman's group for their skillful and strategic maneuvering in spreading this bit of political propaganda. To bluntly say that Mr. James and these politically minded groups were wrong would not be entirely true, yet knowing the difficulties surrounding the State's finances and its peoples, it would be unfair to all concerned if I failed at this time to call attention to a few observations that have occurred to me relative to this angle of the question involved.

In fairness to the last Administration it must be said that knowing all the facts at the time, we imposed taxes where ability to pay was used as a criterion and relief needs as a measuring rod. To prove we were near right in our actions, one needs but recall Governor James' recent utterances about new taxes while agreeing to the old taxes. That Candidate James was motivated by political expediency there is no doubt, yet this should not relieve Governor James of any criticism that may be forthcoming and due him if he fails to shift the tax load and relieve industry.

As for the Chamber of Commerce and Mr. Fuller's small businessman's league, let me say that their actions and words since the election of Governor James proves to me that they were more interested in the tax collector than the tax burden. Having succeeded in getting the New Deal defeated in Pennsylvania by using the tax-cry, they have aimed their big guns on Washington, D. C. They are now praising the James economy administration and shouting for a balanced Federal Budget. I am not unmindful of the assistance given this Commission by certain individuals in the Chamber of Commerce and other groups but I deplore their actions of late which cause me to believe that they too, were and are propelled by purely political motives. To those who were sincere in their efforts to help solve a problem of great importance, I offer the thanks of the Commission, and to those who were motivated by political desires, I give my personal condemnation because of their abuse of strategic positions, designed to do economic good, yet used to do political wrong.

In closing this particular argument, I wish to say to Governor James, the Chamber of Commerce and Mr. Fuller's small businessman's group that just as you have found the Earle Administration's tax program undesirable but unavoidable, so you will find the Roosevelt unbalanced budget undesirable but unavoidable. This I sincerely believe to be true, maybe I'm wrong.

During our many hearings and conversations I personally formed some opinions on the questions confronting our State and Nation at this time. I want to elaborate on these personal observations purely from the position of a person interested in the future of this Nation from an economic viewpoint and aside from a political angle.

The major problem of course is relief and unemployment. Perhaps administrative economy may materially relieve the burden, yet in my opinion it certainly will not erase the causes for the immense expenditures necessary for actual relief needs. It may be reasonable to say that what I propose to suggest will not be based on scientific study or political expediency. It is entirely up to the individual Senator to judge whether the thoughts I express are sound or unsound. I can only offer them and say to one and all I believe they open up avenues that can be followed in rebuilding our economic and social welfare.

For any member of this Senate to sit idly by and believe that from ten to fifteen millions of our national citizens are going to be content forever with subsistence relief and governmental charity is an admission of his lack of knowledge concerning the temperament of these millions.

The average person wants to work. Millions of able bodied persons have been denied employment because of our economic system. Let us quit fooling each other. Unemployment under the present arrangement is permanent and to keep talking about emergencies is blindness or dishonesty or both.

I won't go so far as to say that revolution is in the offing, but just for the sake of an argument place yourself in the position of thousands of your fellow citizens.

You will find yourself out of work since early 1930. You had a few dollars saved and a little home. You are married and have a family of four children two under ten years of age and two over. You hear the President of the United States, Mr. Hoover, telling the nation to keep its chin up, prosperity just took a holiday, its nesting only around the corner. You wait, you hope and you spend your last dollar. You soon find yourself in line with the rest of the unfortunates getting a basket of groceries, sometimes it was fit to eat, other times nauseating.

A few years roll by, your children are growing out of their clothes, you're getting ragged and your wife peeked looking. Soon your children are dressed in hand-out clothes and in the neighborhood you can easily pick the kids that belong to the same fraternity. What's worse, the other kids can pick them out too.

An election comes along, out of desperation you vote for a new regime with a promise of a new deal.

After a while you hear of public works and other high sounding proposals. Soon you find yourself (if you are lucky) actually working. Although you were a shipping clerk you find yourself digging ditches for the Government. In the enthusiasm of getting self-respecting work you forget your former standards, tickled to get any kind of wage earning job. Your hopes rise and you again try to meet the payments on the small loan you've made against your home. It seems as though the sun again wishes to shine in your back yard. Right when you're beginning to believe in life again somebody with a ham under his arm starts to yell about the tax burden, unbalanced budget and away goes your job.

Back on the relief you find there has been a change. No more baskets, plain cash and you buy what you want. It does for a while and then you start to get in arrears on your payments on the loan. You give up in despair and some bank takes away the home you had planned for your children. You become despondent and just when your mind is about to crack you get back on the WPA. You pull yourself together and start off fresh. About this time in our history there's another National election. You vote for the party in power, they've helped you more than the other Administration so in fairness you shout for their reelection.

Not long after the election you're out again and back on relief. This seems to be the only change you get, on relief off relief, on WPA, off WPA, until you yourself can't tell whether you're on or off of one or the other. In the meantime, your philosophy changes. The devil take the present office holders. You and thousands like you are tired being kicked around. A new gang of politicians can't be any worse so you kick the old gang out and the new gang in. Then you awaken with a start, you hear talk of cutting relief, curtailing Governmental spending, changing the system, saving money, economy and the rest of the talk indulged in by well-fed, round table political schemers. Suddenly you look around you and take stock. Your children have grown into young men and women. Your daughter's keeping company with an unemployed youngster next door who can't get on relief or get a job unless he's married. Your boy has left school and sits around the house in the daytime and runs around, heaven knows where, the biggest part of the night. Your younger children are falling into the same ruts. You realize you've been too busy chasing WPA jobs and relief checks to notice the ageing wife, the growing children. You have nothing prepared or planned for their future. Why they were just kids when this thing started, you and your wife were in your early thirties. Can it be that ten years make such a difference? Can it be possible that you are faced with this same routine of miserable existence for the next ten years, even longer? Can it be that all this great nation can give you and your children is relief and relief work? You had your name and history taken so often you're beginning to feel like a convict, like an unwanted neighbor, gentlemen, each and every one of you, now that you've been called a red at times and you begin to wonder. I ask you, gentlemen, each and everyone of you, now that you've been through ten years of your life as an unemployed ex-home owner, what is your frame of mind?

I've talked to the people on relief since this thing all started back in '30, '31 and '32. I know the change that has come in the mental attitude of the person batted around from place to place from cover to cover. They think certain things ought to be done. They believe that no civilization can call itself advanced when it denies the first fundamental right to millions of persons, to earn a livelihood for themselves and their families. No Government is secure as long as this condition exists.

One of the things these unfortunate men and women believe, to be out of line is the question of married women working when their husbands have gainful occupations or vice versa. There should be an elimination of dual jobs of the heads of a family, from productive lines of work as well as service industries in order to give two families an income instead of one family having two or more. Statistics advanced by business and labor statisticians show that this nation has more gainful jobs per thousand population than ever before yet a greater unemployment problem.

There may be political repercussions to the party and the individual who promotes this particular reform yet in the interest of our future, I sincerely believe we must treat the matters of income, unemployment, employment, purchasing power and related activities strictly on a family basis and not on the individual bases. We have situations in our various communities where every member of a family is employed while other families are on the relief rolls. If we have the courage to adjust this phase of the unemployment problem, we will remove many families from the relief rolls and make them self-sustaining.

Another argument advanced has to do with the matter of old age pensions. We all know of the various pension pressure groups active in our Federal and State governments. Pensions are logical. One need but review the increased use of productive machinery and he can easily see the reason for a shrinkage in employment as it relates to volume of goods produced. Allowing for the increased consumption because of our high standards, it is still reasonable to assume that a shorter period of productive activity is required to produce all the consumable goods needed. Foreign consumption of our goods doesn't materially change the picture. We cannot hope to get many foreign markets because of our higher wage standards as compared to competitive countries. It is also reasonable to believe that in the main, countries accepting our exports are expecting reciprocal markets for their products. When we ship tons of apples to Czechoslovakia and accept tons of shoes in return, we don't help the employment of our country although we may help the apple producer. This is true in the general summarization of import and export trade. We are basically a self-supporting nation and our salvation must come from our own production and consumption. It is the prevalent thought that a retirement pension bolstered by child labor restrictions will reduce the number of years a producing workman will be called upon to produce and will spread the employment among a greater number of people in the productive age group.

One thing is definite, the retirement pension plan should include all citizens regardless of position. There should not be a privileged pension group and a poverty pension group. Special pensions set up for various groups of employees and officials should be eliminated and a contributory system set up that will include all. Contributions should come from employee, employer and government. Payments should be based upon amounts paid into the fund. The family should be used as a unit for setting up minimum monthly payments.

A retirement pension plan can be placed on a sound business basis. If some such plan isn't worked out we may find ourselves carrying an enormous load for pension payments because of the sheer weight politically of the pension groups. It is the aim of civilization to give a more abundant life to all yet our present status gives the luxuries to a certain section of our population while denying to millions the bare necessities of life itself. We are aware of the biblical warning that the poor will always be with us. We can't help but observe though, that during our most prosperous years, we had millions of persons who from natural inclinations refused to accept productive work.

Today, we put these people in the same class as millions of others willing to work but unable to do so. If this Democracy is to live, we must find work for those able to work. We must cut out the cancerous growth called subsistence relief. If we have work available for all, persons refusing to work can be left as they were in the past, shifting for themselves. It sounds cruel, bluntly put, but it is better to do this than to reduce to the level of those who won't work, those who will. The benefits of modern machinery and volume of goods produced should be directly reflected in lessened years of work, shorter work weeks and greater buying power for the labor that produces goods. To do this we must set aside political expediency, resist pressure from selfish groups, face public condemnation if necessary and in the words of the poet,

"hew to the line and let the chips fall where they may."

Another interesting angle called to my attention is the question of socialized hospitalization and medical care. So long as we have such a large group of persons dependent upon subsistence relief, and another large group on part time employment some form of state aid must be given to the persons requiring medical aid. I know how controversial the subject of socialized medicine has become recently but honestly in my mind I see no difference in the doctor employed by a coal company and a doctor employed by the coal miners. I may add here that figures given me by a learned man in Pennsylvania show that Pennsylvania appropriates twice as much money for State aid as all the other forty-seven States combined. This is astounding and although needed is an item of expense that gets little study from those who are demanding reductions in Governmental costs. I would suggest to the medical profession the setting up of their own plan of contract medicine, to be supervised by their own profession or the Legislature will be forced to accept the dictates of the people and set up a system not entirely to their liking. Along with this line of reasoning I want to call attention to the enormous amounts of monies appropriated by the Legislature to the many privately controlled public charities groups in Pennsylvania. With the State and Federal Government giving aid through Department of Public Assistance to every type of needy person, from blind pensions, aid to crippled children, mother's pensions and direct and work relief, as well as State aided medical care there is a question as to the necessity of giving money to other agencies. It might be well to delve a little into this phase of Governmental expenditure.

Another great tax consumer is the school system. Many innovations and trimmings have been added to the school system in recent years. It is becoming more and more a self serving system with legislative requests becoming demands and the political pressure exerted by those interested in the school system is equaled by no other group. When speaking of Governmental costs and exorbitant taxes it is well to keep this expensive outlay in mind. I believe expenses can be curtailed without impairing the system or reducing the high standards of educational training.

Tonight I intend to introduce legislation setting up a tax Commission as recommended by the Commission. I am happy to give some credit here for this suggestion to the Bar Association and Senator Edmonds who appeared before our committee in Philadelphia and gave excellent reasons for some such administrative change.

Further I am introducing a bill relating to Compensation Costs amending Section 654, Act of 1921, P. L. 682. This is only a beginning in the reform of the Compensation Act. Something must be done if we are not to go back to common law in our settlement of compensation cases in Pennsylvania. Many employees today are working without legislative protection in case of injury. Therefore I recommend this change for the following reasons:

DISCUSSION

Section 654, Act of 1921, P. L. 682.

The legislature has here delegated to the Insurance Commissioner the power to set the seal of his approval upon a creature called the Rating Bureau if in his opinion such Bureau is adequately equipped to compile rates on an equitable and impartial basis.

The legislature acting upon the assumption that such Rating Bureau would be erected (and you may be sure that such is the case) then proceeded to clothe the Rating Bureau with most extraordinary powers.

First—The Rating Bureau is authorized and empowered to establish for the employers of labor within Pennsylvania the classification of risks, underwriting rules, premium rates and schedule of merit rating plans for insurance of employers and employees under "The Workmen's Compensation Act."

Second—Such schedule of merit rating plans shall be applied only by the approved Rating Bureau.

Third—The Insurance Commissioner is granted the restricted authority to consent to the rules, rates, premiums and schedules before the same become effective and having consented he may withdraw his approval whenever, in his judgment, the same is inadequate or discriminates unfairly between risks of essentially the same hazard. In other words the Insurance Commissioner has been restricted to the right of veto over the action of the Rating Bureau but he has no authority to initiate, modify or amend anything whatsoever which the Bureau may see fit to enact.

Fourth—The Rating Bureau has been granted the legislative authority to promulgate with the force and effect of law the rules, rates and schedules applied to Workmen's Compensation Insurance and all employers of labor and their insurance carriers are bound and obligated by such promulgations.

THE MISCHIEF

By reason of the delegation of legislative power and authority to a Bureau which enacts rules, charges and rates, with minimum accountability and restraint, the employers of labor in Pennsylvania have been thrown upon the mercy of a self-serving group of insurance underwriters.

Today the members of the Rating Bureau who enact the law governing the payments for Workmen's Compensation Insurance for the Coal Industry consist of the following:

Berwind Exchange
Coal Operators Casualty Company
Eureka Casualty Company
Pennsylvania Threshermen and Farmers Mutual Casualty Insurance Company
State Workmen's Insurance Fund
Pennsylvania Manufacturers Association Casualty
Insurance Company

These underwriters not only promulgate the rates and amounts which employers must pay for compensation insurance but they also are the firms who write the policies, do the collecting, and determine the profits in such sums as conscience may dictate.

An employer receives no notice of a Rating Bureau promulgation until it becomes the law.

The hands of the Insurance Commisisoner are tied because he has no power to modify or amend.

No provision is made for the hearing of complaints of the employers upon whom the obligation to pay has been imposed.

There has been no findings of facts upon which to base a complaint.

No right of appeal is granted to an aggrieved party in interest.

For the year 1938 the Rating Bureau has promulgated in pamphlet form twenty pages of rules, rates and schedules, some of which are highly self-serving, such as the one on page 17 which consists of a complicated formula for calculating experience charges or credits.

Under the workings of this rule an employer who removes hazards receives only partial credit the first year and must continue to pay premiums during subsequent years at rates based upon hazards that have ceased to exist.

It is true that an employer may escape from the system by rejecting the Compensation Act or by becoming a self-insurer, both of which remedies have been adopted by some large industrialists but are not feasible for their numerous smaller and weaker competitors.

I believe that the Rating Bureau as now existing is adequately equipped to compile rates but I doubt their impartiality and I maintain that no such self-serving Bureau should be given unchecked power and authority to promulgate the rules, rates and charges for the industries of Pennsylvania.

Under such a system it is no wonder that employers have been bitterly complaining time and again in the legislative halls and elsewhere about the burdensome costs of Workmen's Compensation Insurance.

I offer in this bill a remedy based on the amendments to Section 654 of the Workmen's Compensation Insurance Act, contemplate the enactment of safeguards and restraints upon the powers of the Rating Bureau which will require them to propose and prove the propriety of their rates, rules and schedules.

The amendments further provide that the party to be charged is properly a party in interest who is entitled to certain fundamental rights. These rights are:

Reasonable notice about the proposed promulgations.

The privilege to complain and be heard.

The finding of facts.

An order based on the facts.

The right of appeal.

In closing I again thank all the persons who helped in this investigation and repeat for the benefit of politically minded persons. This report has never been pigeonholed or delayed. It has been given to the General Assembly pursuant to the Resolution that created the Commission, just as soon as it was ready.

I thank the members of the commission for their assistance and co-operation and I thank all of you for your patience tonight.

The PRESIDENT. The majority report of the Dent Commission will be noted in the Journal, and the reports of the Senator will be spread upon the Journal.

Mr. STIEFEL. Mr. President, my first sight or knowledge of this report was when a copy of it was handed to me two weeks ago by Senator Dent.

I have not signed it and I decline to join in it for various reasons, notably that it is not founded on basic facts and that it is not scientific.

In due time I will file a minority report in which I will also state other objections I have in addition to this one.

The primary purpose of the investigation was to determine whether the alleged industrial migration trends belong to the realm of political mythology or economic realities.

In my opinion the report failed to accomplish the desired results.

The question of tax burdens and industrial migratory trends is not a new one in the United States. Studies of this kind have been undertaken during the last decade in many states, and thorough and exhaustive studies were made by many scientific agencies and investigating bodies. Thus we find that back in 1929, as a result of a statement in the New York Times that industry was fleeing Wisconsin, a study was undertaken by two eminent professors of the University of Wisconsin, and as a result of their study, entitled "Tax burdens and Industry in Wisconsin," conclusions were reached that the black picture painted by the New York Times was exaggerated, and that Wisconsin was still holding its own.

Similar allegations about the flight of industry were made in Ohio, Illinois, Indiana, Minnesota, and the City of New York. As a result of the allegations made about the flight of industry from the City of New York, Controller Taylor appointed Mr. Murphy, a prominent member of the New York Bar, to prepare a study conducive to the ascertainment of the fact as to whether or not industry was fleeing from the City of New York. The result of the study was an emphatic, "No, industry is not leaving New York."

Finally this perplexing question reached our own Commonwealth. The problem is of colossal dimensions, and requires an extensive gathering of data by experienced field workers. This the Dent Commission could not do because of its limited appropriation. Most of the facts upon which recommendations embodied in the report are based are taken from secondary sources. Thus, the report borrowed considerable data from Mr. Turner, who was employed by the Pennsylvania State Chamber of Commerce to prepare a study in comparison of taxes, and to show Pennsylvania rates very unfavorably.

I believe that the methodology of the report submitted tonight is wrong, because it contains no study of the present fiscal structure and methods of taxation in Pennsylvania. When the erudite Senator from Montgomery, Mr. Edmonds, headed a tax study commission back in 1925 and 1927 he dwelt considerably upon the patchwork of our taxation system. Only part of his recommendations were adopted, and maybe if his report had been adopted by the Legislature in toto we would not be reaping today a harvest of sorrow.

One feature of the report submitted by Senator Edmonds impressed me, and it is of importance tonight in our deliberations. I refer to the capital stock tax. In 1940, this tax will be a century old, and since the date it originated, in 1840, has been the supporting pillar of the Pennsylvania Revenue raising system. It helped us to muddle through during the lean years of the depression. It should by no means be changed. In my mind it has nothing to do with flights of industry, if such flights exist, because the capital stock tax was in force in times of prosperity.

In my opinion, Pennsylvania is no longer a paradise for industries not because of high rate of the capital stock tax but because of the abolition of the manufacturers' exemption a foreign corporation was in a position to completely escape taxation in Pennsylvania. Its intangibles could not be taxed because taxation in this respect was governed by the domicile of the corporation. The tangibles, which located in Pennsylvania, were used in the process of manufacturing, and were subject to the manufacturers' exemption. Thus many imposing and powerful corporations escaped taxation in Pennsylvania and therefore were lured by Pennsylvania and flocked to our State. It was known to everybody that a certain manufacturing corporation which brought to Pennsylvania the "gift of Montezuma" paid only $115 per year in taxes to Pennsylvania. Now that the manufacturers' exemption is abolished foreign corporations are not lured into the "lost paradise."

I desire to state here that Senator Dent and other members of the commission have done a fine job. Their fervor and devotion were exemplary, and, with the limited appropriation, they have done wonders; but the undertaking is of a colossal nature, and a report of this kind is only scratching the surface. Therefore I must be true and faithful to the membership of this august body and to the citizenry of Pennsylvania, and state that the problem has not been solved and the people still remain in a quandary.

In my opinion, we must first establish the fact as to whether or not taxation is a deciding factor in the localization of industries; but when the due time arrives I will submit to this body my minority report based upon statistics and primary sources. For personal reasons I cannot submit it tonight, but it will be forthcoming shortly.

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, I would like to offer my hearty congratulations to the two Democratic Senators. I think it is no secret that the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Stiefel, is offering his experience in this committee as his thesis for a degree of P. H. D. from the University of Pennsylvania, and I think he is extremely well informed, and I hope he gets his degree.

I would like now to ask the Senator from Westmoreland, Mr. Dent, two questions.

The PRESIDENT Will the Senator from Westmoreland, Mr. Dent, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. DENT. I will.

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, I would like to ask the Senator from Westmoreland, Mr. Dent, whether in his opinion the Workmen's State Insurance Fund is good or bad?

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, any insurance fund that starts with borrowed money, and after a period of about ten years of operation, has a surplus of about $10,000,000 in buildings and assets, must be all right.

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, then it is not the opinion of the Senator from Westmoreland, Mr. Dent, that the State fund gets all the cats and dogs.

Mr. DENT. Well, Mr. President, that may explain why private insurance companies are making a lot more profit than the insurance fund is making.

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, does the Senator from Westmoreland believe that that is justified as an insurance fund?

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, in order to answer the Senator candidly I would say all compensation should come under the State Workmen's Insurance Fund.

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, my second question is: did I understand the Senator from Westmoreland to say that he is in favor of denying State aid to private institutions?

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I did not quite understand the interrogation of the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Woodward.

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, I understand the Senator from Westmoreland, Mr. Dent, today that if we were to economize he would be willing to advocate the denial of State aid to universities and other private institutions.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I said that should be delved into and studied by this legislature.

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, is the Senator from Westmoreland prepared to go to the length of denying aid to private institutions?

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, from personal experiences, there would be some private institutions to which I would be willing to deny aid.

Mr. WOODWARD. Is the Senator from Westmoreland, Mr. Dent, willing to introduce such a bill?

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I will if the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Woodward, will collaborate.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. GILSON. Mr. President, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

THE PRESIDENT. The Senator from Erie, Mr. Gilson, will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. GILSON. Mr. President, since the turn of the century there has been a growing tendency toward centralization of government.

Progress in the physical arts has transformed the entire complexion of local government. The multiplicity of municipal functions resulting from the progress of the years has caused the cities to turn to the State for relief from the cost of these enlarged functions. This relief has been accorded in the matter of cost but at the sacrifice of the free exercise of the power of local self government. The cost that has been transferred to the Commonwealth however is by no means either the entire burden or clear gain. It is a grave question whether the State can perform many of these added functions as economically or as efficiently as the local community.

Meanwhile the scope of municipal activity continues to expand. The cities' option of the methods of meeting these increasingly intricate problems has remained substantially static in so far as legislation is concerned.

In 1922 the electorate of the Commonwealth amended Art. XV of the constitution to permit cities or cities of any particular class to frame and adopt their own charters. This amendment however, is not self-enforcing or available without an enabling act of the legislature. There has been no enactment making this amendment available to cities generally or cities of the third class in particular.

While I was City Solicitor of the city of Erie it was my privilege to collaborate with Judge Schoonamaker, now of the U. S. District and for the Western District of Pennsylvania, but when City Solicitor of Bradford, and James Gardner then City Solicitor of New Castle in the attempt to frame an adequate enabling act. I believe these two names rank first in the legal annals of cities of the third class in Pennsylvania. Such an act was eventually framed. Mr. Schoonamaker, however, became a Federal Judge and withdrew from third class city activities. Mr. Gardner died and the force of his splendid mind and character of course was lost. I retired likewise from city activities.

I discovered last session of the legislature that substantially this same bill had appeared in the House, introduced by Mr. Rush. I talked with this representative and learned that his bill had a long and honorable history in its production before introduction in the House and that somewhere back near the time of its inception the author of that bill had absorbed the philosophy and much of the language of the venerable solicitors I have mentioned before. The bill not withstanding was lost in the House.

This bill is not merely a city-manager bill. It provides the machinery to permit cities other than first or second class cities to frame their own charter whether that charter provides for a city manager, a modified, commission form of government, or any other form which its citizens require. Reasonable and adequate safeguards are provided and the necessary mechanics of procedure.

I am more convinced than ever that in order to meet the individual problems, and to reduce the costs of government each city must be permitted to choose such form of government as its inhabitants will most vigorously and loyally support and as will be most effective and economical in performing municipal functions. I have therefore resurrected this bill from its grave-yard and will introduce it here tonight.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

THE PRESIDENT. The Senator from Westmoreland will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I want to read here a short chapter in this report for the edification of my good friend from Philadelphia, a colleague, on the commission. "This resolution (speaking of a resolution for creating a tax studying commission), contemplated a detailed factual study of individual cases of industrial migration from and to this State, which could only have been accomplished by the employment of a large staff of persons to make individual community surveys. When its appropriation was reduced to the small amount of $5,000 such surveys became at once impossible. The detailed factual study had to be abandoned."

I want to say that this commission, of which the President Pro Tempore is a member, tried its best to cover as much ground as possible; and we willingly accepted facts and figures submitted to us by groups in Pennsylvania who interested themselves, at the suggestion of this commission, to gather facts and figures; because we had not the finances to do so; and at no time during our year and half of operation have I heard my colleague, the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Stiefel, express himself as he has tonight. He told me, and I think he will substantiate what I have to say, that the reason he would not sign the report was because he was a professor, or a teacher, or something, at the University of Pennsylvania; and that the report, although he agreed with the conclusion—that is what he told me; I have no other way to judge a man except by what he says to me—and he said he agreed with the conclusion, but it was not scientifically based upon facts, and that he could not go back to the university and teach if he signed the report. And of course I did not want to see him not go back to the university. I said, "As far as I am concerned, you do not have to sign the report," but to stand up in this Senate and deride the members of this commission in the manner in which they went about doing the job, with the money they had to do it with, to my mind is foul play; it is not decent, it is not fair to the members of this commission. For the last five weeks I have tried to get my colleague to attend a meeting in which he could have placed before us his arguments. At no time did he attend any of those meetings.

I want to say I think the members of this commission worked diligently and hard and tried to get before the people of Pennsylvania a report that can be substantiated by facts and figures. I want to say, in fairness to Mr. Turner, if my colleague from Philadelphia can find anywhere in Mr. Turner's report any figures that are not based upon facts, then he owes it to this legislature to so report. I believe, with our able counsel, Mr. Fertig, who gave many hours of work to this study, that we have given to the people of Pennsylvania a true and comprehensive study of the facts concerning migration of industry from Pennsylvania.

Mr. STIEFEL. Mr. President, may I reiterate that I am paying due homage to Senator Dent for the work he has done, and I have said that before. The moment Senator Dent presented to me a report I said, "Senator Dent, I am not going to sign this report, because in my opinion the method was not scientific." and besides that I am not a teacher, I am not a student, and I am not a professor in the University of Pennsylvania. Far from being that, I am a plain Senator. I said, "If I sign this report I will be embarrassed to face any scientist," and I said that Senator Dent did a yeoman job; he built an edifice with brick made of no straw—no straw was given to him—and again I want to say we traveled throughout the State, far and wide, visiting many places, spent sleepless nights burning the midnight oil preparing this report. Unfortunately, each one has his own viewpoint, and I believe I am fully entitled to voice mine. This is a matter of great importance, and for that reason I deem it my duty to bring it to your attention. I am not a person possessing a stentorian voice and seldom do I get up and deliver a philippic, but now it is so important I have to do so.

Senator Dent did a great piece of work, but the surface has only been scratched, and that is the purpose of my remarks.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. EDMONDS. Mr. President, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

Mr. PRESIDENT. The Senator from Montgomery County, Mr. Edmonds, will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. EDMONDS. Mr. President, I have listened with a great deal of interest to the discussion between Senator Dent and Senator Stiefel, and I have had opportunity to look over this report only in a cursory way, because it was distributed to me about half an hour ago. I think the report itself is most interesting. It contains most valuable material, and I hope very much that every member of the Senate will read it; but while agreeing that this report is a valuable contribution to the subject, I also have to agree with Senator Stiefel—I happen to be in the unfortunate position of agreeing with both of them, or maybe the fortunate position—that a scientific study of this kind requires the assembling of original data, and you cannot do that without adequate appropriation and an adequate staff.

I remember in 1933, when we were requested to make a study of personal income tax returns, from a particular district; it cost us in the neighborhood of ten thousand dollars to have that study made because that was along a line that was wholly different from anything that had been attempted in Washington before.

This discussion suggests the value of the first recommendation of this commission, and that first recommendation, I understand, comes not only from the five members of the committee—but I am sure the sixth member will concur in it as well, and that is what we need in Pennsylvania is a permanent tax commission that will always be studying these questions, which will make its results available to the Governor and to members of the General Assembly. That was one of our recommendations in 1927, which has not become law. As a result, instead of having a tax commission organized on a non-partisan basis we have a Department of Revenue which was put in operation on June 1, 1929.

That is not yet a period of ten years, but in that period of less than ten years there have been eight heads of the Department of Revenue. Under Governor Fisher there was Charles Johnson, for two years; under Governor Pinchot there was Clyde King and Leon D. Metzger; under Governor Earle there was H. Edgar Barnes, Harry Kalodner, John B. Kelley, and J. Griffith Boardman; and now the eighth man has taken office. Each time there is a change in an executive position of that kind there is a change in policy, or there may be a change in policy, and that change in policy is dreaded by business.

I want, Mr. President, therefore, to be in a position to answer the first inquiry of the Senator from Westmoreland, and I will introduce tonight—if we reach the time when new bills can be introduced—an act amending an act approved the ninth day of April, the Administrative Code of 1929, by abolishing the office of Secretary of Revenue and the Department of Revenue and substituting therefor, as an independent administrative commission, a State Revenue Commission.

I do not believe that this bill, which has been drafted for the Pennsylvania Bar Association by Mr. Fertig, counsel for the committee—I do not believe that this bill is necessarily workable, but I ask the assistance of my colleagues in seeing to it that we make it as strong a bill as we possibly can.

This commission was appointed to study the shifting of industry in the State and to determine whether or not it was affected by taxation. You do not find established industries going out of the State, even when they are subjected to an unjust tax; for one thing, they cannot move, their plant is in the State, and unless they have large available capital they must stay by their plant. Second, other industries, like utilities, must serve their immediate public, and they cannot move. I believe a study should be made as to whether new industries come in.

That is where I am inclined to think there is room for a great study in Pennsylvania, and that is considered in the report of the committee. A very interesting fact arose out of a statement by the treasurer of the Viscoe Corporation, that their original plant was in Marcus Hook, Pennsylvania, and they had a second plant in Lewistown, Pa., but when two years ago they decided upon a third plant, they went to Front Royal, Virginia, and erected a plant there. Those are the kinds of questions in which in a scientific study some data should be secured, and if we find Pennsylvanians whose loyalties should be to this State are going outside this State with their business enterprises, certainly then it would behoove us, as legislators, to inquire into the reason as to why such a removal is made.

For my own part, I think that this discussion has been most interesting, and it is my strong hope that we may all unite in organizing, or reorganizing, the Department of Revenue of the State on an independent and non-partisan basis.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. RICE. Mr. President, since questions of personal privilege seem to be the order of the day I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Adams, Mr. Rice, will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. RICE. Mr. President, I do not think I can be accused of abusing this special privilege, but I do very briefly tonight want to voice my protest against what I consider the unwarranted wholesale removal of the Public Assistance Board in Adams County.

I have heard from no one, either Republican or Democrat, any criticism that the Public Assistance Board in Adams County had played politics or that it did not conduct its affairs in a businesslike manner. During this past week every member of that board received a request from Governor James that he or she hand in their resignation. I made it my business to inquire from members of the board why these resignations were requested. None of them seemed to have an adequate reason, except that perhaps the reason was politics. I do happen to know that one of the Republican members of that board wrote a letter to Governor James, after he had noticed in the press that there was a possibility that the Governor was going to request resignations of these County Public Assistance Boards.

This letter was sent before the resignation of the Adams County Board was requested, and in this letter this Republican member of the Board stated that he had voted for Governor James at the primary and also at the general election. He stated that the board as appointed by Governor Earle consisted of four Democrats and three Republicans; that a Democrat served as Chairman of the Board; and that at no time was the chairman called upon to break a tie vote in that board, which in itself would demonstrate that that board did not act on a political basis.

He furthermore stated that the personnel of the employees of the Adams County Board was divided exactly fifty-fifty, Republican and Democrat. Therefore, I am sure that no one can accuse that board of playing politics. It is made up of a group of most reputable citizens, and I can see no reason why a board that has been operating and handling this relief question on a non-political and efficient basis should be removed.

As far as I know no recommendations or appointments have been made to replace this board; but I want my colleagues to know that unless someone convinces me that this Board in Adams County was removed for other reasons than political reasons, I will not vote for confirmation of a new Board regardless of who is appointed.

QUESTION OF INFORMATION

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, may I ask the Senator from Adams one question?

The PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from Adams, Mr. Rice, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. RICE. Mr. President, I will.

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, it is simply a request for information. People from certain counties have complained to me that these county boards—this has nothing to do with the main question of the Senator from Adams—certain county boards failed in performing their duties because they were not paid. I would like to know whether the Senator from Adams is in favor of voluntary boards or paid boards?

Mr. RICE. Mr. President, I do not know how that works out in other counties, but I do know this board in Adams County was not paid. As I stated before, it was composed of very reputable citizens, and the members of that board gave very willingly of their time and they did it in a very efficient manner, just as efficiently as any paid board could have done.

ERRATA

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, on Wednesday, March 8, 1939, the Legislative Journal records remarks which I made in a manner which is not in accordance with the remarks I made, and inasmuch as it is a material error, I should like to have the Journal corrected.

On page 549 in the next to the last paragraph of one of my remarks, line two, the word "miners" should read "mine owners." In discussing at that time the imposition of payment of unemployment compensation tax I stated the tax was paid by the mine owners; the record carries it as if it were paid by the miners. I ask that that correction be noted.

The PRESIDENT. The correction shall be noted.

Mr. SIPE. Mr. President, I should like also to correct the Journal at this time. I wish to correct the Journal of February 28th, the sixth paragraph, second column, on page 424. I made on that day, Mr. President, some remarks concerning George Washington that I do not recognize when I see them in print.

The whole paragraph is mixed up, but the worst thing in it is the statement, as attributed to me, that I said, among other things, that Washington "rose from the dead." I have said, Mr. President, a good many complimentary things about George Washington, but I never went that far. There is a limit, Mr. President, beyond which I never go when paying compliments to any person, living or dead. The main reason—if it were not for this statement I would forget about this mix-up—but back in my district I have a fairly good reputation for sobriety and I am afraid if some of my constituents read the Journal back there and found that I made such an absurd statement on the floor of this Senate they might think that I was either drunk or had gone crazy. So, if the stenographer will take it, I will tell him, slowly, what I did say. I said this:

"The greatness of some men only makes us believe that however well they did their work others could have done just as well, but Washington had that peculiar greatness which convinces the world that he alone could have done his work. Washington was not a mere mountaintop catching a little earlier the beams that of their own force would soon have found the valley, but, rather, he was like the sun itself, without which the light on the mountaintop and in the valley would have been but a moonlight or a starlight.

Carrying the figure a little further, in deference to the classics, in the formative days of the young republic of the west, in the American Revolution, in its solar system Washington was not a secondary orb reflecting the light of another orb, not the moon of a planet, but, in the providence of Almighty God he was the center of undulations and radiations that filled the whole system with glory, and though he rose majestically to a sublime ideal, yet he did not cease to be a man among men.

It is true that, with few exceptions, the great of the world of his day revered him and at the same time little children played with him. He has monuments of marble and bronze, medals or silver and gold, but his best monument is the best love of the best American hearts; and the truest impression of his image is in the great heart of the greatest nation that ever stepped forth upon the stage of time. So today, in his plain brick tomb on his own farm on the banks of his long loved Potomac "After life's fitful fever," as Shakespeare would say, "he sleeps well." The centuries shall place tributes on his bier and at his tomb. He shall abide as a power for all time. His image shall cast itself on the current of the ages as the mountain on the banks of the Susquehanna mirrors its form in waters that wind at its foot—the mighty fixing itself immutably upon the changing." That, Mr. President, is the end of the correction.

Mr. SIPE. While I am on my feet, Mr. President, let me take one minute, or two, to reiterate the protest which I have made on the floor of this Senate against the Governor's declared intention of keeping the new Butler tuberculosis sanatorium closed for the next two years.

I spent nearly all of Saturday and Sunday in Butler with groups of leading citizens of that city and of the County of Butler. I find that the sanatorium is nearing completion. I find that the $2,500,000 worth of buildings are almost completed, that the contractor is working until nightfall each and every night to get these buildings turned over to the State in a month or two. I find that the Highway Department has changed the course of Route 422 to make it come nearer to this wonderful sanatorium, and is working very rapidly at that work.

I find, too, that the Butler Water Company is greatly disturbed—and I here drink to the health of said water company—the Butler Water Company has to lay a two-mile line out to the sanatorium. Let me read from a statement in the Butler "Eagle," the only daily newspaper in the county, a newspaper of fifteen thousand circulation—I read from a statement in that newspaper on March 8, as follows:

"Due to uncertainty over the occupancy of the institution (Butler Tuberculosis Sanatorium), officials of the Butler Water Company are in something of a quandary over a proposed $40,000.00 expenditure, the amount that would be required to extend water service from the City of Butler to the site, two miles west of Butler. The pipe has been ordered by the water company and is ready to be laid along the route of the reconstructed highway, Route 422, but the company is wondering how it shall be reimbursed for the investment if the buildings are not used."

Mr. President, this is the third time I have taken the floor of this Senate to protest against the false economy that would keep the Butler Tuberculosis Sanatorium closed for the next two years. I call it a false economy, for any economy is false that ignores the priceless asset of human life, any economy is false that trifles with life or death, any economy is false that withholds money from physicians and nurses and gives it to undertakers and grave-diggers.

The people of Butler County, Mr. President, the people of Western Pennsylvania, are not fooled. They know there are enough active, needy cases of tuberculosis in Western Pennsylvania to fill this sanatorium within thirty days after the opening thereof; and if the Governor does not know it, I refer him to the greatest authority and specialist on tuberculosis in Western Pennsylvania, namely, Dr. Harry G. Noah, of the staff of the West Penn Hospital, Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania.

Therefore, Mr. President, I simply repeat what I said before on the floor of this Senate—that I can hear the clods falling on the coffins as Governor James saves a few dollars for the next two years. I am justified in referring to the monetary saving as "a few dollars" because the Governor knows, and all the rest of us know, that the saving of keeping that sanatorium closed for two years is only a drop in the bucket of the total expenditures of the State. Yet, in spite of his knowledge of this fact, the Governor has served notice on the tuberculosis sufferers in Pennsylvania that none of them can get treatment in that modern sanatorium for the next two years, which is the same thing as saying to hundreds of them to get ready for the grave.

Are the Governor's veins full of ice water instead of the ruby warm blood of human kindness and sympathy?

Mr. WOODWARD. As I have listened to my brilliant colleague from Philadelphia, Senator Shapiro, and as I have also listened to the historical Senators from both Armstrong and Butler I realize why the calendar this evening is devoted exclusively to bills on second reading. I have been in the Senate twenty years and I never read the Legislative Journal, so I suppose I should begin now to read the Legislative Journal; but in order to prevent the Senator from Westmoreland, Mr. Dent, from falling into grievous error and being misquoted, perhaps, in the Journal, I would like to inform him the quotation, "Hue to the line, let the chips fall where they may," was not pronounced by a poet, but it was pronounced by General Ulysses S. Grant; and I hope that will be corrected before it is printed.

RESOLUTION PROTESTING AGAINST MODERNIZING INTERIOR OF REPRODUCTION OF INDEPENDENCE HALL, AT WORLD'S FAIR

Mr. HEYBURN offered the following resolution, which was twice read:

In the Senate, March 13, 1939.

Whereas, The present plans of the Pennsylvania World's Fair Commission for the official Pennsylvania exhibit at the New York World's Fair call for modernizing the interior of a reproduction of Independence Hall:

And Whereas, The present plan despite a prohibitory order by Governor James call for a cocktail terrace, a beer garden and also a theatre where publicity moving pictures will be shown, and other startling and not altogether patriotic innovations:

And Whereas, Public opinion in Philadelphia is overwhelmingly and indignantly against these innovations, as shown in the daily press;

Now Therefore Be it Resolved, That if the House of Representatives concur that the Pennsylvania World's Fair Commission be requested to advise the General Assembly what plans it has devised to overcome the mounting public objections to the original plans so as to typify the true spirit of Independence Hall.

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that Rule 39, which requires resolutions be referred to an appropriate committee, be dispensed with and the Senate proceed to the consideration of the foregoing resolution.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection?

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I object.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair hears objection.

MOTION TO SUSPEND RULE 39

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, in view of the fact that there is not much time before the opening of the Fair, I move that Rule 39 be suspended and the Senate proceed to the immediate consideration of the resolution.

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, I second the motion. On the question.

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I challenge the Senator's interest.

I have a reason for objecting to immediate consideration of this resolution, because I do not know whether those facts that the resolution recites are true, and I do not want to put my stamp of approval on them. I think we should take time to find out whether the facts are true. If the resolution was merely to request information, or ask whether or not such intentions are correct, I would be in favor of it, but I do not propose to take newspaper statements as facts. They have said a lot of things about my colleagues, but I would not accept those newspaper statements as facts.

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, will it be satisfactory to the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro, to lay the resolution on the table until tomorrow?

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, certainly, that is all that I would suggest. I move that the resolution be laid on the table.

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, I withdraw one second and I second the other.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

It was agreed to.

RESOLUTION URGING PEOPLE TO TAKE ACTIVE PART IN FLAG WEEK, JUNE 8TH TO 14TH

Mr. OWLETT offered the following resolution which was twice read, considered, and agreed to:

In the Senate, March 13, 1939.

Whereas, The whole world, rent asunder by strife and contention, violence and intolerance, is today in a state of turmoil and uncertainty, marked by a titanic struggle between Democracy and Autocracy, while in this Country anti-American forces are striving to discredit and destroy the ideals and institutions symbolized by the American Flag, and social, political and economic forces are combating one another; and

Whereas, Never before in the history of the nation has there been greater need among our people for the unity, cooperation and tolerance for which our Country's Flag stands; and

Whereas, With the Stars and Stripes as its emblem The United States Flag Association, a non-profit, non-partisan and non-sectarian organization incorporated under Federal law and headed by the President of the United States as Honorary President General, is, with the co-operation of various groups, organizations and fields of activity in our National life, conducting a National Patriotic Revival, culminating in Flag Week, June 8th to 14th next, for the two-fold purpose (1) of awakening our people to the dangers threatening our National life, thereby causing them to resolve as never before to uphold and preserve our Country's ideals and institutions, and (2) of promoting National Unity, Patriotic Co-operation and Racial and Religious Tolerance; therefore, be it

Resolved (if the House of Representatives concur) That the General Assembly of the State of Pennsylvania heartily indorses the plan for a great National Patriotic Revival, and that the Governor is hereby authorized and requested, first, to direct the State Superintendent of Public Instruction to arrange for the suitable observance of Flag Week in all the public schools, and, secondly, to issue a proclamation calling upon the State officials to display the United States Flag on all State buildings during Flag Week, and inviting the people of the State to fly the flag at their homes and other suitable places as well as on their cars, and that in every community they hold special exercises at which means shall be taken to give significant expression to our thoughtful love of America, our pride in its glorious history, our faith in its destiny, our devotion to its ideals and institutions and our determination to uphold and preserve them now and forever.

Mr. OWLETT. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that Rule 39, which requires resolutions be referred to an appropriate committee, be suspended and the Senate do now proceed to the consideration of the resolution just read.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection, the Chair hears none.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the resolution?

It was agreed to.

Ordered, That the clerk present the same to the House of Representatives for concurrence.

RESOLUTION URGING CELEBRATION OF AMERICANISM DAY

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, May first throughout a good portion of the civilized world is known as May Day and on that day it seems that the forces or the elements of Communism have set that May Day aside as a day of celebration and a day given to praising Communistic doctrines throughout the world.

In 1932 and 1933 our nation here was in much turmoil and at that time those forces of Communism were rather active within the ranks of organized labor and other groups throughout this nation, and when May First came along they started to organize demonstrations throughout the entire United States.

In my county the members of the Veterans of Foreign Wars and members of the American Legion undertook to counteract demonstrations of that kind, and they organized committees and arranged to stake an Americanism parade in the City of Uniontown, in which all patriotic organizations were asked to participate.

Since that time May first has been celebrated in my county and adjoining counties as Americanism Day.

I feel, as well as the many members of those Veterans organizations feel that that day should be perpetuated not only for these western counties of Pennsylvania but for all the counties of the State of Pennsylvania, and in accordance with that sentiment I am presenting the following resolution and ask for its immediate adoption.

Mr. CAVALCANTE offered the following resolution which was twice read:

In the Senate, March 13, 1939.

For many years this country and the world at large has observed May first as May Day, and, at different places, the observance has been marked by various kinds of celebrations.

At times these celebrations have resulted in demonstrations against organized government.

In 1932 the American Legion in Fayette County inaugurated a new kind of observance of the day, by staging a parade of Americanism, which has grown each year into an event of first importance.

The participation in the celebration of this day by patriotic societies, veterans' organizations and other organizations, cannot help but make it throughout the Commonwealth a day to awaken new pride in our American institutions, therefore be it

Resolved (if the House of Representatives concur), That the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania urges the setting aside of May first as Americanism Day, and urges upon all patriotic, veteran, fraternal and civic organizations the planning of its celebration in such a manner as will bring to the people of the Commonwealth a full realization of the benefits and privileges and blessings that come to them through the continuance of our American form of government, and be it further

Resolved, That the Governor of the Commonwealth is hereby urged to issue his proclamation further urging the people of the Commonwealth to join in a real American celebration of Americanism Day.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that Rule 39, which requires resolutions be referred to an appropriate committee, be suspended and the Senate do now proceed to the consideration of the resolution just read

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection, the Chair hears none.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the resolution?

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, speaking on the resolution, I want to give notice that tomorrow I intend to introduce a resolution calling attention to the Fourth of July.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the resolution?

It was agreed to.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the House of Representatives for concurrence.

RESOLUTION TO INVESTIGATE RELIEF IN ALLEGHENY COUNTY

Mr. GELTZ offered the following resolution which was twice read:

In the Senate, March 13, 1939.

Whereas, Rumors prevail in and about the County of Allegheny that much so called "chiseling" prevails in said county in the administration of relief to the unemployed; and

Whereas, It is necessary that all those not entitled to relief should be barred from receiving aid from the State in order that those deserving help can be provided for; and

Whereas, A system of cheating in the administration of direct relief also lessens the probability of adequate assistance to the blind, to the aged and to dependent children: therefore be it

Resolved, (if the House concur), That the Speaker of the House is hereby directed to appoint two members of the House of Representatives, and the President of the Senate is directed to appoint one member of the Senate, who together shall constitute a legislative committee and whose duty it shall be forthwith to fully and impartially investigate the administration of relief in Allegheny County in all its phases and to make a report of the result of said investigation to the General Assembly now in session as speedily as possible in order that legislation necessary to abate any evils that may be found to exist may be enacted; and be it further

Resolved, That the said committee shall have power to issue subpoenas under the hand and seal of its chairman requesting and commanding any person or persons to appear before them and to answer such questions touching matters properly being inquired into by the committee, and to produce such books, papers, records and documents as the committee may deem necessary. Such subpoenas may be served upon any person and shall have the force and effect of subpoenas issued out of the courts of this Commonwealth. Each member of said committee shall have power to administer oaths and affirmations to witnesses appearing before the committee. Any person who shall wilfully neglect or refuse to testify before said committee or to produce any books, papers, records or documents shall be subject to the penalties provided by the laws of the Commonwealth in such cases.

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that Rule 39, which requires resolutions be referred to an appropriate committee, be dispensed with and the Senate proceed to the consideration of the foregoing resolution.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I object.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair hears objection.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I do not want the Senator from Allegheny to misunderstand the reason for my objection, but we last week adopted a resolution appointing a committee of six to investigate the whole question of relief all over the State; also its relation to other forms of assistance, and it seems to me that no doubt that committee will delve into all these questions, not only in Allegheny, which has been referred to in this resolution, but all over the Commonwealth. Certainly there is no point in duplicating the work, and for that reason—if, however, the better minds in the Senate agree that I am wrong I will be very glad to withdraw my objections in committee—but I think for that reason the resolution should go to a committee for study.

The PRESIDENT. The resolution is committed to the Committee on Welfare.

RESOLUTION RECOMMENDING REDUCED FARES FOR SCHOOL CHILDREN

Mr. McCREESH. Mr. President, I have a resolution here which I am going to present to the Chair, but before doing so I would like to make a few remarks. This resolution would allow all school children in the City of Philadelphia to obtain transportation to school for twenty-five cents a week for each child. Mr. President, this is not a new idea; it has been done all over the United States. Last week we had a lot of ballyhoo on the floor here about not having some work to do; so here is a good resolution for you Senators to vote for to help the little kiddies along and help them get an education.

I might say to the newly elected Senators that last year this resolution was passed by the House and by the Senate and was signed by the Governor, but when it got in front of the Public Service Commission something happened there; and I hope this time that the Public Utility Commission will perhaps do better; and I ask all you Senators to vote for this bill and help the children so that they may get a better education and become better citizens of the United States.

Mr. McCREESH offered the following resolution, which was twice read:

In the Senate, March 13, 1939.

Whereas, The cost of transportation of pupils to the school districts in the City of Philadelphia is a matter of grave concern to its citizens and it is believed that it is far greater than the circumstances require, therefore, be it

Resolved (if the House of Representatives concur), That the Public Utility Commission of Pennsylvania is hereby requested to make an investigation through its existing facilities with the view of ascertaining whether on the basis of valuation and income or on any other basis the street railway companies operating in the City of Philadelphia may be required to issue tickets for school pupils only at a rate not to exceed twenty-five (25c) per week.

Mr. McCREESH. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that Rule 39, which requires resolutions be referred to an appropriate committee, be dispensed with and the Senate proceed to the consideration of the foregoing resolution.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection?

Mr. OWLETT. Mr. President, I object.

The PRESIDENT. The resolution is referred to the Committee on Public Utilities.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Rev. Walter Evans Deibler, offered the following prayer:

In the innumerable conflicts being waged in the world, teach us, O God, to face the eternal ideal as expressed by the prophet. "Let justice roll down as waters, and righteousness as a mighty stream." Help us to learn that the true sense of justice and righteousness is inspired by Thee, O God. Justice is no idle revery. It demonstrates its power as it recognizes the rights of parents and children in their cry for health, food and shelter; the right of all to benefit from the institutional life of the state in bounties they themselves could not furnish; the right to receive assistance in any extremity before it is too late. Help us to see that "justice is like the kingdom of God: it is not without us as a fact; it is within us as a great yearning." Give, we beseech Thee, O God, to the members of this Assembly this constant inward yearning that the ends of justice and righteousness might be accomplished. Through Jesus Christ, our Lord. Amen.

Whereas, rumors prevail in and about the County of Allegheny that much so called "chiseling" prevails in said county in the administration of relief to the unemployed; and

Whereas, it is necessary that all those not entitled to relief should be barred from receiving aid from the State in order that those deserving help can be provided for; and

Whereas, a system of cheating in the administration of direct relief also lessens the probability of adequate assistance to the blind, to the aged and to dependent children; therefore be it

Resolved, (if the Senate concur), That the Speaker of the House is hereby directed to appoint two members of the House of Representatives, and the President of the Senate is directed to appoint one member of the Senate, who together shall constitute a legislative committee and whose duty it shall be forthwith to fully and impartially investigate the administration of relief in Allegheny County in all its phases and to make a report of the result of said investigation to the General Assembly now in session as speedily as possible in order that legislation necessary to abate any evils that may be found to exist may be enacted; and be it further

Resolved, That the said committee shall have power to issue subpoenas under the hand and seal of its chairman requesting and commanding any person or persons to appear before them and to answer such questions touching matters properly being inquired into by the committee, and to produce such books, papers, records and documents as the committee may deem necessary. Such subpoenas may be served upon any person and shall have the force and effect of subpoenas issued out of the courts of this Commonwealth. Each member of said committee shall have power to administer oaths and affirmations to witnesses appearing before the committee. Any person who shall wilfully neglect or refuse to testify before said committee or to produce any books, papers, records or documents shall be subject to the penalties provided by the laws of the Commonwealth in such cases.

Mr. Westrick asked and obtained leave of absence for Mr. CHERVENAK for the week on account of illness.

Mr. Habbyslaw asked and obtained leave of absence for Mr. SARGE for the week on account of illness.

STATEMENT BY MR. TROUT

Mr. Trout asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker and members of the House, on Thursday evening, March 9th an editorial appeared in one of the evening Philadelphia papers under the heading, "For More Commerce" in which it was stated as follows:

"Reasons why industries have left Pennsylvania and why others have refused to expand plants here and some have declined to locate in this State will be studied. In this connection it may be possible to make use of the report prepared by the Legislative Commission headed by Senator Dent, which spent two years investigating the subject. There is considerable mystery about this document. It was handed to Governor Earle during the campaign last fall and since then has not been made public."

Mr. Speaker and members of the House, in fairness to all parties concerned, I want to say that that is not correct, that the report was not handed to Governor Earle, nor was it handed to any other person because the report was not completed. I have no criticism to make on the editorial writer other than to say I presume he was misinformed, and that when he wrote the article he thought he was telling the truth. However, that is not the case.

Mr. Speaker it is now my privilege to present to you that report of the Dent Tax Commission for your consideration.

The SPEAKER. The report will be noted in the Journal.

THE SPEAKER (Ellwood J. Turner) IN THE CHAIR

The SPEAKER. The Chair desires to thank the gentleman from Lancaster for occupying the chair.

STATEMENT BY MR. GATES

Mr. GATES asked and received unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker and members of this House, last November was one of the few times in our history when the agricultural counties elected a governor of the State of Pennsylvania. They took Arthur James from the honorable position of Judge of the Superior Court and elevated him to the highest office within the gift of the people of this Commonwealth. God-fearing men and women marched to the polls with the "Watchword" of "Save Pennsylvania" ringing in their ears, and, regardless of political affiliations, they elected Arthur James, and delegated to him the responsibility of bringing us out of the chaotic conditions existing within the State. This election placed a great responsibility on the Chief Executive of the State; it also placed great responsibility on each and every member of this House.

I should like to discuss for a few minutes the most important problems confronting this House and the State of Pennsylvania at this time. Every county, every city, every hamlet of our State is represented by two hundred and eight members that constitute the membership of this House. Some of you come from large cities; some of you come from great industrial communities; some of you come from agricultural centers; some of you come from counties wherein are located natural gas, oil and coal mines. Hence our individual problems differ and it is often difficult for us to agree on certain legislation.

However, we meet on common ground when we discuss the homes of the people and I should like to discuss for a few minutes two of the most important problems that are before the people of Pennsylvania today. First in importance, relief from the depressive real estate tax. I have in my hand a clipping from one of Pittsburgh's leading newspapers, dated February fourth, which is headed as follows, "Washington County Fights to Avoid Sale of Twenty Thousand Properties." My friends, that condition exists not only in Washington County; it exists in Armstrong County, where I come from; it exists in every other county of the State of Pennsylvania; it exists in Luzerne County, the home of the Governor, where there are 94,000 pieces of property and 31,000 of which or about one-third have tax liens charged against them.

Why does this condition exist in Pennsylvania? For this reason: When the first tax system was adopted by our State, real estate represented about ninety-five per cent of the wealth of the State; but today my friends, real estate represents but thirty-three and one-half per cent of the wealth of the State. About eight and one-half per cent is tax free property, such as churches, schools, property of public utilities, etc., leaving taxable real estate representing but twenty-five per cent of the wealth. Yet in your county and mine, the owners are compelled to bear seventy-five per cent of the total tax burden. Personal property, tangible and intangible, represents over sixty-six per cent of the wealth of Pennsylvania today, yet it pays but twenty-five per cent of the total taxes.

In Allegheny County 3,600 pieces of property have been purchased by the County Commissioners at tax sales, and in every other county the Commissioners have been compelled to purchase real estate at tax sales. This is what happens when a county is forced to buy property: The property immediately becomes exempt from taxation and the balance of the taxable property is taxed more, therefore.

There used to be an incentive for a young man to own a home. I know there was an incentive for me, if you will pardon making a personal reference. When I was married my ambition was to own a home and raise a family, which I did. I raised three boys and three girls, but, my friends, where is there any incentive for young men and women to own their home today, while their fathers and mothers sit, fearsome lest the very roof over their heads will be sold to pay the exorbitant taxes that are levied against real estate in Pennsylvania?

I believe I can show the members of this House that if they will pass the three Bills that I shall discuss, that the unemployment relief situation which confronts us will be automatically taken care of. All over the State, homes and farm-buildings are in a run-down condition, deplorably so. Hundreds of thousands of owners of real estate fear they will lose their property—their homes or farms, hence painting has been put off indefinitely, broken windows have not been replaced, leaky roofs have not been repaired. Millions of dollars could and would be spent by their owners for repairs, replacements and improvements, if they could but be assured that confiscatory taxation would not take their property away from them. Now you, Members of this House, have the power to raise the morale of these home owners and farm owners. You can do so by letting them know that the taxes on their homes and farms are going to be reduced by relieving them from the payment of school taxes—by a gradual reduction in the school taxes until, in from five to seven years, they will not be compelled to pay any real estate taxes for school purposes.

By doing this you will bring about, I am confident of it, a great revival of industry in this State. Thousands of idle, unemployed men will go back to work in the building industry. If you do not do it, I say to you there will be the greatest increase in the number of people on the relief-rolls of this State you have ever seen—that you will depress even further the morale of the men and women of the State—that you will put thousands more of them on the relief-rolls or in the poor-houses.

Secondly, and of tremendous importance to us all, it ought to be our purpose, along with the Governor, to try to give big business and little business not a temporary breathing spell—but assurance of permanent relief from depressive taxation which has driven many industries from our State. If we give business men assurance that our five-mill Capital Stock Tax will be repealed, confidence will be restored, and payrolls will increase in number and will swell as to amounts. Payrolls are the cure for most of our ills—the solution to most of the problems we are now wrestling with. Listen to what has been said about a payroll:

"To the man who shares in its benefits it is a blessing.

"To the man who must meet it, week after week, month after month, year after year it is at once a responsibility and a satisfaction.

"To the community it is an indispensable necessity, without which the community suffers.

"Meeting payrolls has been a troublesome problem for many businessmen, large and small, in recent years. Our annals of heroism do not mention the men who have put up valiant fights to maintain payrolls, because of the sense of obligation to those who work for them and depend upon them.

"It is far preferable that the Nation's wealth should be distributed in payrolls, in an honest exchange of money for honest work, than through government agencies, in relief or 'made work'."

Millions of men are eager to regain a place on the payrolls of private industry. The American citizen desires above all else an opportunity to exchange his labor for an honest wage.

What I have just quoted is, in truth, the real meaning of a payroll. We can get more payrolls and bigger payrolls in Pennsylvania if this House and the Administration will approve the three Bills which I shall mention in a few minutes.

Governor James, shortly after he was elected, and just before he left the State to go to the South on a well-earned vacation, made this statement to the businessmen of this State, which appeared on the front page of every newspaper in the State. He said: "Unpack your trunks—stay in Pennsylvania—relief is at hand."

My friends, I hold in my hand, and I am now addressing the Republican members of the House, the platform on which you were elected—the pledge which you made to the people of the State. This platform reads: By oppressive taxation and burdensome regulations, Pennsylvania industry, backbone of our prosperity and progress, is being driven from our midst, leaving behind distress and misery, stagnation and increased unemployment. Although Pennsylvania has only eight per cent of the population of the country, it has almost eighteen per cent of the unemployed. Business with its opportunities for jobs must be kept here, must be encouraged to expand here.

"Business administration at Harrisburg is indispensable to the improvement of industrial conditions in this state, securing to the wage-earner employment with good wages, opening markets for the farmer and giving a chance for individual initiative. Retention of business and industry in Pennsylvania with attendant expansion to relieve unemployment and to assure good wages is required if this Commonwealth is to advance industrially and if our social and welfare program is to be financed. We pledge to provide the means whereby the advantages of Pennsylvania as an industrial state may be pointed out to those seeking sites for their industries; whereby complaints of adverse conditions in the State may be given public hearings; and whereby specific recommendations may emanate for the remedy or improvement of conditions affecting the expansion of business and industry in this State."

Now gentlemen of the House, when that platform was written by the Honorable Platform Committee of the Republican Party, I believe they were in earnest—that they were sincere in writing it. I was certainly sincere and in earnest when I offered it as my platform and asked to be elected to this House on what it contained.

Of course it would be childish to point out the needs of the State with respect to the needs of business and real estate ownership from the standpoint of taxation, without offering specific recommendations, and I now refer you to three Bills which, if enacted into law, I am positive, go a long way toward bringing Pennsylvania back to the place in the Union where it once was and where it now belongs—one of the great industrial States of the United States—the Keystone State of the nation.

These Bills are House Bills numbers 212, 409 and 407. One provides for a flat income tax—one provides for a gradual reduction of real estate school taxes for a period of from five to seven years—and ultimate cancellation of all taxation of real estate for school purposes—and the other Bill provides for the absolute repeal of the Five-mill Capital Stock Tax—the most depressive business tax we now have and which is certainly the cause of removal of industry from Pennsylvania and the prevention of new industries coming into the State. The flat-income tax would provide the Commonwealth with the revenue which the real estate school tax and the present Capital Stock Tax now bring. It would take the place in the Tax System of the State of these two most depressive of all our taxes.

The Bill providing for the flat-income tax has in it a section (No. 405) which would grant a credit of $40.00 to each taxable who makes out the required return. This section excludes, exempts from the tax, the man who works in a coal mine for a bare living; the man who works for only living wages in a glass factory; and the man who works in the textile industry and generally earns but enough for a living. These will not have to pay the income tax because of the credit the Bill would allow. Unless a person earns over $2,000.00 a year, he would not be taxable under this Bill.

You know and I know that all tax Bills presented here are considered to be odious legislation, and that certain people will object to paying an income tax even though the rate would be only two per cent. I know that the idle rich who go to Canada for three months in the summer-time, go across the big water in the Fall of the year, and to Florida in the winter-time, will object to such a tax.

But I plead with the membership of this House to pass these three Bills. In doing so you will save the homes of the people, and save payrolls to our workers. You will, I am certain, start a new business revival in this State that will exceed all others of the past ten years—a permanent, substantial, sound revival of business, that will take from the crowded relief rolls thousands and thousands of men and women who are eager to get their names on a payroll again and earn an honest living.

Please be sure to understand that in passing these three Bills you are not just passing another tax law. You are not going to impose another tax on the tax-depressed people of this State—but you are going to substitute a tax for the two most depressive of all our present taxes, instead. You are going to substitute a tax far less destructive to the prosperity of the people than the two taxes it will replace.

I plead with you to bring these Bills out of Committee promptly; I plead with you to stand by the platform of the Republican Party by passing these Bills. By doing so you will save hundreds of thousands of homes and farms to their owners, and allow industry to prosper again in Pennsylvania. By doing so you will make the 1939 General Assembly one of the most constructive in its long history.

STATEMENT BY MR. BAKER

Mr. BAKER asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I don't want to take much of your and my colleagues' time. But the day approaches when the present James Catastrophe will be two months old.

It is time we took stock of the promises with which the administration obtained office and the manner in which those promises are being fulfilled.

Or, to be more accurate, it is time to take stock of the pace at which those promises are being broken.

In the western part of our great state, the people were promised that the alleged former breaker boy who now is our governor would:

Increase employment

Reduce taxes

Abolish most or all of the humanitarian reforms instituted by the previous administration after 80 years of Republican misrule.

Continue flood control projects.

Make Pennsylvania a sort of paradise for everyone.

The only one of these promises that today seems possible of fulfillment is the pledge to wipe from the books every progressive piece of legislation enacted by this Assembly in the last four years.

The others were but a tissue of lies.

The present governor of this Commonwealth had not been in office a month before he revealed the vicious influences which control him.

First, he attempted to abolish the jobs of 10,000 Pennsylvania workingmen by calling off the great all-weather highway project, linking Harrisburg with the West.

The great clamor which arose forced him into hasty retreat. You might expect him to have learned a lesson.

But we soon found that the grip of utility interests is stronger than his fear of and respect for public opinion, for he stuck to his guns in opposing flood control.

The utility interests had looked under the bed and seen a ghost. They told Governor James that flood control dams might be used to make electric power. That might be bad for holding company profits.

Governor James announced no state land would be deeded to the federal government for flood control dams. The federal government could build dams, but that state must own the land and keep control.

When he said that, he knew he was blocking all flood control. He knew that the federal government could go ahead and build the dams, regardless of his puny objections, but he knew the federal government does not like to trample on the states' objections. And he knew the federal government would refuse to build dams on land owned by a state.

Governor James knew that countless thousands of men, women, and children are in daily peril of having their homes and their livings swept away by the flood waters of the Allegheny, Monongahela, and Ohio rivers.

He knew that the property of countless industries, large and small, is in daily jeopardy.

He knew that Western Pennsylvania flood control dams never will be useful for power purposes.

But, ever willing to fool his friends as well as the public, he wanted to make the utilities think he was doing them a favor.

So the Governor today risks the lives and property of residents of the richest industrial district in the world to do a false favor for his friends, the utilities.

That, Mr. Speaker, is statesmanship in Pennsylvania in 1939. That is the James Catastrophe. That is the reformed Republican Party.

And when the opposition to concellation of these vital projects became too great, this leader of the present majority party evolved another brilliant escape.

He agreed to permit present construction to proceed.

He reserved opinion on the dams not yet started.

He knows that those dams now under construction are insufficient for protection.

He knows there is no danger to the utilities in permitting those dams now under construction to be completed.

He knows that only the public loses.

Not satisfied with this aid to the utilities, this Governor is now completing one of the most flagrant jobs ever witnessed in this Commonwealth.

The maneuver, Mr. Speaker, is worthy of the best legal talent a utility can buy.

Under the guise of economy, the Governor is in process of handing to the public utilities an outright gift of thousands of dollars.

I had the honor to sit in this chamber, Mr. Speaker, and vote for a measure which wiped out the old, corrupt, inefficient, powerless Public Service Commission.

That bill set up a stream-lined Public Utility Commission designed to make possible real control of the utilities in the public interest.

Since the present Commission was established, utility rates have been lowered in many parts of the state.

Flagrant abuses have been halted.

Endless legal delays have been checked.

The courts have lost much of their power to protect the utilities.

Rate fixing has been turned in the interests of the public rather than the Republicans.

A large staff was necessary to perform these functions. The results prove the need.

Now this highly-touted "reform governor," as the big interests have so profitably tagged him has set out to undo all of this.

Already he has cut off nearly a third of the Commission's staff; already he has served notice another third must be cut off.

So the Commission's efficiency is to be cut almost two-thirds, Mr. Speaker, in the so-called interest of saving the taxpayer money.

But it is a lie to call the move economy; I remind the gentlemen of the majority that the utilities themselves bear the costs of the Public Utility Commission.

No tax cut will result from this move.

No rate cut will benefit the public.

The reduction is a brazen gift of hundreds of thousands of dollars to the utilities who were so interested in seeing Judge James become Governor James.

The utilities were useful to Judge James; Governor James is useful to the utilities.

Governor James is a versatile man. He can be useful, at the same time, to the Grundy Manufacturers' Association. Today he is plotting, according to press reports, to place on the Public Utility Commission a servant of these Grundy interests.

As if the Governor hadn't already more than repaid Joe Grundy at the expense of the people when he appointed Grundy's man to the Superior Court.

And therein lies another tale of Republican statesmanship in the present James Catastrophe.

We of the Democratic party wondered during the last campaign how any judge of the exalted Superior Court could have the effrontery to keep his seat on the bench while running for political office.

We wondered how he could justify himself to the American Bar Association.

We wondered how he could justify himself to his own conscience as James the politician gave his views on public bills which might eventually come before James the judge.

The answer, Mr. Speaker, is that the governor of this Commonwealth must virtually have sold his judgeship to Grundy in return for Grundy support of one kind or another.

I fail to see any other interpretation.

Why did James cling to his seat on the bench until his very inauguration as Governor? For but one reason—that seat had been promised to Joe Grundy.

Check the record. The present occupant of Governor James' place on the bench is the brother-in-law of Grundy's best friend.

Judge James couldn't quit the bench until he became Governor James. He couldn't because he had promised his place on the bench to the man who wrecked the Republican party in Pennsylvania before 1932.

In the light of that deal, I wonder, Mr. Speaker, what deal was in back of the governor's appointment of a representative of the steel interests to his cabinet?

I wonder what other deal was in back of his party's attempt to force into the state senate a former attorney thrown out of the very Bar Association whose cannons Judge James violated when he campaigned for office without resigning from the bench?

A state senator, Mr. Speaker, disbarred for his association with the most corrupt political gang in the history of the corrupt Republican party?

Does Judge James, alias Governor James, that alleged former breaker boy, dare disavow his alliance with that former brother lawyer and member of the McClure gang?

Mr. Speaker, let us go back to the governor's promises. What happened to his promises to cut taxes?

The same thing, Mr. Speaker, that happened to his many other promises and the promises of his party in the past—they were broken, as the party will be broken in the future.

The present governor stumped the state with financial statement and analyses galore.

Time after time he claimed to "show" how taxes could be cut.

But he forgot that in his budget message and recommended continuation of all the regular and emergency taxes of the Earl administration.

And now the daily press reports that with Governor James' "tacit" support there is a move afoot to restore the amusement tax to raise more money.

Who cried louder than the Republican party against diversion of funds from the Motor License fund, the Liquor License Fund, the Liquid Fuels Tax Fund, and the insurance funds?

At the very minute the Republicans were telling the public that such diversions were vicious and unnecessary, they knew that only by such diversions could the crushing burden of necessary relief and security be borne by the state government.

They had the figures.

They knew the need.

They knew that government today costs more than ever it did before.

They knew that the taxpayer must pay the cost of running the government.

They knew that everyone wants a reduction in taxes.

They knew that a reduction in taxes is impossible as yet.

And with their eyes wide open to the impossibility of keeping their promises, they promised to cut taxes.

That, Mr. Speaker, is the James Catastrophe.

That is the Republican party and its governor today, two months after taking over the solemn obligations of governing this Commonwealth.

The same closed corporation, operating for the utilities and the Grundy Manufacturers' Association.

An oil magnate and a publisher-crony of race touts and gangsters have been newly admitted to the inner counsels, along with a furtive, sinister man of mystery foreign to our Commonwealth.

Who is this man from Texas?

Whence comes our governor's mysterious "alter ego?"

What is his shame that during the campaign he travelled with Judge James under a false name and kept in the secret background?

Who is this man that it was necessary to hide from the taxpayers his brotherly closeness to the Republican candidate?

What is there in the life of this Texan that qualifies him to be the secret lord of the chamber to a Pennsylvania governor?

Are there no Pennsylvanian's fit for our governor's trust?

Has the Republican party in Pennsylvania no one upon whom the governor can lean for counsel and advice?

Must we go to Texas to learn how to manage our affairs?

And if we must go to Texas for help, Mr. Speaker, must we bring back a man of mystery, who fears the light of the sun?

A man of aliases, a Jekyll-Hyde creature of whom we know nothing?

Mr. Speaker, it is useless to warn arrogance of disaster, Samson of Delilah, or the Republican party of the people's wrath.

And it is too late to warn the public of the James Catastrophe, because the James Catastrophe is here.

We are headed for tragedy, for the People of Pennsylvania are the ones who will suffer from the misrule of the Republican party.

But I predict, Mr. Speaker, that they will not suffer long, for their temper is short.

They will not be patient under the management of James, Grundy, Pew, Annenberg & Company, with the front door key in the hands of the utilities and the back door key in the pocket of the mystery man from Texas.

I want to wish the mystery man from Texas a speedy recovery in his health and a fast return to Texas.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the section?

BILL POSTPONED

Mr. SWEENEY. Mr. Speaker, Mr. Cortese, because of serious illness in the family, cannot be here tonight and at his request I move, Mr. Speaker, that this bill be re-committed to the Committee on Municipal Corporations for amendment.

The motion was agreed to.

BILL ON SECOND READING

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the second reading and consideration of House Bill No. 338, entitled:

An Act to amend Section Three hundred one of an Act approved the Twenty-seventh day of May one thousand nine hundred and thirty-seven Pamphlet Laws one thousand and fifty-three known as the "Public Utility Law" by excluding from the definition of "Facilities" as used therein property owned by municipal corporations of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania when the said act became effective and providing that the Pennsylvania Public Utility Commission shall have power to regulate and fix the rates for service furnished by public utilities owned by municipal corporations of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania only when the public service being furnished or rendered by any municipal corporations shall be beyond its corporate limits and extending such freedom from regulation and control by the Commission to public utility service furnished or rendered by an operating agency of any such municipal corporation

The first section was read as follows:

The General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania enacts as follows Section 1 Clause ten of Section Two of the Act approved the Twenty-eighth day of May one thousand nine hundred thirty-seven Pamphlet Laws one thousand and fifty-three known as the "Public Utility Law" and entitled "An Act relating to the regulation of public utilities defining as public utilities certain corporations companies associations and persons providing for the regulation of public utilities including to a limited extent municipalities engaging in public utility business by prescribing defining and limiting their duties powers and liabilities and regulating the exercise surrender or abandonment of their powers privileges and franchises defining and regulating contract carriers by motor vehicle and brokers in order to regulate effectively common carriers by motor vehicle conferring upon the Pennsylvania Public Utility Commission the power and duty of supervising and regulating persons associations companies and corporations including to a limited extent municipal corporations subject to this act and administering the provisions of this act authorizing the commission to fix temporary rates placing the burden of proof on public utilities to sustain their rates and certain other matters authorizing a permissive or mandatory sliding scale method of regulating rates providing for the supervision of financial and contractual relations between

(10) "Facilities" means all the plant and equipment of a public utility including all tangible and intangible real and personal property without limitation and any and all means and instrumentalities, in any manner owned operated leased licensed used controlled furnished or supplied for by or in connection with the business of any public utility Provided however That no property owned by the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania or any municipal corporation thereof at the date when this act becomes effective shall be subject to the commission or to any of the terms of this act except as elsewhere expressly provided herein

On the question,

Will the House agree to the section?

Mr. OMINSKY. Mr. Speaker, I desire to offer the following amendment.

The amendment was read by the Clerk as follows:

Amend Sec. 1 (Cl. 10), page 4, line 12 by inserting after the word "thereof" the following: "Unless such property is leased to a private organization."

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendment?

Mr. OMINSKY. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, in asking for an affirmative vote on these amendments to House Bill No. 338 I wish to say that this is one of the most important pieces of legislation affecting Philadelphia, probably next to the new City Charter. House Bill No. 338 provides that municipally owned corporations shall be taken out of the class of utilities, and the Public Utility Commission cannot have the power of regulation both as to rates and service.

In Philadelphia, as you know, we have a situation where the Philadelphia Gas Works is under discussion. There is a movement on foot to lease the facilities or assign the leasing of the facilities for a period of anywhere from fifteen to seventeen years, at $50,000,000. In other words, it is a loan proposition for Philadelphia in order to avoid balancing the budget in the proper manner. My amendment proposes that in the event a municipally owned corporation leases it facilities to a private corporation, it shall be regulated by the Public Utility Commission, and the reasons for this are obvious. You can readily see that if a lease is assigned to a private corporation, there will be very little, if any, regulation as to rates and service by the Public Utility Commission, so that if the gas rate today is eighty-five or ninety cents and they give a certain quality of gas to the consumer, if these leases are assigned to a private individual or corporation, they may cut the service, they may give a worse type of gas to the consumer, which probably will cost much less, and no regulation will be had if this House Bill 338 is passed. It was stated that there is and will be a Gas Commission created and we all know what gas commissions created by a municipality or those interested in utilities would do in the event of bad service or higher rates or poorer gas.

Therefore, I ask the membership of this House, in interest of Philadelphia citizens, and because this bill is primarily aimed at the Philadelphia situation, to vote for this amendment, to assure the consumers of gas in Philadelphia proper service, proper facilities, and also a proper type of gas which they will use.

Mr. TAHL. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Ominsky, seeks by this amendment to practically nullify the bill that is now before the House. Under the Constitution the legislature has no right to delegate to any commission the right to regulate the rates of any municipally owned utilities. There is no question but that under article III it has no right to do that.

The only thing this bill does is to qualify the law on that point so as to avoid litigation. This amendment that has been introduced will nullify the entire bill. If this amendment is adopted there wouldn't be any use in passing this bill at all. It is aimed to interfere with the city authorities of Philadelphia in balancing the budget. It is merely a political move; it is not a move for the benefit of the city of Philadelphia, because the Public Utility Commission has assumed certain rights with reference to fixing the rate in Philadelphia, which is not its province under the law under which it now functions. Under the lease as now pending, there is gas commission set up which would take care of the consumers of Philadelphia.

This move on the part of Mr. Ominsky is to interfere with the authorities of the city of Philadelphia to stabilize its financial condition, and therefore, I ask the House to vote down this amendment.

Mr. OMINSKY. Mr. Speaker and members of the House this bill will not nullify House Bill No. 338, because House Bill 338 is a State-wide bill. This amendment will apply particularly to Philadelphia. The only thing that it will nullify will be the attempt of council in Philadelphia to foster on the citizens of Philadelphia a debt of $50,000,000 which will be borne for the next seventeen years, at the end of which time experts have admitted it will have cost the city the sum of $73,500,000 instead of $50,000,000 which it will get today. Outside of that this bill may be a proper bill. The bill is state-wide and perhaps municipally owned utilities should be excluded from a regulatory body if as provided they themselves operate those facilities and do not lease them to private corporations.

Mr. LEVY. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Tahl.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. TAHL. I will, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. LEVY. Mr. Speaker, I would like the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Tahl, to explain to the House the purpose of this bill.

Mr. TAHL. Mr. Speaker, while we are discussing these amendments I have no objections, with the permission of the Speaker, to explain the purpose of this bill, which is to clarify the law, that the Public Utility Commission shall not interfere with the regulation of the rates of municipally owned utilities.

Mr. LEVY. I would like, Mr. Speaker, to ask the gentleman from Philadelphia one other question. Does the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Tahl, know that at the present time there is a case pending before the Dauphin County Court that deals directly with this point.

Mr. TAHL. Mr. Speaker, I know there is a case pending in the Dauphin County Court, but it does not deal exactly on this point.

The SPEAKER. The Chair feels that the gentleman should as closely as possible confine his interrogation to the amendment. The Chair realizes that the bill is of considerable importance and desires to allow great latitude in the interrogation.

Mr. LEVY. Mr. Speaker, does the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Tahl, know if this bill affects the counties within the state?

Mr. TAHL. Mr. Speaker, my belief is that it does not.

Mr. LEVY. Mr. Speaker, does the gentleman from Philadelphia know that it does affect the P. R. T. of Philadelphia in relation to the Broad Street subway?

Mr. TAHL. Mr. Speaker it does not affect the P. R. T. of Philadelphia.

Mr. LEVY. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I rise to support the amendments of the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Ominsky, because I feel that his amendments will not nullify House Bill 338, it will do the very thing which the members of this assembly should be in favor of for this reason: the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Tahl, is not familiar with the conditions outside of the county of Philadelphia or he would not have stated that this bill does not affect other counties within the state. I feel that the attention of the members of this House should be called to the fact that in the County of Carbon, the Borough of Lehighton has a municipally owned plant which is operated and run by the Pennsylvania Power and Light Company. I feel, Mr. Speaker and members of the House, in view of this fact, that this bill is not a city of Philadelphia bill, but on the contrary is a state-wide bill, and if it affects the County of Carbon, it may also affect Allegheny County and the County of Luzerne, and so forth.

I feel that the people of Pennsylvania should be given an opportunity to be heard on this bill, because I feel that the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Tahl, is attempting to mislead this House. This bill is a state-wide bill and not a city of Philadelphia bill. Regardless of whether or not this bill is to effect some purpose of an organization in Philadelphia, it is not to our interest. I feel that the membership of this House is entitled to represent their constituents, not only the Representatives from Carbon County, who have a definite interest in this bill, because it affects the gas or water consumers in their respective counties, but also the representatives of Allegheny County, and other counties.

Mr. Speaker, I would appeal to the membership of this House to vote "aye" on the amendments of Mr. Ominsky.

Mr. TAHL. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, if there was any doubt in your minds that this is a political move on the part of the Democrats of Philadelphia, it was answered by Mr. Ominsky's argument and also by Mr. Levy's argument because under the law, the Legislature had no right to delegate any such power to a commission. For the benefit of the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Levy, may I read the following Article of the Constitution, Article III, Section 20.

"Section 20. The General Assembly shall not delegate to any special commission, private corporation or association, any power to make, supervise or interfere with any municipal improvement, money, property or effects, whether held in trust or otherwise, or to levy taxes or perform any municipal function whatever."

Under this Article The Public Service Commission has no right to regulate the rates of any municipally owned improvement. This amendment is merely to clarify the law so as to avoid any further litigation. Our Democratic members from Philadelphia are trying to interfere with the balancing of the budget. Their opposition is for no other than political purposes, and I ask you to vote "no" on this amendment.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, there is one point, among others, upon which I am in doubt and I would like to have the gentleman from Philadelphia clarify my thinking on that point.

For example, the borough of Breckenridge in Allegheny County, now owns and operates its electric light plant and its water plant. If the Borough of Breckenridge were to lease to a utility company those utilities which it now owns and operates, would that company operating the utilities in Breckenridge be free from all state supervision and regulation?

The SPEAKER. Is the gentleman from Cambria asking that by way of interrogation?

Mr. ANDREWS. I am asking for information and I would like the gentleman from Philadelphia to explain that.

Mr. TAHL. Mr. Speaker, in answer to the question of the gentleman from Cambria, Mr. Andrews, I would say that this matter was taken up with the Chief of the Reference Bureau and he thought it would not affect it. However, if there were amendments prepared to make sure about that, if the gentleman from Cambria, Mr. Andrews, is in doubt about that point, I have no objection, when this bill passes the House, that the same be amended in the Senate, to clarify the situation on that point.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker and members of the House I think we have developed the fact that the sponsor of this measure is not exactly sure as to what extent his bill would affect the boroughs of the state that operate their own utilities, and instead of suggesting that this bill be strengthened or amended in the Senate, to clarify the sponsor's own doubt, it would be better if we would delay its passage in this House until he has conferred further with the Legislative Reference Bureau and brought in the clarifying amendments which he said he has discussed with the authorities.

Mr. TAHL. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I think I did not make myself clear. There was no doubt in my mind, and there was no doubt in the mind of the Legislative Reference Bureau on that point. The thought was that it would not affect any other utilities referred to by Mr. Andrews, but I said if he has any doubt on that point I have no objection, in fact, I will agree when this bill reaches the Senate that that be clarified. There is no doubt in the mind of the Legislative Reference Bureau that it affects in no way, shape or form the point that Mr. Andrews refers to.

Mr. ACHTERMAN. Mr. Speaker I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Tahl.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. TAHL. I will Mr. Speaker.

Mr. ACHTERMAN. Mr. Speaker, do I understand the gentleman from Philadelphia to state that in the instant case of Mr. Andrews of Cambria, that the Public Utility Commission would regulate the particular companies he has referred to?

Mr. TAHL. Mr. Speaker, I mean to say it would not interfere with the existing law so far as other utilities are concerned.

Mr. ACHTERMAN. Mr. Speaker, do I understand that in the event that a municipality outside the city of Philadelphia were to lease their utility to a private company that then the present existing law would apply?

Mr. TAHL. Mr. Speaker, I would say that under this bill, if passed, the Public Utility Commission would have no right to fix the rates of the municipally owned utilities.

Mr. ACHTERMAN. Mr. Speaker, if operated by a private company?

Mr. TAHL. Mr. Speaker, I think the municipality would have the right to fix the rates in that case.

Mr. ACHTERMAN. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman from Philadelphia County kindly explain why in this instant case they set up a Commission in the city of Philadelphia presumably to regulate the rates, and did not do so outside the city of Philadelphia?

Mr. TAHL. Mr. Speaker, my explanation is that this was entirely a matter for the party who negotiated the different leases, or different arrangements. It was thought best for Philadelphia to have a commission set up.

Mr. ACHTERMAN. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, from the interrogation it would seem to me to be very apparent that the only regulation that they intend to place is perhaps, and that is not certain, on the gas works of Philadelphia, while the utility companies throughout the rest of Pennsylvania, if they can secure the utilities owned by the municipalities, will be able to operate them without even a commission to regulate them. Certainly there can be no stronger reason than that to support the amendments offered by the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Ominsky.

Mr. LEVY. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I feel very much the way the gentleman from Monroe feels, when he says that apparently the gentleman from Philadelphia is not very well prepared to answer certain questions concerning the state-wide issue in this bill. I would bring to the attention of the members, when I asked the gentleman from Philadelphia the second question as to the purpose of this bill, he cited the section of the Constitution of Pennsylvania, Section 20, which I believe says distinctly that the Commonwealth is not permitted to delegate its power to a separate body, nevertheless this very bill delegates the power to a hand-picked gas commission in Philadelphia.

Mr. OMINSKY. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, it had not been my intention to prolong debate on this particular amendment because I have some other amendments to offer. But I think, in answer to the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Tahl, with reference to the facts that this is supposedly a political measure and a political movement on the part of the Democrats, let me remind him that on February 3, 1939, a Republican councilman in Philadelphia referred to this very plan in these words:

"Hijack plot laid to gas companies. Councilman Maxman assails executives to raise $50,000,000 on rentals". In addition to that, every issue of the "Citizens Business" and the pamphlet issued by the Bureau of Municipal Research, which is a non-partisan body, has condemned this plan of council, which they are trying to put through in Philadelphia, and if he thinks with these things in view, this is a political measure, let him vote it down and let the Philadelphia members vote against these amendments. I ask for a roll call Mr. Speaker.

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. Ominsky and Mr. Achterman.

Messrs. Corrigan, Finnerty and Tarr asked for a verification of the roll.

The roll was verified and was as follows:

So the question was determined in the negative and the amendments were not agreed to.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the section?

Mr. OMINSKY. Mr. Speaker, I withdraw my other amendments to this section.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the section?

It was agreed to.

The second section was read as follows:

Section 2 Article Three Section Three hundred one of said act be and the same is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 301 Rates to be just and reasonable Every rate made demanded or received by any public utility or by any two or more public utilities jointly shall be just and reasonable and in conformity with regulations or orders of the commission Provided that [any] only public utility service being furnished or rendered by a municipal corporation or by the operating agencies of any municipal corporation beyond its corporate limits shall be subject to regulations and control by the commission as to rates with the same force and in like manner as if such service were rendered by a public utility

On the question,

Will the House agree to the section?

Mr. OMINSKY. Mr. Speaker, I desire to offer the following amendments.

The SPEAKER. The amendments will be read by the Clerk.

The amendments were read by the Clerk as follows:

Amend Sec. 2 (Sec. 301), page 4, line 23 by inserting after the word "jointly" the following: "or by any municipality which has leased its property to a private organization"

Amend Sec. 2 (Sec. 301), page 4, lines 25 to 28 by striking out the following: "Provided that only public utility" in line 25 and all of lines 26 to 28 both inclusive

Amend Sec. 2 (Sec. 301), page 5, lines 1 to 3 both inclusive, by striking out all of said lines

Amend Sec. 2 (Sec. 301), page 5, line 3 by adding after the word "utility" the following: "Provided, further, That when any municipal corporation shall lease its public utility facilities to any private corporation for a term in excess of ten years, such facilities and rates shall be subject to the commission when such public utility service is being furnished or rendered within or beyond its corporate limits"

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendments?

Mr. OMINSKY. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, the amendments as read are rather obvious to every one in this House, and the reason they are offered at this time is because the House saw fit to reject the other amendments which would provide regulation by the Public Utility Commission upon the leasing of municipally owned utilities to private corporations.

These amendments provide when municipally owned utilities are leased to private corporations, the lease shall not be for more than ten years. This is in conformity with the present lease which Council has already passed and approved, and which the private utility is endeavoring to extend in order to grant the $50,000,000 loan to Philadelphia. It is our contention and I believe the contention of everyone who is interested in good government, that no municipality should lease any facilities, whether they are gas works, water works or transit facilities for more than ten years, so that at the end of that period, the city or borough or township may be able to change the regulations in accordance with the changing of time.

These amendments are aimed at the provisions of the newly assigned lease which is now being discussed in Philadelphia, whereby the present gas lease, which is now limited to ten years, may be extended to fifteen or seventeen or possibly twenty years, and therefore I ask the membership of this House to vote for these amendments.

Mr. TAHL. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, it is evident that our friends on the other side are endeavoring to upset the balancing of the budget in the city of Philadelphia. My opinion is that the extension of the lease was not asked by the utilities. It is my understanding that that in the judgment of the city authorities is the proper thing to do. Now, what difference does it make whether the lease is for ten or eleven years, if it is a proper arrangement? I think all of those questions should be left to the municipal authorities.

Again I say, as I said before, this is a move on the part of our friends from Philadelphia on the other side to interfere with Council in balancing the budget, and for that reason I ask the members of the House not to be influenced by the political argument of my friend, Mr. Ominsky, and vote down these amendments.

Mr. OMINSKY. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, there is only one answer I can give to the remarks of the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Tahl, when he says that we are endeavoring to interfere with the Philadelphia budget. It is ridiculous. I think everyone in the state knows the Philadelphia budget has been unbalanced for the last ten years, due to the machinations of the Republican Council of Philadelphia.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, a rural member, I resent the situation in which we find ourselves. I don't want to be involved in these interminable quarrels about Philadelphia. That city has been the ward of this Legislature for forty years, and it has certainly made an interminable mess of its own affairs. It always can come here, and half of the time beneath its propositions there is a curious proposal which involves the rural districts.

I don't care what Philadelphia does; I don't care how big its debt is, I don't care what kind of a bill my friend has, but I do say to him that in fairness to the rural members, he should take his bill and so amend it that everybody can understand that its provisions do not apply to the rural counties, the rural boroughs and the townships, and if he will do that, I will vote for anything he asks.

Mr. REUBEN E. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Tahl.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia permit himself to be interrogated.

Mr. TAHL. I will Mr. Speaker.

Mr. REUBEN E. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, do I understand exactly that the passage of this bill will balance the Philadelphia budget.

Mr. TAHL. Mr. Speaker, it will facilitate the balancing of the budget.

Mr. REUBEN E. COHEN. Isn't it true, Mr. Speaker, that Philadelphia is $90,000,000 in debt, city and that it spends that much a year, approximately, to run its various affairs.

Mr. TAHL. Mr. Speaker, I do not have that statement before me, but if the gentleman from Philadelphia has it, he can read it to the House.

Mr. REUBEN E. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I believe that the best authorities say it takes $86,000,000 and some few pennies to run the city of Philadelphia every year, and isn't it true and doesn't the gentleman from Philadelphia agree with me that the income per year is about $63,000,000 from all sources of taxes that the citizens of the city of Philadelphia will stand for.

The SPEAKER. The Chair feels that we are not debating the budget of Philadelphia, but the question on the amendment before the House.

Mr. REUBEN E. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, the purpose of my question is to clear up a slight misunderstanding among some of my colleagues. Will the gentleman answer the last question.

Mr. TAHL. Would you mind repeating the last question.

Mr. REUBEN E. COHEN. Am I not correct also in stating that the income of the city of Philadelphia out of all taxes for which the citizens of Philadelphia will stand for, is approximately $63,000,000 and some old pennies per year.

Mr. TAHL. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman is incorrect.

Mr. REUBEN E. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman inform me what the amount is.

Mr. TAHL. Mr. Speaker, I haven't the figures before me, but I think if the gentleman will refer to the budget, he will find it is a little over $68,000,000.

Mr. REUBEN E. COHEN. Over $68,000,000. I will take the correction. Will the gentleman further inform me if the $50,000,000 that this bill will provide will enable the city of Philadelphia to operate on our meager income?

Mr. TAHL. Mr. Speaker, I suggest that the gentleman consult with City Council of Philadelphia, who will give him the information.

The SPEAKER. The question seems to be as clear as mud.

Mr. REUBEN E. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman also inform me whether or not the control of the gas rates in Philadelphia will under this bill go back to the Gas Commission of Philadelphia.

Mr. TAHL. Mr. Speaker, that is where it should be, in the Gas Commission, because they are appointed by the authorities of the city of Philadelphia.

Mr. REUBEN E. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman advise me who set our gas rates before the passage of the Public Utility Bill in 1937.

Mr. TAHL. Mr. Speaker, while I am not sure, I think it was the Gas Commission.

Mr. REUBEN E. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman agree with me that he and I represent contiguous districts in Philadelphia known as the Northern Liberties Section of Philadelphia.

Mr. TAHL. Mr. Speaker, I agree.

Mr. REUBEN E. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman agree with me that the river front district which my friend from Philadelphia and I represent pays five cents per one hundred more for its gas than any other part of Philadelphia.

Mr. TAHL. Mr. Speaker, I am not objecting to it; I have been paying it.

Mr. REUBEN E. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman then say that with the control and regulation of rates by the Public Utility Commission removed, that condition might not remain.

Mr. TAHL. Mr. Speaker, I think if the Gas Commission fixed the rates, our rates would be much lower than they are today.

The SPEAKER. The Chair feels that the gentleman has proceeded far enough on that question.

Mr. REUBEN E. COHEN. I was just about to thank the gentleman.

Mr. Speaker and members of the House, after having received practically no information at all, as the Speaker indicated, I want to point out that in my particular district, I believe that Mr. Tahl and I certainly don't care about paying five cents per hundred more for gas than anybody else in our district, because we are politicians and the state takes care of us. However, the old Gas Commission in Philadelphia, in years gone by, always forgot about the good old Northern Liberties and I don't suspect that the new gas commission, should they get this plenary power that this bill seeks to give them, is going to do us any good.

I wish to point out to the members of this House, that the Public Utility Commission is about to do something good for that district, and that is in a suit instituted by taxpayer in that district against the UGI in Philadelphia. The case is before the Public Utility Commission, and in that case I have recently been substituted as counsel for a certain taxpayer. We have been told positively that we are going to get a saving of five cents per hundred in the Northern Liberties district, including Mr. Tahl and myself who do not want any such reduction. So it seems to me, to add one little plaintive note to the arguments heretofore advanced by my colleagues on this side of the House, that this bill should not be permitted to go out in this form, and I quite agree with Mr. Andrews, the gentleman from Cambria, as it may effect the rural districts of the state.

Mr. TAHL. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I do not want to debate the bill at this time, but I want to say that this gas lease before the Commission has very favorable features in that it reduces the rental cost, it reduces the cost of operation, and notwithstanding all that, the Public Utility Commission has seen fit to withhold approval of the lease. I am informed on very good authority that if this rate is fixed by the Gas Commission of Philadelphia the rates will be reduced and my friend will not be paying five cents more than they are paying in other parts of the city of Philadelphia.

I again ask that the amendment be voted down.

Mr. LEVY. Mr. Speaker, and members of the House, I don't want to take up any more of your time but I just want to add one word. Mr. Tahl expresses very emphatically that this bill has to do with some sort of political maneuvering in Philadelphia. I say to you members outside of Philadelphia, don't be fooled by this statement. This bill is a state issue. It affects every town and hamlet in every county in Pennsylvania where we have a municipally owned utility.

Mr. Tahl is not coming into this House and fooling any members from Philadelphia or any members from outside of Philadelphia by stating that this is another Philadelphia political trick. It is not. If Mr. Tahl were correct he should read the bid that was submitted by bankers in Philadelphia to City Council, affecting this fifty million dollar loan. Don't let him fool you. This proposal is unconstitutional today and it will be unconstitutional after we pass this piece of legislation. Then what do we have? After the Supreme Court declares this $50,000,000 loan is not constitutional, we are going to have a repealer of the most humane piece of legislation that was passed last session in this House, the Public Utility Law. You will rip from the state Public Utility Commission a power which is vested in it by a law and hand it to hand-picked committees in various councils, and I might add, gentlemen, that Philadelphia is the only county that has a local commission, which means nothing. How about Carbon County? Does Mr. Tahl know that in Carbon County there is no local commission to take up the work, when the Public Utility Commission has its power ripped from it. What do we have after this is over? We have a public utility operating a city owned plant without any supervision.

Mr. LONG. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, like most members of the House I didn't have an opportunity to look at these amendments previous to this evening. However, it is my understanding that the present amendments submitted by the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Ominsky, provide that where a city or municipality leases to a private corporation or private interest its publicly owned utility, and when that lease is in excess of ten years, then the public shall be protected by having the public Utility Commission supervise the rate and also the regulations of service of the utility.

Now there seems to be some doubt as to whether it is wise to balance Philadelphia's budget by this peculiar method. There even seems to be some doubt as to whether we can balance it at all with this method. There seems to be some doubt as to the wisdom of financing an accumulated deficit of forty million dollars in Philadelphia at this time. There seems to be an even greater doubt as to whether it is wise at this time to also finance ten million dollars of current deficit by such a method. However, these issues only affect us in Philadelphia. If we intend to mortgage the future assets of the city of Philadelphia at this time to meet a so called crisis, that probably is our business. However, there is another point of view. It might benefit us to do these things but, would it benefit the members of the rest of the state to mortgage their future, to mortgage their protection in order to solve the present problem in Philadelphia? That is a matter, not for us from Philadelphia but for you from outside of Philadelphia. Do you wish to mortgage future regulations? Do you wish to sell the rights that you have under the Public Utility Commission Act of regulating the rates and the service of the locally owned and privately operated utilities in excess of ten years? This particular amendment would only permit you to mortgage your future for a ten year period without any insurance.

Mr. SKALE. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, it isn't often that I rise to my feet to address the House, but when I do it is because I feel the necessity and the urgency of doing so.

When I first read this bill I was opposed to it because I didn't quite understand its purpose but after listening to the remarks intended to be in explanation of this bill I became more and more confused. In fact it reminds me of an incident that occurred not so long ago. It seems there was a group of people discussing certain matters and remarks were being bantered back and forth the same as they are on this bill. It also seems, as I later learned, that there was a young lady who came from a very strong Republican district in Philadelphia, but apparently she did not quite understand the difference between the words "facetious" and "Facist", and somebody asked her after she had made certain remarks whether she was attempting to be facetious, and she said, "No, I am a Republican".

Now, members of the House, as I stated to you, this bill and the explanation have become more and more confusing to my mind. To you men outside of Philadelphia who are going along blindly on this bill I appeal to you, because at some time in the very near future this will come back to haunt you. If you have never seen a ghost walk, you certainly shall in the very near future if you oppose these amendments. The passage of this bill will come back in the very near future to haunt you. I say to you, members of the rural districts, don't follow blindly in opposing these amendments. I ask you, if there is anything you can do, in properly serving your constituents in order to clarify the provisions of this bill, vote for the amendments so that we will know just how we stand on this bill.

Mr. McKINNEY. Mr. Speaker, I just wish to thank the various members from Philadelphia who are so much interested in the rural members and to say that in my experience on the floor of this House, this is the first time it has ever happened.

The SPEAKER. The Chair has no doubt that anything that will cause the gentleman from Venango to make a speech, must be a rare occurrence.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the amendment?

It was not agreed to.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the section?

It was agreed to.

The third section was read as follows:

Section 3. This act shall become effective immediately upon final enactment.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill?

Mr. OMINSKY. Mr. Speaker, I desire to offer the following amendment.

The SPEAKER. The amendment will be read by the Clerk.

The amendment was read by the Clerk as follows:

Amend Bill, page 5, by inserting between lines 3 and 4 the following: "Section 3. The provision of this act shall not apply to any municipal corporation which assigns its lease or leases, the value of which involves more than forty million dollars."

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendments?

Mr. OMINSKY. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I hope you will indulge with me in these various amendments. I want to assure the membership of the House, although I don't think it will be necessary, that these amendments are not offered in any sense as obstructionist amendments. They are real amendments intended to benefit the city of Philadelphia.

These amendments which I have just offered were inspired by two things, first, the fact that the membership has so far voted down two other amendments which were offered, and these are intended to get something for the citizens of Philadelphia.

The second consideration is an editorial which appeared in the Evening Bulletin, which is a conservative Republican paper of Philadelphia, on February 11, 1939, which reads as follows:

"From Bad to Worse"

"In recent years Council has resorted to a variety of indefensible devices to permit it to spend more money than revenue placed at its disposal. One method was to appropriate less than was needed to carry on city business—as in short-changing police payrolls. Another was to incur deficiency bills for supplies not provided for in the budget. A third was to appropriate against over-estimates of revenue, despite certainty that the income set down on paper could not be realized. Over-spending has now produced a cumulative deficit of some $39,500,000.

"Though Council has exhausted book-keeping expedients to enable it to persevere in a ruinous financial course, it has one more scheme in its bag of tricks. Under cover of securing cash advances against future gas works revenue for the purpose of extinguishing floating debt, the Councilmen purpose to slip in a $10,000,000 item of borrowed money to enable them to continue for another year the over-spending practice.

"This is crack-brained finance. It will hurt the city's credit, hurt the taxpayers, hurt the merchants and impede civic progress. The project ought to be blocked by an uprising of level-headed citizens.

"To pay off one form of debt with another, and satisfy the just demands of city creditors with ready cash, is quite defensible if legally practicable; but to incur new debt for 1939 running expenses is a horse of another color. Who, outside of Council, favors this method of making a bad situation worse?"

This, Mr. Speaker and members of the House, is the reason for these amendments. They provide that Council can only acquire $40,000,000 as a result of the lease of the gas works, and in that way only take care of the present debt and not a future possible debt of $10,000,000. Again I repeat to the membership of this House that the project ought to be blocked by an uprising of level-headed citizens, and I presume, members of this House, that you are all level-headed citizens.

Mr. TAHL. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, this amendment should also be voted down for the reason that has already been stated. There is also an additional reason, that is that Council should not be hampered in its balancing of the budget. There should not be any interference with the Council of the city of Philadelphia in that respect, because the citizens of Philadelphia do not want any additional taxes. For that reason I ask you to vote these amendments down.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the amendment?

It was not agreed to.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the section?

Mr. OMINSKY. Mr. Speaker, I desire to offer the following amendment.

The SPEAKER. The amendment will be read by the Clerk.

The amendment was read by the Clerk as follows:

Amend Bill, page 5, by inserting between lines 3 and 4 the following: "Section 3. Any municipal corporation assigning any lease of any operating company, shall apply ten per centum of such proceeds to defraying Works Progress Administration projects within its own corporate limits."

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendment?

Mr. OMINSKY. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, in asking the membership of this House to vote for these amendments I want to say sincerely and definitely that these amendments affect every corner of the state of Pennsylvania. This amendment provides that if the capital, if the assets of municipal government, are leased to a corporation, ten per cent of those assets should be expended in capital expenditures, such as works relief. We all know what the situation in Philadelphia is regarding works relief. We know that due to the lack of appropriation of funds by the Council of the city of Philadelphia in the last two years that the relief rolls all over Philadelphia have mounted to such an extent that it is costing Pennsylvania anywhere from ten to fifteen million dollars in payment of direct relief. This amendment provides when an assignment of a lease is made, whereby cash goes into the coffers of the city of Philadelphia, and, Mr. Speaker and members of the House, this bill is particularly aimed at Philadelphia, for instance, if they lease the gas works for fifty million dollars, at least five million of those fifty million dollars goes for the sponsoring of works relief, and therefore effects a saving for the taxpayers of Pennsylvania of at least from twelve and one-half to fifteen million dollars a year, because the works progress projects are sponsored by the federal government in Washington, whereas direct relief in Pennsylvania is paid direct by the citizens of Pennsylvania. Let me remind you, in support of these amendments, of the speech which His Excellency, the Governor, made on inauguration day, which you will find in the journal on page 142, where he stated as follows:

"Pennsylvania wants to pay her proper share of the national costs. She is more than willing, even anxious, to extend her helping hand to any other communities which may have more distress and suffering than Pennsylvania has. But in the present crisis, in which we have fallen far behind most other states in employment, in which we ourselves may be in grave need of help, it would be manifestly unfair for this state to be expected to pay a disproportionately large sum of national cost without an equally large ratio of return."

"At the proper time I shall submit to Washington Pennsylvania's request for further PWA, WPA and similar grants. There is no reason to expect anything but a favorable response to these requests, since it is my intention to do my full share in seeing that such moneys are expended for precisely the same purpose for which they were raised—honestly expended for worth-while projects that will furnish employment to men and women otherwise would have to be supported by relief."

This amendment intends to carry out this very thing which Governor James said on his inauguration day. Lest there be a misunderstanding, these WPA funds will be protected and expended by the Republican City Council, and so, surely, this is not a political move.

Mr. TAHL. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I do not want to take up any more of your time but this is another move to hamper and hamstring the city of Philadelphia. The city of Philadelphia is able to do it and it will do it anyway, and for that reason I ask you to vote down the amendment.

Mr. HERBERT B. COHEN. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I am concerned with the passage of this amendment because I am concerned with the balancing of our own state budget. The Governor's budget provides for an appropriation of $129,000,000 for relief. The present biennium will require the expenditure not of $129,000,000 but of approximately $204,000,000 for relief, because of the tremendous relief load that has been born by the citizens of Pennsylvania and by the taxpayers of Pennsylvania, and that has been brought about in part by the fact that not all of the Pennsylvania municipalities have availed themselves of the opportunities of reducing the relief load by utilizing work relief. Philadelphia has approximately two million people, representing one-fifth of the population of this Commonwealth. However, Philadelphia has approximately two-fifths of the relief rolls, occasioned by the fact that Philadelphia has not utilized or availed itself of Federal relief funds in WPA projects, nor has it availed itself of Federal assistance. I understand that these amendments require a certain percentage, ten percent, of the moneys secured from the leasing of the Philadelphia Gas Works shall be utilized in capital improvement through WPA projects. It is not good financing for the city of Philadelphia to take an asset of this size that brings into the coffers of the city of Philadelphia a yearly rental, an appreciable income of four million two hundred thousand dollars, to take that asset and mortgage the income for approximately seventeen years with the result that the city of Philadelphia will be deprived of that $4,200,000 income, and the money obtained thereby would be utilized in the payment of current expenses. Philadelphia, by this bill, is going to dissipate a capital asset. It is only logical that in order to obviate the entire wasting of these moneys through the entire dissipation of these capital assets, that some of these capital assets should be turned into other capital assets, and at the same time relieve the relief situation that is of concern to all the people of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. I would say to the members of Philadelphia, I would say to the members from the rural counties, if we are concerned about the problem of balancing our own state budget, if we are concerned about the fact that the Governor himself readily admits that the $129,000,000 will not last for appreciably more than thirteen or fourteen months, if we are concerned with the necessity of having an extraordinary session of the Legislature in order to raise the revenue in order to take care of relief for the balance of the biennium, if we are concerned with the conservation of the assets of the Commonwealth, if we are concerned about obviating the necessity of imposing any new taxes, if we can reduce our relief rolls, our direct relief rolls, if we can reduce the direct relief rolls of Philadelphia, which, as I said before, has but one-fifth of the population and two-fifths of the relief rolls, occasioning the expenditure during the biennium of approximately $80,000,000 to maintain relief in the city of Philadelphia, if that can be obviated, if that can be cut down, I say that it is the province of the members of this House to so do and I ask unanimous support for these amendments.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the amendments?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. Ominsky and Mr. Herbert B. Cohen.

Messrs. Ominsky, Levy and Long asked for a verification of the roll.

The roll was verified and was as follows:

So the question was determined in the negative and the amendment was not agreed to.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the section?

Mr. OMINSKY. Mr. Speaker, I desire to offer the following amendment.

The SPEAKER. The amendment will be read by the Clerk.

The amendment was read by the Clerk as follows:

Amend Sec. 3, page 5, lines 4 and 5 by striking out the following: H "immediately upon final enactment" and inserting in lieu thereof: "the first day of January, one thousand nine hundred and forty"

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendment?

Mr. OMINSKY. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I may be accused of trying to obstruct the passage of this bill unduly, but that is not so. The purpose of this amendment is to provide an effective date beyond the next councilmanic election. You all probably know this November the entire Council of the City of Philadelphia comes up for election and the Mayor of Philadelphia is to be elected, and I say, that the insertion of this amendment to this bill thus extending the effective date to the end of the year will indirectly give the citizens of Philadelphia a referendum vote on the question as to whether or not the Philadelphia citizens prefer to be burdened with a $50,000,000 loan on its gas works which to my mind will be a proper issue in Philadelphia as far as the local election is concerned. Instead of offering an amendment for a referendum for the city of Philadelphia on this bill which would involve additional cost and expense for a special election, this amendment intends to provide a referendum by the vote of the people of Philadelphia in the November councilmanic and mayoralty election, therefore I ask the members of the House to vote aye on this amendment.

Mr. TAHL. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I do not desire to unduly prolong this debate but it is very evident from this amendment that it was conceived in iniquity and is a further endeavor to hamstring the Council of the city of Philadelphia. In other words, the gentleman is worrying about the election in 1939 and that is what he is talking about. I ask the members of the House to vote down this amendment.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the amendment?

It was not agreed to.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the section?

It was agreed to.

The title was read as follows:

An Act to amend Section Three hundred one of an Act approved the Twenty-seventh day of May one thousand nine hundred and thirty-seven Pamphlet Laws one thousand and fifty-three known as the "Public Utility Law" by excluding from the definition of "Facilities" as used therein property owned by municipal corporations of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania when the said act became effective and providing that the Pennsylvania Public Utility Commission shall have power to regulate and fix the rates for service furnished by public utilities owned by municipal corporations of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania only when the public service being furnished or rendered by any municipal corporations shall be beyond its corporate limits and extending such freedom from regulation and control by the Commission to public utility service furnished or rendered by an operating agency of any such municipal corporation.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the title?

Mr. TAHL. Mr. Speaker, I desire to offer the following amendment.

The SPEAKER. The amendment will be read by the Clerk.

The amendment was read by the Clerk as follows:

Amend title, page 1, line 1 of title, by inserting after the word "amend" the following: "Clause ten of Section two and."

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendment?

Mr. TAHL. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, this amendment is made to make it legal and make it consistent with the amendment to the bill.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the amendment?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the title as amended?

It was agreed to.

And said bill having been read at length the second time and agreed to as amended.

Ordered, To be transcribed for a third reading.

MOTION TO RECOMMIT

Mr. OMINSKY. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, in view of the fact that the Republican majority of this House has seen fit to vote down all the good amendments which were intended for the relief of the citizens of Philadelphia, I now move that House Bill No. 338, Printer's No. 37, be recommitted to the Committee on Public Utilities for further study and possible public hearing. I feel that not only should Philadelphia but every rural county of Pennsylvania should be given an opportunity to voice its opinion on this measure.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

Mr. TAHL. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, this is another move to delay the passage of this bill. I have said enough about this bill and I do not care to say any more, but I ask you to vote down the motion.

Mr. OMINSKY. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, this is not another move to delay, but even if it were—this bill, involving the sum of $50,000,000 and a mortgage for seventeen years on the facilities which Philadelphia now owns, is important enough to delay it a short time until we get a proper determination of it.

This bill was introduced on February 28th; it was reported out of Committee on Public Utilities, on March 7th, just seven calendar days, and perhaps two legislative days afterwards, and it is now up practically for final passage. No one has had a chance to discuss this bill; no one has had a chance to look into the merits of this bill. As a matter of fact the sponsor of the bill has indicated on interrogation, on the floor of this House, that he does not know anything about the bill. Therefore, in fairness, not only to Philadelphia but to every community of Pennsylvania, this bill should not be passed today but should be aired at a public hearing, where opportunity will be given for both sides of the question to be heard.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the motion?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. Ominsky and Mr. Matthew J. Welsh.

BILL ON THIRD READING

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 196, entitled:

An Act to amend the act approved the seventh day of August one thousand nine hundred and thirty-six (P. L. 117) entitled "An act making an appropriation to the Department of Forests and Waters for the purpose of building and constructing new dikes levees and river bank protections along the Delaware River at Morrisville Borough Bucks County" by fixing the elevations of the said dikes levees and river bank protections

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. HOLLAND. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, it is with pleasure that I rise to support House Bill No. 196, sponsored by the gentleman from Bucks County, Mr. Stockham. I wish to compliment Mr. Stockham on his efforts to protect his constituents from floods. for we in Western Pennsylvania, especially the City of Pittsburgh, are well acquainted with the devastation and ruin caused by floods.

However, we want to also keep uppermost in our minds that as Legislators, we are not merely interested in our own legislative districts, but we are here to legislate for the betterment of all the people in Pennsylvania. I do hope that I am not boring this House in my attempt to have the Governor definitely continue a Flood Program for all of Pennsylvania, which will eliminate individual bills and expense for the treating of flood programs or plans in each individual legislative district in the State.

If the new Secretary of Forests and Waters, as well as the Governor, had not made so many asinine political statements on flood control, the members of this House would feel that the question of flood control was definitely settled and the General Assembly could start studying solutions of other vital problems in our Commonwealth.

Mr. Stockham is to be complimented that he is conscientious in seeing that at least Bucks County will not suffer from future floods. But I do want to point out to Mr. Stockham, the gentleman from Bucks County, that there are sixty-seven counties in this State, and that every inhabitant in these sixty-seven counties should be just as well protected from the ravages of flood waters as are the inhabitants of Bucks County. But if these dikes, which are proposed in this Bill, are necessary to save one life in Bucks County, I am for the Bill 100%, and I ask all the members of the minority party in this House to support this Bill with an "aye" vote.

Mr. STOCKHAM. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, the gentleman from Bucks is quite appreciative of the compliment paid him by the gentleman from Allegheny.

I rise only in an explanatory way to make one statement of fact. The question has been asked of me as to whether this bill contains an appropriation. It is an amendment to a former bill which did in itself contain an appropriation. This bill does not contain any appropriation. It simply fixes the elevation, the top and the height of this dike, and describes what those elevations shall be and how they shall be arrived at.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

SENATE MESSAGE

TIME OF NEXT MEETING

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced presented an extract from the Journal of the Senate, which was read as follows:

In the Senate, March 13, 1939.

Resolved (if the House of Representatives concur), That when the Senate adjourns this week it reconvene on Monday evening, March 20, at nine o'clock; and when the House of Representatives adjourns this week it reconvene on Monday evening, March 20, at eight o'clock.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the House of Representatives for its concurrence.

On the question,

Will the House concur in the resolution of the Senate?

It was concurred in.

Ordered, That the Clerk inform the Senate accordingly.

REQUEST TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. HOLLAND. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent of the House to address the House.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Holland, asks unanimous consent to address the House. Is there objection? The Chair hears objections and consent is not granted.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. HOLLAND. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. HOLLAND. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, much has been said in this House on the vote taken last Monday to discharge the Federal Relations Committee from further consideration of Resolution No. 15, so that legislators—

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a point of order.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state his point of order.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman is not speaking on a question of personal privilege.

The SPEAKER. The point of order is well taken.

Mr. HOLLAND. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman has not permitted me to get into my question of personal privilege, and I was desirous of giving a little introduction as to why this statement should be made.

The SPEAKER. The Chair would like to read Rule No. 67 for the information of the House.

"Any member may rise and explain a matter personal to himself by leave of the Speaker, but he shall not discuss any pending question in such explanation. Questions of personal privilege shall be limited to questions affecting the rights, reputation and conduct of members of the House in their representative capacity."

MOTION TO SUSPEND RULE

Mr. HOLLAND. Mr. Speaker, I move the suspension of the Rule so that I may address the House.

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a point of order.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state his point of order.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, I make the point of order that you cannot suspend personal privilege. Personal privilege is a constitutional right and this House cannot suspend personal privilege.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Allegheny advise the Chair what rule he desires to suspend?

Mr. HOLLAND. Mr. Speaker, I rose to a question of personal privilege because my motive was questioned in this House last Monday by some of the members after the session had adjourned.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will be advised he can only speak on a question of personal privilege with leave of the Chair, and the gentleman so far has not been speaking on a question of personal privilege.

Mr. HOLLAND. I ask unanimous consent, Mr. Speaker, to address the House at this time.

The SPEAKER. If the gentleman desires to speak under personal privilege he may proceed, but the gentleman must proceed in accordance with Rule 67.

PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Mr. HARKINS. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a parliamentary inquiry.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state his parliamentary inquiry.

Mr. HARKINS. Mr. Speaker, did not the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Holland, bring himself within the rule when he stated that his motives had been questioned?

The SPEAKER. For the information of the gentleman, the Chair would say that that was in answer to a question by the Chair. The gentleman has not been talking on the question of personal privilege.

Mr. HARKINS. Mr. Speaker, if the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Holland, had stated that as his question of personal privilege, would he then be within his privilege in talking on a question of personal privilege?

The SPEAKER. If the subject matter of his remarks is directed to the question of his reputation or his integrity.

The Chair desires to read for the information of the House, the following:

"Questions affecting the rights, reputation and conduct of members of the House in their representative capacity are questions of personal privilege.

"Questions of privilege of a member must relate to a person as a member of the body, or relate to charges against his character, which would, if true, incapacitate him for membership, and he is not entitled to the floor on a question of personal privilege unless the subject which he proposes to present relates to him in his representative capacity.

"A person who raises the question of personal privilege must confine himself to remarks which concern himself personally, and when speaking under a personal privilege a member has no right to defend any person other than himself."

If the gentleman from Allegheny will confine himself to the question of personal privilege, he has a right to be heard.

Mr. HARKINS. Do I understand by the ruling of the Speaker, that the Speaker now decides that the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Holland, has presented his question of personal privilege?

The SPEAKER. The Chair did not so rule. The Chair merely stated what the rights of the member were.

The gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Holland, has the floor.

Mr. HOLLAND. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, as stated, my motive in talking on flood control in this House has been assailed by some of the newspapers as being strictly political. I want the members of this House to know that part of my district is flooded by every flood. The people of my district want me to bring back to them a definite answer from the Governor, as well as from the Secretary of Forests and Waters, as to their future plans—

The SPEAKER. The Chair does not feel that the gentleman from Allegheny is talking on a question of personal privilege. The gentleman is making a statement and is out of order.

Mr. HOLLAND. Mr. Speaker, I appeal from the ruling of the Chair.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Allegheny appeals from the ruling of the Chair. Is the appeal seconded? The Chair hears no second to the appeal.

PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Mr. HARKINS. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a parliamentary inquiry.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Allegheny will state his parliamentary inquiry.

Mr. HARKINS. Mr. Speaker, did not the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Holland, state a question of personal privilege when he stated that his motives for certain of his actions in his representative capacity in connection with the question of flood control had been questioned? Did that not entitle him to the floor?

The SPEAKER. The Chair feels that there is no question about that question in either the mind of the member or the Chair. When the gentleman from Allegheny stated that his reputation and his veracity had been questioned he was stating a question of personal privilege, but the gentleman is making a general statement which the Chair feels is apparent to all.

Mr. HARKINS. Mr. Speaker, would it not be desirable to allow the member from Allegheny, Mr. Holland, some latitude in order to explain his motives and his actions in connection with the question of flood control under his question of personal privilege?

The SPEAKER. The Chair feels that that question was determined by the House when the gentleman from Allegheny asked leave to address it. The Chair believes that the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Holland, and the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Harkins, realize that the hour is now about 12:20 and that a great many of the members are anxious to get away from the hall of the House. If the gentleman from Allegheny, with whom the House has had a great deal of patience desires to address the House at some other time, the Chair feels reasonably certain that the members will grant him that privilege, but the gentleman should not at twenty minutes after twelve press for unanimous consent to address the House, and then attempt to make the address by a subterfuge under a question of personal privilege after consent has been denied.

MOTION TO GRANT PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. OMINSKY. Mr. Speaker, I move that this House grant permission to the gentleman from Allegheny to address the House at this time.

The SPEAKER. The motion of the gentleman from Philadelphia is out of order.

Mr. OMINSKY. Mr. Speaker, do I understand the ruling of the Chair to be that this motion is out of order at this time?

The SPEAKER. It is, because unanimous consent is required to address the House.

The Chair desires to explain to the gentleman from Philadelphia that he should mope to suspend the rules if he desires to have the gentleman from Allegheny address the House.

For the information of the gentleman from Philadelphia Rule 14 fixes the regular order of business. For the further information of the gentleman we are on the order of business of resolutions, and therefore if the gentleman desires to address the House he will have to move to suspend Rule 14, and set that order of business aside.

STATEMENT BY MR. OMINSKY

Mr. OMINSKY asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker and members of the House, this is the first time I think since this Session began, that unanimous consent has not been given to a member to address the House. It seems to me it comes with bad grace, whether it is ten minutes after twelve or ten minutes after one, since we have listened to other members address the House for any length of time they wished. This is the first time, it seems to be, that objection has been made, and therefore, I yield the floor to the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Holland.

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Holland.

Mr. HOLLAND. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, last Monday night I asked the members of this House to discharge the Federal Relations Committee—

The SPEAKER. For what purpose does the gentleman arise?

Mr. HOLLAND. Mr. Speaker, to make a brief statement.

The SPEAKER. Will the House give its unanimous consent to the gentleman from Allegheny to address the House? Is there objection? The Chair hears objection, and consent is not granted.

MOTION TO SUSPEND RULE 14

Mr. HOLLAND. Mr. Speaker, I move that Rule 14 be suspended for the specific purpose of allowing me to address the House.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

MOTION TO ADJOURN

Mr. KANE. Mr. Speaker, I move that this House do now adjourn, as there is no further business before it, to re-assemble at one o'clock tomorrow.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

MOTION TO TABLE

Mr. HOLLAND. Mr. Speaker, I move that the motion made by the gentleman from McKean, Mr. Kane, be tabled, and Mr. Speaker, I ask for a roll call.

The SPEAKER. The motion is out of order. A motion to adjourn cannot be laid upon the table.

Mr. HARKINS. Mr. Speaker, I ask for a roll call on the motion of the gentleman from McKean, Mr. Kane.

Mr. BAKER. I second the request.

The SPEAKER. Two members having asked for a roll call, the roll will be called.

Mr. KANE. Mr. Speaker, may I be permitted to say to the gentleman from Allegheny that it is not because I have any objection to his statement, because I raised no objection—

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from McKean is out of order. The motion is not debatable. The question is on the motion to adjourn.

PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a parliamentary inquiry.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Cambria will state his parliamentary inquiry.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, is not a motion to adjourn to a particular time debatable as to the time?

The SPEAKER. On the question raised by the gentleman from Cambria, Mr. Andrews, the Chair feels that this is a simple motion to adjourn and is not debatable.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, does the Chair distinguish between a motion to adjourn sine die and a motion to adjourn to a certain date?

The SPEAKER. The Chair feels that this is a simple, unqualified motion to adjourn. It is not fixing a future date but is adjourning to the time of meeting tomorrow. To permit debate would defeat the purpose of the motion.

QUESTION OF INFORMATION

Mr. ACHTERMAN. Mr. Speaker, I arise to a question of information.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Monroe will state his question of information.

Mr. ACHTERMAN. Mr. Speaker, can the Chair advise me what hour was stated in the motion?

The SPEAKER. The usual hour, one o'clock.

AMENDMENT TO MOTION

Mr. ACHTERMAN. Mr. Speaker, I now arise for the purpose of amending the motion to 8:00 a. m. tomorrow and, Mr. Speaker, I ask for a roll call on my motion.

The SPEAKER. The Chair will read a decision on the question of amending a motion to adjourn.

On the question of agreeing to a motion to adjourn the point of order was raised that a motion to adjourn cannot be amended. The Speaker ruled that a motion to adjourn is not subject to amendment. (Legislative Record, February 7, 1906 page 402). The gentleman is therefore out of order.

APPEAL FROM DECISION OF CHAIR

Mr. ACHTERMAN. Mr. Speaker, I now appeal from the decision of the Chair.

Mr. HOLLAND. Mr. Speaker, I second the appeal.

The SPEAKER. Two members having appealed from the decision of the Chair, the Chair calls upon the gentleman from Lancaster, Mr. Wood, to preside.

Mr. NORMAN WOOD (SPEAKER PRO TEMPORE) IN THE CHAIR

The SPEAKER (pro tempore). The question before the House is:

Shall the ruling of the Speaker stand as the judgment of the House?

Mr. ACHTERMAN. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I desire to speak briefly on the reason for my appeal from the decision of the Chair, and the reason that I believe the appeal should be sustained.

It is indeed a rare occasion, Mr. Speaker, when a member of this House arises for the purpose of addressing the House on a subject that is vital, not only to his community but to the entire state, that the members or a portion of the members of this House would deny that man the opportunity of stating his viewpoint.

This government of ours, Mr. Speaker, is a representative form of government and we meet here regularly for the purpose of discussing the conditions and the ailments of every section of our state, and a duly elected representative of this government should be granted the courtesy, the privilege and the right, at regular times and in a regular manner, to address this assembly, so that the problem that he is bringing here can receive due and proper consideration and attention. No member should be denied the opportunity to address this House. No more serious charge could be hurled than the charge that you are applying here tonight the gag rule upon an individual who desires to tell you of things that affect him and his community.

To sustain this appeal will be to guarantee to the people of Pennsylvania and to their representatives the right to bring their problems here, with the knowledge that they will receive fair, honest and due consideration, and I appeal, not only to the members of this side of the House but I appeal to the spirit of fair play of the Republican members, that this appeal be sustained, so that eventually this representative can lay his problems before us.

PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Mr. KANE. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a parliamentary inquiry.

The SPEAKER (pro tempore). The gentleman from McKean will state his parliamentary inquiry.

Mr. KANE. Mr. Speaker, I would ask the Chair to state clearly for the benefit of the members of the House the exact question upon which we are now voting. I think there is a mistaken impression.

The SPEAKER (pro tempore). The question before the House is: Shall the ruling of the Chair stand as the judgment of the House? The ruling of the Chair is that a motion to adjourn is not subject to amendment.

Mr. KANE. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, in rising to sustain the position of the Chair I would like to say that it seems to me the Chair has made the only ruling possible under parliamentary law. Furthermore, the ruling of the Chair has nothing to do with the shutting off of the expression of opinion of the gentleman from Allegheny.

I was not one of those who raised any objection to the gentleman from Allegheny making his speech. It is quite obvious that a number of people did object. I do not think that the members of this House should be kept until far after midnight with important work to do tomorrow. The only thing that the Chair has decided, as I see it, is the point of parliamentary law that a motion to adjourn is not subject to amendment, and it must be very clear to the membership of this House that that decision must be sustained. If the member wishes to express himself tomorrow I will be glad to help him get that permission.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, I believe that Jefferson's Manual holds that when the House has fixed the hour of daily meeting, when it has a stated time to which it customarily adjourns, and when that hour is fixed by the rules or by practice, to adjourn at twelve o'clock or one o'clock, always the same hour, that a motion to adjourn can not be amended, but on the other hand, when the House does not have a definite time to which it customarily adjourns, the motion may be amended, and it follows naturally in the sequence of parliamentary procedure that any motion which may be amended can be debated.

Therefore, I believe that according to the rules, and the precedents, a motion to adjourn to a definite time each day is subject to amendment, because part of the House might want to adjourn until one o'clock and part of the House might want to adjourn until twelve o'clock. If the motion was not subject to amendment there could be no procedure once the motion to adjourn was before the House.

Mr. KANE. Mr. Speaker, may I submit to the gentleman from Cambria and to the Chair that the very obvious answer to that is, if the majority of the House did not like the time to which adjournment had been moved, they could defeat the motion, and that would settle that.

I ask for a roll call on the question of sustaining the Chair.

Mr. HOLLAND. Mr. Speaker, I rise to support this motion because I believe that I am vitally concerned in this motion.

I asked permission of this House to address the House and it was refused. Out of this request arises the appeal from the decision of the Chair.

I merely wanted to thank the ten Republicans who voted to discharge the Federal Relations Committee from further consideration of the resolution on Flood Control. I wanted to take back to my constituents—

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a point of order.

The SPEAKER (pro tempore). The gentleman from Dauphin will state his point of order.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman from Allegheny should confine himself to the question before the House.

The SPEAKER (pro tempore). The gentleman must confine himself to the question before the House.

Mr. HOLLAND. Mr. Speaker, as I was saying, I wanted to prove to this House the reason why I was asking them to support this ruling. I merely wanted to take back to my constituents the true story on flood control, the plans of this Administration on flood control. Mr. Speaker, I believe that as a Legislator—

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. WOODSIDE. I rise to a point of order.

The SPEAKER (pro tempore). The gentleman will state his point of order.

Mr. WOODSIDE. The gentleman must confine himself to the question before the House which is the appeal from the ruling of the chair.

The SPEAKER (pro tempore). The gentleman is not confining himself to the question before the House.

Mr. HOLLAND. Mr. Speaker, I believe that this is on the appeal upon the Speaker's ruling, because, after all, as a legislator I was going to take back to my constituents—

Mr. WOODSIDE. If the gentleman will not confine his remarks to the question before the House in accordance with the ruling of the Chair, he should be denied the privilege of the floor, and I ask that the Chair insist upon the member's complying with the ruling of the Chair.

The SPEAKER (pro tempore). The gentleman must confine his remarks to the question before the House, which is on the appeal from the decision of the Chair.

PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Mr. HARKINS. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a parliamentary inquiry.

The SPEAKER (pro tempore). The gentleman from Allegheny will state his parliamentary inquiry.

Mr. HARKINS. Mr. Speaker, when the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Holland, was explaining and meanwhile discussing the question of flood control in Pennsylvania, which led up to the appeal from the ruling of the Chair, was he not in order?

Mr. McKINNEY. Mr. Speaker, I move the previous question.

The motion was seconded by Messrs. Trout, VanAllsburg, Boose, Snyder, Yeakel, Stockham, Habbyslaw, Winner, Ackermann, Stewart, Kane, Huntley, Webster, Leisey, Wilson, Tahl, Bronson, Sollenberger, Irvin, John N. Hoffman and others.

On the question,

Shall the main question be now put?

PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Mr. HOLLAND. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a parliamentary inquiry.

The SPEAKER (pro tempore). The gentleman from Allegheny will state his parliamentary inquiry.

Mr. HOLLAND. What will the vote be taken on now?

The SPEAKER (pro tempore). The question is: Shall the main question be now put? The main question is on appeal from the decision of the Chair that a motion to adjourn is not subject to amendment.

The roll was called by the Clerk.

Mr. ACHTERMAN. Mr. Speaker, there seemed to be quite a bit of confusion when the roll was called, and I therefore ask for a verification of the roll.

Messrs. Harkins and Tronzo seconded the request for a verification.

The roll was verified.

APPEAL FROM DECISION OF CHAIR WITHDRAWN

Mr. ACHTERMAN. Mr. Speaker, I desire at this time to withdraw my appeal from the decision of the Chair.

The SPEAKER (pro tempore). The gentleman from Monroe, Mr. Achterman, withdraws his appeal from the decision of the Chair.

THE SPEAKER (Ellwood J. Turner) IN THE CHAIR.

The SPEAKER. The Chair thanks the gentleman from Lancaster, Mr. Wood.

The Chair also desires to thank the gentleman from Monroe, Mr. Achterman. He felt certain he would arrive at this point.

Mr. ACHTERMAN. Mr. Speaker, I feel that perhaps we have established the fact that we can save time by listening to the problem of the gentleman without going to all this trouble of demonstrating that he should be heard.

The SPEAKER. The Chair desires to say to the members of the House in all seriousness, in his long experience he has always felt that every latitude should be given to a member to speak on the floor of the House. He would rather listen to a great many hours of useless talk than to have some member deprived of the opportunity of speaking. He believes in the freedom of speech and in the opportunity of the member to speak.

The Chair does feel, however, that a certain amount of consideration should be given by members as to the time when they ask for unanimous consent to address the House. They are not always fair. There will be time tomorrow; there will be time the next day. The Chair feels certain that the members on the majority side have no desire to in any way gag the members of the minority. The Chair believes that the members on the majority side had the feeling that the time had come when they wanted to adjourn and get through with the proceedings. Under that circumstance the Chair hopes we will not have a recurrence of the situation this evening; that we can look forward, as we have in the past, to good friendship, good fellowship, and be willing to grant the floor to each other, and be tolerant at all times.

The question now recurs on the motion to adjourn.

The Chair desires to ask the gentleman from McKean, Mr. Kane, if he will withdraw his motion to adjourn in order that announcements may be made by the Clerk.

Motion to adjourn withdrawn.

Mr. KANE, Mr. Speaker, it appears that it will be necessary that the Committee announcements be made. That is desired by all members, and I will gladly withdraw my motion to adjourn for that purpose.

MOTION TO MAKE SPECIAL ORDER

Mr. OMINSKY. Mr. Speaker, I move that the speech of the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Holland, be made a special order of business at 1:30 p. m. tomorrow.

The SPEAKER. The Chair feels that the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Holland, will have an opportunity to be heard tomorrow without the necessity of making it a special order of business, and the Chair requests the gentleman from Philadelphia to withdraw his motion.

Mr. OMINSKY. Mr. Speaker, in view of the assurance of the Speaker that Mr. Holland, the gentleman from Allegheny, will have an opportunity to address the House tomorrow, I withdraw the motion.

The SPEAKER. The Chair thanks the gentleman and wishes to say he has never had any doubt that the gentleman from Allegheny would be heard sometime.

RESOLUTIONS INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

By Mr. TAYLOR.

RESOLUTION NO. 33.

In the House of Representatives, March 13, 1939.

Whereas, Early application for naturalization is the most practical evidence of an alien's fitness to remain in the United States; and

Whereas, Great numbers of aliens, because of their unwillingness, indifference, or ignorance, remain in this country for long terms of years with no apparent intention of becoming citizens, thus casting doubt on the desirability of their continued residence; and

Whereas, These alien residents in many cases profit from remunerative employment while many worthy citizens, both native and naturalized, suffer from their inability to find such employment; now, therefore, be it

Resolved, By the House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, that this House does hereby urgently request all employers of whatever character, including Federal, State, and local governmental agencies, to be urged to recognize the aforesaid principle of preference to citizens of the United States and to instruct their personnel departments to be guided accordingly, and give preference in employment to citizens of the United States.

Referred to the Committee on Labor.

By Mr. TAYLOR. (Concurrent) RESOLUTION NO. 34.

In the House of Representatives, March 13, 1939.

Whereas, In 1917 and 1918, the Youth of America was called to the Colors to journey to foreign lands to participate in a war to end wars, a war to make the world safe for democracy; and

Whereas, Upon being seemingly victorious, they returned to their native land, some high with hopes, only to find their positions filled by others, some broken in body and mind, hopes blasted and their hearts filled with despair, and many returned only in spirit, a memory to those loved ones left behind when they marched away never to return from that last long sleep in Flanders Field; and

Whereas, Many of these soldiers of yesterday who were considered the cream of American youth when needed to fight that war to end wars are seriously handicapped in securing employment due to their age or disabilities received in the service of their country, in many instances being forced to walk the streets while aliens are gainfully employed when not adequately cared for through or by relief agencies, many of these same aliens showing their lack of appreciation of this service to them by spreading un-American doctrines; and

Whereas, Disabled American veterans, when seeking relief from local, State or Federal agencies or veterans who are willing and able to work, are placed in the same classification as aliens; and

Whereas, Disabled veterans who receive a small disability compensation are informed when making application for relief that their disability compensation, in whatever amount they receive, must be deducted from the relief allowed, while the alien family would receive the relief allowed by the schedule without deduction; and

Whereas, Many of these aliens are never required to submit ample proof of the manner in which they entered the country when making application for relief; now, therefore, be it

Resolved, (If the Senate concur), That the General Assembly memorialize the Congress of the United States to enact legislation which will provide for the investigation of all aliens within the United States with regards to the manner of their entrance into the United States and the legality of such entrance, and for the registration of all aliens within the United States and all aliens hereafter to enter the United States, and that no Federal relief shall be granted any alien until his entrance into the United States has been investigated.

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be forwarded by the Chief Clerk of the House of Representatives to the presiding officer of the Senate and Speaker of the House of Representatives of the United States.

Referred to the Committee on Federal Relations.

By Mr. BREITHERICK. (Concurrent)

RESOLUTION NO. 35.

In the House of Representatives, March 13, 1939.

America's most treasured shrine is about to be abased.

The reproduction of Independence Hall, the birthplace of our liberty, with its modernized interior is to open upon a terrace where "liberty of appetite" is alone to be exemplified.

Visitors from all parts of our country, intent upon viewing a replica of the place that is dear to them, a place that would convey some feeling of the grace and dignity and incomparable charm of the old building, will view instead a distorted image with a modern interior, a cheap movie theatre for advertising purposes.

Visitors will carry away no patriotic inspiration, no rededication of themselves to the principles of liberty as promulgated in the original building, but disappointed and ashamed, they will go forth with a sense of outraged pride and frustration, therefore be it

Resolved (if the Senate concur) That the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, conscious of the righteousness of the feeling of outrage with which the people of the Commonwealth are viewing the work of the Commission appointed to arrange for the part that Pennsylvania was to take in the New York World's Fair, calls upon the members of that Commission to make every possible change in the plans as announced, so that the interior of the building can be redesigned and remade, in order to make it fit the ideals it is supposed to represent and so that Pennsylvanians need not be ashamed and that visitors need not be disappointed.

RESOLUTION No. 37.

In the House of Representatives, March 13, 1939.

Honorable William Patrick Fenney, a former Member of this House, who served during the Session of 1911, died on Thursday last, March 9, in the Charleroi Hospital.

Shortly after his term as a Member of this House had expired, he entered the employ of the United Mine Workers and within a short time had risen to the position of international representative of that organization. He once served as President of District No. 4 of the United Mine Workers.

Mr. Feeney was born in England of Irish parents, and came to the United States at the age of fourteen. For a long period he resided at California, and twenty-nine years ago moved to Charleroi, where he had made his home since that time. He was employed in coal mines while residing at California.

The veteran union worker became ill while in Harrisburg early during this month, but recovered sufficiently to return to his home from which he later was removed to the Hospital.

Mr. Feeney was a member of St. Jerome's Roman Catholic Church at Charleroi; of the Knights of Columbus of Charleroi; of the Eagles Lodge at California and the Ancient Order of Hibernians at Charleroi; therefore, be it

Resolved, By the Members of the House of Representatives of the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania that in the passing of the Honorable William Patrick Fenney, the cause of labor has lost a valiant advocate and a staunch supporter and his home community has been deprived of an outstanding citizen; and be it further

Resolved, That the House extends its deepest sympathy to the family of the deceased who survive him, and instructs the Chief Clerk of the House to transmit a copy of this Resolution to his widow.

RESOLUTION NO. 38.

In the House of Representatives, March 13, 1939.

For many years this country and the world at large has observed May first as May Day, and, at different places, the observance has been marked by various kinds of celebrations.

At times these celebrations have resulted in demonstrations against organized government.

In 1932 the American Legion in Fayette County inaugurated a new kind of observance of the day, by staging a parade of Americanism, which has grown each year into an event of first importance.

The participation in the celebration of this day by patriotic societies, veterans' organizations and other organizations, cannot help but make it throughout the Commonwealth a day to awaken new pride in our American institutions, therefore be it.

Resolved (if the Senate concur), That the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania urges the setting aside of May first as Americanism Day, and urges upon all patriotic, veteran, fraternal and civic organizations the planning of its celebration in such a manner as will bring to the people of the Commonwealth a full realization of the benefits and privileges and blessings that come to them through the continuance of our American form of government, and be it further

Resolved, That the Governor of the Commonwealth is hereby urged to issue his proclamation further urging the people of the Commonwealth to join in a real American celebration of Americanism Day.

In the House of Representatives, March 13, 1939.

Paul W. Houck, veteran Schuylkill County Republican leader, and, for many years, prominent in Pennsylvania politics, died in the Penn-Harris Hotel on March 8th, after an illness of five weeks.

He had passed by two years his allotted span of life, but was still active in the affairs of his county and of the Commonwealth.

He was born at Lebanon, Pennsylvania, May 5, 1866, a son of Henry Houck, who served as Secretary of Internal Affairs for several terms.

Mr. Houck, who for twelve years had been chairman of the Schuylkill County Republican Committee, lived in Shenandoah during the later years of his life.

Mr. Houck's first important political post was that of member of the Pennsylvania Legislature in 1909-10.

In 1916 he became chief clerk of the Schuylkill County Board of Commissioners. In the same year he was named a Workmen's Compensation Board referee.

Governor Brumbaugh appointed him Secretary of Internal Affairs in 1917. Governor Sproul made him a member of the Compensation Board in 1919, and he won his first major county fight in Schuylkill in 1926 when he was chosen chairman of the Republic County Committee. He had been reelected every two years since then.

Mr. Houck was a director of the First National Bank of Shenandoah and the Shenandoah Heights Construction Company. He was a member of the Pennsylvania Society of New York, the Elks, Eagles, Moose, and belonged to the Ashland Rod and Gun, Mahoning Country, and the Fountain Springs Country Clubs; therefore be it

Resolved, By the House of Representatives of the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, That the county of Schuylkill has lost a leader who was forever mindful of its interests and the Commonwealth a faithful officer who faithfully and with marked ability discharged every obligation and duty imposed upon him by the various offices he filled; and be it further

Resolved, That the Members of this House join with that vast number of friends and followers who mourn his loss and extend to the members of his family its most sincere sympathy; and be it further

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be transmitted by the Chief Clerk of this House to his sons, Paul B. Houck of Pottsville, Pennsylvania and Judge Henry Houck of Shenandoah, Pennsylvania, and to his sister, Miss Susan Houck of New York City.

SENATE

TUESDAY, March 14, 1939.

The Senate met at 1:00 o'clock, p. m.

The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant-Governor Samuel S. Lewis) in the Chair.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Rev. BURLEIGH A. PETERS, offered the following prayer:

"O, why should the spirit of mortal be proud,
Like a swift-fleeting meteor, a fast-flying cloud,
A flash of the lightening, a break of the wave,
Man passeth from life to his rest in the grave."

As the poet has thus depicted the earthy pilgrimage of man along the highway of life, we are reminded that we are dust, that for the duration of this journey we wisely serve the great master Craftsman and e'er we are conscious of it the journey's ended.

Why should the spirit of mortal be proud? Our intelligence is not comparable with Thine nor our wisdom on an equality with Thine. Our understanding is woefully incomplete and "we see as through a glass, darkly."

Therefore, we pray for a humble spirit and ask for a heart of open-mindedness that our collaborations here may transcend all partisan motives and the results of our humble judgments issuing into legislation mirror the will of our people."

We pray that their will may always be Thine. For Jesus' sake. Amen.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. EALY. Mr. President, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Somerset, Mr. Ealy, will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. EALY. Mr. President, On several occasions in the past resolutions have been introduced in this Senate memorializing the Congress of the United States to support or reject some measure pending before that body. In most instances, where we took action, I felt that we were perhaps interjecting ourselves into affairs with which we had little concern.

There are at present, however, questions arising in the National Legislature which are of most vital importance to the States and the people generally and with which we as members of the Pennsylvania State Senate and as individuals should be greatly concerned.

One of these is the proposed economy program endorsed by such leading Democratic Senators as Senators Glass and Byrd of Virginia, Harrison of Mississippi, and Bailey of North Carolina.

These men, supported by other notable Democrats and the Republican minority, are endeavoring to reduce government spending before our nation is completely overwhelmed in financial chaos. Any encouragement which we can give them will help the country and will help us in our own problems.

The matter about which I wish to speak today, however, seems to me to be of much greater importance even than that of finances. I have learned over the week-end that a serious and determined effort is being made in Congress to force all ecclesiastical bodies in the nation to submit to the so-called social security system, and to pay taxes, to bring their ministers and church employees under the unemployment provisions and the old age pension plans of the Social Security Law. I also am informed that these efforts will succeed unless an aroused public makes its opposition known.

Mr. President, this proposition is terrible in its implications. One of the cardinal principles of American liberty is that there shall be a complete separation of Church and State. But is this the opening wedge for governmental control over religion? If preachers are dependent upon the State for old age support will they dare to express freely their religious views? Will they be asked to advocate governmental policies from their pulpits? Will the provision for old age support lead to payment of salaries by the government while the ministers are in active service?

If church members are to be taxed for the support of their aged and unemployed ministers, it will of course be impossible to keep the funds of all the churches separate and intact. Non-church members will be compelled, by paying to the general fund through taxation, to support religion in a direct and positive way. The Catholics will have to pay to support Protestants; Protestants to support Catholics; Gentiles to support Jewish Rabbis and Jews to support Gentiles.

The government will promptly use and dissipate the large funds which will be raised by this taxation and we shall all have to pay other taxes to refund the money—if the whole plan does not result in complete disaster. This may also be a prelude to seizing the insurance funds already built up by the churches.

Mr. President, the churches are not asking to be included in this social security scheme. Most churches now have, and have had for many years, pension plans which are far better than that proposed under the Social Security Laws. Indeed, the pension plans of some churches date back to Colonial days. The Mormon Church now not only takes care of its elders but also all its members who are in need of relief. Furthermore, the cost of administering the pension plans of the churches are borne by themselves at no cost to the general public and with no political scandal attaching thereto.

Personally, I think the inclusion of churches in the social security plan is a violation of the first amendment of our National Constitution—"Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion or prohibiting the free exercise thereof."

Suppose churches refuse to pay this tax. Is the church to be closed because of such refusal? Will the minister be prevented from preaching if no tax is paid? How can the payment of tax be enforced under the Constitution?

However, we should not continue to go around in smug security thinking that "it cannot happen here," while the bulwarks of our freedom are being undermined.

What we should learn before it is too late is that Communists and those of the Nazi-Fascist type are fanatics whose efforts to subvert our Constitutional guarantees of liberty never cease, and that this is but another attempt to lead our politicians nearer to a totalitarian state.

This present threat to religion may be declared unconstitutional but we should not gamble on that chance. All churches, all liberty-loving people everywhere should arise and see to it that Congress does not pass an amendment to bring under the Social Security Act any ministers or church employees. Only in this way can we be sure to preserve the right to worship God according to the dictates of our own consciences.

RESOLUTION AGAINST INCLUSION OF ECCLESIASTICAL BODIES IN FEDERAL SOCIAL SECURITY SYSTEM

Mr. EALY offered the following resolution, which was twice read as follows:

Whereas, The effort now being made in Congress to bring under the Unemployment Compensation and Old Age Pension provisions of the Federal Social Security Laws ministers, priests, rabbis, and other ecclesiastical officers and persons, constitutes a threat against complete religious freedom as guaranteed under the Constitution, and

Whereas, Such a plan is of doubtful advantage in any case and of distant disadvantage to most churches which now have very satisfactory pension and assistance plans which are administered without cost to the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and the Federal Government, now be it

Resolved, by the Senate of Pennsylvania, That we do earnestly urge that no amendment to the present Social Security Laws be made which would require in any manner that churches pay any taxes into the Federal or State Governments for support of their ministers or employees or for Unemployment Compensation or Old Age Pension for the same, and be it further

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be sent by the Secretary of the Senate of Pennsylvania to the Secretary and Chief Clerk of the United States Senate and House of Representatives respectively, with the request that same be read before the said Honorable bodies.

Mr. EALY. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that Rule 39, which requires resolutions be referred to an appropriate committee, be suspended and the Senate do now proceed to the consideration of the resolution just read.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection,

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I have no doubt that there are very few people in this room, or in any legislative body, who have good judgment, that would attempt in any way to interfere with the proper functioning of Ecclesiastical duties or to interfere with the churches or religion. I think history teaches us that the State and the Church should be made distinct in their own spheres; but I do not like, in a situation as delicate as this, that we should assume facts. As a matter of fact, I have heard and read that certain religious leaders have asked that they be included in the Social Security Law. Certain others have opposed it. I know that actuaries have raised the question that before you could determine whether they should be put in, and upon what basis they should be put in, you would have to know just what the effect the inclusion of Ecclesiastics in the Social Security Law would have upon the whole structure; and I am going to ask two things: the first, that this matter be laid on the table; secondly, the privilege of interrogating the Senator from Somerset, Mr. Ealy.

The PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from Somerset, Mr. Ealy, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. EALY. Mr. President, I will.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, is the Senator from Somerset, Mr. Ealy, aware of any amendment or any bill dealing with the subject, which has the purpose of bringing into the Social Security Act the Ecclesiastics of the country?

Mr. EALY. Mr. President, I talked to two ministers, over the weekend. One of them had before him this very matter, which he was to report on for his conference or Presbytery, or whatever body it was; and he pointed out it was a distinct disadvantage to the ministers of that congregation—I think it was what we call the Evangelical—to be compelled to come under this system.

This is an imminent proposition. I noticed in the papers quite recently the Methodist Church planned action against this. I was told yesterday that one of the Presbyterian bodies in this town had the matter up before them recently. I was told by a Lutheran minister yesterday that very annoying reports were asked from their churches by federal agents as to how much money they were spending, what for, and the whole financial setup of that religious institution, or that church; and this is not a matter that is not being discussed, because it is a very, imminent proposition before Congress at this time, and while we are asleep on this thing I think we will find that these bodies will have been brought under this system, and the funds which heretofore have been contributed to the churches will be compelled to be put into the national government, and will be dissipated immediately.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I have read the Congressional Record recently. I have not seen any reference in that Congressional Record to any discussion of this subject in Congress. I have seen discussions of the subject of churches, and among the Ecclesiastics of the various denominations, and I know that a group—one group—is very much in favor of it, and because of their activities the whole matter has been the subject of discussion amongst the churches; but it has not been the subject of discussion in Congress, and it seems to me that unless the Senator can point either to a bill or to any reference in the Congressional Record of this matter we will be putting ourselves in an anomalous position by building up a straw man in order to knock him down, and I am sure the Senator from Somerset, Mr. Ealy, does not want to create that picture, because whatever force he has should be conserved so it will not be weakened by shooting the gun before the real danger arises, when he will not have any ammunition.

Mr. EALY. Mr. President, there is no danger of that. As I informed the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro, this is an imminent proposition. The minister who talked to me told me that unless it was counteracted immediately they will report this out in Congress for action.

It does not do to wait until something happens and then say, "I told you so." There is very little satisfaction in that. We know that in Germany the priests, rabbis and ministers are in concentration camps because the people were not aroused early enough.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, what is the number of the bill, and when was it reported out?

Mr. EALY. Mr. President, I do not know the number of the bill in Congress, but I know this action is being discussed very fully down there.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I would like to move that this bill be referred to the committee on Federal Relations, and that that committee be instructed to call upon the persons who have discussed the matter with Senator Ealy and others who are interested, and that we get first-hand information on the subject matter.

Mr. EALY. Mr. President, I would like to interrogate the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro.

The PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I will.

Mr. EALY. Mr. President, is the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro, or are the Ecclesiastical bodies that he represents, in favor of having their churches, synagogues, brought under this system?

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I see no reason for it; I am absolutely opposed to it.

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, I have the honor of being the chairman of the distinguished Committee on Federal Relations, and my practice—the principle that has actuated me in the meetings—has been to have no federal relations whatever; but I think that this resolution of the Senator from Somerset is an exception to the rule. I think it is entirely appropriate; and I think that while perhaps the State of Oklahoma would not need it, the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania ought to have it.

As we all know, the Commonwealth was founded by William Penn, and one of his leading principles was toleration; and he set up a form of government which we have followed and which other states have followed, and which has stood the test of time.

To be specific, I do not say exactly that Mr. John G. Winant was chairman of the committee which framed the Social Security Act, I cannot question him, but it was some member of that committee who testified that the pension system of the Protestant-Episcopal Church was far better than anything they were setting up in the Federal Social Security.

Mr. SIPE. Mr. President, I think it is true that this discussion has not reached Congress. I know, from reading a number of Ecclesiastical papers which I take, that various religious denominations are discussing it among themselves, and I take enough of those Ecclesiastical publications to be well informed on the subject—when I have the time to read them. I take two Jewish papers, two Roman Catholics, two Lutheran, two Presbyterian, two Episcopal, two Methodist.

The further I have gotten into this discussion the more I have noticed that some groups are being taken in and others are not. I believe that my own group is not in favor, so I think that at the present time it is rather nonsensical for us, the Senate of Pennsylvania, to take up any of our time with a matter that belongs to the National Congress and has not reached the National Congress. Probably Senator Ealy is offering this as a sort of substitute for what I called for about a week ago, namely, the James program. I repeat my call for that program at this time, and let us allow the church matters to wait until another day.

And the question recurring,

Is there objection?

Mr. SHAPIRO. I object.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair hears objection. The resolution is referred to the Committee on Federal Resolutions.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Woodward, will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, my question of personal privilege is to call the attention to the burial of these grand jury bills as deserving some comment, not necessarily censorious disagreeable in any way, but to my mind this is a red letter day; it may not be May Day or Flag Day or the Fourth of July, but it is so near St. Patrick's Day it does not require a wide stretch of the imagination for that. St. Patrick drove snakes out of Ireland, so we have driven the political snakes out of Pennsylvania in repealing the Grand Jury bill. I tried to inform myself what to do when you hold a wake, but I do not know, and I have not consulted Senator McGinnis. I did try to persuade our eloquent Senator from Fayette, Mr. Cavalcante, to deliver a funeral oration, and he was strongly tempted but declined, due to regularity, I guess. I also recall to our historical Senator from Armstrong, and Butler as well, that there was a poem. I knew a part of the poem, I knew the first line and he knew the first verse, and I employed a stenographer to write it up but at the end of the first verse we both failed.

I therefore repaired to the Free Library of Harrisburg and after being searched and fingerprinted I procured a book containing this poem which is highly appropriate to the occasion. It is not very long, and I hope when it is printed in the Journal there will not be any typographical errors.

This is a poem on the burial of Sir John Moore, it is very appropriate, I am sure, to these four bills.

Not a drum was heard, not a funeral note,
As his corpse to the rampart we hurried;
Not a soldier discharged his farewell shot,
O'er the grave where our hero we buried.

Few and short were the prayers we said,
And we spoke not a word of sorrow;
But we steadfastly gazed on the face that was dead,
And we hopefully thought of the morrow.

Lightly they'll talk of the spirit that's gone,
And o'er his cold ashes upbraid him;—
But little he'll reck, if they let him sleep on,
In a grave where now we have laid him.

Slowly and sadly we laid him down,
From the field of his fame fresh and gory;
We carved not a line, and we raised not a stone—
But we left him alone with his glory!

This is a poem on the burial of Sir John Moore, it is very appropriate, I am sure to these four bills.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I would like to advise the Senator from Philadelphia, Dr. Woodward, that the reason for the lack of interest in this funeral—there were no mourners—was contained in one of the lines which he read in which he referred to the fact that up to now not a soldier has been discharged.

MOTION TO CONSIDER RESOLUTION ON PENNSYLVANIA EXHIBIT AT NEW YORK WORLD'S FAIR

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now proceed to the consideration of the Senate resolution introduced last night, pertaining to the Pennsylvania Exhibition at the New York World's Fair.

Mr. OWLETT. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion,

It was agreed to.

The resolution was read as follows:

In the Senate, March 13, 1939.

Whereas, The present plans of the Pennsylvania World's Fair Commission for the official Pennsylvania exhibit at the New York World's Fair call for modernizing the interior of a reproduction of Independence Hall; and

Whereas, The present plan despite a prohibitory order by Governor James call for a cocktail terrace, a beer garden and also a theatre where publicity moving pictures will be shown, and other startling and not altogether patriotic innovations; and

Whereas, Public opinion in Philadelphia is overwhelmingly and indignantly against these innovations, as shown in the daily press; now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That if the House of Representatives concur that the Pennsylvania World's Fair Commission be requested to advise the General Assembly what plans it has devised to overcome the mounting public objections to the original plans so as to typify the true spirit of Independence Hall.

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that Rule 39, which requires resolutions referred to an appropriate committee, be dispensed with and the Senate proceed to the consideration of the foregoing resolution.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection?

Mr. COLEMAN, Mr. President, and members of the Senate, a short while ago one of my former colleagues in the house asked me when the Senate was going to adjourn. My answer was "It all depends on who raises a question of personal privilege and what he has to say." The calling up of the resolution by the Senator from Delaware, Mr. Heyburn, obviates the necessity of my arising to a question of personal privilege.

I might say, Mr. President, as a freshman member of this Senate that I had hoped to avoid injecting myself into any discussion on the floor, at least until I sort of got the feel of the new atmosphere.

I might say that I am cognizant of the fact that lately speeches in the Senate Chamber are becoming extremely unpopular to some of the members of the Senate, not to mention the gentlemen of the press, who I believe are anxious to eliminate the Tower of Babel atmosphere in this august body. If I may be forgiven for making a personal reference, the idea of Pennsylvania's participation in the New York World's Fair originated with me. In 1933 I visited the Chicago Fair on three occasions, and, like thousands of other Pennsylvanians, lamented the fact that Pennsylvania did not take advantage of this splendid advertising possibility by participation in that great show. I might say with respect to the Chicago Fair, and the New York Fair that there is not any comparison, because Chicago played host to about thirty-nine million people in two years, while New York expects to play host to sixty million people in one year.

In 1937 I introduced a bill in the House setting up a State World's Fair Commission, to handle Pennsylvania's participation in that great show. The bill asked for an appropriation of five hundred thousand dollars and was later amended to make the appropriation seventy-five thousand dollars. Just recently, as you know, in addition to adding an appropriation of $312,500 there was added to the World's Fair Commission, nine new members.

I have been sitting in the Senate listening to the oracles of the Senate borrowing the literary gems of the great philosophers who have sounded the very depths of human knowledge; I have heard them referring to the profundity of thought of Aristotle; I have heard them borrowing the brilliancy of Shakespeare. I assume, Mr. President, that I will be forgiven if I may perchance borrow a phrase from Shakespeare with respect to all of the misunderstanding about Pennsylvania's participation in the Fair by saying, "Much ado about nothing."

I might say that when the commission had its first meeting in the executive mansion there was a sort of clash between the traditional and the modern. As the sponsor of the bill I was anxious to impress upon the people who would visit our exhibit Pennsylvania's industrial advantages, but we had certain of the members who were interested in stressing Pennsylvania's historical background, so between the two of them there was a compromise. We believe, Mr. President, Pennsylvania will not only have an outstanding exhibit in the Court of States but in addition that we will have an outstanding exhibit in the New York World's Fair.

One hundred and fifty years ago America gave the world a new concept of government, the inauguration of George Washington from the balcony of Federal Hall on April 30, 1789, signaling this important event. Is it any wonder therefore that the New York World's Fair in commemorating an event of such historical importance should seek to equal in the economic and social sphere what Washington and his contemporaries accomplished in the realm of government? So, in New York, Pennsylvania's participation in the Fair is in line with the general scheme of building the world of tomorrow.

My speech, my remarks, Mr. President, cannot be construed and is not intended, as an answer to many of the questions with respect to Independence Hall. When the commission met it was the suggestion of the majority of the member of the commission that in order to give us an appropriate setting, in order to give us an opportunity to announce to the world Pennsylvania's contributions to America's reaching a colorful civilization we ought to have something in keeping with the dignity and the progressiveness of this great State; and so the replica of Independence Hall was suggested. I might say to those who feel that Pennsylvania—or rather the commission—has desecrated the building because the interior will be modern, that the members of the commission were just as patriotic, just as much interested in the historical shrine in Philadelphia as those who are critical of the particular building now in the Court of States in New York.

I have a vivid recollection that when the suggestion was made, that my mind went back reverently to the formative days of American history; my mind went back to Missionary Ridge, to Valley Forge, to Gettysburg and Brandywine, to the great defenders of our system of government and human rights, who spilled their blood on American soil that this country might live, that we might have some say as to who should govern this great nation.

There is no intention, Mr. President, of the members of the commission to desecrate the historic shrine in Philadelphia when they suggested that the Pennsylvania exhibit ought to be housed in that type of building. I might say when you enter the building, visit the World's Fair, that the first thing that will arrest your attention is a model somewhat larger than the original Liberty Bell, hanging from the tower with stainless steel which mirrors this great object, giving you the emphasis, emphasizing this great symbol of Democracy.

I said before my remarks are not intended as an answer to the press, or any criticism of the particular building, because as acting chairman of the World's Fair Commission it is my intention to call the commission together and invite the press and to make a formal statement at that time as to the attitude of the members of the commission generally on the question of the Independence Hall building.

Mr. President, I honestly believe, and I am supported by the opinion of architects throughout the State, by the opinion of the World's Fair officials, that Pennsylvanians will be proud when they journey down to New York and see the type of exhibit that we have in mind, and I am asking you, I am appealing to your sense of fairness to withhold any criticism until such time as you have seen the ideas that represent the great thought, the ideas that represents the architectural genius of one of the greatest architects in the country, Doctor Walton Gropius, who designed the exhibit for the members of the commission.

As I said before, Senator Heyburn introduced a resolution last night asking for definite information in connection with our exhibit. What I am trying to do, Mr. President, is to impress upon you that I honestly believe that the type of exhibit that will be shown to Pennsylvanians will give the State of Pennsylvania a real return, a real advantage, as a return on the investment made by the members of the Legislature, and by the people of this Commonwealth. I am appealing again to the sense of fairness of the members of the Senate to withhold their criticism, to join with the members of the World's Fair Commission, so that Pennsylvania will not lag behind in this new effort to go forward.

I am reasonably certain that you will share our belief that we have a real exhibit, impressing upon the people who visit there Pennsylvania's tremendous predominant contribution in the interest of activities of mankind and civilization generally.

MR. WOODWARD. Mr. President, the Senator from Lackawanna, Mr. Coleman, had referred to William Shakespeare and said "Much ado about Nothing." And now, I would like to transform that title into "Much ado about Something." We would like to have something about which to have much ado.

The next play I thought of by William Shakespeare was entitled "As You Like It," but we do not like it.

Then I thought of that title "Two Gentlemen of Verona," and I wondered whether Messrs. Coleman and Wolf came from Verona or Pennsylvania.

Now, there is another play called "Twelfth Night" and I called attention to the fact that the Republicans, the saving grace of Republicanism, was put on the committee, not the twelfth night but at least at the eleventh hour. As I listened to the Senator from Lackawanna, I recalled Juliet's remark—Romeo's remarks to Juliet, that "Parting is such sweet sorrow I could say good night until it be the morrow." I also thought with regard to his defense that it should be labeled "A Winter's Tale," because it sounded a bit frigid.

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, if I may be forgiven and not quote Shakespeare, and discuss the resolution itself for a moment, last night when the resolution was introduced I was very sorry it had been introduced. Now I am very glad, because we have uncovered another orator in the Senate and that was a very noble defense of the project the World's Fair Commission is attempting. I would like to call to the Senate part of the resolution introduced by Senator Heyburn. The first whereas clause of this resolution says: "Whereas the present plan of the Pennsylvania World's Fair Commission for the official Pennsylvania exhibit at the New York World's Fair calls for modernizing the interior of a reproduction of Independence Hall;" And the second clause says, "And whereas, the present plan despite a prohibitory order by Governor James calls for a cocktail terrace, a beer garden, and also a theatre where publicity moving pictures will be shown, and other startling and not altogether patriotic innovations."

And now, may I say, Mr. President, that like Senator Woodward, I entered into this World's Fair Commission at the last minute, or the eleventh hour, and all of these projects had been planned and had been perfected and were under way at the time we entered into the picture. Perhaps it was too late to change it and perhaps the Commission did not want to change it.

May I say that this clause of the resolution that speaks of a cocktail terrace, and a beer garden, and also a theatre where publicity moving pictures would be shown are founded on fallacy, it is not a fact; there is no cocktail terrace, there is no beer garden, there are no publicity movies. Outside of that the clause is perfect.

Now, they are asking us for information as to what the World's Fair Commission proposes to produce, and I say to the members of this Senate we were put on this Commission to produce an exhibit that would reflect credit, honor, and dignity to the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and the members of this Commission, perhaps not unanimously, but the members of this Commission have put the stamp of approval on what is going to be Pennsylvania's contribution to the World's Fair, and I agree with Mr. Coleman and Mr. Gelder, I think it would be unjust to the members of this Senate and to the members of the Commission to pass this resolution and deliberately stigmatize because of something you have not seen, something you know nothing about, something that is a deliberate falsity, and I ask my colleagues to vote this resolution down.

Mr. GILSON, I think this resolution, Mr. President, typifies just exactly what is wrong in Pennsylvania today and in this country today. You cannot generate a resolution out of hatred, malice, and intention to assassinate character and expect to build anything upon a foundation that will recommend itself to the people of this Commonwealth or to the people of this country.

My colleague, the Senator from Allegheny, Mr. Walker, has said the premise of this resolution is a fallacy. We have gathered together a commission which is entirely non-political and non-partisan. The Republican members of that commission have demonstrated to me that they are people of the highest character, the finest sensibility and the keenest urge to perform with the best of their ability and intelligence any public commission which may be entrusted to them. I think that every right-minded person should arise in indignation against the smallness and the littleness and the falsehood of the implication which this resolution presents, and they should condemn the source of such a resolution.

However, I think also, Mr. President, that the people of Pennsylvania, and particularly the World's Fair Corporation of the State of New York should owe—do owe a debt to the sponsors and the instigators of such a resolution, for the publicity which this World's Fair, and in particular Pennsylvania's participation in it, has engendered.

We have a publicity agent for the Pennsylvania World's Fair Commission. The amount of the compensation to this publicity agent has been approved by the Pennsylvania World's Fair Commission. It has been approved by the Governor of the Commonwealth; it has been approved by the Secretary of Property and Supplies. However, all the publicity which our publicity agent could disseminate over this broad land of ours will be nothing as compared to the publicity which has been engendered by this ill-timed attack upon the character of the people who composed the World's Fair Commission of the State of Pennsylvania.

I can think of no greater, no more valuable publicity, than to have it alleged in the newspapers of Philadelphia and elsewhere that things of startling moment will be found in the Pennsylvania exhibit of the World's Fair. I can think of nothing that would incite people to go to New York to see for themselves just how far those things are false and how malicious they have been. I have not a bit of doubt that there will be an exodus from the City of Philadelphia, and no doubt there will be an exodus from the City of Pittsburgh, and the City of Erie, and from all the four corners of this State to the New York World's Fair to see whether or not, as a matter of fact the "whereases" of this resolution are actual or whether they are false, and so I think, as a member of the Pennsylvania World's Fair Commission, that before we finish with our work we should join in a resolution acknowledging the financial value which the instigation of such a program has been to the World's Fair, to the interest which this Pennsylvania exhibit has stimulated. I venture to say, Mr. President, that just as a disqualified boxer when he has hit below the belt and the round is over and the bell has been rung feels the ignominy of his foul tactics, so will the people who have instigated such a resolution as this, and the people whose publicity has given rise to a false sense of popularity in becoming a party to such a thing as this, that those people will have exactly the same feeling as the unfair sportsman.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, this is one of the illustrations of some of the things that I was taught years ago. It seems to me that Senator Ealy, my colleague from Somerset, very seriously points out the dangerous situation in which this democracy finds itself, he points out the fact that we are spending more money than we should. He brings to the public attention things that may exist, without suggesting a corrective. I used to be taught when I was brought up that if I had anything to say about my family to state it in the house, but not shout it from the housetops.

My active acquaintance with this World's Fair Commission began in the early days of this session, when I was called into a conference in the President Pro Tem-pore's room, and we were told that it was important that immediate action be taken in order to complete the exhibit for the Pennsylvania World's Fair Exhibit, Pennsylvania's exhibit, and to save the amount of money that already has been invested by increasing the appropriation. Mr. Wolf, who was a businessman from Pittsburgh, whom I had never met before, told us he had just come from the Governor of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and he said to the Governor that this was not a political proposition, although the majority of the then five members were Democrats, but if the Governor wanted to add to the commission that could be done and he would be very glad to have their help.

He told us the Governor said he was not interested in the appointment of additional members, that it was not a political proposition and as a result of that conference—because it has been initiated under the Earle Administration—an additional appropriation was asked for under the sponsorship of the Democratic side of the House.

The next I heard was that the Governor, who was not interested in the politics of the situation, appointed nine additional members to that commission, one of whom was a Democrat, so that the commission is now composed of fourteen people, eight of them Republicans.

And now we are spending hundreds of thousands of dollars to illustrate to the people of not only this country, but the people of the world, the picture, to give them a real picture of Independence Hall. We expect them to think back and to appreciate what that means in these days. We want them to know that the Declaration of Independence, which spells so much for Democracy, Liberty, Individualism, Individual Rights, we want them to know all these things and think about them and attain an attitude toward this country that will support and appreciate the Democracy which we enjoy; and so we spend the money, and after we spend the money we stand here in the Senate and in the newspapers we issue statements which blacken the whole proceeding and give to the totalitarian governments the right to say we have no respect for the very things we created, and about the virtues which we extoll, and about which we talk so much. We compare our liberty, our freedom, our privileges with theirs to their disadvantage, and then we call ourselves names.

The President of the greatest country in the world is maligned for weeks in the newspapers about the fact that somebody said he made a remark about where the border line of this country is—where our first line of defense is, and for weeks the man—whether you agree with him or not—he is trying to solve a problem which means the safety, in the final analysis, for all of us—that man is maligned, called names, held before the public as if he had been a thief or had concealed or thieved something that belonged to the country and wanted to appropriate it to himself, and then the matter dies and it turns out to be nothing more or less than a piece of propaganda, and we complain about the propaganda and the control of individuals in other countries which we criticize and say are nothing like ours. The millions of dollars you spend in giving the rights to children you raise, to appreciate a free country, a Democracy, you just simply waste and throw away by incidents of this kind.

Take the trouble to do what I have done frequently, that is, get a copy of a foreign newspaper and see some of the remarks we have made headlined in their papers. If you stop to think, if you are serious as I know you are, about the situation here, if you stop to think about how much capital is made out of the things that are being said against our President, you will realize how serious this situation is.

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. GELDER. Mr. President, I rise to a point of order.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Susquehanna, Mr. Gelder, will state his point of order.

Mr. GELDER. Mr. President, the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro, apparently is talking on the resolution introduced by Senator Ealy; the resolution before the House is the resolution introduced by the Senator from Delaware.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I know what resolution it is. I am making comparisons, and I think I am in order. I may say this resolution brings out with emphasis what I think the Senator from Somerset, Mr. Ealy, has been talking about. I say it is these things—not discussions among ecclesiastics as to whether they will come under the insurance fund or social security or not—but ridiculing that which we ourselves hold forth and advertise to the world in general about our sacred shrines that bring about the fall of Democracy.

If we do not appreciate our liberty enough to stop any statements like that, to go forth and advertise on hearsay statements of this kind what can we expect from those who do not like our form of government? When Democracy hangs on the narrow thread of WPA we ought to be very careful what we say about Democracy and the privileges of America and that sort of thing.

Last night I objected to this resolution because it stated as a fact something which this Senate does not know. Where is there before this Senate any evidence to support the recital clause which has been referred to by Senator Walker? Who has told us—outside of the newspapers—that hot dogs and soda water are going to be sold on the terrace of this replica of Independence Hall, and why should we, without any knowledge of those facts, be asked at this time to either reflect upon the Senator from Delaware, Mr. Heyburn, by voting down the resolution, when he may have in his possession sufficient facts or on the other hand, to reflect upon the commission and the whole proposition when those facts may not be true. If all those things were true this resolution was not necessary.

Where are these able-bodied Republicans, appointed by the Governor? The proposition has not been finished. The question is not whether there should be a restaurant. Why don't they stand up quietly, in the proper place, with the officials of the Fair and say to them we do not want these things done. That is the way to do that—call them in and say—"We do not want to advertise these facts, this was a mistake, these Democrats did a terrible thing, but we are not going to do a worse thing. We are eight now and they are only five; we can run this commission and we will not let them do that." Then it would not be carried in all the newspapers in the country that we are running a monstrosity in a Shrine of Liberty, instead of something that will advertise and make something that will properly advertise the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

You might have well as wasted the money. You have advertised for days—I have read in the Philadelphia papers and seen pictures about hot dog stands and moving pictures in the Shrine of Liberty in the World's Fair, and now I hear from these men who have been there that is not true, never was true, and never was even mentioned. And I submit if it was true, with this packed committee of eight Republicans and five Democrats there was a more decent way of handling this than to now expose all these failings than to exhibit it to the public gaze. I am ashamed that this thing should have to be brought out, I think it is time we realized that it is these little things which break down the Democracy which we are praying will live forever.

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, if there is any misstatement of facts in this resolution, of course I do not want to press it. I am perfectly willing to have it referred to any proper committee and there be amended.

I have heard a lot about constitutional freedom of government, about the constitutional form of government, American liberty, and so forth and so on. Now, the taxpayers of Pennsylvania have invested $387,500 in the exhibit. It has been charged in newspapers all over the land that we are going to maintain this exhibit by selling beer, hot dogs, and what not. I do not know whether they are or not, but I do think that under a constitutional form of government the people have a right to know whether that is true or not, and most certainly the time to tell them is not after the exhibition is over.

This is a resolution simply introduced to find the facts in order that the public may know and not be misled by any newspaper publicity, but to get facts from the committee in charge of this World's Fair Exhibit.

MOTION TO REFER RESOLUTION TO COMMITTEE ON FEDERAL RELATIONS

Mr. HEYBURN. This is simply a matter of stating facts in order that the people might know for themselves, and if there is any misstatement it certainly was not intended, and I therefore move that the resolution be referred to the Committee on Federal Relations for proper amendment.

Mr. GELDER. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. GILSON. Mr. President, I think it would have come with a lot better grace from the Senator from Delaware if he had not set forth positively in his resolution a recital which constitutes a direct charge and allegation of fact which he has been informed today is entirely fallacious. Either the gentleman is guilty of supine negligence, amounting practically to criminal negligence, or else he is a party to an attempt to do something which right-minded people in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania can not approve; and the gentleman by himself moving to refer this resolution to any committee cannot escape the responsibility which he assumed when he introduced that resolution.

And now, Mr. President, I have no objection to the chairman and the secretary, and, as a matter of fact, joined in by all the members of the commission, to report to this body or the Legislature or the Governor any thing that they may wish to know about the business of the Pennsylvania World's Fair Commission.

I think it would come with a lot better grace if the man who introduced this resolution would have the character to stand up on the floor of this Senate and apologize for what he has done, and ask that the first part of that resolution be deleted, and respectfully request that the World's Fair Commission of the State of Pennsylvania report from time to time to the Governor of this Commonwealth and to the Legislature. I think any motion to refer this resolution to any committee is simply a counterpart of the cowardly and dastardly attempt which the introduction of the resolution revealed, and I think we first ought to vote down this resolution; we ought to vote down this motion to commit to any committee, and then bring it right out on the floor and vote down the resolution, and then I for one not only welcome but I urge that whenever anybody in a place of responsibility in this Commonwealth wants to know what the World's Fair Commission is doing, and why, that information be forthcoming promptly and to the proper people.

I think that this attempt to ease out from the character—from the part of character assassin—is as cowardly and reprehensible as the introduction of the original resolution and I think we ought to vote down this motion.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, I have listened very seriously to what has been said, and I rise to state just why I am going to vote against committing this resolution to any committee. Whatever injury has been done is now done, and will be reflected in the ultimate results. For the Senator from Delaware, Mr. Heyburn, to ask at this time that the resolution be referred to committee is merely adding injury to the pain he has already caused. To send the resolution back to committee will not reflect the sentiments of this Senate in condemning the contents of that resolution.

I feel that we ought to openly, publicly, here on the floor of this Senate, be permitted to cast our votes against the substance of that resolution, and for that reason I intend to vote against any motion sending this resolution to committee, and on the question of the resolution I shall vote "No"—vote down the resolution.

Mr. GELDER. Mr. President, it is most unfortunate that in the matter of this resolution partisan politics has been injected by the Democratic floor leader of this body. Up to this time there have been no politics in the matter of the World's Fair Commission. As the members of this body well know, in the regular session of the Legislature in 1937, an appropriation for $70,000 was made, a commission was formed, and I want to remind the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro, that that commission was composed entirely of Democratic members. In the Special Session of the Legislature, Mr. Wolf, who was then on the committee, went to the Governor of Pennsylvania, then Governor George H. Earle, and told him that the $70,000 would be wasted unless there was a further appropriation to finish the building and be ready for the World's Fair opening.

He said a delay would be dangerous. The Governor would not put the matter of an additional appropriation for the World's Fair Commission in the call for the Special Session of the Legislature. Therefore, it was thrown into the lap of the present administration.

Mr. Wolf sought an interview with the present Governor of Pennsylvania. He called in the Speaker of the House and myself, and there was no talk of partisan politics. It was suggested by Mr. Wolf that he would be glad to have Republican members on the commission. The Governor did not, in my presence—and I was there during the entire time of the interview—say anything as to whether or not he was concerned with the membership or the politics of the members of the commission, but he did take the stand that Pennsylvania should be properly represented at the World's Fair, if we were going to be represented at all; and therefore, he formed an appropriation and he called in the budget officer to see how it could be arranged. He called up Governor Whalen, of the World's Fair Committee. He assured the members of the Senate and the members of the House that if money was appropriated that the Governor would sign the bill.

Then, when the bill went to the House, it was in the House that the additional representation on the committee was arranged for and an amendment came over to the Senate. At that time we were not particularly interested in the question as to whether or not there was an addition to the commission. If the Republican members of the Senate had been interested in it at that time we certainly would have suggested to the Senator from Lackawanna that it be put in the bill when it came to the Senate.

Mr. President, it is true that as it stands now the majority on that commission, are Republicans—but it is not true that the Republican members of that commission—so far as I can find—and that is shown by the fact that Senator Walker was on his feet a few moments ago in defense of the commission—it is not true that the Republicans have been trying to block anything in connection with the World's Fair exhibit; they have been doing everything that has been possible, handicapped by the delay because the Governor who was in office during the Special Session did not do what he certainly should have done; and it is unfortunate at this time that politics is being injected into it. It seems to me that a great deal of ado is being made about a small matter in connection with a resolution, because it is true the popular press of Pennsylvania has been calling attention to the fact that a hot dog stand and a beer stand was to be there in the shadows of Independence Hall.

It is true a great deal of criticism has been made about the interior arrangements. The members of the commission who were together realize, as everybody else has realized, that at this time no change could be made in the original work as designed by the architect.

It seems to me that it is not at all unseemly for this resolution to go back to the committee from which it came. The committee can investigate if it desires, and if they find it necessary to bring out another resolution, if it is found that concessions are being made for beer stands, and if that is arousing antagonism throughout the Commonwealth, then the resolution can be amended. If not then it can die. I want to say I think our Democratic friends are very much perturbed about something that is not so material in occupying the time of the Senate, as they have this morning in opposing this resolution.

Frankly, as for myself, I would say, that had it come to a vote I would have voted against the resolution, but I do not see the reason for quite so much commotion about it. I certainly see no reason why at this time, for the first time, politics should be injected into the matter of the World's Fair exhibit from Pennsylvania.

Mr. GILSON. Mr. President, to my mind there is only one matter of importance about this resolution, and that is that there has been injected into this Senate a statement which is utterly false. There has been and can be no proper Senatorial action which does not by its vote condemn that kind of procedure. To my mind it is far more important that such a thing should be done than whether we sell hot dogs or beer not merely at the World's Fair but even in the Senate chamber.

I do not believe that we can lightly pass off that kind of action without saying by our vote that it is wrong and shall not be done again and for that reason this is important, and the sole importance of this whole debate this afternoon is that the Senate of Pennsylvania, laying aside any partisan politics, will say once and for all that this sort of thing cannot be done.

And now, as to the partisan element being raised here this afternoon, I want to say as a member of that commission, I feel grateful to the House of Representatives, regardless of whatever their motives may have been in furnishing to this commission, from either a large or small motive, a personnel which I have found both so delightful and so useful in the matter of public service, and I am not concerned with the partisan element of this particular question, but I am concerned with the integrity of this body on a matter which should go beyond any partisan politics, and I think the only manly thing for this Senate to do is to resent what has been attempted to be perpetrated here, and that I consider important.

Mr. EALY. Mr. President, I cannot think that this resolution was introduced with any motive to reflect on the members of this commission. Perhaps the wording of the preamble was ill advised. One part of this preamble relates to moving pictures in this building, and I distinctly remember when this matter was brought before the committee it was said that there was an intention to exhibit moving pictures of pleasure spots and places in Pennsylvania where tourists could visit on the way to and from this World's Fair; and I thought that was a pretty good idea at the time. The resolution simply calls for information about this matter, in order to satisfy the minds of the people of Pennsylvania; and I cannot think it was introduced in any partisan manner whatsoever. I am sorry partisan feeling has been interjected into this discussion this afternoon. I think the proper thing to do is to send this back to committee.

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, it was intended as no reflection upon any member of the committee, and I am very sorry any one has taken it as such.

There are some things I think the public should know. I am a member of the Committee on Appropriations, and during this session of the Legislature a member of the commission appeared before the Committee on Appropriations, and I remember him saying—if I have good ears—that it had $75,000 to build a building with, and no money to finish it. Now, yesterday, I found out from members of the commission that we do not own the building, never have, and never will; we have leased space in another man's building. To my mind that is something the people should know about.

It was distinctly given to understand that the State of Pennsylvania had erected a building, the three hundred some thousand dollars was simply to decorate, and now I am told we leased space in another man's building, a part of which is to be used as a restaurant, and it had been intended that they could sell beer, and so forth and so on. These facts I want to find out from the commission and from my friend from Erie, Senator Gilson, as to whether or not we do own the building—and I also distinctly remember a great, a sizeable item that was supposed to be paid to the architect. If we paid an architect and rented space in another man's building, I think that is matter which should be clarified.

Mr. COLEMAN. Mr. President, at the risk of becoming a nuisance by talking again on this particular proposition, I am going to ask for the indulgence of the Senate, and perhaps we may be able to clear up just a point or two.

May I, for the information of the Senate, read the act creating the World's Fair Commission, enacted in 1937, reading:

"It shall be the duty of the commission to provide for full participation by the Commonwealth in the World's Fair to be held in the City of New York during the year one thousand nine hundred and thirty-nine; to provide for exhibits showing the agricultural, industrial, coal mining, scientific, and the scenic and historic interests of the Commonwealth."

In other words, the commission is functioning as limited by an Act of General Assembly, and accordingly those who subtly intimate that the interior of the building ought to have the same dignity, the same solemnity as the place where the Declaration of Independence was signed will readily see that such is not possible under the terms of this particular act.

I want at this time to pay tribute to the Republican members of the World's Fair Commission who are tremendously handicapped because the commission has been functioning since last June, and accordingly the gentlemen who were put on as a result of the amendment passed here several weeks ago, have only a limited knowledge of what has been done. However, those who have examined it, with one exception, have agreed, as one of the members of the commission graciously said, that the exhibit is superb, and that when she saw the building in the Court of States in New York it held her breathless. There was only one member of the commission, that is the scholarly gentleman from Philadelphia, Dr. Woodward—my inclination at the time was to say a word to him with respect to the doctor's criticism of the plans, but I can recall that when Jimmy Walker was in his hey-day he said never argue with a newspaperman, they go to press too often. Consequently, I do not want to get into any controversy with the doctor because I am inclined to feel anything I say may be the signal for the latest issue of the Pennsylvania Legislator.

I believe the doctor was sincere in his criticism but, however, the doctor was alone in his criticism, so far as I am able to determine; there has not been any of the Republican members appointed to the commission who shared his particular belief about the exhibit.

May I just clean up a thought or two, an erroneous impression that may be in the minds, mostly I think it is misleading publicity given to the State of Pennsylvania.

If the General Assembly did not give the World's Fair Commission an additional appropriation of $312,000 all there would be in the Independence Hall in New York would be $68,000 worth of floor space. In other words, the commission has nothing whatever to do with the construction of the Independence Hall. It was merely a suggestion that a sort of reproduction of this Hall would be an appropriate setting, would be in keeping with the dignity and the importance of this great Commonwealth, and so, when we asked for another appropriation it was for the purpose of leasing the entire space in the building with the exception of the space that will be utilized by a restaurant handled by the New York World's Fair Commission in New York. We have nothing whatsoever to do with the erection or the demolition of that particular building, so that, notwithstanding, some criticism has been made about having a New York architect, the Pennsylvania World's Fair Commission had nothing whatsoever to do with the architect who erected that particular structure. If we had not appropriated this additional money the State of Ohio would have the additional space acquired by this commission, as a result of this new appropriation.

I am inclined to believe, Mr. President, as I indicated, that all of the controversy is much ado about nothing. This exhibit will be in keeping with the dignity and the progressiveness and the importance of this Commonwealth.

I believe that the Senator from Delaware, Mr. Heyburn, was led into a position—to use the vernacular—of leading with his chin. I am inclined to believe that he knew nothing whatsoever about it, and my only complaint is the introduction of a resolution that carries in the whereas clause a subtle suggestion and intimation that something is wrong.

I would like to advise the Senator from Delaware, Mr. Heyburn, that as the acting Chairman of the commission that the five members, rather, that the fourteen members, have not taken a nickel for expenses. I made three trips to New York, seven to Harrisburg; I made a number of telephone calls, all at my own expense. When the new members were added to the commission I believe that Mr. Wolf conferred with the Governor and indicated to him that our only interest was seeing that this dream of a real exhibit, commensurate with the importance of the Commonwealth, became a reality; and I indicated to him that the members of the commission would be only too glad to step aside if it was the Governor's desire. The Governor said very definitely that he had no intention of adding any new members, and as far as he knew at that particular time, when the designer explained the exhibit, he said the exhibit was all right and would be in keeping with the progressive spirit of this State.

So, Mr. President, I believe that we ought to defeat the motion to refer this to any committee embodying as it does, a most fearful kind of a public insult to the members of the particular committee, and I am asking my friends on this side of the House, and those on the other side who agree with us, to defeat this motion to recommit it, and then if the resolution is later brought up for a vote, to vote it down, and thus remove from the members of this commission who are serving today, the stigma of being involved today with anything having to do with the sale of hot dogs or beer or the desecration of Independence Hall.

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, if this discussion is not soon ended I fear we are going to have some bitterness against some individuals arising out of this afternoon's proceedings. This thing is beginning to look to me like the old hot potato, it is passed to one and he immediately finds it too hot and he immediately passes it to someone else.

Before voting on this motion I think we might clarify the situation for all of us, if the chairman of the committee, instead of going into an oration about the features and science effects and so forth, would tell us just a few facts about what is in the exhibit at the World's Fair, and that might put an end to all this argument. Are there concessions; are there hot dog stands, are they going to sell beer? Can we just get a short statement in a very few words of what it consists of? That is, I think, the entire question in the minds of the Senators.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I want to clear the atmosphere on the question of injecting politics into this matter. I think my friend misunderstood. I said with eight Republican members on the committee I did not see why we had to have a resolution of this kind. I want to refer to a few words—and you will see what I mean, that I said on the floor of this Senate where you have eight members you could not be overwhelmed.

I mean you could inquire and settle it among yourselves. I do not see why it had to be a public matter when you have a membership of fourteen members, at least thirteen of whom are in agreement in the matter, and you can certainly accomplish what you are trying to do.

I am objecting to the resolution, which I say cannot be amended, because of the first whereas clause, which reads, "Whereas, the present plans of the Pennsylvania World's Fair Commission call for the official Pennsylvania Exhibit at the New York World's Fair called for modernizing the interior of a reproduction of Independence Hall;

"And whereas the present plans despite a prohibitory order by Governor James called for a cocktail terrace, a beer garden and also a theatre where publicity moving pictures will be shown, and other startling and not altogether patriotic innovations."

Well, now, I think that in itself is a very unfair statement to make. I never heard Governor James issue such an order prohibiting such things; I never heard that such things were going to be exhibited. I read further from the resolution:

"And whereas public opinion in Philadelphia is overwhelmingly and indignantly against these innovations, as shown in the daily press;"

Well, I never heard there was any justification for those things. As a matter of fact, the press in Philadelphia has made of this a political issue and is trying to lay the blame of the whole thing upon the Democratic administration. I'll agree with Senator Gelder that the duty of the Governor who retired, Governor Earle, was to have appropriated this money last year. It was his obligation to do so and he should have carried it out, but because he did not do something he should have done is no reason we should do something we should not do. We should say, this committee of fourteen men, in whom all of us have confidence—should advise the General Assembly what plans it has devised in connection with the exhibit, or what plan it has devised to overcome the mounting public objection to the original plan, so as to typify the true spirit of Independence Hall.

There is not the slightest evidence before us that any such thing is true, and yet the resolution is introduced that the committee should advise what they have done to overcome an unwarranted public opinion. From the facts before us this public opinion is unwarranted, because there is nothing basically to show that these recital clauses are true.

The gentleman has told us there is no need for him to repeat—the only thing in the recital clause that may be untrue is that there may be a restaurant there and there may be some moving pictures shown. There is nothing to that, there is nothing wrong, and if it is the committee can correct it.

I have no charge against Senator Heyburn except that I think he has presented a resolution which was inadvisable. The real purpose of the resolution which was not disclosed in the resolution—can be carried out at a meeting of the committee. I do not think we should allow newspaper stories to control the Senate, and it is high time we stop that. I think the people responsible for discrediting the exhibit are the newspapers, and the best answer you can give them is to vote down the resolution, first the motion to commit it, because it cannot be corrected to meet the intent of the sponsor, because I am sure that was not his intention; and, secondly, when the question comes up on the resolution vote it down.

Mr. OWLETT. Mr. President, I do not want to prolong this discussion. There is before this Senate now a motion to send this resolution back to committee. The sponsor of the resolution made the motion himself and he stated that if the resolution contained preambles which misstated facts he wanted those facts corrected; he was as anxious as anybody else.

Now, I have no objection particularly to the defeat of this resolution, but I do, Mr. President, seriously object now to the defeat of this motion, to send this back to committee, for the reason my friend and colleague, from Erie, Senator Gilson, apparently wants this Senate to vote down this motion to recommit this resolution as a chastisement to Senator Heyburn, for introducing it.

I submit to the members of the Senate that is wrong. It has been heralded all through this State that this World's Fair Commission was to sell hot dogs and beer and liquor and that it was to be sold in a replica of Independence Hall.

An now, if that is not true, as Senator Geltz very properly pointed out, let us know; but we have not yet been told the plans do not call for that. I submit, Mr. President, that a member of this Senate has a right to introduce a resolution calling for information. I, for one, seriously object to members of this Senate standing up on the floor and inferring improper motives to a member of this body who introduces a resolution, merely for the purpose of ascertaining information; and who, after it is introduced and after a statement is made that it is untrue, gets up frankly and honestly and says if it has untrue statements he does not want them in there, send it back to committee and have it cured—and then we have two hours oratory, most of which attempts to question the motive of the Senator who introduced that resolution.

I say we should send this resolution back to the committee where, if it is not to be passed it can die, and if it is we should have this information and it can be corrected. Let's not, by passing this resolution, serve notice on a member of this Senate that he has not a right to introduce a resolution calling for information.

Mr. SIPE. Mr. President, I wish to interrogate the Senator from Delaware, Mr. Heyburn.

The PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from Delaware, Mr. Heyburn, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, I will.

Mr. SIPE. Mr. President, the resolution introduced by the Senator from Delaware, Mr. Heyburn, alleges in the whereas clauses certain statements which we have heard several members of the commission, both Republican and Democrat declare are both false and malicious. I do not wish to impugn your motives, but I ask you to inform the Senate where you got those allegations.

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, I simply read stories in the public press, from one end of the State to the other, and when I dictated the resolution it mentioned that fact, which has apparently been left out of the whereas clauses. Now, what I would like someone to tell me is how much this architect got; do we own the building or not; is there a restaurant in the same building in which the exhibit is to be placed; do we ever contemplate the sale of beer or not? That is a simple matter of information; it is nothing personal.

Mr. GILSON. Mr. President, I am very much surprised to see the Senator from Tioga get on his feet and attempt to convince the Senate that it is proper procedure for one Senator to make statements directly and positively and which are absolutely untrue, without an ample investigation, and then say that sort of procedure must be condoned and justified or otherwise a Senator cannot ask for information.

I think the Senator from Tioga entirely overlooked the fact that I stated I thought this commission was duty bound to furnish information to anybody at any proper time. I cannot understand how any flight of oratory can be used, any innuendo can be used, to couple up the right of a Senator to ask for information with the similar right that a Senator in so doing shall make statements or information which are palpably false and that is the case here.

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, may I say for the information of the Senate that I have been advised that in the New York World's Fair there will be also entertainment commonly known in the vernacular as the fan dance, and it will not be in the Pennsylvania exhibit.

Mr. RICE. Mr. President, may we have the resolution read before we vote?

The resolution was again read.

QUESTION OF PARLIAMENTARY INFORMATION

Mr. GILSON. Mr. President, I rise to a question of parliamentary information.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Erie will state his question of parliamentary information.

Mr. GILSON. Mr. President, do I understand that a vote "no" means the resolution will not be committed, and we will be in a position to vote either "aye" or "no" on the resolution?

The PRESIDENT. The Chair so understands.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. Shapiro and Mr. Coleman and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—27.

Bartlett,	Gelder,	Letzler,	Snowden,
Chapman,	Geltz,	Mallery,	Stevenson,
Crowe,	Haluska,	Miller,	Tallman,
Ealy,	Heyburn,	Owlett,	Thomas,
Edmonds,	Homsher,	Pierson,	Wolfenden,
Eroe,	Jacobs,	Reed,	Woodward,
Farrell,	Lanius,	Sipe,

NAYS—14.

Cavalcante,	Jaspan,	Mundy,	Shapiro,
Coleman,	Kunkel,	Rice,	Stiefel,
DiSilvestro,	McCreesh,	Ruth,	Walker,
Gilson,	McGinnis,

So the question was determined in the affirmative, and the resolution was referred to the Committee on Federal Relations.

The SPEAKER (Ellwood J. Turner) in the Chair.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Rev. Walter Evans Deibler, offered the following prayer:

We thank Thee, O God, for the inspiration of a beautiful day. We would not accept this blessing without duly recording our appreciation to Thee. We are reminded of the relationship we sustain to Thee. "I am the vine, ye are the branches." "As the branch cannot bear fruit of itself, except it abide in the vine; no more can ye except ye abide in me." Organic rather than mechanical union is here indicated. Soon new life in nature about us will support our faith. Man is no mere automaton. He is endowed with capacities and faculties to record the life giving, fruit bearing energy of our Creator, God. Give, we beseech Thee, to each member of this Assembly and to all of us the energy to bear fruit that will honor Thee. Through Jesus Christ, Our Lord to whom be glory forever. Amen.

SENATE MESSAGE

RESOLUTION FOR CONCURRENCE

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced, presented the following extract from the Journal of the Senate, which was read as follows, viz:

In the Senate, March 13, 1939.

For many years this country and the world at large has observed May first as May Day, and, at different places, the observance has been marked by various kinds of celebrations.

At times these celebrations have resulted in demonstrations against organized government.

In 1932 the American Legion in Fayette County inaugurated a new kind of observance of the day, by staging a parade of Americanism, which has grown each year into an event of first importance.

The participation in the celebration of this day by patriotic societies, veterans' organizations and other organizations, cannot help but make it throughout the Commonwealth a day to awaken new pride in our American institutions, therefore be it

Resolved (if the House of Representatives concur), That the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania urges the setting aside of May first as Americanism Day, and urges upon all patriotic, veteran, fraternal and civic organizations the planning of its celebration in such a manner as will bring to the people of the Commonwealth a full realization of the benefits and privileges and blessings that come to them through the continuance of our American form of government, and be it further

Resolved, That the Governor of the Commonwealth is hereby urged to issue his proclamation further urging the people of the Commonwealth to join in a real American celebration of Americanism Day.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the House of Representatives for its concurrence.

Referred to the Committee on Rules.

SENATE MESSAGE

RESOLUTION FOR CONCURRENCE

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced, presented the following extract from the Journal of the Senate, which was read as follows, viz:

In the Senate, March 13, 1939.

Whereas, The whole world, rent asunder by a strife and contention, violence and intolerance, is today in a state of turmoil and uncertainty, marked by a titanic struggle between Democracy and Autocracy, while in this Country anti-American forces are striving to discredit and destroy the ideals and institutions symbolized by the American Flag, and social, political and economic forces are combating one another; and

Whereas, Never before in the history of the nation has there been greater need among our people for the unity, cooperation and tolerance for which our Country's Flag stands; and

Whereas, With the Stars and Stripes as its emblem The United States Flag Association, a non-profit, non-partisan and non-sectarian organization incorporated under Federal law and headed by the President of the United States as Honorary President General, is, with the cooperation of various groups, organizations and fields of activity in our National life, conducting a National Patriotic Revival, culminating in Flag Week, June 8th to 14th next, for the two-fold purpose (1) of awakening our people to the dangers threatening our National life, thereby causing them to resolve as never before to uphold and preserve our Country's ideals and institutions, and (2) of promoting National Unity, Patriotic Cooperation and Racial and Religious Tolerance; therefore, be it

Resolved (if the House of Representatives concur) That the General Assembly of the State of Pennsylvania heartily indorses the plan for a great National Patriotic Revival, and that the Governor is hereby authorized and requested, first, to direct the State Superintendent of Public Instruction to arrange for the suitable observance of Flag Week in all the public schools, and, secondly, to issue a proclamation calling upon the State officials to display the United States Flag on all State buildings during Flag Week, and inviting the people of the State to fly the Flag at their homes and other suitable places as well as on their cars, and that in every community they hold special exercises at which means shall be taken to give significant expression to our thoughtful love of America, our pride in its glorious history, our faith in its destiny, our devotion to its ideals and institutions and our determination to uphold and preserve them now and forever.

Section 3 This act shall become effective immediately upon final enactment

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. LEVY. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, last evening I believe we went into quite a lot of discussion regarding House Bill No. 338, and it was developed on the floor through questioning that the purpose of this bill was two-fold. The sponsor of the bill explained to the membership of the House that the first purpose of the bill was to clarify and make constitutional the Act of 1937, known as the Public Utility Law. The second purpose was the fact that this bill would help materially the financial crisis that the city of Philadelphia finds itself in at the present time.

As to the first reason, Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I wish to bring to the attention of the membership that in Pennsylvania, in the Superior court, the question of the jurisdiction of the Public Utility Commission has already been definitely defined, and I take great pleasure in informing the House that it was a Republican, now the Republican Governor, then a member of the Superior Court, who concurred in this opinion in the Ambridge case, in which he said that the Public Utility Commission has jurisdiction over municipally owned plants operated by private utilities in regard to rate fixing. From that, members of the House, we find that the first argument of the sponsor of this bill is not very sound, but if the gentleman from Philadelphia insists that this bill, which is a state wide bill, be made a matter of Philadelphia interest alone, then we must look into the reason for the sponsorship of this bill.

Members of the House, on February 24th, 1939, a Philadelphia corporation, so called, with its representative, namely, Mr. Dougherty, made a proposal to the City Fathers of Philadelphia, and that proposal was a loan of fifty million dollars, to be used to get Philadelphia out of its present crises. In this proposal were certain stipulations, and one stipulation was this, and I quote from section IV, paragraph B, "That during the period of the assignment," meaning the gas moneys, "neither the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania nor the Pennsylvania Public Utility Commission, nor the city of Philadelphia, nor any other governmental agency, other than the gas commission, created pursuant to the amended agreement shall have the power, without changes in the present constitution to modify, reduce or raise the rates chargeable by the lessee."

Members of this House, if the Republican leadership in Philadelphia were sincere in House Bill No. 338, they would come before the membership of this House and attach to this bill the proposal of the bankers of Philadelphia. This bill, gentlemen, is state wide. It has no business whatever to be argued as a local issue. Nevertheless, the sponsor of this bill insists that it be done and we will do it according to that.

What does this proposal of Mr. Dougherty and his sponsors attempt to do to the people of Philadelphia? It is plain and self explanatory. He is attempting to tie the citizens of Philadelphia, 500,000 gas consuming families to a seventeen and a half year agreement, to pay the present gas rate or a higher gas rate, but never a lower gas rate. The Public Utility Commission of Pennsylvania with its engineers, with its consultants, are to be ripped from the power of reducing the gas rate in Philadelphia, because bankers wish to be assured of the payment of this loan, which is unconstitutional on its face. To show you the unfairness of Mr. Dougherty and his crowd, I wish to also bring to the attention of the members of the House the fact that in addition to the mandatory provisions concerning the gas rate in Philadelphia, he also wishes to establish a mortgage on the Philadelphia gas-owned plant, which is in itself unconstitutional, and which will be decided by the Supreme Court in a friendly suit in two weeks, because the Philadelphia gas works is already mortgaged to the bondholders of Philadelphia.

I, with reluctance, brought this to the attention of the membership on the basis of a Philadelphia measure, because the bill in itself is state-wide. The bill provides for the ripping out of power of the present state Public Utility Commission, governing the rates, inspection and auditing of the books of the many municipally owned utilities within the boundaries of the state of Pennsylvania. This is not a Philadelphia measure, but if it were a Philadelphia bill, I appeal to the members of this House not in this bill to represent the bankers of Philadelphia, and I appeal to them, as representing five hundred thousand families of Philadelphia, consumers of gas, furnished by that utility, which may in the very near future have its gas rate decreased instead of increased. I thank you.

Mr. OMINSKY. Mr. Speaker, and members of the House, I presume that last night's discussion on this bill, on the amendments which I had offered, should be ample authority as to why this bill should not pass at this time.

It seems to me every concession we endeavored to obtain from the sponsor of this bill was defeated, not for the purpose of helping or improving the conditions of Philadelphia, but perhaps because there is a one-track mind on this whole situation. After the debate someone remarked that if a pipe line was laid from Harrisburg to Philadelphia on the question of gas, perhaps we would not need a gas works in Philadelphia. That may be true, but you cannot light that kind of gas.

I am appealing to the membership of this House to defeat this bill at this time on several other grounds, in addition to those which were pointed out last night. In the first place, to my mind, this bill if passed and finally approved by the Governor, will create another "teapot dome" situation in Philadelphia because it involves $50,000,000 of the necessary accumulations of profits by someone outside the custody of a governmental agency. As a matter of fact, the Research Bureau, which is an economic survey bureau, shows that selling the $50,000,000 worth of rentals of the city of Philadelphia to a privately owned operator will cost the city of Philadelphia $73,500,000 in the long run. That authority also states that the selling of $73,500,000 worth of gas rentals for $50,000,000 is equivalent to borrowing at 4.67 per cent. A lower rate of interest might be obtained by borrowing less, and thus balance the city budget. This bill according to this survey, which was issued on March 7, 1939, is not a solution to the financial dilemma in which Philadelphia finds itself today.

Further, I have alluded to a Republican Councilman, and there are others who were not in the Democratic party, who have denounced this scheme. Republican Councilman Maxman assailed it on February 2 when he stated as follows, as newspaper reports have it:

"In a vigorous attack on the Philadelphia gas works company and the U. G. I. Company, Councilman George Maxman today accused utilities of taking advantage of the city's financial plight 'to knock our brains out,' so he states.

"Assailing the terms which the utilities offered as the price for agreeing to extension of the new gas lease, he accused them of attempting to 'hijack and blackjack the consumers.'

"The city would be burdened with an additional outlay of nearly $1,000,000 for 1938 and 1939 if the lease is extended on the utility's terms, Maxman declared.

"His outburst came at a meeting of the Lighting Committee of City Council, attended by Conrad N. Lauer, president of the Gas Works Company, and other officials of both utilities."

He is a member of the majority party in the Council in Philadelphia today, and there are twenty-one Republican Councilmen to one Democratic Councilman, and in their own ranks they are not sure whether this thing is a good thing or not, so why should we Legislators give impetus to something which will be a fraud and a steal in Philadelphia? As a matter of fact, members of this House, the bill to my mind would be unconstitutional. That is not my word for it because on February 18th of this year there appeared an item in one of the Philadelphia newspapers as follows:

"Bondholders to file suit to test legality of sale of gas rents. A suit to test the legality of the sale of gas works rentals for $50,000,000 appeared a virtual certainty yesterday as City Council prepared to override Mayor Wilson's veto of the extension of the gas lease. Bondholders from New York City, it was reported, have decided to contest the sale on the grounds that it is a mere subterfuge to borrow money beyond the sum permitted by law. Even if the bondholders are satisfied with the arrangement," it was said, "bankers bidding on the gas rentals are likely to demand a judicial determination of the question before they advance the $50,000,000."

Gentlemen, it seems to me, and it should seem to every right thinking individual, that this scheme to sell the assets or to assign the lease which Philadelphia now holds or its gas works is a subterfuge to increase its borrowing capacity which today is overloaded by over $100,000,000. and they cannot make any additional attempts to borrow outright.

This bill attempts to increase the borrowing capacity of the city beyond its present legal limit, to the tune of $50,000,000. This bill is not the only solution, even if it were constitutional and were legal. On March 12, 1939, another plan was submitted for the approval of Council which would obviate the necessity of making this loan of $50,000,000, and this, too, came from Republican sources and not Democratic sources.

An item appeared in one of the Philadelphia newspapers on March 12th wherein it states:

"'Bankers' Plan' Seen Gas Solution Stokes Wants Issuance of Bonds Against Rentals.

"The 'bankers' plan' to solve municipal finances by issuing $50,000,000 in bonds against future gas works rentals, instead of City Council's own proposal to sell rentals outright, was urged upon Council yesterday by former Congressman Edward Lowber Stokes.

"Stokes, an investment broker here, gave three advantages of the bond issue over the outright sale:

"First, he declared, such bonds, which would be exempt from Federal taxation, would attract more bidders among bankers than Council's plan, which brought only one bid—that of A. Webster Dougherty, who offered in behalf of the Philadelphia Corporation to pay $50,000,000 for seventeen and a half years' rental totalling $73,500,000.

"Second, Stokes said, the plan would save the city between $1,000,000 and $4,000,000 over the proposed sale. Dougherty's bid would cost the city $23,500,000 above the $50,000,000 received. Actuaries calculate that as the equivalent of interest at from 4.67 to 5.37 per cent.

"Thirdly, according to Stokes, this would be more likely to win approval of the Supreme Court as legally valid than Council's proposal.

"The Stokes method of paying off the city's accumulated deficit of nearly $40,000,000 and balancing the 1939 budget, understood to have the support of bankers in preference to the Dougherty offer, would require enabling legislation by the State Assembly."

Mr. Speaker and Members of the House, here is a plan in lieu of the one proposed. I do not say at this time that this is the plan that should be submitted and accepted. I also say that the other plan may be a good plan and therefore, just to make sure that the citizens of Philadelphia receive the best that can be had under the circumstances, we should wait with the passage of this bill so that the council of the city of Philadelphia may have an opportunity to look into the second proposition as to its merits.

Members of the House, unfortunately in our two-party system of government, just because a Democrat proposes something which may be in the interests of the people and is a good thing, the Republicans because of their loyalty and because of the fact that they are members of a party are loathe to vote for a proposition because they are afraid they may be considered as traitors to the party. I say this may also be true on the Democratic side and it is unfortunate.

This bill is of the utmost importance, not only to the citizens of Pennsylvania but also to every community in the State of Pennsylvania, and if perchance this bill or proposal of council is declared unconstitutional or illegal by the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania, this bill will still remain on the statute books, and Philadelphia will not have received the proper consideration, will not have received the proposed benefits of this bill, whereas the actual detriment of this bill will be seen all over the Commonwealth. Therefore, Mr. Speaker and members of the House, do not consider party loyalty above loyalty to your communities and your constituents. It may be true, wherever there is a political measure at stake, and you have party loyalty to consider you go along with it, but this proposition of selling the gas works lease in Philadelphia and taking out of the province of the regulatory body municipally owned utilities is a subterfuge and your communities may later on suffer.

Therefore I ask you to forget party loyalty and regardless of party affiliation I ask the membership to vote "no" on this measure.

Mr. TAHL. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, this bill was discussed at length last night and I do not feel that I want to burden the membership of this House this afternoon, but in view of the statements made by the gentlemen, I feel duty bound to make answer to the statement which I believe is inaccurate.

I want to say this to you, the Republican members of Philadelphia are very much interested in the consumers of Philadelphia. We have considered this thing very thoroughly, and we feel that this measure is of benefit to Philadelphia.

They claim that the Public Utility Commission is doing such a wonderful work for the city of Philadelphia. Let us see what has been done. Here is a lease that was negotiated about fifteen months ago. Under that lease the city of Philadelphia saved $300,000 in operating expense, and under that lease the city of Philadelphia is saving about one million dollars in other costs, and for a period of fifteen months this Public Utility Commission never saw fit to help the people of Philadelphia and has been holding up this lease. Why have they been holding up the lease? Because they are not friendly to the people of Philadelphia. That is the only reason for it.

So far as the cost to the people of Philadelphia is concerned in leasing the gas works, if that is going to be done, that is a matter for Council. It has not been done, but if it were to be done, I assure the members of the House that we will save more than we pay for leasing the gas works and I will tell you why. At the present time we are paying six per cent on $30,000,000 that we owe. At the present time we have to pay higher prices for supplies furnished the city of Philadelphia because the contractors and the dealers must charge extra for waiting several years in order to get their money. When you figure that out you will find that the city of Philadelphia will save money if it can pay off this present indebtedness of approximately thirty-eight or thirty-nine million dollars.

Members of the House, this bill if passed, will not deprive any community from any reasonable rate, because under the present law a complainant must go to the Utility Commission, regardless of whether it is under the control of that Commission or not, and under the present Pennsylvania law, when a complainant is dissatisfied with any rate fixed by council he can go to the court and have it passed upon. No matter what you do you will not deprive any citizen from relief in a case of extortionate rates.

As I said to you last night, this bill merely seeks to clarify the doubt in the minds of some people as to whether or not the Commission has the right to regulate municipal improvements or municipal properties. We believe that under Article III, Section 20, of the Constitution, they have no such right, but they have assumed that right, and in order to clarify this situation and avoid legal proceedings it was thought best that the law be so amended that there shall not be any question that the Commission has no right to regulate municipally owned utilities.

I want to say another thing to the House. The Democrats from Philadelphia have been assailing this bill, they have been upsetting everything we have been trying to do for Philadelphia, and they have not submitted one single thing that would help Philadelphia, not a single thing. The best reason they can advance here is because they expect an election in November and that is why they do not want this bill to go through. They want the people of Philadelphia to pay more taxes, and the people of Philadelphia cannot pay more taxes. We feel if this bill is passed it will help to stabilize financial conditions in Philadelphia.

I want to ask the members of this House in behalf of all Republican members, to vote "aye" upon this measure.

Mr. OMINSKY. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, it had not been my intention to speak further on this bill. I believe everyone here knows what the bill is about, but I cannot help rising again in answer to my colleague from Philadelphia, when he states that the Public Utility Commission is not friendly in Philadelphia. He reminds me of an ostrich who has hid his head in the sand thinking that no one else can see him because he cannot see others.

As a matter of fact on March 2nd the Public Utility Commission released a statement relative to exactly that point, and he probably received a copy but never took the time to read it.

I am going to quote some figures for his information and for the information of this House. The release states:

"Millions of dollars are being saved annually by Pennsylvania utility customers because of rate reductions ordered by the Public Utility Commission, since it took office in April, 1937.

"Still other millions of dollars, the exact amount unestimated, customer money held by utilities as deposits, have been returned to the public following Commission rulings based on the Public Utility Law.

"Annual bills of electric customers alone have been cut more than 10,000,000 a year. The total annual savings, the figures are as of March 1, 1939, effected during the period in which the present Commission has functioned were distributed as follows:

Electric	$10,681,054.42
Telephone	411,342.91
Gas	133,630.16
Water	198,124.83
Steam Heat	40,104.21

Telegraph	94,000.00
Toll Bridge	25,000.00

Total $11,583,256.53

"Of this total $10,164,613.67 are directly from Commission orders."

I assume the gentleman knows that the population of Philadelphia is approximately one-fifth of the entire population of the State, so that if you take one-fifth of $11,000,000 in proportionate amounts, the Commission until the present time has saved for the consumers of Philadelphia over $5,000,000. That is in answer to his argument that the commission is not friendly with the Philadelphia consumers.

I might further state, relative to the proposition that we have not as yet offered a program to help Philadelphia, and that we are probably obstructing and putting everything in the way of Philadelphia to raise the taxes because of the election which is to take place this year in November.

Members of this House, I will say this, that from a political standpoint we Democrats would be far better off in Philadelphia if we allowed a bill of this kind to pass, but we are fighting it not because we are looking forward as far as the November election is concerned, but we are interested in the city of Philadelphia. As a matter of fact, if they want a proposal for the possible elimination of certain things, in Philadelphia, this has already been made to Council, not by Democrats, but by the research bureaus who are interested in economy, that if they would pare down their budget without impairing the efficiency of the Philadelphia government, they could at least cut the budget two and one half million dollars, conservatively.

We have offered two or three measures in this House which will alleviate conditions in Philadelphia. As a matter of fact, there is another proposal that perhaps might be taken up in Philadelphia to relieve the acute financial situation, and that is this: as you probably know, or most of you should know, Philadelphia pays out of this $86,000,000 budget about $34,000,000 in to the sinking fund and interest on its floating debt. In Philadelphia today, if a private corporation or company would sit down with its bondholders in a friendly conference and say, "Gentlemen, we cannot raise that amount of money today, we don't want you to lose any part of it, but at the same time we ask you to give us an extension on this $34,000,000 so that instead of including it in one years' payments suppose you allow us to include it in two years payments, so that instead of including $34,000,000 in the present budget we would only have to include $17,000,000 this year, and perhaps $17,000,000 next year, and in that way there would be no deficit as far as the 1939 budget is concerned." No, they do not want to do that. They want the taxpayers of Philadelphia to bear the burden, and whether or not they increase the taxes in Philadelphia outright, or whether they put over a gas deal such as this, which I contend is an indirect tax on the people of Philadelphia through consumer payments, both of them are the same, and they are outrageous. Therefore I ask the membership of this House to cast partisanship aside and vote "no" on this measure.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

BILL ON FINAL PASSAGE

Agreeably to order,

The bill having been called up from the postponed calendar by Mr. David P. Reese.

The House resumed the consideration on final passage of House Bill No. 115, entitled

An Act to amend section ten of the act approved the thirty-first day of March one thousand eight hundred and sixty (P. L. 427) entitled "An act to consolidate revise and amend the laws of the Commonwealth relating to penal proceedings and pleadings" by providing further for the administration of oaths and affirmations to witnesses appearing before grand juries.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. HOMER S. BROWN. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Dauphin, Mr. Reese.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Dauphin permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. DAVID P. REESE. I will, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. HOMER S. BROWN. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman from Dauphin just what is the need for this bill.

Mr. DAVID P. REESE. Mr. Speaker, the need for this bill, as has been previously stated on the floor of this House, is to facilitate proceedings before a grand jury; to relieve a judge of the laborious duty of swearing in those witnesses whose names do not appear upon the indictment.

Mr. HOMER S. BROWN. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman from Dauphin how this bill facilitates proceedings before a grand jury.

Mr. DAVID P. REESE. Mr. Speaker, it allows the foreman of a grand jury to swear in witnesses instead of the judge.

Mr. HOMER S. BROWN. Mr. Speaker, may I ask the gentleman from Dauphin if any time is saved when a judge swears a witness any more than when the foreman of a grand jury swears a witness. Does it not take the same time to swear the witness in, regardless of who swears him?

Mr. DAVID P. REESE. Mr. Speaker, certainly it takes the same time but it does not take up the time of a judge who may be occupied elsewhere.

Mr. HOMER S. BROWN. Then, Mr. Speaker, I take it the only reason is that the time of a judge is saved?

Mr. DAVID P. REESE. Mr. Speaker, that is correct.

Mr. HOMER S. BROWN. Mr. Speaker, does the gentleman feel that a bill of this importance, which changes a law which has been in existence in this Commonwealth for seventy-nine years, should be enacted simply to save the time of a judge?

Mr. DAVID P. REESE. Mr. Speaker, if I did not think so I would not have introduced the bill.

Mr. HOMER S. BROWN. I thank the gentleman from Dauphin, Mr. Reese.

Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I have always felt that in changing laws which have to do with our fundamental processes we should approach them slowly, and that they should only be changed when a fundamental question is involved. Here is a law which we are called upon to change, which has been in existence in this Commonwealth for a period of seventy-nine years. I see no reason why it should be changed. I do not believe that a judge would come here and tell us that his time is so important that he cannot swear in a witness who has been subpoenaed to come before a grand jury. I submit if that is the only purpose of the bill certainly there can be no merit in it. We have this situation confronting us in Pennsylvania today, of certain laws which we are attempting to break down which have guaranteed to us fundamental liberties. This bill is innocent in its looks on today's calendar, but it may become a bill of great harm. After all the judges of our Courts of Quarter Sessions are given over to certain duties which they must perform. I think as a matter of common courtesy the judge should be close to a grand jury, and that if his time is so important that he cannot stay close to a grand jury to swear a witness, which only takes a few minutes, I am rather led to the belief that his services as a judge might be open to question.

However, I do not believe that is the real reason why this bill is wanted. It does seem to me that a defendant should have on the indictment the names of the people who will be called, so that he can see them, he can at least see the names of the people who went in and swore against him. He at least has the right. Under an investigation, of course, we have no indictments. When a witness is subpoenaed and the witness goes before the grand jury the Court swears him. I know that there may be some precedent that while we have followed that procedure, under the common law a grand jury today may take upon itself the right to swear a witness without that witness' name appearing upon the indictment and without that witness having been sworn by a judge, but a grand jury is an important institution in our fundamental law. This act which we have had on the statute books for over seventy-nine years, if it does no more than keep the judge around, is somewhat of a protection to the people of this Commonwealth, and if nothing will be saved by the passage of this bill, excepting the time of the judge, there is no reason under heaven why this act, which has worked well in this Commonwealth for seventy-nine years, should be repealed.

For that reason, Mr. Speaker, it seems to me that we ought to vote "no" on this piece of legislation.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I have the greatest respect for the legal knowledge and judgment of the gentleman from Allegheny, who has just spoken, but I feel that there is an answer to every point which he has raised, and I shall answer them specifically.

In the first place, he suggested that a bill, saving the time of the courts, is not of any great importance. Let me give to you the picture of a grand jury operating in one part of the court house with a judge conducting a trial of some sort in some other part of the court house. It is not only the time of the judge, but is in time of the grand jury and it is the time of the other jury sitting on the other case; it is the time of the witnesses and the lawyers who are involved in the other case, because either the judge must leave the trial and go up to the grand jury room and there swear the witness, or as is the more usual practice, the witness must be taken from the grand jury room, and the trial interrupted while the court there swears the witness, so that there is some real saving in this procedure other than the saving of time or the convenience of the judge.

In the second place, a great deal of emphasis has been placed by the gentleman who has just spoken, concerning the age of this law. It is true that this law has been in effect and has been on the statute books for over one hundred years, or a law very similar to it, but it has not been the practice of the Courts of Quarter Sessions or of grand juries of this Commonwealth to follow the interpretations of the law which are now placed upon it. As a matter of fact, there are no Supreme or Superior Court decisions on the case, but the majority of the lower court decisions hold it is not necessary for the court to swear the witnesses before the grand jury, whether their names are on the back of the indictment or whether they are not.

In that connection I would like to cite just a few things. I am reading now from a decision of the Justice of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania, while he was in the lower court, Justice Maxey in which he says, "That it is the practice in Pennsylvania to swear witnesses by the foreman of the grand jury in investigations conducted by the grand jury pursuant to the order of court is evidenced as follows." Then he quotes from the District Attorney of Philadelphia, who served there for fifteen years; he quotes from a judge in Philadelphia who served there for eighteen years; he quotes from an Assistant District Attorney of Philadelphia, who served there for a number of years; he quotes from the present judge of Allegheny County, who at that time had served for over thirty years; he quotes from the District Attorney of Lackawanna County, who had served six years; he quotes from a judge in Luzerne County, who had served a number of years. He says with reference to his investigation that it was not the custom in any of the larger counties of Pennsylvania for a judge to swear a witness before a grand jury, regardless of whether his name was on the back of the indictment or whether it was not.

The gentleman also made reference to the guaranteeing of our liberty, and that this is a method of guaranteeing it, and I think he based that argument on the fact that the defendant would have on the back of the indictment the names of the witnesses. There is nothing in the law which requires a name to be written on the back of the indictment, and this will not be changed in any manner.

I would like also to read in connection with this what the Supreme Court of the United States says concerning this point:

"The oath administered to the foreman, which has come down to us from the most ancient times, and is found in Rex v. Shaftsbury, 8 Howell's State Trials, 759, indicates that the grand jury was competent to act solely on its own volition. This oath was that 'you shall diligently inquire and true presentments make of all such matters, articles and things as shall be given to you in charge, as of all other matters and things as shall come to your own knowledge touching this present service,' etc. This oath has remained substantially unchanged to the present day.

"In a lecture delivered by Mr. Justice Wilson, of this court, who may be assumed to have known the current practice, before the students of the University of Pennsylvania, he says (2 Wilson's Works, 213):

"It has been alleged that grand juries are confined, in their inquiries to the bills offered to them, to the crimes given them in charge, and to the evidence brought before them by the prosecutor. But these conceptions are much too contracted; they present but a very imperfect and unsatisfactory view of the duty required from grand jurors, and of the trust reposed in them. They are not appointed for the prosecutor or for the court; they are appointed for the government and for the people . . ."

The grand jury is a cross-section of the people of the community which it represents and it is the people's tool and the people's instrument by which justice can be administered by the people themselves. It is a safe-guard against dishonest officials, and I think this amendment will make that safe-guard greater and tend to eliminate dishonesty among officials.

I think I have covered all the points which have been raised by the gentleman from Allegheny. There are many things that might be said concerning this bill. As has been suggested by the gentleman from Allegheny, it doesn't make any radical change in the law; it is more or less of a minor matter, yet if anything, it strengthens the law and it protects the liberties of the people of this Commonwealth. It certainly will be a convenience and a time-saving element and will clarify the existing law and prevent probably a situation in the future which may prove very expensive to the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania or to some other county whereby this provision may be overlooked, or the practice followed which is practiced now, and then the case may be taken to the Supreme Court, and the court decide that the practice which is followed now is not strictly in accordance with the wording of the statute and will necessitate possibly a rehearing by a grand jury or a reinvestigation by a grand jury, which may be a matter of many months.

For this reason I think that this bill should be passed.

Mr. REUBEN E. COHEN. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, when this bill was discussed in committee it was discussed entirely along non-partisan lines and I trust that the fact that it has now reached such stature that it is discussed by the majority leader, it will still be along non-partisan lines.

I might say as a minority member, speaking on behalf of the Republican District Attorney of Philadelphia County, with whom I discussed this bill, Philadelphia undoubtedly contributes the biggest crime bill the state of Pennsylvania has to meet each year and the volume of its criminal business is terrific. We have at least fifteen thousand indictments in Philadelphia, each year. I discussed this bill not only with the District Attorney but with his first assistant, who has been the wheel-horse of the district attorney's office for the past twenty-five years, and they object to this bill for this particular reason: as the practice now stands, and if practiced in Philadelphia correctly, those persons called before a grand jury to testify on a bill of indictment presented to the grand jury have their names on that bill. It is to be supposed that if the District Attorney has those names on the bill those persons are prepared to give evidence to prove a prima facie case against the person charged with the crime, and that the District Attorney should then have knowledge of what that person intends to testify. However, it has been known as a clever trick on the part of some criminal lawyers, and I believe that point was discussed here a couple of weeks ago, to have the name of a person favorable to the defendant, on the bill of indictment, have him called in by the District Attorney and give evidence favorable to the defendant to such a degree that the grand jury may decide to ignore the bill and in that way defeat the ends of justice. Permitting under this amendment to the act a person to go before a grand jury, whose name is not on the bill of indictment, and be sworn by a member of the grand jury, makes it possible for some unscrupulous person who seeks to aid a defendant, possibly with the connivance of some official, to go before the grand jury without his identity being known to the District Attorney, even without his name appearing on the bill of indictment, and give favorable testimony on behalf of a defendant, and thereby probably improperly sway the grand jury. Nobody is accountable to the District Attorney's office for having permitted such a thing to happen. We should have the safe-guard of having persons whose names do not so appear on the indictment compelled to appear before some person, and it has been the wisdom of this Commonwealth to say it should be a judge who should determine whether that person is or should be a Commonwealth witness. Now, the district attorney's office in Philadelphia feels that it cannot adequately cope with all the ramifications of technical procedure in presenting bills to the grand jury and petit jury. It certainly feels that if this bill is enacted into law it opens the door wide to the possibility of a great deal of fraud. It was only late yesterday that someone in one of the western counties informed me of a loose practice which was in vogue there where the defendant himself appeared before the grand jury and testified in his own behalf. I do not believe that such a thing could happen if a person whose names does not appear on the back of the bill would have to appear before the judge to be sworn. In that case the defendant was given the opportunity to try his case before it got to the petit jury as is provided by law.

So I have finished my non-partisan appeal in one respect and my personal appeal on behalf of the Republic District Attorney of Philadelphia, to defeat this bill, because of the possibility of fraud that might creep in if it should be enacted.

Mr. HOMER S. BROWN. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Dauphin, Mr. Woodside.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Dauphin, Mr. Woodside, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. WOODSIDE. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. HOMER S. BROWN. Mr. Speaker, I presume the gentleman from Dauphin is familiar with our law in regard to grand juries conducting an investigation for the erection of public works and the like, under the authority of our Quarter Sessions Court.

Mr. WOODSIDE. That is correct Mr. Speaker.

Mr. HOMER S. BROWN. Mr. Speaker, does not the gentleman from Dauphin feel that those matters are important to the citizens of the community wherein these public enterprises are to be carried on, or erected as the case might be, and sufficiently important for the Judge to stay close to the grand jury?

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, I do not see what advantage it would be for the Judge to be any closer to the grand jury than he normally would be. I do not see how this bill will keep him any closer to the grand jury. As a matter of fact, the procedure that would be followed, if the judge were conducting court, as is usually the case, at least in the smaller counties during the meeting of the grand jury, would be for the witness to be taken down to the court room and be sworn there by the court. As a matter of fact the practice is that the foreman of the grand jury swears them, but if this act, as it is being interpreted or suggested to be interpreted, were followed, the procedure would be to take the witness before the judge who is conducting court, the witness would there be sworn and then taken back to the grand jury to give his testimony. That is a very cumbersome procedure, and a very unsatisfactory one from every standpoint.

Mr. HOMER S. BROWN. Mr. Speaker, I do not think the gentleman has answered my question directly. What I want to find out from the gentleman from Dauphin, is this: is it not a fact that in matters involving consideration before a grand jury of public improvements and public works and certain procedures as to the erection of public buildings, such as a court house and the like, that in all of those proceedings the Judge who impanels the jury ordinarily stays in close touch with the grand jury to answer certain legal questions which might arise in the grand jury proceedings.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, I think the Judge is always available in the court house while the grand jury is conducting its investigation, and I think it is important that the judges should be available to the grand jury, yes.

Mr. HOMER S. BROWN. Mr. Speaker, if he is already available to the grand jury, how then can he be inconvenienced by being asked to swear witnesses?

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, it is not a matter of inconvenience to the judge. In other words, the judge has to be present in the court house while the grand jury is in session. That is what judges are paid for and that is perfectly proper. The inconvenience is in the fact of the judge conducting a trial during the hearing of a grand jury. The witnesses of the grand jury, who may be twenty in number, will have to be taken down before the judge or the judge will have to recess the trial and go before the grand jury and swear the witnesses there. In other words, if the judge is in the midst of a trial he has to swear witnesses. There may be a witness on the witness stand in the trial. The witnesses are brought down from the grand jury, which interrupts the entire proceedings, interrupts the cross-examination of the witness, which is sometimes undesirable at a particular point, and there he has to swear the witnesses for the grand jury. Then the witnesses for the grand jury have to go upstairs again, and the judge proceeds with the trial. The lawyers, the jurors and the public are going to be inconvenienced, and a very unsatisfactory proceeding established.

Mr. HOMER S. BROWN. I thank the gentleman from Dauphin, Mr. Woodside.

Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I simply want to make this point in conclusion. I recognize the force of Mr. Justice Maxey's opinion in the case read by the majority floor leader, but I also direct his attention to the Supreme Court's decision in the Hartranft case, where our learned Chief Justice said it was the duty of the judge to stay close to the grand jury. It does seem to me that inasmuch as trials are interrupted, as we lawyers know for matters of less importance that the occasional swearing in of a witness before the grand jury, the Chair is smiling, perhaps he knows that he runs into court every now and then and interrupts for matters of his own,—it seems to me the interruption of a judge for the important duty of swearing a witness who is to testify in secrecy against a citizen of this Commonwealth, is not too much to impose upon his very sacred and honored duties.

Mr. SWEENEY. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I rise to answer Mr. Cohen's objection. It is true that the District Attorney of Philadelphia was in Harrisburg last night; it may be that he spoke to Mr. Cohen about this bill; it may be that he personally feels that it would be bad for Philadelphia, but I feel sure that Mr. Kelley is not familiar with the situation in Dauphin County and other small counties, where a bill of this kind would cause a lot of inconvenience. Mr. Kelley is evidently not extremely interested in this bill because he took no occasion to contact any of the Republican members of this House about it, and he has not expressed to the Republican members his displeasure towards it.

The only other objection that Mr. Cohen has is that some unscrupulous lawyer or some defendant may perchance come in before the Grand Jury. Now, if that happens in Philadelphia, Mr. Kelley has an indictment clerk right there. After a man testifies his name is taken down and if he should by some chance get before the grand jury, and the Grand Jury ignores the bill, there is nothing under our law to prevent or stop a district attorney from re-submitting that bill next month, and preventing that witness from testifying, and finding a true bill.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I do not like to prolong this debate unduly but I think there are several answers or suggestions to Mr. Cohen which I would like to make.

In the first place, this bill merely clarifies the practice which is now being followed, as I understand it, without exception in the city of Philadelphia, and has been followed without exception for many years.

In the second place, for the benefit of laymen it ought to be explained just how a grand jury operates. In the case of a bill of indictment the District Attorney writes on the back of the bill the names of the people whom he desires the grand jury to call as witnesses. He usually puts his most important witness first, and he may have a string of six or eight or any number. If the grand jury is satisfied after the first witness is called that a prima facie case is made out, they stop right there. If they are not satisfied when they call the first witness, they call the second witness. If they are satisfied after they have called the first two, they then return a true bill and call no more. This is done until they get down to the last name on the indictment, and when the last name on the indictment has been called, and the witnesses whose names appear on the indictment have all been heard, the grand jury then, if it is satisfied that a prima facie case is made out, will return a true bill. It is only in case the grand jury is not satisfied after hearing all the witnesses whose names appear on the back of the indictment that another person can be called before the grand jury to determine whether or not a true bill will be found. So I think that answers absolutely and conclusively the question that fraud might exist in a grand jury by calling in some person as a witness whose name is not on the back of the indictment, and who may be favorable to the defendant.

Now, another point, and this will not change the law as to the right of a person to be called in, the law remains the same. The grand jury now has the right to call in a person. They will in the future, if this becomes a law, have the right to call in a person. Another important point; the judge does not take the time and under the law is not bound to interrogate the witnesses that he swears to ascertain what they are going to say, in order to determine whether or not they are going to be favorable to the defendant. So that the only thing this bill does when it is all summed up is to determine whether or not, a juror shall have the right to administer an oath, and that is all there is to it.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

The SPEAKER. The Chair desires to congratulate and compliment the members of the House on the debate that has just been closed. During the time I have been here, I have rarely heard any finer exposition or opposition to a measure before the House. It is particularly gratifying this afternoon when I notice that we have at the rear of the House a number of young people who I presume have come to visit the Capitol for the purpose of observing the work of the Legislature. It is gratifying to know that we have them here on an occasion like this.

RESOLUTION NO. 24.

Mr. CORDIER. Mr. Speaker, I desire to call up at this time Resolution No. 24, Printer's No. 43, on page 2 of today's calendar.

The resolution was read by the Clerk as follows:

In the House of Representatives, March 6, 1939.

Whereas, The publicity recently given to the amount of money appropriated to the Bureau of Aeronautics, for use during the present biennium, has occasioned much public comment; and

Whereas, An investigation should be made of the activities and expenditures, and also the plans of the Bureau, in order to determine upon its future operations and future appropriations; therefore be it

Resolved, (if the Senate concur) That a joint Legislative Committee is hereby created, consisting of four members of the House of Representatives, one of whom shall be a member of the minority party, to be appointed by the Speaker of the House; and three members of the Senate, one of whom shall be a member of the minority party, to be appointed by the President Pro Tempore of the Senate, whose duty it shall be

(a) To organize immediately after its appointment, by the election, from its membership, of a chairman, vice-chairman and a secretary.

(b) To immediately begin a thorough investigation of the operations of and the expenditures made by the Bureau of Aeronautics since its creation, with the end in view of suggesting what policy should be adopted in order to make its work more effective and less expensive.

(c) To decide how far the Bureau should proceed as a separate organization and whether cooperation with the Federal Government or other states would be practicable.

(d) To investigate safety devices and make recommendations in regard to the use thereof.

(e) To inquire into possible abuses of the powers of the Bureau heretofore practiced and to make suggestions for the correction thereof.

The committee hereby created shall have power to issue subpoenas under the hand and seal of its chairman requesting and commanding any person or persons to appear before them and to answer such questions touching matters properly being inquired into by the committee, and to produce such books, papers, records and documents as the committee may deem necessary. Such subpoenas may be served upon any person and shall have the force and effect of subpoenas issued out of the courts of this Commonwealth. Each member of said committee shall have power to administer oaths and affirmations to witnesses appearing before the committee. Any person who shall wilfully neglect or refuse to testify before said committee or to produce any books, papers, records or documents shall be subject to the penalties provided by laws of the Commonwealth in such cases.

The said committee shall report to this General Assembly as soon as possible after its investigation is completed, the results thereof accompanied by such suggestions of legislation to be enacted as to the committee seems necessary.

On the question,

Will the House adopt the resolution?

It was adopted.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

STATEMENT BY MR. HOLLAND

Mr. HOLLAND asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I very kindly thank the House for permitting me to address it about twenty-four hours late. I also want you to know that I missed my sleep as much as you did.

In this morning's Pittsburgh paper, there appears an editorial headed as follows: "Renewed encouragement given for flood control work." It also quotes former Senator William B. Rodgers, Head of the Tri State Flood Control Authority stating, "That the Governor agreed there was nothing in the present status of Federal and State relations on the subject of flood control to jeopardize the interest of the people of the State in any way." For the Governor to make a statement like this, if he made this statement, it might be well to know what interest he has in mind, whether it is interests of the Utilities or the people. For up to date his chief concern has not been to protect flooded areas but has been to protect vested interests. For under date of Feb. 23, he was quoted by the same paper as stating to the Chamber of Commerce of Pittsburgh as well as the Tri State Authority that he would not proceed with further flood control until he had the answer in black and white from the Federal Government. This group pointed out to the Governor that unless he changed his stand this State would not receive sufficient funds to start work on two additional dams in the fiscal year starting July 1 provided in the flood control bill now pending in Congress. This group further told the Governor that it felt the State would be performing a constructed service if it cooperates in advancing the flood control program. However, I had not intended to make any statements regarding Utilities for I too feel like the Speaker of the House, that there is a lot of "useless time" being consumed in trying to have the Governor see the error of his stand of not cooperating with the Federal Gov., but I do want to point out to the Speaker of this House that my constituents back home who have had the experience of being flooded out would think and use the word "useless" in another way when speaking of me as a representative if I did not voice their objections to the stand taken by Gov. James, and I might add that among the numerous letters received by me and personal phone calls when at home, these objections are not merely from Democrats but are also from Republicans, as they feel that this issue is strictly a non-partisan issue and is not a political one.

Last Monday night, I asked the Members of this House to discharge the Federal Relations Committee from further consideration of Resolution No. 15, Printer's No. 15, so that the Legislature could assert its rights and demand that the Governor should consider first the people of Pennsylvania before any political issue that the Governor might try to inject into Flood Control.

I want to publicly thank the ten Republicans who felt that Flood Control was above any political party's ambitions. However, I feel that as legislators, we should get some definite answer from the Governor, as well as the Secretary of Forests and Waters, as to their future plans in the controlling of floods. Each edition of the newspapers carry a different story. Today we may read Governor James goes along with Flood Control, and tomorrow the Secretary of Forest and Waters may issue a statement "that not one acre of Pennsylvania soil will be surrendered to the Federal Government." Our constituents back home want to know what is being done, and we as Legislators must reply—like the late Will Rogers would say—"All I know I read in the papers." The Tri-State Authority receives one statement from the Governor and the Chamber of Commerce receives another, and the newspapers receive still another.

I personally sympathize with Governor James, for I believe that he has been misinformed by his advisor, the Admiral from Texas, that it is political and the Governor does not know the true existing conditions and the plans to end floods in Pennsylvania. In the last campaign, much was said and much emphasis was placed on Legislators and legislative duties of the Legislator, and I feel that, whether we be Republican or Democrat, the Governor owes us a definite statement on what steps he intends to make in the future to save the lives of the poor unfortunates who must live in flood districts. We have a right to know just what the status of Flood Control is in Pennsylvania, and that is what I want to ask this House to do today.

I believe that this House should appoint a Committee to call upon the Governor and the Secretary of Forests and Waters and secure from them a written statement of their exact stand on Flood Control, as well as a statement of just how much money will be needed to carry out their plans—if any. Then we as Legislators should either give our approval or disapproval. We were elected and sent here to legislate for the people of Pennsylvania—and I know that every one of us wants to serve the people of Pennsylvania to the best of our ability, as well as to protect every inhabitant of the State, whether or not this inhabitant belongs to the privileged rich who can hire and maintain high priced hobbies—or whether that inhabitant is the poor man or woman who must exist on a meager relief check.

That is the legislation that we should be interested in if we are to uphold the oaths we took on our first day of the Session. I know that if every member of this House was free to sit down, as an individual instead of a member of a political party, we would all be in accord, but unfortunately—for the interests of all the people—we bear tags of being a Republican or a Democrat.

So I am appealing to you, as I have appealed to you numerous times in the past, not to permit Flood Control to be a political issue. Let us treat it as real Pennsylvanians, like real Americans. Let us protect the homes of the people of Pennsylvania from being swept away. Let the government give them the protection today—the same as many of these homes gave up the flower of their manhood to protect this government in time of war. We have a right to expect the Governor of this State to advise us of his plans. We are the Legislative Branch and should get this information direct from the Governor instead of from the newspapers.

Therefore, I am asking this House to appoint a Committee of five to sit in a joint meeting with the Governor and the Secretary of Forests and Waters and receive from him a definite statement and a definite plan on the control of floods for the future. Surely this is not political and should receive no objection from any Member of this House.

RESOLUTION

Mr. HOLLAND. Mr. Speaker, I desire to offer a resolution and ask unanimous consent for its immediate consideration.

The SPEAKER. Will the House give it unanimous consent for the immediate consideration of the resolution? Is there objection?

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, I object.

The SPEAKER. The Chair hears objection and consent is not granted.

The resolution will be filed with the Clerk under the rules.

RESOLUTION NO. 40.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker I desire to call up at this time Resolution No. 40.

The resolution was twice read considered and adopted as follows:

In the House of Representatives, March 13, 1939.

Paul W. Houck, veteran Schuylkill County Republican leader, and, for many years, prominent in Pennsylvania politics, died in the Penn-Harris Hotel on March 8th, after an illness of five weeks.

He had passed by two years his allotted span of life, but was still active in the affairs of his county and of the Commonwealth.

He was born at Lebanon, Pennsylvania, May 5, 1866, a son of Henry Houck, who served as Secretary of Internal Affairs for several terms.

Mr. Houck, who for twelve years had been chairman of the Schuylkill County Republican Committee, lived in Shenandoah during the later years of his life.

Mr. Houck's first important political post was that of member of the Pennsylvania Legislature in 1909-10.

In 1916 he became chief clerk of the Schuylkill County Board of Commissioners. In the same year he was named a Workmen's Compensation Board referee.

Governor Brumbaugh appointed him Secretary of Internal Affairs in 1917. Governor Sproul made him a member of the Compensation Board in 1919, and he won his first major fight in Schuylkill in 1926 when he was chosen chairman of the Republic County Committee. He had been reelected every two years since then.

Mr. Houck was a director of the First National Bank of Shenandoah and the Shenandoah Heights Construction Company. He was a member of the Pennsylvania Society of New York, the Elks, Eagles, Moose, and belonged to the Ashland Rod and Gun, Mahoning Country, and the Fountain Springs Country Clubs; therefore be it

Resolved, By the House of Representatives of the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, That the county of Schuylkill has lost a leader who was forever mindful of its interests and the Commonwealth a faithful officer who faithfully and with marked ability discharged every obligation and duty imposed upon him by the various offices he filled; and be it further

Resolved, That the Members of this House join with that vast number of friends and followers who mourn his loss and extend to the members of his family its most sincere sympathy; and be it further

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be transmitted by the Chief Clerk of this House to his sons, Paul B. Houck of Pottsville, Pennsylvania and Judge Henry Houck of Shenandoah, Pennsylvania, and to his sister, Miss Susan Houck of New York City.

RESOLUTION NO. 37.

Mr. SCHROCK. Mr. Speaker, I desire to call up at this time Resolution No. 37.

The resolution was twice read, considered and adopted a. follows:

In the House of Representatives, March 13, 1939.

Honorable William Patrick Fenney, a former Member of this House, who served during the Session of 1911, died on Thursday last, March 9, in the Charleroi Hospital.

Shortly after his term as a Member of this House had expired, he entered the employ of the United Mine Workers and within a short time had risen to the position of international representative of that organization. He once served as President of District No. 4 of the United Mine Workers.

Mr. Feeney was born in England of Irish parents, and came to the United States at the age of fourteen. For a long period he resided at California, and twenty-nine years ago moved to Charleroi, where he had made his home since that time. He was employed in coal mines while residing at California.

The veteran union worker became ill while in Harrisburg early during this month, but recovered sufficiently to return to his home from which he later was removed to the Hospital.

Mr. Feeney was a member of St. Jerome's Roman Catholic Church at Charleroi; of the Knights of Columbus of Charleroi; of the Eagles Lodge at California and the Ancient Order of Hibernians at Charleroi; therefore, be it

Resolved, By the Members of the House of Representatives of the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania that in the passing of the Honorable William Patrick Fenney, the cause of labor has lost a valiant advocate and a staunch supporter and his home community has been deprived of an outstanding citizen; and be it further

Resolved, That the House extends its deepest sympathy to the family of the deceased who survive him, and instructs the Chief Clerk of the House to transmit a copy of this Resolution to his widow.

RESOLUTION NO. 39.

Mr. HAMILTON. Mr. Speaker, I desire to call up at this time Resolution No. 39.

The resolution was twice read, considered and adopted as follows:

In the House of Representatives, March 13, 1939.

Hon. J. Burwood Daly, the first Democrat ever elected from the fourth congressional district of Pennsylvania to the Congress of the United States died yesterday at the United States Naval Hospital after seven weeks illness, at the age of 67 years.

Mr. Daly was graduated from La Salle College with a degree of Bachelor of Arts. He took his law degree at the University of Pennsylvania Law School.

Later he received the degrees of Master of Arts and Doctor of Laws at La Salle. He was assistant City Solicitor for 12 years. For a number of years Mr. Daly was a member of the faculty of La Salle College.

In Congress he was a member of the important Appropriations Committee, and was instrumental in having the new Federal Building erected at 9th and Chestnut streets.

To his friends he was known for his bright and cheerful disposition, his keen sense of humor and his unflinching loyalty.

He is survived by four sons and a daughter, therefore be it

Resolved, By the House of Representatives of the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania that in the death of the Hon. J. Burwood Daly, the City of Philadelphia has lost an outstanding citizen and that his congressional district has been deprived of the services of a statesman who fearlessly and conscientiously devoted his best talents to the furtherance of their interests; and be it further Resolved, That this House extends its most sincere sympathy to the members of his family who survive him.

RESOLUTION NO. 36.

Mr. HAMILTON. Mr. Speaker, I desire to call up at this time Resolution No. 36.

The resolution was twice read, considered and adopted as follows:

In the House of Representatives, March 13, 1939.

Charles Spinelli, 45 years of age, contractor and president of the Spinelli Comic Club, noted mummer's organization, died one week ago of pneumonia in St. Joseph's Hospital.

A native of South Philadelphia, he marched in New Year's Day parade for nearly 30 years. He was sergeant-at-arms of the New Year's Mummer's Association, and former head of the old Zuzu Comic Club, which after its reorganization in 1925 was renamed the Charles Spinelli Comic Club.

His deep interest in the annual mummer's parade in the City of Philadelphia helped make their exhibitions a national institution and brought honor and recognition to the particular club of which he was the head; therefore be it

Resolved, That this House notes with deep regret his passing from this life he loved and the sudden cessation of his work for the city in which he lived, and to his widow and son who survive him, we extend our sincere sympathy; and be it further

Resolved, That the Chief Clerk of the House shall immediately transmit a copy of this resolution to his widow.

STATEMENT BY MR. FINNERTY

Mr. FINNERTY asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I am not going to speak on flood control; I am not going to speak on birth control, but I am going to speak very briefly or the dinner next Tuesday to be given by the Legislative Sons of St. Patrick.

The SPEAKER. I hope that is not food control.

Mr. FINNERTY. Of course you know that the date is March 21st; the place the Penn Harris Hotel and the committee desires that all reservations be made by tomorrow as we must make arrangements with the hotel by next Monday before you come back into session.

When the Irish give a shindig you know it is going to be something worthwhile and this is going to be no exception. We are going to have an A-1 stage show and we are also going to have a floor show and the speeches will be the greatest speeches ever given at a banquet.

The SPEAKER. The Chair accepts the compliment.

Mr. FINNERTY. You will be able to hear them just as clearly in Chicago as you can in the Penn Harris. So don't forget to be present. You can get your reservation from Mr. McGarrity, the Chairman, myself or any member of the committee. We expect everybody there, whether they are Irish or any nationality, so don't forget March 21st will be a great night for the Irish and for all other nationalities in Harrisburg. I thank you.

The SPEAKER. The Chair would ask the gentleman from Philadelphia what is the quid pro quo for the tickets?

Mr. FINNERTY. The tickets will be $3.00 per.

The SPEAKER. Per what?

Mr. FINNERTY. Perhaps you pay for them and perhaps you won't, but you will.

I forgot to speak of one little item. Arrangements have been made to serve lemonade, cold tea and well—we won't go into that.

There will be no questions asked and no body will be searched. I assure you that you can come there and have a good time. The sky is the limit. If we have a program similar to last year's there will be one feature you will all enjoy which will be a surprise to the new members. I have had a great deal of experience in judging dancing contests in many places and I will say that one of the finest figures, full of grace and everything, that I have ever witnessed was the waltz that was performed by His Honor, the Speaker.

ANNOUNCEMENT BY SPEAKER

The SPEAKER. The Chair would call to the attention of the members a new feature of the history. On the second page, immediately back of the seating diagram appears the explanation of symbols used in amending legislative bills. Sometimes it is confusing to know what dark and light brackets mean and what italics mean; what HC and H mean and what SC and S mean, in the amendments—even to those of us who have been here for sometime. The Chair would suggest that the members become familiar with those symbols, especially the Committee Chairmen, in making any amendments to the bills in committees. The Chair called the attention of the Committee Chairmen yesterday to the fact that there were some Chairmen, or members who were striking out parts of the typewritten bills, and the reporting committee struck out language that was in the amendment. The proper way to do it is by brackets as set forth in the symbols.

The Chair would also like to advise the members that it is the intention, always of course with the permission of the House, to meet until Thursday of next week, which will be four days. The Chair would ask the members to govern themselves accordingly.

COMMITTEE MEETINGS

There will be meetings of the Committees on Apportionment, Wednesday, March 15, 1939, at 12 noon, in Room 324.

STATEMENT BY MR. ANDREWS

Mr. ANDREWS asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker I arise to offer some words of sound counsel to the majority floor leader. The minority has apparently discovered the formulae of success. I noticed a short time ago quite a number of the gentlemen on the majority side leaving the House. If we can empty the majority benches simply by talking it will be possible that on various occasions we will take control of the proceedings of this House.

I also call the attention, Mr. Speaker, of the gentlemen on the majority side that when any considerable number of them march out, we might also on this side march out, and the Speaker might find himself without a quorum. I think on the whole it is rather bad practice for the majority leader to fail to hold his cohorts intact when members are speaking. There are some agile minds on this side that might unfortunately take advantage of a situation so created.

ADJOURNMENT

Mr. ELY. Mr. Speaker, I move that this House do now adjourn until tomorrow at 12 noon.

The motion was agreed to, and (at 3:26 p. m.) the House adjourned until Wednesday, March 15, 1939, at 12 noon.

SENATE

WEDNESDAY, March 15, 1939.

The Senate met at 12:00 o'clock, noon.

The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant-Governor Samuel S. Lewis) in the Chair.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Rev. BURLEIGH A. PETERS, offered the following prayer:

How grateful we all are this day, O blessed God, that the light of another day has become our prized possession, and that in the full vigor of health and strength we may whole-heartedly serve Thee in this Senate in this unique and honorable capacity.

Bless, by Thine enlightening presence, each individual who serves this honorable body in each and every capacity. May we all remember that, while we may deem our particular service as very insignificant in the operation of the whole, yet Thou seest it in its proper evaluation for "Thou dost mark even the sparrow's fall."

May we recall out of the sum total of human experience that the big things of life are eternally composed of the little things superbly and faithfully and conscientiously done.

Then we pray, O Father, give us the zeal to discharge our several duties here honorably and well under Thy scrutinizing eye. In Thy Holy Name, we pray. Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVED

The PRESIDENT. A quorum of the Senate being present, the Clerk will read the Journal of the preceding session.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of the preceding session, when, on motion of Mr. OWLETT and Mr. WALKER, the further reading was dispensed with, and the Journal was approved.

And said bill having been read at length the second time and agreed to,

Ordered, To be transcribed for a third reading.

Agreeably to order.

The rule requiring bills to be considered in Committee of the Whole being in this case dispensed with,

The Senate proceeded to the second reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 215, (House Bill No. 338), entitled:

An Act to amend clause ten of section two and section three hundred one of an act approved the twenty-seventh day of May one thousand nine hundred and thirty-seven (P. L. 1053) known as the "Public Utility Law" by excluding from the definition of "Facilities" as used therein property owned by municipal corporations of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania when the said act became effective and providing that the Pennsylvania Public Utility Commission shall have power to regulate and fix the rates for service furnished by public utilities owned by municipal corporations of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania only when the public service being furnished or rendered by any municipal corporations shall be beyond its corporate limits and extending such freedom from regulation and control by the Commission to public utility service furnished or rendered by an operating agency of any such municipal corporation

And said bill having been read at length the second time:

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on second reading?

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, this Senate bill No. 215 is intended, I think, to deal specifically with the Philadelphia situation, but in my opinion it covers in effect the whole state, not only with respect to the gas utilities but with respect to all utilities operating in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania municipally owned or not, municipally operated or not.

It is a very important piece of legislation. It came over from the House yesterday and within a few minutes the Committee on Utilities met and this bill was reported out for the first time. It is now on second reading.

I do not want to make any motion in connection with this bill, because we have an understanding with the party leaders that no matters that are controversial will be taken up today, because of the leaves of absence that have been requested. Therefore, I do not want to raise any question by motion but I do not want to wait until Monday night when this bill comes up for final passage and then have it said I did not make a request in time for what I am now going to ask.

I think the importance of this bill necessitates a public hearing by people who are familiar with this subject and by people who know the effect of this bill upon the Commonwealth. This is one of those bills which is aimed to protect or help in a particular situation, and like all such hurried cases it makes for bad law. Its effect on the rest of the Commonwealth has not been considered enough and the effect on the City of Philadelphia has not been properly considered by persons who have an opposite view to those who are sponsoring this bill.

In other words, the views of those people have not yet been aired, and I am asking that we have a public hearing on this bill; and I should, therefore, like to interrogate the Senator from Tioga, Mr. Owlett.

Mr. PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from Tioga, Mr. Owlett, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. OWLETT. Mr. President, I shall be glad to be interrogated.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, will the Senator from Tioga agree that this bill be given second reading and then be recommitted to the Committee on Public Utilities for a public hearing?

Mr. OWLETT. Mr. President, in reply to the inquiry of the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro, I desire to state that this bill is a bill that passed in the House and came over to the Senate yesterday, was considered by the Committee on Public Utilities and was reported out.

The bill, in effect, re-establishes the law such as it was prior to 1937, when the new Public Utility Act was passed, in that it takes out of the control of the Public Utility Commission, just as it always has been out of their control, a wholly-owned municipal utility when it is owned by a municipality, in so far as it applies to servicing consumers in that municipality. In other words, it permits a municipality to control its own property. It is believed that the Act of 1937 was never intended to go as far as some have contended it did in this regard.

Now, with reference to the request of the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro, for a public hearing, if a public hearing is deemed important and necessary in this matter, I see no reason why a motion should not be made on Monday evening for the recommitment of the bill. I think the Senator will bear me out in my statement that we agreed with them that there would be no controversial matters but merely the advancement of the calendar. There are many people, in Philadelphia particularly as the Senator has pointed out, who have a vital interest, that are anxious that this bill be passed Monday. I should like to suggest to the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro, that this bill, as has been suggested, pass second reading, and be permitted to remain on the calendar so that if the Senate as a whole should decide on Monday evening that a public hearing is not required, it can be acted on.

If a public hearing is desired, and the Senate as a whole deems it advisable to grant it, it can be done on Monday; but I do think this bill, in accordance with the understanding we had, should have the second reading, and I do not want to agree at this time that it be referred to committee.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, of course I am not going to violate the agreement, and that is the reason I am taking this position now. I should like to interrogate the Senator from Lancaster, Mr. Pierson. I think he is the chairman of the Committee on Public Utilities.

The PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from Lancaster, Mr. Pierson, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. PIERSON. Mr. President, I will.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, Senator Pierson is chairman of the Committee on Public Utilities; is that correct?

Mr. PIERSON. Mr. President, that is correct.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, will the Senator give assurances to those of us from Philadelphia, and on this side of the House, that we may have a public hearing on this bill?

Mr. PIERSON. Mr. President, if it is agreed to by the committee I shall be glad to hold a hearing.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, if it were agreed to I would not have to ask. The reason I am asking is that I want to get the Senator's views on the matter. Would the Senator himself favor a public hearing?

Mr. PIERSON. Mr. President, I really do not understand the question. It is beyond my ability to agree to a public hearing.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I am not asking the Senator from Lancaster to agree, but as the Chairman of that committee—I am not a member of the committee—I want to find out whether the Senator feels that the bill is of sufficient importance to have a public hearing; whether he personally will assure us that he will request the committee to hold a public hearing.

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. OWLETT. Mr. President, I rise to a point of order.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Tioga will state his point of order.

Mr. OWLETT. Mr. President, it seems to me the inquiry at this time, since this bill is in the control of the Senate, is out of order. No chairman of a committee has a right to say what should be done with this bill. This bill is in control of the Senate, and obviously if the Senate as a whole wants to have it referred back to the committee for a public hearing any chairman must agree to that.

The PRESIDENT. I do not think the point is well taken. My understanding was that the inquiry was as to what the Senator's views were; not the views of the Senate.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, that is correct; I am simply asking the views of the Senator himself.

Mr. PIERSON. Mr. President, if the committee wants to call a meeting, I have no objection at all.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, do I understand that the Senator has no objection to a public hearing?

Mr. PIERSON. Mr. President, I have no objection to a public hearing if the committee so directs.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, for the purpose of the record I state now that in view of our arrangement it would not be fair to have any controversy over the second reading of this bill, and I want the record to show that. I think the proper thing to do in a matter of so grave importance to the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania is not to rush through a bill of this type, not rush this bill through now without a public hearing; and I am reserving my right so that I cannot be questioned when I rise to the point later. I am raising it now, and I will raise it again on Monday, with the suggestion to the members of the Committee on Public Utilities that sometime between now and Monday they determine upon some method of arranging, as quickly as possible, a public hearing. I think this is important. I think there should be no rushing of this bill.

I care not what political party is interested in this bill, the effect of this bill in Philadelphia is to fix and freeze the price of gas for seventeen and a half years, so that nobody, no citizen, who objects to the price of gas, no matter what rate it is, can be heard, he has no redress.

The same thing may happen all over the State. If it is possible to do it in Philadelphia under this bill it is possible to do it all over the State, and in view of that I think my friends on the other side should go slow and we should have a public hearing.

Mr. OWLETT. Mr. President, just to clear the record I want to point out this: I am not objecting to a public hearing at this time. I am not saying that I believe a public hearing is necessary or is not necessary. I do say this, however—and I want to make it clear on the record, and I think the Senator from Philadelphia must agree—that this matter can be referred back to the committee and a public hearing held after it has had second reading just as well as on first reading.

I think if the committee and the Senate want a public hearing—and, if it is a matter of such moment, perhaps it may be necessary to do so—but, I do say we ought to have this bill in position so that it can be passed if the Senate concludes it should be, even after a public hearing. So I am asking the Senator if he will not acquiesce in the suggestion to allow this bill to pass second reading and remain in our control; and if a public hearing is to be held, well and good, it can be referred back on Monday.

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, it has been said of every dictatorship in charge of the State that it is a beautiful ship, but sooner or later it goes on the rocks; that in a Democracy we all ride on a raft, which is a very clumsy sort of ship, and we are suddenly getting very wet on the raft.

I think this is one of those wet resolutions or bills. Philadelphia is in the wet—very red wet—and this bill is a lifesaver for Philadelphia; and time is of the essence of the contract, and I certainly expect to do my share in passing this bill.

At the same time I dislike very much to get in the position of denying a public hearing when it is requested, and I want to suggest to the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro, I am all for the hearing if it can be held this week—this Wednesday—if you could stage a hearing this week. I think if it goes over until Monday night probably there never will be a public hearing. But I would like a public hearing this week if possible. I think we ought to play the game fairly.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, the Senator from Tioga said that they can control the situation on Monday night. That is true. I want it distinctly understood I am not charging the Senator from Tioga with any breach of faith or any proceeding in this matter which is other than I had expected. I am merely making this statement to put myself on the record, so that somebody should not come up Monday night and make the statement I am guilty of laches, as we lawyers call it; but I, personally, do not see how a public hearing on this matter can be held this week.

I am not familiar enough with the subject to prepare the witnesses. I know this much about it, that this raises one of the most important questions in the Commonwealth. The sale of gas is incidental. Gas is a by-product of coal, and there are over four hundred derivatives of coal that are being sold in Philadelphia by the people who have the gas contract. That contract is effective for ten years, and the rate has never been approved by any authorized commission. They are selling, today, coke, which is the real by-product to the Koppers Coke people, with nobody fixing the price, nobody controlling the price.

They are selling chemicals and dyes from the coal they buy, and gas is the by-product for which we are paying a big price, without any reference to the earnings of this company from by-products.

Who is going to determine whether or not Koppers Coke—which is sold by a public utility, practically, to all intents and purposes, affiliated with the Mellon interests, which controls Koppers Coke—who is going to control them?—whether the market price is four dollars a ton—and they sell it for two dollars a ton; and who is going possibly to tell, if they sell for four dollars, that the price of gas will necessarily be reduced if they sell it for two dollars?

There are four hundred by-product derivatives from coal about which I know nothing, which will require the calling of witnesses here who can tell you the importance of this situation; and yet you want me to hold a public hearing this week, with all the rest of the work we have to do here in the Senate. This is a full-time job, as I see it; we are going to have a meeting Thursday, and a meeting on Friday—if the suggestion of the Senator from Philadelphia should be adopted. Why the rush?

This is too important to say we should do it tomorrow. This affects the interests of ten millions of people. Some of the men in this very room who have voted to put this bill out of committee will be astounded and startled, they will be amazed at the facts that will be developed at a public hearing with respect to the question of the sale of gas. It has been only in the last two or three weeks, when I made it my business to find out something about this situation, that I ascertained that never in Philadelphia has there been taken into account the sale of these by-products.

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. OWLETT. Mr. President, I rise to a point of order.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Tioga will state his point of order.

Mr. SHAPRIO. Mr. President, everybody assumes gas is a major product—it is merely a by-product.

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, a public meeting could be held Monday afternoon.

Mr. OWLETT. Mr. President, since the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro, has stopped, my point of order is not necessary to be raised. I merely want to say this: if this legislation is to be discussed I am ready to discuss it now. I think it is not in order, but I do not want what he said to go unchallenged on the record, because I understand this quite differently than it has been outlined by the Senator from Philadelphia; nevertheless I was about to raise a point of order that this discussion is not now before the Senate.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I was answering a question of the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Woodward.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, I would like to rise to a question of personal privilege for about two minutes.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Woodward, will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, there is a stated meeting of the Committee on Judiciary General every Wednesday morning at ten o'clock. There are on the Judiciary General Committee twenty-one members and a lot of them are here today. I want to enter a complaint.

There was a meeting at ten o'clock this morning at which there were five lawyers present, and myself. I had a very important bill, with no chance at all, with five lawyers against one man, and I need some friends to come to my help.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on second reading?

It was agreed to.

Ordered, To be transcribed for a third reading.

RECESS

Mr. OWLETT. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now take a recess for fifteen minutes.

Mr. MALLERY. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

AFTER RECESS

The PRESIDENT. The time of recess having elapsed the Senate will be in order.

REPORTS FROM COMMITTEES

RESOLUTION AGAINST INCLUSION OF ECCLESIASTICAL BODIES IN FEDERAL SOCIAL SECURITY SYSTEM

Mr. WOODWARD, from the Committee on Federal Relations, to which was referred on March 14, 1939 the following resolution, reported the same with amendments as follows, viz:

Whereas, the effort now being made in Congress to bring under the Unemployment Compensation and Old Age Pension provisions of the Federal Social Security

Laws ministers, priests, rabbis, and other ecclesiastical officers and persons, constitutes a threat against complete religious freedom as guaranteed under the Constitution, and

Whereas, such a plan is of doubtful advantage in any case and of distinct disadvantage to most churches which now have very satisfactory pension and assistance plans which are administered without cost to the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and the Federal Government, now be it

Resolved by the Senate of Pennsylvania, that we do earnestly urge that no amendment to the present Social Security Laws be made which would require in any manner that churches pay any taxes into the Federal or State Governments for support of their ministers or employees or for Unemployment Compensation or Old Age Pensions for the same, and be it further

Resolved, that a copy of this resolution be sent by the Secretary of the Senate of Pennsylvania to the Secretary and Chief Clerk of the United States Senate and House of Representatives respectively, with the request that same be read before the said Honorable bodies.

Laid over for one day under the Rules.

Mr. DEITRICK. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to make report from committee at this time.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Mr. DEITRICK from the Committee on Public Health reported as amended, Senate Bills No. 12, entitled:

An Act for the prevention of congenital syphilis; providing for and regulating the taking of serological tests of women pregnant with child; and requiring notation thereof on the birth and stillbirth certificates of their children; imposing duties upon the Department of Health and upon physicians and other persons attending women pregnant with child.

He also from the Committee on Public Health, reported as amended, Senate Bill No. 13, entitled:

An Act regulating the issuance of marriage licenses; prohibiting the issuance thereof of persons infected with syphilis in certain stages; requiring each applicant to produce certain evidence of freedom from such disease; imposing duties upon the Department of Health and the clerk of the orphans' court of the various counties; and imposing penalties.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. SIPE. Mr. President, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Armstrong, Mr. Sipe, will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. SIPE. I rise to make a protest. Last fall there was a vacancy in the Board of Trustees of the Indiana State Teachers College. It was my great pleasure to recommend to Governor Earle the name of Harry C. Golden, Esquire, of my native county of Armstrong, a member of the Kittanning Bar, to be appointed to fill that vacancy, and this Senate unanimously confirmed the appointment.

A word as to the qualifications of Harry C. Golden, Esquire. As to educational qualifications, Mr. Golden was an honor graduate of Trinity College, Hartford, Connecticut, which I am sure Dr. Woodward, as an intelligent and devout Episcopalian will tell you, is one of the leading colleges of the Episcopalian Denomination, and one of the best colleges in the United States.

As a lawyer, Harry C. Golden has always given close attention to the study of law. He keeps in mind the saying of a great English judge that the law is a jealous mistress, that the law does not tolerate much flirtation in politics. Mr. Golden's rating as a lawyer in Martindale's legal directory has been an "A" rating ever since the early years of his practice.

He is known in Kittanning as a lawyer's lawyer and I believe. Mr. President, Senator Walker, who is also a native of Mr. Golden's native county and mine, will tell you that I am not overstating Mr. Golden's qualifications when I say that he is a high type lawyer and a high type gentleman.

Senator Wolfenden, of Indiana County, of the town of Indiana, where the State Teachers College is located, I believe, knows Mr. Golden. I believe he knows too that Mr. Golden's ancestral roots run back into Brother Wolfenden's county, that his father was born on Philadelphia Street in Senator Wolfenden's town.

Unfortunately, Mr. President, in the eyes of the present Governor of Pennsylvania, Mr. Golden seems to have a damnable taint that utterly disqualifies him as a member of the Board of Trustees of that State-owned educational institution; that damnable taint is the taint of being a registered Democrat.

Let me say that while Mr. Golden is a registered Democrat, he is not a politician. As I said before, he knows that the law is a jealous mistress and he pays little attention to politics.

Well, a few weeks ago, so Mr. Golden tells me, he received a telegram from the Governor of Pennsylvania, the present Governor, asking his resignation. Mr. Golden says that he telegraphed back to the Governor "I hereby resign at your request," and the Governor telegraphed back. "I accept your resignation at your request."

Senator Wolfenden this morning tells me that this policy of removing Democrats from the Boards of Trustees of State Teachers Colleges is not universal over the State under the regime of Governor James. So, I am wondering why the Governor has singled out Armstrong County for a slap in the face. As far as I know, no member of the Board of Trustees of that State Teachers College, either Republican or Democrat, ever came from Armstrong County, and so it was to do a little honor to the county that I recommended to Governor Earle that Mr. Golden be appointed a member of the Board of Trustees of the Indiana State Teachers College.

Now, I want to say that I am, with the vast majority of the people of Armstrong County, highly resenting the Governor's asking for the resignation of Harry C. Golden. No man is better known in Armstrong County; no man favorably known in Armstrong County, among both Democrats and Republicans. We resent that action on the part of the Governor. Now, I do not know who the Governor has in mind to put in Mr. Golden's place, I do not know that, but I am willing to make a substantial wager that whoever the new man is, he is not the superior of Harry C. Golden in qualifications; willing to make a very substantial wager, worth fifteen thousand dollars, that the new man is not superior in qualifications to the old man and, Mr. President, that fifteen thousand dollars wager is the Superior Court shovel upon which the Governor leaned for ten months.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. WOLFENDEN, Mr. President, I crave the indulgence of the Senate and rise to a question of personal privilege.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Indiana, Mr.

Wolfenden, will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. WOLFENDEN. Mr. President, what the Senator from Armstrong, and Butler, has just said, after all affects Indiana County, so I feel possibly there are some things about this the Senator from Armstrong does not himself understand.

In the first place, Mr. Golden being asked to resign from the Board of Trustees is no personal reflection on Mr. Golden. I might say to the Senator from Armstrong, Mr. President, that there were just as good men on there or better than Mr. Golden, who were asked to resign; there happened to be some very fine fellows on there. If the Senator from Armstrong will investigate the Board of Trustees he will find that to be correct.

Four years ago—I would like to refresh the memory of the Senator from Armstrong—Governor Earle ruthlessly chucked out our entire board. Among the men he threw out was one man named Thomas Sutton, who had been a member of the Board of Trustees for fifty years. It was a shameful proceeding; it was a proceeding that caused innumerable telegrams and letters to be written to the then Governor of the Commonwealth; but there was no consideration to be given them at all.

Now then, we have a situation there, as they have in many other Teachers' Colleges, we have many things done we do not think are right, and I say this to you in all fairness, Mr. President, whether Mr. Golden actually took part in that, he was a part of the board when those things were done, and if he is not guilty of malfeasance he is certainly guilty of nonfeasance. I do not want to impose on the Senate's time by going into detail but we have some situations there that are very, very bad, and they could only be corrected by a complete change in the Board.

For example, we have a situation in which people, after seventeen years of service on the faculty, did not know they were dismissed from that faculty until they picked up the morning paper. Out in our Indiana County we think our scrubwomen are entitled to more courtesy than that.

We had a situation in which a dean of education, a man who has been more than twenty years on that faculty, and who in the morning prepared a schedule for the fall, and then was told an hour later that he had been dismissed. There was no opportunity for a hearing, there was no reason given; it was just "you are dismissed."

I say to the Senator from Armstrong he had better find out the facts about the Board of State Teachers College before the Senator defends his friend Mr. Golden, although I say he is an honorable gentleman, I do say he sat on that board when these things were done.

Mr. SIPE. Mr. President, I wish to interrogate the Senator from Indiana, Mr. Wolfenden.

Mr. PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from Indiana, Mr. Wolfenden, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. WOLFENDEN. Mr. President, gladly.

Mr. SIPE. When were these damnable things done about which you are telling us?

Mr. WOLFENDEN. Do you want all of them?

Mr. SIPE. I want to know this: do you know when Mr. Golden received his commission as a member of the Board of Trustees?

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Tioga, Mr. Owlett, will state his point of order.

Mr. OWLETT. Mr. President, the Senator from Armstrong, Mr. Sipe, is not directing his remarks to the chair.

The PRESIDENT. The point of order is well taken.

Mr. SIPE. Mr. President, will the Senator from Indiana, Mr. Wolfenden, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. WOLFENDEN. Mr. President, gladly.

Mr. SIPE. Mr. President, with the permission of your lovable Excellency, I wish to ask the Senator from Indiana, whether he knows the date when Mr. Golden received his commission as a member of the Board of Trustees.

Mr. WOLFENDEN. Mr. President, I do not know that.

Mr. SIPE. You do not know that?

Mr. WOLFENDEN. No, sir.

Mr. SIPE. Then, do you know, Mr. Wolfenden, of your own knowledge, that Mr. Golden was a party to these damnable things which you have told us about?

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. OWLETT. Mr. President, I again rise to a point of order.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Tioga, Mr. Owlett, will state his point of order.

Mr. OWLETT. Mr. President, again the Senator from Armstrong, Mr. Sipe, is not directing his remarks to the Chair. He has no right to directly interrogate a member of this Senate.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Armstrong will conform to the rule.

Mr. SIPE. Mr. President, every time I ask a question I am perfectly willing to address your Excellency.

The PRESIDENT. It is not that the Chair personally desires that, it is required by the rules.

Mr. SIPE. Then, Mr. President, with the permission of the Chair I will ask the Senator from Indiana, Mr. Wolfenden, whether he knows of his own knowledge that Mr. Golden was a member of the Board of Trustees when these terrible things that you are telling us about happened.

Mr. WOLFENDEN. May I answer and then explain my answer?

Mr. SIPE. You can answer yes or no.

Mr. WOLFENDEN. I cannot answer that question yes or no. I do know—the facts at our college are common knowledge, and I know no member of the old Board of Trustees made any effort to rectify the errors, any or all of which could have been corrected.

Mr. SIPE. Mr. President, in reply to the Senator from Indiana, Mr. Wolfenden, I say that Mr. Golden did not receive his commission, did not become a member of the Board of Trustees, until about the first of last December. I cannot give the exact date. Therefore he was not a party to these reprehensible things that you mention—and which I do not deny. I have no knowledge of them, so I do not deny at all, but even if there were a lot of reprehensible things going on there on the Board of Trustees, under Governor Earle years ago two wrongs do not make a right. Will you agree with that? I can quote Senator Owlett on that, so I renew my protest.

Whereas, The whole world, rent asunder by strife and contention, violence and intolerance, is today in a state of turmoil and uncertainty, marked by a titanic struggle between Democracy and Autocracy, while in this Country anti-American forces are striving to discredit and destroy the ideals and institutions symbolized by the American Flag, and social, political and economic forces are Combating one another; and

The Chaplain, Rev. Walter Evans Deibler, offered the following prayer:

As the days come and go, bringing for us "better or worse," our eyes are set toward the accomplishment of our objectives be they for good or ill. We wait before Thee, O God, to invoke Thy blessing upon the tasks of a new day. Today we celebrate the birthday of Andrew Jackson the seventh President of these United States. The biographies of the leaders of our nation are beacon lights to guide us in our day. To Andrew Jackson, the historian refers as "a man whose life was turbulent and in accord with his generation; by no means a model for others to imitate, yet showing great energy, wonderful power of will and undoubted honesty of purpose; whose faults may be traced to an imperfect education, excessive prejudice, a violent temper, and the incense of flatterers; a man whose influences is felt both for good and evil." Truly, O Lord, we too face the historian who shall chronicle the activities that comprise the scope of our lives. We also face the Tribunal before which all mortals will be finally summoned. Help us, O God, to learn the lines of the poet that we may know how to live—

"Lives of great men all remind us
We can make our lives sublime,
And, departing leave behind us
Footprints in the sands of time."

Bless us to this end, O God. Amen.

The SPEAKER. The Clerk will read the Journal of yesterday.

It was agreed to,

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. ACHTERMAN. Mr. Speaker, I would like to have the sponsor of this bill explain it for the benefit of the members.

Mr. BREThERICK. Mr. Speaker, the only change in the law as it presently exists is a proviso to eliminate the necessity for advertising for bids for insurance over $500. The reason for that is that insurance rates are standardized and uniform and in some townships and boroughs the impression has long prevailed that it is not necessary to advertise for bids for insurance, because the rates are standardized. However, some solicitors have thought and the county solicitor of our county feels that where the insurance involves an amount exceeding $500, that there must be advertising, but in view of the fact that the rates are uniform, it is felt that it is a waste of advertising money and a waste of taxpayers money to advertise for bids when we know that the bids when received are going to be on the basis of standardized rates. That is the only change in the bill, and we think it is a sound one.

Mr. ACHTERMAN. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Delaware.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Delaware permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. BRETHERICK. I will, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. ACHTERMAN. Mr. Speaker, referring to the bill on page 3, is not the proviso clause that had been removed in the previous act now placed back in the act.

Mr. BRETHERICK. Mr. Speaker, the law as it presently exists contains that proviso clause. In preparing this bill I had before me the bill that was presented to this House by I think Representative Cohen in 1937, and that proviso was deleted, at least was put in brackets inadvertently. The law as it now stands contains that proviso which had been removed by the House Committee.

RESOLUTION

CONGRATULATING AMERICAN LEGION ON 20TH ANNIVERSARY

Mr. DAVID P. REESE offered a resolution which was twice read, considered and adopted as follows:

In the House of Representatives, March 15, 1939.

A score of years ago today, in the city of Paris, France, a band of veterans of the World War, which had but so lately been terminated, met and organized the American Legion.

It was then an appropriate and fitting way to join together those brave remnants of the American Expeditionary Force which had come safely through the terrible conflict in which so many of their comrades had given their all.

During the twenty years that have passed since that memorable day, the American Legion has fully justified the labors of its founders, and has proven itself worthy of the task of living up to the purposes and ideals of the organization.

The American Legion has become a vital force in the affairs of our Country, and has done much to preserve our American form of Government, therefore be it

Resolved, By the House of Representatives of the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, That it extends its congratulations to the American Legion on this the twentieth anniversary of the founding of the Legion and its continued sense of gratitude for what its members did twenty years ago, and for our Nation and for us and our posterity, and be it further

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be transmitted by the Chief Clerk of the House to the Headquarters of the Department of Pennsylvania, American Legion in Philadelphia.

RESOLUTION

INTERSTATE COMMISSION ON DELAWARE RIVER BASIN

Mr. THISTLE offered a resolution and asked and obtained unanimous consent for its immediate consideration. The resolution was read by the Clerk as follows:

In the House of Representatives, March 15, 1939.

Whereas, That State of New Jersey is now considering a new water supply system which proposes to utilize two hundred million gallons of water daily from the Delaware River Basin, which project may cause substantial damage in the lower Delaware River Basin including the City of Philadelphia and southeastern Philadelphia; and Whereas, The City of Philadelphia has through its Council adopted a resolution directing its Committee of Public Works to investigate this proposal in relation to its possible effect upon the present and probable future sources of water supply for Philadelphia; and

Whereas, Copies of this resolution have been sent to the Governor, the President of the Senate, and the Speaker of the House of Representatives in Pennsylvania, with the request that the General Assembly take such action as is necessary to protect the interests of the City of Philadelphia; and

Whereas, The interests of the residents of the City of Philadelphia and southeastern Pennsylvania are likewise the interests of this Commonwealth, therefore be it

Resolved (if the Senate concur), That it is the opinion of this General Assembly that the Commonwealth should take all steps necessary to afford protection to the residents of Pennsylvania in the lower Delaware River Basin and that, to avoid a possible legal controversy, these efforts should be directed to the working out of an amicable agreement among the states of this watershed, if such is possible, and be it further

Resolved, That the members representing this Commonwealth on the Interstate Commission on the Delaware River Basin should be requested to devote their efforts to negotiating with the Commissioners from the other states to the end that all interests involved in this question shall be adequately protected.

On the question,

Will the House adopt the resolution?

The SPEAKER. The Chair would say for the information of the House that this question is one of immediate importance because of conferences that are being called in the city of Philadelphia on Friday of this week. Under that circumstance I feel that the House should consider the resolution of the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Thistle, immediately.

On the question recurring,

Will the House adopt the resolution?

It was adopted.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

SENATE

MONDAY, March 20, 1939.

The Senate met at 9:00 o'clock, p. m.

The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant-Governor Samuel S. Lewis) in the Chair.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Rev. BURLEIGH A. PETERS, offered the following prayer:

Most Merciful Heavenly Father, let Thy goodness and mercy continue to pervade our land. Let the consciousness of our people continue to be bulwarked in Thee that our liberty, freedom and representative form of government may remain secure.

But our hearts are lifted to Thee tonight filled with genuine concern over the rapidly rising power of totalitarian states, the resurrection of the pagan idea of government that "might makes right," and the continued peace of the nations of the earth.

Gracious God, stem the tide of dictators of the earth "drunk with power" and "loosing wild tongues that have not Thee in awe," and who exercise no consideration morally or otherwise for the integrity and liberty of weaker nations nor for their sovereign rights but only that their controlling passion of personal aggrandizement and political conquest may be appeased.

Annul their avaricious desires, if it be Thy divine will, lest they run amuck in the commonwealth of nations and seriously jeopardize the peace and security of all nations of the earth, if, perchance, this has not already been done.

Let us take the famous words of our immortal Lincoln, making them our prayer—"Let us have faith that right makes might, and in that faith let us to the end dare to do our duty as we understand it."

O God, Thou dost still live: help us to live in Thee. Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVED

The PRESIDENT. A quorum of the Senate being present, the Clerk will read the Journal of the preceding session.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of the preceding session, when, on motion of Mr. OWLETT and Mr. HEYBURN, the further reading was dispensed with, and the Journal was approved.

WRIT OF ELECTION

COMMONWEALTH OF PENNSYLVANIA, SS:

To the County Board of Elections of Allegheny County:
To Honorable S. M. R. O'Hara, Secretary of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania:

Greetings: Whereas a vacancy exists in the office of Senator of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania for the Forty-fifth Senatorial District, within the County of Allegheny, by reason of the resignation of Honorable P. J. Henney, Senator from the said Senatorial District, and in accordance with the ruling contained in Formal Opinion No. 276 of the Department of Justice issued by Attorney General Claude T. Reno under date of March 3, 1939.

Now, therefore, I, Samuel S. Lewis, President of the Senate, by virtue of the authority vested in me by the Constitution of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, and by the Acts of Assembly in such case made and provided, do hereby command you: That you cause an election to be held in the said Forty-fifth Senatorial District of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, on Tuesday, 7th day of November, A. D. One Thousand Nine Hundred and Thirty-nine, to choose a person to represent said Forty-fifth Senatorial District in the Senate of Pennsylvania for the remainder of the term expiring November 30th, One Thousand Nine Hundred and Forty, and that you give due and public notice of said election throughout the Forty-fifth Senatorial District in form and manner directed by law.

Given under my hand and the seal of the Senate of Pennsylvania at Harrisburg, Pennsylvania, this 15th day of March, 1939.

President of the Senate,

S. S. LEWIS.

COUNTY OF ALLEGHENY

Pittsburgh, Penna., March 10, 1939.

Hon. Samuel S. Lewis,
Lieutenant Governor of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania,
Harrisburg, Pennsylvania.

Dear Sir:

Receipt is hereby acknowledged of your letter inviting the Board of County Commissioners of Allegheny County, constituting the Board of Elections, to suggest a date for the holding of a special election to fill the vacancy declared to exist in the Forty-fifth Senatorial District.

We appreciate the courtesy extended to us by your letter. The Board is advised that the expense of holding such special election will be not less than $25,000.00. We have also noted that the tentative date set for the adjournment of the present Assembly is the thirtieth day of April, 1939. We have further considered the fact that the special election could not be held until thirty days after the issuance of the Writ of Election, as provided in the Election Code, the Act of June 3, 1937, P. L. 1333, Section 6628. It is evident, therefore, that if a special election was held within the next thirty or forty days the Senator elected would have but a few days to serve in the present session.

It would, therefore, appear to be a waste of public money to expend the amount of money stated above to elect a Senator for the few remaining days of the session.

The Board of Commissioners, therefore, by unanimous vote, respectfully suggest that you, as the presiding officer of the Senate, under the power conferred upon you by the aforesaid section 628 of the Election Code, fix in the Writ of Election the date of the next ensuing Primary or Municipal Election as the date for holding such special election.

Respectfully yours,

JOHN J. KANE,
GEORGE RANKIN, JR.,
JOHN S. HERRON.

Commissioners of Allegheny County,
Constituting the Board of Elections.

Pittsburgh, Penna., March 16, 1939.

This is to certify that I have this date received from John W. Everett, Sergeant-At-Arms of the Senate of Pennsylvania, papers showing Writ of Election in reference to Special Election on account of the Resignation of Honorable P. J. Henney, State Senator from the Forty-fifth Senatorial District, within the County of Allegheny.

Signed,

JOHN L. HERNON.

of Allegheny County.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. REED. Mr. President, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Washington, Mr. Reed, will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. REED. Mr. President, last week the terrifying subject of relief was brought vividly again to our attention by the gentleman from Westmoreland, Senator Dent, and the preceding week was marked by an able and unbiased discussion by the gentleman from Northumberland, Senator Dietrick, while in a recent issue of the Pennsylvania Legislature, the Senator from Philadelphia, Dr. Woodward, gave consideration to this problem.

It is indeed gratifying to those Senators in the Chamber who have spent much time in wrestling with this difficult problem to know that other Senators are becoming interested in the irrepressible conflict that will determine the life or death of this voracious, bloated economic monster.

From the time relief first raised its head under the Pinchot Administration down through the years to the present time, I have painfully witnessed its rapid and amazing growth. Then it was weak and insignificant requiring only $12,000,000 to feed it. Now it is strong and powerful, taking its sustenance upwards of $200,000,000 a biennium, and the end is not yet reached. Consistently have certain members of this Senate contested this alarming growth. Not from the viewpoint of depriving the unfortunate and under-privileged of proper maintenance, but from the long-range economic and political prospect of saving the Commonwealth and the nation from bankruptcy and ruin. Today the ominous spectres of relief hang like a pall over America, confusing and discouraging our people with its dark forebodings.

Recent figures compiled by the International Labor Office at Geneva show the total number of unemployed persons in the world, so far as statistics are available, to be 14,497,529, and that of this number 10,374,741 are in the United States while the rest, or 4,122,788 reside in 21 other nations including the leading nations of Europe, as well as Canada, New Zealand, and Japan. In other words, these figures show the United States to have roughly 70% of the world's unemployed. If we examine conditions in our beloved Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, it will appear that expenditures for relief have rapidly increased. For the week ending November 28, 1936, there was spent $916,257.60; for the week ending February 13, 1937, there was spent the sum of $1,167,271.60; that for the week ending February 18, 1939 there was spent $1,865,413.50; and for the week ending February 25, 1939, there was spent $1,881,548.60.

Therefore, to those who have studied relief the dangers coiled up within it must surely now be apparent. To suppress the fears arising from the rapid growth of relief, a social-minded group of visionaries appeared before the Senate in 1937 with a plan for the more economic and efficient administration of relief. There were those in the Senate who opposed the plan for the reason that it centralized relief and made its regulation more intricate, complicated and expensive and laid the foundation for its perpetuity. The plan was adopted, but after almost two years of practice, its promised beneficent results have not been attained; and the difficult problem of relief remains unsolved. Onward it rushes, devouring and destroying as it goes. Who shall stay this force of evil; who shall end its rule of destruction? I answer, this solution lies with those who believe in the true, old fashioned, fundamental philosophy of American government, and are willing to give unselfish and courageous service to rehabilitate its practice.

You who believe in America, don't be deceived longer. Unemployment relief is a dangerous antagonist, and if unopposed will soon wreck our beloved ship of State. A great American once said that our nation cannot endure half free and half slave. I say to you tonight that our Republic cannot survive with increasing millions of our good American people enmeshed and enslaved in an intricate and disgraceful system of unemployment relief. The fundamental principle of our free form of government is based on the independence of man. How can man be independent when he looks to another for the necessities of life? He who accepts a gift from the King puts himself under obligation to his sovereign. If we love our Republic then must we strive to free our people from this devastating bondage of relief.

Any system of relief as it develops and expands breeds many other agencies which in turn send out shoots and branches that in time drink the living substance provided for the preservation of free institutions. Experience of nations of the past teach us the sad lesson that unemployment relief once embedded in the fabric of state portends destruction.

My friends, we must speak frankly, the Republic is in danger. Not as some would have you believe, from without. No, our problem is not European; it is not Asiatic, it is not foreign. It is internal, it is domestic; it is American. Why do we enmesh ourselves in the entangling alliances across the sea, contrary to the announced decree of George Washington many years ago, when our own dear land is full of false doctrines and spurious philosophies dangerous to the future of our free institutions? For the last ten years, the keen observer has seen his beloved Republic pulled nearer and nearer to the edge of the dark and deep abyss that holds below despair, confusion and destruction. In our own State, evidences of demoralization and decay are everywhere present. Unemployment, relief, institutional, deficiencies, high taxes, crime and delinquencies, poverty and suffering, avarice and greed, sloth and ease, are some of the noticeable factors engaged in this work of destruction. And as these forces continue to dig at the roots of our government, the expense of operation daily becomes more burdensome. Let each Senator in this chamber check his own county and community. What will the man from Philadelphia find? An empty treasury, with employees crying for their hire. What will the man from Fayette discover? Public funds exhausted and school teachers working without pay. What will the man from Washington learn? He will see more than 20,000 homes and farms rising to the public auction block to be sold to replenish depleted public treasuries. Go throughout the State you will find like or kindred evidences everywhere. View the budget message of our present governor which recommends the sum of $537,058,912 to run the State Government for the next two years. This is the biggest budget ever recommended by any Governor to a Pennsylvania Legislature, and this amount will likely prove grossly inadequate even though the Governor has made great slashes for economy. So, my friends, to those truly interested in the future of the Republic, the prospect is dark and uncertain. O tempora O Mores! Laws by the thousands have been enacted in a wild effort to stay the hand of destruction, but this course has proved futile. The work of destruction goes on. Laws will not save us. We need men.

"God give us men. The time demands strong minds, great hearts, true faith and willing hands.

Men whom the lust of office does not kill,
Men whom the spoils of office cannot buy,
Men who possess opinions and a will,
Men who have honor. Men who will not lie,
Men who can stand before a demagogue,
And damn his treacherous flatteries without winking;
Tall men, sun-crowned, who live above the fog
In public duty and in private thinking.

For while the rabble with their thumb-worn creed,
Their large professions, and their little deeds,
Mingle in selfish strife; lo! Freedom weeps Wrong rules the land, and waiting Justice sleeps."

The preservation of the Republic must be by Men. For inspiration and guidance let us look at the past. Many years ago the early fathers left the comforts of Europe for the wild and unknown shores of America. They were inspired by a sincere desire for freedom; they were encouraged by a sacred sense of devotion. Nothing deterred them. They moved in with the courage of the undaunted. Day by day they labored against multiplying difficulties. Disease and death visited them. Dark clouds of despair hung over them. They would not submit; they would not turn back. The destiny of a great movement for liberty was in their care and keeping. They emerged triumphant—America was born. A people endowed with independent thought and action gave it life. And from this child of freedom there grew in time a strong and powerful Republic known everywhere to-day as the United States of America.

The development of the Republic was materially aided and supported by two important institutions, found in every colonial settlement, namely, the school and the church; the former trained the mind; the latter cared for the soul, both aimed, however, at all times, to foster and promote that devotion to God, that loyalty to country so indispensable to substantial communal life.

With such a foundation and background every early American community produced men of faith, men of vision, men of courage, men of honor, men of thrift, men of power. The pure and devout independence which motivated their conduct, strengthened them for the rough and hard duties of the time, and assisted greatly to make them secure, socially and economically in their own individual spheres of activity, for they had their own individual domains and through necessity were compelled to provide for their own.

"A time there was, ere America's griefs began,
When every road of ground maintained its men;
For him light labour spread her wholesome store,
Just gave what life required, but gave no more;
His best companions, innocence and health,
And his best riches, ignorance of wealth.

Some of our early statesmen, particularly Jefferson, saw in this type of life the chief preserver of the free American form of government, and to aid and stabilize its growth, the Louisiana Purchase was consummated.

Industry, with its large centers of population, was viewed with apprehension as a factor well fitted to throw off balance a nation's economic and social system and bring ruin to democratic institutions. How clear their vision. How true their foresight. America's troubles to-day can be traced, in a great measure, to some of these raw fundamentals. We have little worry to-day over a true agricultural community. Its people do not annoy you with relief. Its institutional problems cause you no trouble, if operated and regulated by the community. Influences of darkness are absent, and crime does not flourish.

Such life should be encouraged. But to-day the cry seems to be, stimulate industry and put men back to work. In Pennsylvania much noise of mouth is being made about the flight of industry from the State. But we can pass this proposition with the brief comment that it is not fundamental. We are not dealing with one state. We are concerned with the national problem, the preservation of the Republic. In this respect, however, whatever honest, fair, wholesome, constructive assistance that can be given industry in the United States, should be promptly and freely advanced. But whatever that aid may be, let it be great or small, the fundamental problem, the preservation of the Republic, will not be solved. The independence formerly enjoyed by the American people must be reborn. This independence was originally born of the soil, and in so far as it may be possible today with our complex American life, this status must be restored.

But instead of a rebirth of the ideals of the American fathers; instead of a restoration of those fundamental practices that produced the Republic, we have, in pronounced contrast, working among our people perverted and poisonous activities, weak and degenerate tendencies; and each succeeding day brings more concern to those who love the Republic.

"E'en now the devastation is begun,
And half the business of destruction done."

Must the land then reclaim its own? If it were possible at present to return the American people to the conditions of life enjoyed by the early Fathers, our problems would then be solved. This cannot be fully done. Our world moves forward and each advance brings new perplexities. We can however revive and put into practice the homely virtues of the Fathers. We can give encouragement, aid and assistance to those who would claim the soil as their home. This has not been done, and great has been the resulting injury.

"E'en now, methinks, as pondering here I stand
I see the rural Virtues leave the land."

Through the courtesy of Senator Edmonds, I have a bulletin from the Department of Agriculture of the United States, as of January 1, 1938. This bulletin shows that more than 1,000,000 persons in the United States moved to towns and cities in 1937. Other statistics show that this exodus from the farm still goes on. Cash income of Pennsylvania farmers today is nearly $60,000,000 less than ten years ago, according to Agricultural reports.

What is the reason for these injurious changes?

A new philosophy has appeared, taking from the independent rural community the freedom and security formerly enjoyed, and giving in return a burdensome and destructive system of taxation. A preliminary survey made by the Governmental Research staffs of Pennsylvania, State College, Temple University, University of Pennsylvania, University of Pittsburgh, in 1938, shows a gradual up-trend in township tax delinquencies in Pennsylvania. 1930—18%—1937—28.33%. According to newspapers thousands of farms are to be sold this year for taxes in Pennsylvania.

In order to encourage the farmer and little home owner I have regularly introduced in this Senate the Homestead Exemption Amendment, without success. For the purpose of encouraging manufacturing, this State had for years an exemption for manufacturers. If it helped the manufacturer, it could now aid the farmer. My friends, the work of destruction continues. People leave the land.

"If to the city sped, what waits him there?
To see profusion that he must not share;
To see ten thousand baneful arts combined,
To pamper luxury, and thin mankind
To see each joy the sons of pleasure know,
Extorted from his fellow-creatures woe."

History tells us that the great Roman Republic collapsed because of certain internal causes. One was the decay of the peasant classes. The small farmers were driven from the land and flocked to Rome to enlarge and re-enforce the city rabble.

A second cause was the decay of patriotism. People became interested in themselves and forgot the public good; and further it has been stated that Rome lost its sanctity. Briefly, it has been said,

"Rome perished for want of men."

Are these same forces at work in America? Must we follow Rome to destruction?

True, today, many fiddle while the Republic burns. But all is not lost. We can yet save the Republic if we but return to the American Way. Revive the homely Virtues, restore Sanctity, encourage Patriotism; drive out avarice and greed, and give man once more a chance to regain his self-respect and independence.

Our first concern must be the preservation of the Republic. Selfish interests must be suppressed; political prejudice must be cast aside. Our newspapers, our broadcasting stations, our churches, our schools, our people must join in this great Revolution. Great will be the sacrifice; but likewise great will be the victory. If we work together unselfishly, we shall herald a new day in America, bright with the sublime and eternal hope of Providence, and the darkness that now envelops us shall disappear, and man shall emerge refreshed, his faith and strength restored, prepared once more to take his place as an independent citizen under the flag of the Republic. Otherwise, decay and ruin are before us.

Mr. WOODWARD. I desire to interrogate the Senator from Washington, Mr. Reed.

The PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from Washington, Mr. Reed, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. REED. Mr. President, I will.

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, I have listened with great interest to the brief of the Senator from Washington, Mr. Reed, and I would like to ask him a very leading question, which is, Has the Senator from Washington reached the conclusion that the only way out of this dilemma is to return to the old system of taking care of the poor by the old poor board?

Mr. REED. Mr. President, no.

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, do I understand that the Senator from Washington has not reached that conclusion?

Mr. REED. Mr. President, I have not.

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, do I understand that the Senator from Washington has not even approached that conclusion?

Mr. REED. Mr. President, I am against it.

TIME OF NEXT MEETING

Mr. EALY offered the following resolution, which was twice read, considered, and agreed to:

In the Senate, March 20, 1939.

Resolved (if the House of Representatives concur), That when the Senate adjourns this week it reconvene on Monday evening, March 27, 1939, at nine o'clock; and when the House of Representatives adjourns this week it reconvene on Monday evening, March 27, 1939, at eight o'clock.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the House of Representatives for concurrence.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Fayette, Mr. Cavalcante, will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. President: On Monday, March 6, 1939, the gentleman from Armstrong, Mr. Sipe, and myself introduced a resolution touching upon the impartial, non-partisan and just investigation of milk trusts, milk lobbyists, milk attorneys, milk interests and milk legislators. The Journal will show that the gentleman from Tioga, Mr. Owlett, objected to immediate consideration of the resolution and, upon the motion to suspend the rules, imputed political "hate and malice" to the authors of the resolution. Both the gentleman from Armstrong and myself have concluded that we cannot permit this reflection upon our efforts to remain unchallenged.

It is remarkably astonishing how the gentleman from Tioga adheres with bulldog tenacity to his form of past years. If our memory plays us well, the same imputation was made against the authors of the McClure and Clark resolutions of Senatorial memory. It was imputations of this nature that consigned those resolutions to the "pickling barrel" that seasoned them with a taste that only such imputations can impart. Are we to expect different treatment for our resolution? Are we to be apprehensive that to hope better treatment for our resolution is a consummation strangely out of harmony and oddly in contrast with the intellectual nature and parliamentary form of this Senate?

Mr. President, we denounce the imputation made by the gentleman from Tioga. We proclaim it to be our legitimate right to inquire whether this General Assembly is functioning within the limitations of the Constitution. We regard it our sworn duty to defend activities of this General Assembly against corrupt invasions by outsiders or by members. We fear the remorse that may come, should we inconsiderately do a thing that may reflect upon a member of the General Assembly, and more particularly, members of this Senate. We are appreciative that our resolution if adopted will require the members of the General Assembly to disclose their connections, if any, with the production, distribution and control of milk in this Commonwealth. For us to demand such disclosure, without a justifiable reason, would warrant the gentleman from Tioga, or any other member of the General Assembly, to impute to us political "hate and malice." But, Mr. President, when the very Journals of this General Assembly glare forth the necessity for the disclosure, it is a malingering on the part of the member who remains silent and it is malignity on the part of him who would stifle disclosure.

Let us look at the Journals. On the 28th day of February, 1939, a resolution was offered by Messrs. Scarlett and Heyburn and the same was adopted with but one dissenting vote and sent to the House for concurrence. Since that date nothing has been said or done by the House except to hold the resolution bottled up in Committee. On March 6, 1939, the gentleman from Washington, Mr. Reed, offered a resolution to correct certain omissions contained in the resolution of Messrs. Scarlett and Heyburn and the same was immediately adopted. For good or other reasons Mr. Reed's amending resolution is, at this date, still in the hands of the Senate Clerk.

The gentleman from Armstrong, Mr. Sipe, has already indicated on the Journal of this Senate that certain influences are at work to prevent the investigation of the milk problem proposed in these resolutions. The inactivity of the House to act upon the Scarlett-Heyburn resolution, the uncertain status of the Reed resolution, the malingering attitude of many members on this subject, and the pointed accusations by the gentleman from Armstrong all denote subtle influences at work from the "inside." Why, then, should any member of this General Assembly withhold the information which Article 3, Section 33 of the Constitution requires him to disclose? That section reads as follows:

"A member who has a personal or private interest in any measure or bill proposed or pending before the General Assembly shall disclose the fact to the House of which he is a member, and shall not vote thereon."

Are there members in this General Assembly who fear to turn the light of day upon their "personal or private" interests in the production, distribution and control of milk in this Commonwealth? Are there members who fear to disclose their attorneyship for milk trusts and milk lobbyists? Are there members who are the paid agents or attorneys for milk corporations?

Is it possible, Mr. President, that so many members of this General Assembly are ignorant of the fact that Section 29 of this same Article of the Constitution provides, in the best of language, the following:

"A member of the General Assembly who shall . . . demand or receive, or consent to receive, directly or indirectly, for himself or for another, from any company, corporation or person, any money, office, appointment, employment, testimonial, reward, thing of value or enjoyment, or personal advantage or promise thereof, for his vote or official influence, or for withholding the same, or with an understanding, expressed or implied, that his vote or official action shall be in any way influenced thereby . . . shall be held guilty of bribery within the meaning of this Constitution . . ."

Now that we have read these two sections of our Constitution, it is interesting to review what the Constitutional fathers said about them and the evils they intended to correct. Let us turn to Volume 3, pages 5 to 21, of the "Debates of the Convention to Amend the Constitution."

By Mr. D. N. White:

"One of the chief way corruption in the Legislature arises is from a person acting as an attorney for a corporation that desires legislation to be passed in its interests. If any person or corporation desires to secure legislation at Harrisburg, and to bribe some members of the Legislature, they at once employ an agent under the guise of an attorney who, by means of his influence and money, procures the necessary legislation. I think it is the most important section we have had before us to prevent corruption in our Legislature, and I hope it will be adopted."

By Mr. John R. Read:

"I do not agree with my colleague from Philadelphia (Mr. Biddle) that it is unwise to make such a provision in the Constitution of the State. The object of it, as I understand it, is simply to prevent legislators from having a private or personal interest in the matter upon which they are required to legislate, other than as citizens of this Commonwealth, and I believe that if we provide that they shall not be specially retained as agent or attorney before they enter the halls of legislation, and that they shall cease such employment from that time, if they have been employed or retained, much evil will be hereafter prevented. Why, we all know that it is one of the most approved ways of bribing a member of the Legislature, to retain him as counsel for a particular interest upon which he is asked to legislate. It is one that seems least repulsive to them. They think that there is no wrong in acting as the counsel for parties or as their lawyer, when they are called upon to pass laws specially affecting the interest of the people whom they represent. Now, Sir, that is all, as I understand it, that is intended to be prevented by this section; that if persons are specially in the employ or if they are retained as counsel before they enter the Legislature, that they shall decline that position, or that they shall not hereafter act as counsel, or as agent or employee of such person or corporation."

By Mr. John R. Read:

"I believe, Mr. Chairman, that this provision, if adopted, will be beneficial. It is not intended to prevent persons from attending to their legitimate business, or from acting as counsel for clients, or in any way to interfere with the ordinary business life of any citizen of this Commonwealth. It is merely to prevent the scandal that has become a by-word with this Union, and with this State, from enlarging and becoming more odious."

By Mr. Alricks:

"Now, I maintain that no honorable lawyer will go into the Legislature when he is the counsel of a corporation having a special interest in Legislation. I maintain that an honorable lawyer would as soon become the counsel for the defendant and the counsel for the plaintiff, at the same time, as he would go into the Legislature and have special laws passed for a corporation which was filling his pockets with fees. Why, Mr. Chairman, a number of years ago, when the Honorable Garrick Mallery was a member of the Legislature, I met him on the boardwalk at the Capitol and said to him: 'you are neglecting your duties. There is a matter before the Legislature in which your constituents have an interest.' 'Why,' said he, 'it would benefit a corporation in our county, and I am the counsel for that corporation, and I would not show my face in the Legislature while that law is being discussed.' He spoke the sentiments of an honest man. He lived, you will doubtless say, in other days, but I maintain now that we should put a veto upon corrupt legislation, and the proper way to put it upon any corruption upon the part of Legislatures is to say that no man shall go there and make laws for a particular party."

By Mr. H. G. Smith:

"If the people of this Commonwealth choose to elect a man known to be an attorney of a corporation, or the special agent of any person or combination whatever, as a member of the Legislature, let them do so. Let him go to the Legislature, occupying the status that he does at home, carrying with him into that body all the relations that he possesses before he is elected. But no man ought to be permitted to become the attorney of any corporation, or the agent of any person desiring to secure special legislation, when he comes into the legislative body and takes the oath of office. A high sense of honor, a clear perception of duty, ought to prevent a man from doing so, but men may be employed generally when they become members of the Legislature; they may be retained as attorneys without special reference to particular legislation and they may not think this wrong. They may consider it right, as I believe not a few have done. I believe it is a source of evil in our legislature, as it exists today, and if what we have heard from Washington be true, it is a fruitful source of evil in the National Legislature also. Let us, when we are providing against this evil, do so explicitly and clearly. Let us declare in the fundamental law of the State of Pennsylvania that this thing shall continue no longer. Let us put honorable men upon their guard, and let us prohibit men who might be willing, for improper purposes, to be retained by corporations or individuals having an interest in legislation, from doing so. Let us lay the law down so that if men corruptly do this thing it can be proven upon them, and so that they can be punished for it. Let us, if we choose, provide that the fact that a man is attorney for a corporation, or the agent of an individual, shall not prevent the people from electing him to the Legislature, but that after persons are elected and sworn in, they shall not, in any way, consent, while members of the Legislature, to be retained as counsel or agent by corporations, combinations or individuals having a special or personal interest in legislation."

By Mr. J. Price Wetherill:

"Now, in reference to attorneys, I have yet to learn that the attorneys of this State generally act without fee. It seems to me that they understand that part of the business pretty well, and they generally act in that particular with entire satisfaction to themselves, though perhaps, not so much so to their clients. If they desire to go to Harrisburg under the pay of a company, when that company has a special interest in legislation, they ought to be excluded from the Legislature. That is the sense of the section, as I understand it * * * A member of Congress goes to Washington to carry his point, and works under the plea that money must be put where it will do the most good—and where does he put that money? Why, Sir, in the pockets of four or five members of Congress, and gives them money in a certain way, to secure their votes, and they are properly considered guilty because they accept it, and are brought to the bar of the house and condemned, and the stain remains with them for life. But he may give many thousands of dollars to another member of Congress, and because that member of Congress is an attorney-at-law, therefore he can say that he receives a good many thousand dollars more than his reasonable fee, and simply by calling it a retainer he asserts he received it honestly, and he is clear of his guilt, though, perhaps, quite as guilty as the others alluded to. This is an evil that we want to correct, and I do hope that if this section does require amendment, it will be so amended as to reach just such cases."

By Mr. T. H. B. Patterson:

"I cannot understand * * * how any man can go into a Legislature as an attorney for any corporation or person, knowing that they expect to have a personal or special interest in the legislation upon which he is to pass as a member of that Legislature * * * The section provides explicitly that it shall only apply to those attorneys who go into the Legislature as the attorneys of corporations and persons, knowing that they expect to have a personal interest or a special interest in the legislation to be passed upon by such attorneys. I ask any attorney of this Convention if he, knowing that a corporation or person was to have a personal or special interest in an act upon which he was to pass as a legislator, would sit in the house and pass upon that act. I do not think there is a single attorney in this Convention who would take that position himself. Why, then, is it wrong to put in a provision that shall call the attention of candidates, and of the people, to this outrageous position? It is simply putting a man in a position, trying to every virtue he has. I say we ought, if possible, to prevent such positions being taken by citizens of this Commonwealth."

By Mr. Newlin:

"I am amazed that any delegate should defend the position of any attorney of a corporation holding a seat in the Legislature. Now, what is wanted in the Legislature is representatives of the people; and it is unfair to the people and unfair to the person or attorney himself to put him in the position of a divided allegiance. It is the old story of trying to serve God and Mammon; and when the choice has to be made in the Legislature, unfortunately in a great many cases the selection will not be such a one as will be beneficial to the public."

By Mr. Ewing:
